The complaint is being made in a number of urban centres of the province that young men who were granted exemption from military service on the ground that they were farmers' sons or farm laborers, and were consequently needed on the land, have been flocking into the cities since the armistice was signed, seeking employment in factories, and by their presence adding to the industrial crisis. Just how true this charge may be in Peterboro, there is no means of saying, but it is certain that there are dozens of men at present out of work in Peterboro who have training in farm operations, and who could easily be assimilated by the farmers of the district, if they could be persuaded to accept the positions that are being offered them. The local labour bureau has many applications from farmers who need help. The old complaint of small wages for farm work will hardly hold good at the present time for some farmers are offering as high as $60 per month and board for experienced help, which is a higher figure than has been reached before in this section of Ontario.

There is no excuse for men who have had experience in farm work idling about the streets of Peterboro, when they might be usefully and profitably employed by the farmers, and if the men who "know the ropes" in connection with the duties of the farm, would see the wisdom of accepting the offer of employment that is being made to them, the situation in Peterboro would be considerably relieved. There is no question of the farmers needing help, and they are eminently willing to pay good wages; there is equally no question that among the men employed in Peterboro at the present time there are many who possess the very training that is needed. The problem of getting the two classes together is one upon which the officials of the Labor Bureau have been working, and a successful solution would undoubtedly ease the tension that exists at present.

ALIENATING SYMPATHY

It is unfortunate for the prestige of the cause of labour that organizations such as the District Labour Council, of Toronto, should be misrepresented by resolutions like that passed yesterday calling upon the authorities to release the Russian Bolshevik prisoners recently arrested in Toronto. These prisoners were apparently Reds of the most violent type and their presence in Canada could not be tolerated. It is evident from the press reports that although this resolution was passed by a small majority, many of the level-headed labor men who were in attendance were opposed to the spirit of the motion, and urged a moderate course, but the extremists won out. The great mass of members of the trades unions in Canada are opposed to the doctrine of Bolshevism, and their cause is put in a false light by the fiery speeches and intemperate actions of the Radicals.

In cheering for the Bolsheviki and in waving the Red Flag, some of the extremists will alienate sympathy from the cause of labour and are liable to run foul of such organizations as the Veterans of the war. The men who fought overseas are utterly against the Bolshevik doctrine, and the warning issued by the St. Catharines war veterans to an organization which called itself the Labour Educational League, and has been conducting an "Open Forum" on Sunday nights, is significant. "We wish to point out to that organization," says the resolution passed by the veterans, "that they can attain any legitimate end by constitutional methods in this country, and as we have been informed that at their meetings there have been actions leaning towards disloyalty, we wish to register our disapproval of the same, and to point out that there are limits in this direction beyond which they will not be permitted to pass."

MARGARINE

Why is it that the very best margarine is selling in England at retail eight pence per pound, while in Canada a product not so good, sells around 40 cents?

One reason undoubtedly is that the uncertainty with regard to the continuance of this industry makes impossible its establishment upon a proper and efficient basis.

Owing to pressure from the dairymen, who without any just reason fear the competition of margarine, Canada is the only civilized country in the world where the manufacture of this useful product is not permitted as a matter of course. It is not a competitor of butter and has not in other countries affected the market for butter, which always has the preference.

Even with the present inflated price, of butter the general demand would keep it up, though margarine were selling here at the English price of about 16 cents per pound.

The farmers' attitude is not unnatural in this matter. In anything affecting his own product, he is like any other selfish individual, a protectionist—no matter how much free trade he may want in other commodities. But the experience of other countries has shown that this fear of competition in this direction is unfounded. The Canadian farmer has certainly not been affected by the manufactured importation of margarine during the war, and will not be in the slightest degree injured if it is allowed to continue. From the centres of population where men have to struggle for a livelihood and to whom butter at 70 cents or anywhere in that vicinity is an impossibility, the pressure upon the Government in favour of open manufacture of margarine is strong and increasing. The Government should without delay announce a policy in this matter, providing for the manufacture of margarine of certain specified quality and under strict Government inspection. Nothing less will relieve the situation as it should be relieved.—Montreal Star.

Barry McCormack, the popular young Irish actor, will be seen in "Macushla," a four act comedy drama by Rida Johnson Young, author of "The Lottery Man," "Brown of Harvard," and many other successes. This will mark Mr. McCormack's return to stardom after a two years' engagement in "Turn to the Right" in the role of Mugg, the pickpocket, the role that Winchell Smith declares to be the best he ever wrote and the hardest to fill. Mr. McCormack who, though born in Ireland has claimed New York City as his home ever since he was fourteen months of age, got his first stage experience with Melbourne McDowell and Fannie Davenport, and later supported Nat Goodwin in "When We Were Twenty-One" and Viola Allen in "The Christian," but the Irish in him would not be repressed and so, at an early age when many actors were but beginning to learn the rudiments of the art, young Barry began a starring tour that lasted for four years in "Terence," "An Irish Gentleman" and "The Shaugraun."

In his new play Mr. McCormack has the role of Sir Brian Fitzgerald, owner of Duncannon Castle, who sages his ancestral home and wins the girl he loves through the fleetness of his beloved little mare, Macushla. Full of thrills and romance "Macushla," as befits an Irish drama, is also replete with rollicking fun, while for those who have ever seen the beautiful Emerald Isle the handsome stage settings will bring sweetest memories.

Mr. McCormack will be supported by a notable company, including Olive Moore, Percy Benton, Josephine Williams, Jessie Mann, Charles Bunnell and others who have won favour with theatre-goers in the past.

Short Hundred Million Revenue

That is the Calculation Made at Ottawa for Next Year.

NEW SPECIAL TAXES

OTTAWA, May 2.—The budget speech is expected by the middle of May. It is understood that it will be delivered around that date whether or not Sir Robert Borden is home. The present indications are, however, that he will have returned by that time.

What the speech will contain is, of course only a matter of speculation, but always it is divided into three parts—a review of the financial situation, the question of any special taxes and finally the tariff.

The financial conditions which obtain in the country all go to support the theory that considerable extra taxation will of necessity be levied in the coming session. Seemingly, it is the only way of making ends meet. The fixed charges now are nearly equal to the total debt when the war began. At that time, it was $337,000 000 with interest charges of $12,000,000. Now it is between a billion and a half and two million dollars, while interest charges aggregate $25,000,000 and pensions $25,000,000. Other fixed charges for general carrying on purposes bring up the aggregate to about $300,000,000. This year the main estimates total $425,000,000, and the war vote $350,000,000, while the supplementary estimates are yet to come.

It has been calculated and so stated by members that between revenue and necessary expediture there is a shortage of a hundred millions. New means of taxation to raise the money will therefore have to be advised and means is now under way. Incomes are likely to be taxed more than hitherto and special taxes of other kinds imposed.

So far as the tariff is concerned there is no intimation, and it is considered less majeste to speculate; but it is apparent that industry is not hampered by any great uncertainty. A few weeks ago there was a element of it, but now wheels are everywhere moving and industrial prosperity is in full swing. It is surmised that the manufacturers expect, or think they have reason to expect, no tariff adjustments this year of a character to lead to instability. A revision, however, is about due, and very probably it will occur before the next session. In the meantime the changes looked for by the manufacturers are not expected to be at all far-reaching. For that conclusion there is considerable justification from the intimations given at the special caucus on the tariff a few weeks ago.

JOIN THE HOST OF RED-BLOODED MEN AND WOMEN

Get More Pleasure Out of Life and be of More Use in the World by Toning Up Your System With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There are many people who lack the red blood to give color to their lips, warmth to their hands and brightness to their eyes.

These people tire easily and cannot compete in school, in store, or shop or factory with the more energetic red-blooded people. Their blood being thin they are nervous and do not sleep well. Arising in the morning after an unrefreshing sleep, they begin the day badly and miss much of the pleasure of living.

To become active and energetic these people need a blood-building tonic. A tonic that gives new strength that restores the nerves, increases the appetite and aids digestion, will put color in the cheeks and lips and give vigor to the steps. That means new joy in living, increased usefulness and longer life.

Whenever you find a person who has taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills faithfully, you find an enthusiastic friend of the tonic that has made life mean more in many ways. These blood-making pills have been used for many years throughout Canada, and in almost every community, however small, can be found those who owe health and happiness to this famous household remedy.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

One who owes present health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss Bibiane Chiasson, South Beach, Que., who says:—"I am a teacher by profession, and probably due to the close confinement and arduous nature of my duties, I became much run down and suffered from extreme nervousness. The least noise would startle me, and my heart would beat violently. Indeed my condition was an unhappy one. I had often heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for nervous troubles and decided to give them a fair trial. I am happy to say that this medicine completely restored my health, and I can confidently recommend it to all suffering from nervous troubles."

INDIGESTION CURED

Mrs. M. Kelly, Windsor, Ont., says: "I suffered from indigestion for several years, and although I was constantly taking doctor's prescriptions, they did not cure me, and the result was that I was greatly run down and always feeling poorly. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I soon found they were helping me I continued their use until I was fully cured, and am now able to properly digest any food I take. As a tonic and blood-builder I know of no medicine to equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I recommend them to all in need of a medicine."

THIN AND BLOODLESS

Among the thousands of women who bear testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. W. Ferguson, Plattesville, Ont., who says:—"After the birth of my second baby I was left very weak, and was steadily growing thinner and more bloodless. As time went on I became so run down that my friends thought I was in a decline. I tried different medicines, but none helped me until I was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking them and was not long in finding that they were helping me, and by the time I had taken a half dozen boxes I felt like a new person. I had increased in weight, my color returned and I was again enjoying my old-time health. You may be sure when opportunity offers I will gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Among the rheumatic sufferers who have been cured by the use of this medicine is Mrs. Wm. Johnston, Chatham, Ont., who says:—"Some years ago, while living in Mount Forest, I was stricken with inflammatory rheumatism, from which I suffered terrible agony. Neither the doctor who attended me, nor the remedies I tried, gave more than a little relief for a time, and as a consequence, I grew very weak and was on the verge of nervous prostration. At this stage an uncle advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had cured him of a severe attack of rheumatism. I took his advice and faithfully used the pills for several months, when I found myself fully restored to health, with every vestige of the rheumatism and every symptom of the nerve trouble gone. I have had no return of either trouble since, and feel very grateful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me."

WEAK AND ANAEMIC

The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical sciences. Miss Jessie McLean, Trenton N.S., says:—"I was as weak as it was possible for any one to be, and yet be able to go about. My blood seemed to have turned almost to water. I was pale, the least exertion would leave me breathless, and when I went up stairs I would have to stop and rest on the way. I often had severe headaches, and at times my heart would palpitate alarmingly. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be grateful that I took the advice. Soon after beginning the use of the pills I began to get stronger, and by the time I had taken seven boxes I felt that I was again enjoying good health. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to weak girls and I shall always warmly recommend them."

AFTER INFLUENZA

Mrs. Thos. Covert, R.R. No. 2, Bancroft, Ont., says:—"Following an attack of grippe I was left very weak and miserable. My appetite was poor, I suffered from headaches, my skin was sallow, and two boils broke out. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and had only used a few boxes when I felt as well as ever. They drove all the impurities from my blood, gave me a good appetite, and I have since enjoyed the best of health. I can recommend the pills of anyone suffering from impure blood or skin disease."

By building up the blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all that group of troubles due to weak, watery blood. Among these may be mentioned anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, pimples and eruptions, and that always tired feeling that comes from weak blood, even where there may be no more pronounced symptoms of ill-health. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic, if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHANGES IN C.P.R. TRAIN SERVICE

New Schedule Will Take Effect To-morrow.

As a result of the request of the Board of Trade, backed by the Commercial Travellers' Association and the Railway committee for a better train service through Peterborough, the C.P.R. has arranged for a new time-table to take effect on Sunday, May the 4th.

Train from Port McNichol will arrive at 6.15 p.m. instead of 6 p.m. as formerly

Train going west leaves at 3.20 p.m. instead of 3.30 p.m

Train going east leaves at 11.59 p.m. instead of 12.30 p.m.

No change has been made in the 7.35 a.m. local for Toronto.

The Local going east leaves at 9.25 p.m. instead of 8.50 p.m.

Train going west in the morning leaves at 4.53 instead of 5.12.

Train going east for Ottawa leaves at 1.30 a.m. instead of 1.15 a.m.

A Sunday train will be run from Toronto to Havelock and return to Toronto in the afternoon.

The 12 p.m. train formerly running to Smith's Falls and Ottawa will run through to Montreal instead of to Smith's Falls.

At the Grand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

Rex Beach's "Too Fat to Fight", in Addition to the All Star Vaudeville Programme.

Rex Beach bids fair to add lustre to his famous name when "Too Fat to Fight," newest of the Rex Beach Pictures produced for Goldwyn, comes to the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, matinee daily. He will surprise his public with a drama of purpose and patriotism rather than of Alaska and the West.

It tells the story of Norman Dalrymple, former football star, played by Frank Mclntyre, who is now a mountain of flesh and, much to his sorrow, too fat to fight. Turned down by every branch of the service "Dimples," as he is called, succeeds in joining the Y.M.C.A. and serves his time at passing doughnuts and carrying coffee for the doughboys until he finds himself in a fix from which he emerges to his hospital cot to pin a decoration for bravery upon the expansive bosom of his pajamas "Dimples" wakes to find that he spoke almost prophetically when he said he'd "give a leg to be with the boys over there". On of his is gone. But his decoration and a certain discovery he makes about the girl he loves recompenses "Dimples" for his sacrifice.

In addition to this great picture the vaudeville will be one of the best programs to visit Peterboro. Headed by T. D. Pepple and M. Greenwald Radium of Splendor. "The Revue de Vogue." There is no other act in vaudeville of like kind. This can be accounted for by the lavishness displayed by the superb producers. The scenery comprises of thirteen different changes and the original Chicago Co., of 12 people, as the title would indicate the costumes are actually the latest creation in Satorial Art.

As an added attraction Ella La Vail, the wonder Aerial Artist will close the program. Miss La Vail was two years with the great Barnum and Bailey Circus and either one of these big acts are worth the price of admission alone. Seats reserved for the evening performances in advance.

Yesterday a good Maxwell —Today a Better One

More miles per gallon
More miles on tires

THAT is the policy of the Maxwell Motor Company.

It began five years ago on a single chassis plan and today 300,000 Maxwells have been built on this program.

Not 300,000 Maxwells identically alike—for that would be admitting that the car has never improved in five years' time.

More than 1000 refinements have been made in the Maxwell.

But the original chassis plan was not changed. It has simply grown better as the days went by.

The logic of building one thing and thus building it well is too clear, too sound, too emphatic in results to argue against.

Like any fine piece of machinery the Maxwell seems to improve with age.

It runs on and on without end. We have never heard of a Maxwell salvaged.

There is no car with a better road ability record. And it saves many a thrifty dollar by shying at the repair shop.

This Maxwell you see today is not a new Maxwell; though many persons have thought so. It has been so much improved in appearance that our contemporaries in the trade repeatedly refer to it as the new Maxwell.

However, good looks have not in any way handicapped its running. And the latter is the main thing, after all, in a motor car.

SMITH TOWNSHIP MAN IN TROUBLE.

(By Dan Whetung, Chemong Indian Reserve).

Mrs. J. H. Demmler was here for two weeks to see her sick grandmother (Mrs. Dan Whetung, Sr.), and to find her no better, but rather weaker than two months ago; and has left last Monday for home at Pittsburgh, P.A.

The rat trappers were much excited this spring, as the price was so high, some had caught more rats than what traps they have.

One Indian of this village had suspect that some one was meddling his traps. This was on Saturday, Sunday morning, bright and early, he starts away to watch his traps. He got there and got behind a bush, he was not there many minutes till his man came to see if they were any rats in the traps he saw they was, so he walks out on to the log to get the rat off the trap, and as he was walking the man shout out. What luck this morning? the rat drop of his hand, and the Indian made the white to put back the rat where he got it, the white man had to obey and while the white man was on the log, the Indian went to meet him and gave him the Indian foot and knocked him off the log into the ice cold water.

Dan Whetung.

Monthly Income Insurance

Is your wife an experienced financier? If not, take your insurance on the income plan.

Is your wife better at saving than at spending? If not, take income insurance.

When a man dies there are three deaths:—
The death of a husband.
The death of a father.
The death of the income.

If your insurance is paid in one sum how long will it last?

For husband and wife who have no dependents the life income contract on the endowment form is the best policy. At the end of twenty years the income will begin. It will sustain them both as long as they live, and will provide a life income for the survivor if one should die.

THE SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA issue both monthly and annua income policies.

Any Woman's Struggle For Good Health Quickly Rewarded

When a woman's face grows haggard and pale, when she is tired all day and ready to cry when night comes, she ought to know something is wrong.

Putting off only makes matters worse. The best advice we can give any sickly woman is to test out the following treatment.

At the close of every meal, with a sip or two of water, take two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets. This seems to be the best thing going for folks that are tired out, run-down and in need of a strengthening, building up medicine.

By perfecting assimilation, Ferrozone supplies nutrition — this gives strength, vim, stability.

Elimination is assured because Ferrozone quickens the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels—this guarantees the maintenance of vigorous health.

Not a man, woman or child need lacking blood, vigour, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. Try it yourself—sold everywhere, in 50 cent boxes, 6 boxes for $2.50, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WILL INTERVIEW THE MINISTER

Men on Welland Canal Want Shorter Hours.

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. CATHARINES, May 3.—A deputation of men employed on the Welland canal will go to Ottawa on Monday to interview the Minister of Railways and Canals, but the Minister has intimated that he declines to make any change from the present arrangements regarding hours of work. There are over 1,700 men affected.

AUSTRIAN DELEGATION ARRIVES IN FRANCE

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 3. — An Austrian peace delegation has arrived in France. The delegates have been housed at St. Germain.

There have been no intimations that an Austrian peace delegation was on its way to Paris of which St. Germain is a suburb. In the case of the Germans, the peace conference procedure was to send invitations to Berlin for the sending of German delegates to receive the allies' terms of peace when it appeared that the treaty to be presented Germany was nearing completion. In the lack of any news regarding similar procedure having been taken by the peace conference in the case of Austria-Hungary, it seems possible that either an Austrian delegation has come to France on its own initiative for special purposes or that the imperfect conditions of transmission of news from Europe now prevailing have resulted in the non-delivery of explanatory despatches which might throw new light on the foregoing message.

Eighty-Sixth Anniversary of St. Paul's Church Observed Sunday By Special Services

First Church] Was Erected on Aylmer Street—Names of the First Elders—Membership Exceeds a Thousand.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The anniversary services in connection with St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of which Rev. R. Pogue is minister, will be held to-morrow, and will be conducted by the Rev. (Major) T. J. Thompson, M..A.., of Ottawa. The "Presbyterian," speaking recently of a visit of Mr. Thompson to Sherbrooke, Quebec, said: "The stirring messages of this cultured preacher will long be remembered by the large gatherings present." Mr. Thompson was overseas with the rank of major, and saw service with our troops at Gallipoli and Egypt.."

He will give an illustrated lecture in the church on Monday evening, 5th May, at eight o'clock, on "The White Man's Burden in Egypt."

Mr. Martin B. Chenall will preside at the organ on Sunday at both services, and special music, under his direction will be given by the choir.. Mr. Chenall came from Newcastle, England, to the United States about fourteen years ago. He was an instructor for a time in Cornell University, then head of the music of Evansville High School, Indiana. Lately he has been organist in the Methodist Church, Cobourg.

Anniversary Services.

The anniversary services which will be observed to-morrow, complete 86 years of the congregation's history.. It was in the spring of 1833 that the Rev. John Morrice Roger, the first minister of the church, came to Peterborough, and gathered together a small congregation here, and on the boundary of Cavan, near Springville. A small building was erected on Aylmer Street, north of King Street, for the use of those meeting at Peterborough. It was not, however, until 12th October, 1834, that the first elders were chosen. They were Andrew Tully, John Hutchison, M..D.., John Edmison, and David Hamilton. These men were duly set apart to the office on 2nd November, 1834. On the 22nd of January, 1835, the Presbytery sanctioned the appointment, and the Kirk Session of Peterborough was recognised and authorised to conduct all competent business in the congregation. Following this an enrolment of the members of the church took place, and arrangements made for the observance of the first Communion on 30th February, 1835. Rev. Mr. Rogers served the congregation until 1875, when, owing to ill-health, he resigned in October of that year, having served his Master faithfully and diligently for 43 years. He became pastor emeritus of the congregation, and kept in close touch with his flock until 8th January, 1878, when, while conducting family worship in his home, he suddenly passed into the immediate presence of Him whom he had served throughout his long life.

Rev. E. F. Torrence, D..D.., was the second minister of the church, and served from 1876 to 1907. Great progress was made during his ministry. The membership increased from 399 to 780. The contributions to ordinary revenue from $2,600 to $5,600, and the contributions to missionary objects from $4,128 to $2,873.

The present minister, Rev. R. Pogue, was inducted on 5th December, 1907. There has been steady advance in the work of the church during these years. The membership is now 1,045. The grand total of the congregations giving for congregational, missionary, and philanthropic objects was over $20,000 last year. The congregation supports a missionary, Rev. D. A. Macdonald, in Korea. One of its members, Miss Maud Ackison, has recently completed her training in the Toronto Deaconess' Home. She has been appointed by the Foreign Mission Committee to this work early in the fall of the present year, and will immediately set sail for Formosa.

Over 160 of the young men of the congregation enlisted for service overseas, 31 of whom paid the supreme sacrifice, and will come home no more. The public, and especially the returned soldiers, are cordially invited to attend the anniversary services to-morrow, and hear the messages of the Rev. Major Thompson..

NEW DIRECTORY SHOWS INCREASE IN POPULATION

City and [Suburbs] Run Close to Thirty Thousand.

The new city directory, which is now being distributed, credits Peterboro with a population of 28,996. This includes the suburbs, such as Brown, ton and other thickly populated sections of North Managhan. The city assessors figures are much lower than this as his work is confined to the city alone. The latter's figures credited the city with an increase last year of 306. A few more hundred and Peterboro city and suburbs will soon be in the thirty thousand column.

Little Hope of Decline in Coal Prices This Year

While advising his customers to buy during the spring and summer months their coal supplies for next winter, Mr. Robert Hicks stated that this forehandedness was a policy that is generally advocated by dealers throughout the province and in the states across the border. By this means the congestion of business will be relieved at a time when it is most difficult to handle. It was therefore not only to facilitate deliveries, but also assist regular customers that this plan is advised. Mr. Hicks stated that from present prospects there was no likelihood of the price of coal falling below $12 a ton this year. There is a deficit of approximately over one billion dollars in the United States railways which have been operated by the Government. This control is supposed to continue two more years, and although it is possible that the Government may assume the deficiency, it is expected in some quarters that this loss may be met bp increased rates. In addition there has been an increase of $242,000,000 to the railway employees. Licensed miners have not been materially increased since the close of the war, and all the conditions support the belief that coal prices will remain firm and steady. Even now supplies are not so abundant that a flood of orders can be filled at once, but if the purchases are spread over the warm weather months it is expected that they will be readily handled.

Press reports on the coal situation are similar in tenor to Mr. Hicks' statement, and none of the present signs suggest any early decline in the market.

Few People Know This

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

The Porter S. White Store Advertising

Firm Took Their Advertising Up With Quality and Service.

The last issue of "The Canadian Grocer," in an article, "Getting the Advertising Across," deals with the successful advertising campaign inaugurated by the Porter S. White Co., grocers, of this city. Several samples of advertising taken from the Examiner are shown in the magazine. "It's confidence that does it," the slogan of this grocery firm appears over every ad. It is extremely essential to study advertising. One of the greatest factors in the success of the White advertising is its consistency. They take the public into their confidence. But above all this firm back up their advertisements with real service. Their ads. are suggestive and cater to the taste.

Newspaper ads. that bring customers to the store and service that makes them want to come back, are hard to get away from, and the success of the Porter S. White Co. is largely due to these two factors.

Easy Way to Remove Freckles and Blotches

Some women have skin of such texture they occasionally are annoyed by the sudden appearance of freckles, slight eruptions or fine lines. In such cases if one will procure an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at any drug store, apply a little of it before retiring, like cold cream, she can easily overcome the trouble. When the wax is washed off next morning, minute flaky skin particles come with it. The entire outer cuticle is removed in this way in a week or so, with all its defects. No bleach could so effectually remove freckles or blemishes. The new surface is smooth, clear, fresh looking. No pain or inconvenience accompanies this simple treatment.

A SUMMARY OF THE PEACE SITUATION.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, May 3. — The Associated Press this morning issued the following:

With the work of framing the peace treaty seemingly almost completed except for some secondary matters, the allied and the German delegations at Paris are awaiting for formal presentation of the documents early next week. Final decisions on several problems which must be written into the terms of peace were reported by the council of three yesterday. Germany must give up her cable systems, according to reports, but the allies will not incorporate in the treaty a plan for the future disposition of this property. The cables will merely remain in the hands of the five great powers until an agreement is reached as to what will be done with them. This is virtually the same plan said to have been adopted in dealing with warships which Germany has surrendered.

Of Our SPRING SUITS

Here are refreshing new suits, all designed with the distinct charm and correctness that characterizes all our new modes. The spirit of a joyous Springtime seems to pervade our display of enchanting Spring apparel for Mesdames and Misses. The prices, you will find, are moderate.

If one were to analize the smartness of one trim Redingote serge suit mode, which invites selection at $55.00, the most credit would go to its mannishly tailored appearance, with a narrow belt and four shaped, braid bound pockets to relieve the plainness. There are other equally distinctive styles, in serge, gabardine, velours and tricotine, priced at $30.00 and up.

Feed Chicks Right
They develop twice as fast.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Chick Feed will develop chicks into broilers for market faster and bring them to the egg-laying period much earlier than ordinary feed. Purina Feeds are adapted to young chicks, and give perfect development.

PURINA
CHICKEN CHOWDER and CHICK FEED

Grain feed supplies an excess of heat and energy, but is deficient in elements that makes blood, bone, nerve, lean meat and feathers. Purina Chicken Chowder contains an abundance of the very elements which grain feed lacks. The Chowder and Chick Feed should be fed in about equal quantities.

"Escaped After 2½ Years in 9 German Prisons"

This is subject of Address to be Delivered by

Lt. Beverley Robinson

The only Canadian born officer who escaped from Germany. He will talk about:—
Actual conditions in the German prison camps as he personally experienced them for 2½ years, from November, 1915, to April, 1918.
Just what solitary confinement is like.
A first-hand description of the notorious "Charlie" Niemeyer, from one who had good reason to know him.
The digging of the famous Holzminden Tunnel, which was 60 yards long and took 9 months to dig. 29 officers escaped through it, of whom 11 got across the frontier, a distance of 150 miles. His own escapes.

Small Boys With Hatchets

Work Havoc in Local Woods

In Their Excursions During Easter Week They Cut Down Trees and Slashed Others in Langford's Woods—Some Damage, Too, in Jackson Park—Have Earned Exclusion.

INSTINCTS ARE PERVERTED

Easter week must have seemed a long period of anxiety to the legion of trees in Langford's woods, known for a generation or more as Wallis's grove. Every fine day, morning and afternoon, the alert sentinel top branches that surveyed the road to the city sounded the alarm of approaching groups of small boys. Over the woods fell a foreboding hush that accentuated the erotic drumming of a downy woodpecker on a dead resounding limb, for, if the bobolink goes arrooing with the sweet song of a troubador, friend downy beats his love tunes on a drum. The wielder of the cymbals and the drum-sticks in a military band and the artists of the tympani in the orchestra have their admirers in the crowd as well as the solo cornetist or the first violinist. And in the symphony of the woods nature distributed her gifts with the same sense of proportion and compensation. Hence, the woodpecker rolls out his rapid rat-tat-tat instinctively knowing that there are hearts attuned and responsive to his peculair charms.

Anxiety quickly gave way to fear when the elm in the orchard up the road whispered upon the wind as the boys passed her that some of them were armed with hatchets. The trees awaited in trepidation the coming of the noisy youths who in an older land would have been informed by familiar signs that trespassing was forbidden. There was no such protection, however, for the old beeches, oaks and elms who glanced apprehensively from one to another as they recognized the unfriendly even insensate urchins deploy through the ditch and fence and enter a preserve some of their fathers perhaps had enjoyed in their green and "salad days." Grown old and wise the beeches are not so lusty and recuperative as in the days when those blurred distorted initials on the trunk were fresh cut. In their old age they have become solicitious for their comfort and well-being, and while they had no thought of a final taking off from these small intruders they dreaded more sensitively the gouging and hacking they remembered from former occasions.

Many Cedars Despoiled.

The young cedars, however, trembled in great agitation, and before the week was closed many of them were prostrate, chopped and cut to make useless "huts", and rough foot-bridges over the creek, some of them reduced to ashes and charred embers of fires at which the boys had amused themselves. Several trees had been chopped almost through but capriciously left standing on a thin sliver of the trunk to be blown over by the first strong wind.

The cedars suffered most, but beeches, maples, silver birches and other trees bore hatchet slashes as if some one had intentionally blazed a trial through the woods. Instead these young vandals had in passing to and fro through the woods struck at the trees, large and small, leaving ugly gashes that cannot fail to be injurious. The destructive proclivities of these boys had full reign under the complete freedom from restraint and discipline.

Woods Open To Public

This wholesale damage is utterly indefensible and is the more regrettable for the reason that ex-Alderman Langford takes a personal delight in these woods and shares the pleasures they afford to the general public. He has remonstrated with the boys but to no effect, and it has simply come to this that he is considering the advisability of prohibiting persons from intruding upon the property.

Parents, teachers and any other persons who exercise any authority over these boys should endeavour to inculcate in them some sense of the rights of property that is thrown open for their use, and likewise some fine sensibility of all that a tree represents.

In Jackson Park Too.

Vandalism of the same kind has marred beeches and other trees along the upper driveway in Jackson Park, where boys are tolerated and warned by Mr. Rose, how they must conduct themselves. But some young agent of destruction has managed to elude the the caretaker's vigilance or to disregard his admonitions.

This free use of hatchets in the woods by irresponsible boys should not be lightly considered. Jackson Park and Langford's woods are the only two remaining groves worthy of the name remaining near the city. Every effort should be put forth to preserve them and even to safe-guard the individual trees. There are some citizens who delight in the quiet and the natural beauty of these woods. The park is an inheritance that should be highly prized. It was a gift from the late Mrs. Nicholls. The Langford woods have an uncertain lease upon arboreal life. Mr. Langford, had he been so inclined, might have chopped the big maples and beeches and oaks into hardwood stove lengths a few winters ago and enriched himself, but this grove is more valuable to people as a sanctuary for birds and a last touch of wild life than it could have ever served as firewood.

Should be Preserved.

It would perhaps be ridiculous to suggest that the city should buy this property for future generations. One hundred years hence the young men of Peterboro will probably be condemning their fathers and grandfathers for failing to protect the last remnants of the forests that were here when our grandparents found this county on unbroken tangle of trees and brush. It was the forest primeval to them. This generation quite easily criticizes its predecessor, but lacks the insight to observe its own lack of vision and sense of stewardship. Today the municipality seems to be embarassed to the point of actual pain, and any person who would have the temerity to recommend the purchase of Langford's woods for the citizens of the greater Peterboro of to-morrow would be regarded as a hopeless visionary to be laughed into the seculsion of "the tall timbers." This is a diversion from the subject of the recent depradations of young hooligans who have earned the epithet of vandals, and it is to be hoped that restrictive measures will be applied to teach these boys some idea of the privileges they have been abusing until they have gained a thoughtful intelligent sense of the use of the woods.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE FOR THE BABY

Baby's Own Tablets are a valuable medicine for all little ones. They are a mild but thorough laxative, which never fails to regulate the bowels and stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers, banish colic and worms and make teething easy. Concerning them Mrs. S. P. Moulton, St. Stephen, N. B., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for a long time and find them a most effective and valuable medicine. I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

An Unusually Heavy Demand For Houses In Peterboro

Sales for the Past Month Were Very Heavy—What the Real Estate Men Say—Houses Are Scarce.

The pressure brought to bear upon the non-house owner in the city, through the shortage of available houses for rent, has caused an unusually large number of sales in the city during the past month. With every realty man interviewed, the same answer was given, "Houses are selling, and selling fast."

Like every other branch of trade, real estate has its season, and the customary time for sales is from May until the later months in the summer, but this year has proved extraordinary in this respect, and the sales, as stated, started early.

For the most part the sudden desire to buy is explained by the dealers by the return of the soldiers. In a great many instances the men's families have been doubling up with relations and now, wishing for a separate home, and being unable to rent anything within the price they wish to pay, they are buying. The general price paid by the buyers is from one to three thousand dollars with a few as high as thirty five hundred. About fifty per cent. of the purchases are being paid for in cash. Each of three real estate men claimed to have sold at least fifty houses of the smaller variety during March and April.

Changed Attitude.

Gone are days when the real estate man spent an afternoon showing a prospective tenant all the houses that he had on hand, and wasted gallons of gasoline in racing madly over the town. To-day in a humble spirit the would-be tenant comes to the dealer, and asks if he doesn't know of any house that may be available, and the answer is invariably the same, "If I had fifty houses to rent I could rent them this moment—there isn't one on the books." In consequence, the home seeker must face two alternatives—purchase a home, or remain homeless.

Monthly Tenants.

While there are no houses available for renting, there are several empty, but these to a great extent the landlord refuses to rent as he expects to make a sale in a week or two. Again the empty house which is up for sale almost invariably is available only by the month and into these the prospective tenant does not care to move as he will probably be turned out in the course of a few weeks.

High taxes and the control of real estate by large property owners have pretty well killed the sale of the larger homes in Peterboro. The big land owners hold out for such a price that the business in the city is absolutely retarded as prospective purchasers, the real estate men say, shy off from the prices named. In the same way firms which have been advised that Peterboro is a promising place to locate in, cannot attempt to start anything with the high rents asked.

No Building.

So far the building permits of the city indicate that in the face of the shortage of homes, there is no building activity. This is the result presumably of the prohibitive prices of building materials and the high cost of labour.

"Furioso" Figures In a Court Case

Horse Won Races in Peterboro—Judgment Reserved.

In the interim County Court, held in Barrie before His Honor Judge Wismer, W. H. Edgerton (who recently came from near Coulson to occupy the James Quinlan farm on the Penetang road) brought action against C. E. Hepburn, hotel keeper at Beaverton, to recover the sum of $825, being the balance and interest due plaintiff by the defendant for the purchase money of the sale of the standard bred stallion, "Furioso." It was by plaintiff that this stallion was sold and delivered to the defendant for $800 by agreement on Sept. 9, 1918, $25 to be paid on delivery at Beaverton, and $775 within six weeks.

The defendant denied that he had ever agreed to buy "Furioso." He said that he agreed to exchange his heavy stallion, "Ardimersay Duke," for "Furioso," owned by the plaintiff and pay $200 to boot. Further, he said plaintiff asked him to keep the heavy stallion for a few weeks until he was ready to sell him. Since that date he has been keeping this stallion for which he put in a counter claim of $154. He also claimed $60 won at Peterboro races by "Furioso," which he said plaintiff had agreed to pay him. There was also a claim of $5.50 for a hotel bill, bringing claim up to $219.50.

Nine witnesses were examined, nearly the whole day spent over the details, pro and con, W. A. Boys, K.C., for plaintiff; M. H. Roach, for defendant. Judgment was reserved—Barrie Examiner.

Every Coal Order Placed Now Helps Next Winter's Conditions

There will be no restrictions on Coal this year; but higher costs, wages, labour conditions, and adjustment of freight rates, over which we have no control, foreshadow higher coal.

During 1917 and 1918 dealers were greatly handicapped by being subjected to Government regulations and restrictions which had the effect of disturbing business beyond any reason or necessity.

We are again able to procure full supplies of FRESH MINED D. L. & W. SCRANTON COAL, which has been the choice of an increasing number of customers year after year.

PETERBORO, 100 YEARS AGO

It Was In 1819 That Adam Scott First Landed in Peterboro and Commenced the Manufacture of Lumber Products and Bad Whiskey—Was Strong as An Ox—Property Values on George Street.

(F. H. Dobbin)

Anniversaries become notable for the actions, movements, and objects accomplished, and which they call to mind. This is quite true, either in the household, in private life, in municipal life or national progression. But often we find some apathy to observe an anniversary, unless it be among those who participated in the original event. So for the next forty years we shall observe anniversaries of battles, mobilizations, of going out and coming in of men and forces, for the Great War has dwarfed all other things and what has been done and suffered will survive. Again quite right, too. Most momentuous for our people, city, province and Dominion.

So there be some excuse that we have allowed to drop out of sight and mind one aniversary, that while occasionally spoken of has not so far elicited public comm entand action. Not that we might look for activity in such respect from those who have grown from childhood to man or womanhood among us, but that those who have lived here for the past fifty or sixty years, maybe, and their fathers lived here before them, should manifest an interest. Up to this day there is none of comment or suggestion. Is it now too late to sit up and take notice.

Just one hundred years ago the first settler to go upon the land which is now covered by the City of Peterborough, made his appearance, in the month of May, 1819. It is true that the year previous, (1818), a small party of emigrants stiled from England, some of whom, braving the perils of the forest found their way into the township of Smith, then but recently surveyed. This was in the autumn of 1818. They came in by way of Rice Lake and the river, for at that time there was no semblence of a road stretching away between the frontier along Lake Ontario and their now and prespective home. But this settlement in the township is not just now a part of our anniversary story. Further on things may be written of such settlement.

Adam Scott

In May, 1819, a party came up the river in a skiff, for the purpose of selecting a mill site and otherwise prospecting. One of the number, Adam Scott, had determined to strike out for himself, and to locate where he felt he could be useful and make a livelihood at an occupation kindred to his own, which was that of millwright. Five others came with him. They landed just above Spaulding's Bay at that time a sheet of water, now covered by the lumber piles of the McDonald Co. In after years this bay was the site of a steam saw mill erected by Shaw & Fortune, because the bay was a quiet sheet of water on which to moor the saw logs to be cut. Scott discharged his gun, and by means of the flint of the lock, a fire was kindled. After a lunch, which served for supper, the party lay down around the fire under the branches of the trees and slept.

Followed Blaze

The following morning three of the party started for what they called Mud Lake, following the blaze on the trees made the year previous by incoming settlers. One of the men was the owner of the land comprising the present village of Bridgenorth. Afterwards they returned to the encampment at the Bay. In their absence a thorough search had been made of the locality adjacent to the river. They had found the creek and were sure that by damming up the creek(where it now crosses King street) and leading the water along a trench to the bank of the river an eligible mill site would be obtained, and at a trifling cost of time and labour, compared with an effort to control the river at any point in the neighbourhood.

The party returned down the river. Scott came back, presently, bringing with him two men to help. A rough structure of logs was put up for shelter and work commenced on the mill, Scott leaving off the propositoin to build a house until he could utilize sawn lumber. Small as the structure was, only about 18 by 24 feet, the timbers for the frame had to be "whip-sawed" from the logs of pine trees felled adjacent to the site. It was roofed with bark taken from other trees. The building of the "undershot" water wheel was a problem that took a deal of time. The trench excavated to bring the flow of water to the mill and the erection of the dam from logs and dirt consumed many weeks. So it was not until the spring of the year following that the mill was ready for business. In the building, in addition to a single upright saw, was a run of very common millstones for grinding wheat. These stones were taken from an outcrop of limestone farther up the creek. Despite the drawbacks the capacity of the little mill was adequate to supply the needs of the few settlers.

We are interested, and quite properly so, in the personality of men who achieve prominence in our affairs, even if we have never met and viewed these men in the flesh. So possibly a brief sketch of this man Scott, the details of which were supplied by one who was intimate with him for many years, may be of interest. In all walks of life men who do something and do it first are worthy of being remembered.

Man of Wealth

Adam Scott was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1706, and was a millwright by trade. In 1812 he left Scotland for America and settled in Deleware county, New York State, and remained there six years, working at his trade. While there he, true to his old country affiliations and bringing up, married a daughter of a Yorkshire farmer, who had come out to America. Three sons and three daughters followed on this union.

In 1818 he came to Canada, and located at Port Hope, (then known as Smith's Creek), worked at his trade and built a sawmill. When he came out from Scotland he had nearly $4,000, and lost all of this in building another sawmill at Cobourg for old Squire Henry.

He then located at what was afterwards to be known as Peterborough, and in 1820 his daughter Jeanette, was born, being the first child born in the place, at that time known as "Scott's Plains." Scott removed from the Plains in 1827, having lost all his property through getting in debt to one, John Brown, of Port Hope, and located on the Hagerman Farm, east of Port Hope. Two years after he again removed and settled in the township of Cavan, where he died in 1838. His wife died at Scott's Plains, in 1825, of the fever and cholera that prevailed among the newly arrived immigrants of the Peter Robinson immigration. Shortly afterwards he was asked by Mr. Robinson to accept the position of immigration agent and to proceed to the Old Country and arrange for further movements of peoples to this part of Upper Canada, but doubted his abilities for the position and declined.

A Strong Man

Incidents of his accomplishments are on record. He was an immensely strong man, standing six feet, four inches, in his stockings and of a weight of two hundred and sixty pounds. With perfect ease he could shoulder a barrel of salt or cider. It is on record of his having carried from Scott's Plains to Port Hope, a heavy mill crank to be repaired, tramping through the bush by the trail around the head of Rice Lake. He often crossed the river, to the ground now covered by the East Ward, on stilts, to reach his oxen which were at pasture on the flat (now Riverside Park).

Making Whiskey

In the early days it was a common axiom incidental to settlement or location, that the first duty, after erecting some sort of shelter, was to dig a well and put in a pump. Scott did not need a well for he had water of the river flowing past his house. He did something else. He rigged up an impotent distillery in a small shed. In the absence of a "worm" of metal, in which to cool the vapors of distillation, the vapor was passed all through a long series of wooden tubes—branches of a tree bored out—and placed in a box and covered with water to hasten the cooling. The whiskey thus produced was the "original first." It held all sorts of impurities and though lacking in some of the said-to-be higher qualities which even the tanglefeg whiskies of the present are claimed to possess, was quite adequate for the purpose in view, to elevate and intoxicate and as surely and fatally as anything now on the market.

Site of City.

Practically the site of the future city remained without population, with the exception of a few officials appointed to direct the immigration, which was expected, and to lay out roads and lines and to locate such as arrived. The first survey of the immediate district was made by a surveyor named Chewett, in 1817. Then was laid off the upper part of the township of North Monaghan and of Smith. A copy of this map of survey shows the locality with great fidelity. The site of the city, while not defined as such, or even as the after-to-be town, is indicated by the contour of the shore of the river and adjacent features. Three islands stood in the river, the first just below the bridge as now placed. These were covered with tall elms and shrubbery and grass and afforded good pasture to the few cattle browsing around. The river is marked as being the River Seebee, and not the Otonabee. Possibly the original name of the river is a corruption of the latter. Chemong Lake is lettered as "Koutechomong," a pretty fair guess to the now recognized name. It is noticeable that the survey in Smith shows what was afterwards called the "Communication Road," the straight stretch of road from the city to Bridgenorth. As this road bisects the whole of the lots in a distance of six miles, breaking up a methodical lay-out, it is seen that the road followed as closely as possible the ancient Indian trail, from the lake down to the river. The trail is indicated as twisting around the hills to avoid the summits, and ends after crossing the site of the city, exactly at the shore of the river where the Gas Works are now situated. This part of the shore was beautifully covered with massive and far-reaching oaks. Possibly one or two still survive, and it was under these trees that the people of the Robinson immigration out up their rough shantys and cabins in which to pass the months of waiting while being located on the lands in the neighbouring townships. Along the escarpment of the river, on the side of the bank now covered by the Duffus Garage, other shellings were constructed. But the story of the immigration is quite another story, and may further on be told.

The First Survey

In 1825 was undertaken the first minute survey and layout of the future town. This was done by Richard Birdsall, surveyor, and under the direction of Hon. Zaccheus Burnham, to whom had been assigned the work of having the townships to be settled parcelled out. At the time of the survey it was expressed in words that it would be money wasted, as no one, even fancied that the locality would reach importance, the "Front" or lake shore locations having the preference. So that practically all of the site of the city was in a state of nature as late as 1827. Following the influx of the Robinson immigrants things began to look up. Many to whom a life of the forest and its attendant hardships did not appeal put up such structures as they could build and fell to to carry on trades and occupations. To complete the city archives, a copy of the map of the Birdsall survey has been had, together with copies of the field notes, which latter form a running comment on the character of the ground in the now city borders, as the case presented itself to Mr. Birdsall. He makes remarks that, though quaint, are illuminating. For instance, writing of the character of the ground in what is now the very heart of the city, the corners of Hunter and George Streets, he observes that the ground is low and marshy, often flooded from the creek, practically worthless. To look at it now, one would not realise the change that gradually was brought about. In the early days property was, of course, cheap. Many of the lots now fronting on George Street, in the business centre, were bought at the upset price of $30.00 for a half-acre. The fairly valuable lot on which the Lock Works stands was bought for $25.00.

Property Values.

The south-east corner of George and Hunter Streets, now covered by the Bank of Toronto building and those adjoining as far south as the store of Connal & Co. and as far east as the Higgins Hardware store, was offered to Robert Reid of Dourp as a gift, and Mr. Reid declined to accept it, saying that from its situation and condition it was worthless. Mr. Reid's opinion seems to have had corroborative impressions, for a year after it was purchased for a fanning mill, by Thomas Harper, who built himself a small house that for many years stood on the lane behind the business blocks on George Street, the ground being covered by the Times Office workrooms. It may be of interest to add, as illustrating the permanence of the old-fashioned timber frame construction of buildings, that the said fanning mill was made in the venerable building that now stands on the corner of George and Brock Streets, long known as the Commercial Hotel. It was put up to be used to make fanning mills, rakes, and farm implements of wood. It stood on the ground, about the elevation of the top of the windows of the store underneath. That was the ground level of George Street at the date indicated. When the hill was cut through to reduce the grade of the street, the building was left stranded, high up and isolated, on the top of the bank. Afterwards it was propped up, the material underneath removed, the stone walls that now support it built and the structure entered on a new lease of usefulness, and a hostel for the weary and a solace to the thirsty.

A Long Call.

It may be added that the ground level of George Street at the corner of Hunter Street in 1828 was seven feet lower than it now shows. Nothing but a swamp and morass, flooded by the creek each spring overflow. Buried deep in the soil are the logs used to form a corduroy road that crossed the line of the streets. These logs are uncovered from time to time as municipal improvements call for excavation. Standing in the doorway of the Review Office, in May, 1914, Mr. Frank Weir (since deceased) said to the writer, while looking across Hunter Street: "I was taken by my mother, as a small boy, to pick berries where the Oriental Hotel now stands, in 1826." His father had preceded the family into Otonabee. They had reached Scott's Plains by a scow up the river and waggon from the Yankee Bonnet to the small hotel building that stood where the post office now stands, and after getting a meal, strolled through the bushes along the border of the creek coming out near the line of Simcoe Street, and back to the hotel. From 1826 to 1916 is a long call. But is not the span of life, as we call it, really longer than we take it to be?

WE ARE STILL SACRIFICING WOOD IN ORDER TO CLEAR OUR YARD.

For the past two days our special prices in wood have created considerable new business with the result we have decided to continue these special prices all this week. We need the room in our yard when the scowing season opens in about two or three weeks' time. You can profit by our needs. With coal going to fourteen dollars a ton it stands to reason that wood will be dearer before it will be cheaper and the following prices which we quote for the remainder of the week should appeal to those in need of wood.

Mixed wood—Nine dollars a cord.
Hardwood—Ten dollars a cord.

This wood is of good quality and is cut in stove lengths already for use.

THE GREAT APOSTACY AT BETHANY TABERNACLE

Rev. A. G. Doner, pastor of Bethany Tabernacle preaching on the above theme last Sunday morning announced his intention of devoting one Sunday evening service to each of the following subjects. Spiritualism, Christian Science, Russellism, Higher Criticism, Theosophy, Mormonism, Bahaism and others.

Mr. Doner, believes these teachings to be the chief constituents of the Present Apostacy described in 2 Thess. 2:3, the "Falling Away" "Manifestation of Lawlessness" "Working of Satan" and "Strong Delusion," which will reach its maturity during the personal reign of the Great Anti-Christ spoken of in 2 Thess. 2: as The Man of Sin.

This fact he claims to be one of the great outstanding and unanswerable evidences of the imminent coming of the Day of the Lord, also the Great Peril to which all orthodox believers are subjected through the subtlety of these cults which he unhesitatingly calls "Doctrines of Devils."

On Sunday night next, he will treat the first subject, Modern Spiritualism and extends a kindly invitation to both friends and foes of these doctrines.

GOOD MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

Evangelist Torrie Will be in Park Street To-morrow.

Another good congregation assembled in Park Street Church last night, and Evangelist Torrie preached on "Blind Bartimaeus." In speaking on this subject, he said: "Sin has deformed, disfigured every human soul. The arch enemy has blinded every man's spiritual vision. We cannot hope for sight until we make the language of our text the prayer of our hearts. 'Lord that I may receive my sight.' Trace the correspondence between this blind man coming to Jesus for sight, and anyone coming to Jesus, either for physical, mental or spiritual vision. This man was cheerless, but for a good reason. He was blind. The physical is but a type of the spiritual condition. Some people are physically blind, some are mentally blind, and most all are spiritually blind. This is well nigh universal. This man was a beggar, 'sat at the highway side begging.' He was poor, helpless, dependent, and despised. He was crying. It was a cry of conviction, a cry condemned, a cry courageous, and it was a cry considered. He was coming. 'He casting away his garments rose up and came to Jesus.' This man was challenged, 'What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?' He was cured. 'Immediately he received his sight.' he was consecrated, 'and he followed Jesus in the way.'"

Mrs. Torrie sang "You must do something with Jesus to-night." It was most in keeping with the message and when the Evangelist made the appeal, many responded and went into the enquiry room to be further dealt with.

The choir was in full force, and sang to the enjoyment and profit of all.

Mr. Torrie will preach in Park Street Church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and preach an object sermon at on open session of the School at 3 o'clock, and preach again his farewell sermon at 7 o'clock.

The choir and Mrs. Torrie will sing at all these services, and all are welcome to each service.

Havelock Soldier Saw Long Service

Pte E. Green Has Secured a Position in Peterborough

Pte. Earl Green, of Havelock, arrived home from overseas last week and is receiving all kinds of congratulations upon his safe return after his long absence. Pte. Green has seen the longest service of any boy from Havelock, enlisting on the 7th of August, 1914, and with Pte. Geo. Buchanan of town and Pte. Chas. Cowan of Trent River, being the first to volunteer for his country. He went overseas in September, 1914, and landed in France in February, 1915, and for over a year afterwards served in the trenches. Pte. Green had the singular good fortune to come through the great war without a wound of any description.

He goes to Peterborough next week, where he has secured a position in Mr. Ted McKay's barber shop, and the best wishes of all will follow him, for his future success and prosperity—Havelock Standard.

Hun Delegate Almost Fainted

Was Unable to Deliver Address—The Credentials.

VERSAILLES, May 2. — In a session beginning at 3.10 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and lasting barely five minutes, the German plenipotentaries to the Peace Congress presented their credentials. It was the first step in the peace negotiations. The German credentials were presented to representatives of the allies.

Pale and almost fainting from emotion, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the German Foreign Secretary, and head of the delegation, passed through what evidently was one of the bitterest moments of his life. He was hardly able to sustain himself through the brief ceremony and reach the waiting automobile, which had brought him to the gathering.

The meeting took place in the room of the Trianon Hotel previously used for the sessions of the Supreme Military Council. Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, on entering, was accompanied by Herr Landsberg, Prof. Schuecking and two secretaries, and waiting for him, the allied representatives were grouped around Jules Cambon, the former French Ambassador at Berlin, who is chairman of the commission. Other members of the allied party included Lord Hardinge, Great Britain, Ambassador Matsui, Japan; and Henry White, of the United States.

Serious Charge Against Norris Government

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, May 2. — Premier T. Norris last night branded as a falsehood the statement made by H. A. MacKie, M.P. for Edmonton, in the House Wednesday, that the Manitoba Government is exempting aliens from deportation or that "there is a politician in the employ of the Manitoba government who has a room at the Labour Hall. When the people come to him he gives them a card exempting them from deportation and says, "The Norris government is preventing you from being deported."

GRAIN MARKET

Cash corn and oats markets continue strong, a factor which still dominates the whole grain market situation. Continued bad weather has been unfavourable for a free movement, and receipts in consequence have been small the past few days. Prospects are for fine weather, and this, with the higher prices prevailing is expected to bring out more corn. Alarming bull reports came out during the day respecting winter wheat crop conditions, a new disease having it is alleged, made its appearance over a wide area in the States. The report had the effect of boosting the options markets towards the close. Local cash prices are higher on oats and barley, the latter going up 2 1-8c, and oats 7-8c.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William; No. 1 Northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 Northern, $2.20 1-2; No. 3 Northern, $2.17 1-2; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

CATTLE MARKET

Contrary to general expectations, receipts of cattle were rather on the light side, instead of the heavy runs which were looked for to follow the very small receipts during the preceding holiday week. With the limited offerings on hand, therefore, for the Monday market, prices promptly hardened, and a good active demand quickly cleared the slate, at 25c. to 40c. advance on the previous week for choice quality handy weight butcher cattle. Fat cows and butcher bulls with quality were also very strong and remained so all through the week. The advance did not apply to heavy steers, which, however, held good and steady for the fore part of the week, but went off about a quarter in the closing markets.

There was a good market for quality weight feeders, but light stockers were generally in a slow market.

There is a good market for quality milkers and springers.

Too many calves for the demand are coming along, and the market is very much weaker.

Hog market weakened slightly, but as some think, definitely. Market the greater part of the week held steady at a 25c. decline, on a basis of $21.25 f.o.b., with a dollar differential fed and watered.

Cattle Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts this week, 336 cars, with 5,291 cattle, 1,401 calves, 6,535 hogs, and 197 sheep and lambs.

A cool, clean, satiny shave for 1/5 of a cent—think of it! At least 500 shaves are obtained from 12 AutoStrop blades, and you often get more than that.

A turn or two on the strop and your Razor is ready. After shaving you press a little lever, put the blade under the tap, wipe it off, and it is ready for the next shave.

There is no need to take the razor to pieces and assemble it again; simply leave the blade where it is from start to finish. This means time saved in the morning rush — and a razor blade that's good for about six weeks' clean, cool shaves. There's nothing to learn about the AutoStrop Razor. A man takes as naturally to it as a duck to water; and he gets head-barber results from the start.

The AutoStrop Razor is sold with a money-back guarantee. Everywhere—razor, strop and 12 blades, complete; in an attractive case; $5.00.

THE MUSICIANS OPPORTUNITY.

The time has come for musicians to prove to the world the true value of music throughout the years the true musician has been a missionary carrying a message of hope and joy, new life and courage, with him wherever he went. How many of us can honestly say that we are true to our ideals.

How many of us are living to-day as we planned years ago to live; Our ideals are not by any means dead but they are surely asleep. We have been working so hard for success, for fame, for money, that instead of being clear to our vision our ideals have become misty and overcast. Now is the time to wake up. We have the most beautiful profession in the world. Who is better fitted to understand the needs of suffering humanity than the musician? His very training, his struggles, his sacrifice, his high ambitions, his aim to perfect his art, all tend to help him to understand his fellow man better.

An optimist says that good intentions are better than no pavements at all.

Balanced Value

Value, as represented in Gray Dort Motor Cars, is a union of good qualities.

Strength that means faithful service, free from trouble, yet sacrificing nothing of the lightness so essential to economy. Beauty unquestionable, that yet allows for every essential of good engineering. Comfort, too, both in riding and driving.

And then a price kept surprisingly low by factory efficiency and big production.

You need in your car all the qualities the Gray Dort has. And probably you need nothing more. Certainly you can get nothing more without paying very much more.

The touring car is $1345; the Gray Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $125 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f.o.b. Chatham and are subject to change without notice.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"I get it—from you."

Mrs. Balfame lifted her shoulders. "What next? I have contributed what little I can afford to the war funds. I am sorry, but I cannot accommodate you."

"You give me five hundert dollar," reiterated the thick, even voice, "or I tell the police you come in the back door two minutes after Mr. Balfame he was kilt at the front gate."

Obvious danger once more turned Mrs. Balfame into pure steel. "Oh, no; you will tell them nothing of the sort, for it is not true. I thought I heard some one on the back stairs when I went down to the kitchen. As you know I always drink a glass of filtered water before going to bed. I had forgotten the episode utterly, but I remember now, I heard a noise outside, even imagined that some one turned the knob of the door, and called up to ask you if you also had heard. I did not know that anything had happened out in front until I returned to my room."

"I see you come in the kitchen door." But the voice was not quite so even, the shifty glance wavered. Frieda felt suddenly the European peasant in the presence of the superior by divine right. Mr. Balfame followed up her advantage.

"You are lying—for purposes of blackmail. You did not see me come in the door, because I had not been outside of it. I do not even remember opening it to listen, although I may have done so. You saw nothing and cannot blackmail me. Nor would anyone believe your word against mine."

"I hear you come in just after me—"

"Heard? Just now you said you saw."

Mrs. Balfame had an inspiration. "My God!" she exclaimed, springing to her feet, "the murderer took refuge in the house, was hidden in the cellar or attic all night, all the next day! He may be here yet! You may be feednig him!"

She advanced upon the staring girl whose mouth stood open. "Of course. Of course. You are a friend of Old Dutch. It was one of his gunmen who did it, and you are his accomplice. Or perhaps you killed him yourself. Perhaps he treated you as he treated so many girls, and you killed him and are trying to blackmail me for money to get out of the country."

"It's a lie!" Frieda's voice was strangled with outraged virtue. "My man, he fight for the fatherland. Old Dutch, he will not hurt a fly. I would not have touched you pig of a husband. You know that for you hate him yourself. I have see in the eye, in the hand. I know notings of who kill him, but—no, I have not see you come in the kitchen door, but I hear some one come in, the door shut, you call out in so strange voice—I believe before that you kill him—now—now I do not know."

"It would be wise to know nothing."—Mrs. Balfame's voice was charged with meaning—"unless you wish to be arrested as a criminal, or as an accomplice—after confessing that you entered the house within a moment or two of the shooting. Who is to say exactly when you did come in? Well, better keep your mouth shut. It is wise for innocent people to know as little about a crime as possible. Why did you testify before the coroner's jury that your tooth ached so you heard nothing? Why didn't you tell your story then?"

"I was frightened and my tooth—I can tink of notings else."

"And now you think it is quite safe to blackmail me?"

"I want to go back to Germany—to my man—and I hate this country who hates Germany."

"This country is neutral," said Mrs. Balfame severely. "It regards all the belligerents as barbarians tarred with the same brush. You Germans are so excitable, that you imagine we hate when we merely don't care." This was intended to be soothing, but Frieda's brow darkened and she thrust out her pugnacious lips.

"Germany, she is the greatest country in the whole world," she announced. "All the world—it muss know that."

"How familiar that sounds! Just a slight variation of the old American brag that is quite a relief." Mrs. Balfame spoke as lightly as if she merely had let down the bars of her dignity out of sympathy with the lacerated Teuton. "Well, go back to your Germany, Frieda, if you can get there, but don't try to blackmail me again. I have no five hundred dollars to give you if I would. If you choose you may stay your month out, and spend your evenings taking up a collection among your German friends. You are excused."

She had achieved her purpose. The girl's practical mind was puzzled by the simple explanation of her mistress' presence in the kitchen, deeply impressed by the contemptuous refusal to be blackmailed. Her shoulders drooped and she slunk out of the room.

For a moment Mrs. Balfame clung, reeling to the back of a chair. Then she went downstairs and telephoned to Dwight Rush.

CHAPTER XVI.

The young lawyer was to call at eight o'clock. Mrs. Balfame put on her best black blouse in his honour; it was cut low about the throat and softened with a rolling collar of hemstitched white lawn. This was as far in the art of sex allurement as she was prepared to go; the bare idea of negligee of white lace and silk, warmed by rose-coloured shades, would have filled her with cold disgust. She was not a religious woman, but she had her standards.

At a quarter of eight she made a careful inspection of the lower rooms; sleuths, professional and amateur, would not hesitate to sneak into her house and listen at keyholes. She inferred that the house was under surveillance, for she had looked from her window several times and seen the same man sauntering up and down that end of the avenue. No doubt some one watched the back doors also.

Convinced that her home was still sacrosanct, she placed two chairs at a point in the parlour farthest from the doors leading into the hall, and into a room beyond which Mr. Balfame had used as an office. The doors, of course, would be open throughout the interview. No one should be able to say that she had shut herself up with a young man; on the other hand, it was the duty of the deceased husband's lawyer to call on the widow. Even if these young devils discovered that she had telephoned for him, what more regular than that she should wish to consult her lawyer after such insinuations?

Rush arrived as the town clock struck eight. Frieda, who answered the door in her own good time, surveyed him suspiciously through a narrow aperature to which she applied one eye.

"What you want?" she growled. "Mrs. Balfame she have seen all the reporters already yet."

"Let the gentleman in," called Mrs. Balfame from the parlour. "This is a friend of my late husband."

Rush was permitted to enter. He was a full minute disposing of his hat and overcoat in the hall, while Frieda dragged her heelless slippers back to the kitchen and slammed the door. His own step was not brisk as he left the hall for the parlour, and his face, always colourless, looked thin and haggard. Mrs. Balfame, as she rose and gave him her hand, asked solicitously:

"Are you under the weather? How seedy you look. I wondered why you had not called."

"A touch of the grippe. Felt all in for a day or two but am all right now. And although I have been very anxious to see you, I had made up my mind not to call unless you sent for me."

Sample Box Brings Great Results

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief

Chronic sufferers from Backache, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder or any other form of Kidney trouble are generally willing to try any remedy once. The excruciating pain caused by Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Inflammation of the Bladder or some other form of Kidney trouble, is so great, that persons afflicted are often driven to spending large sums of money in an endeavor to find relief at any cost.

This is proven by the testimony of hundreds of people who have written us letters stating "that having failed to find relief after years of trying, they turned to Gin Pills as a last resort—and a sample box of these pills soon convinced them that Gin Pills was the remedy they needed."

That is all we ask you to do. Try a box of Gin Pills at our expense, and if they fail to bring you the relief they have brought to hundreds of others with similar Kidney derangements, it costs you nothing.

Mrs. Dechene writes:

"I received your sample box of Gin Pills, and they have done me a lot of good. I can congratulate myself on having them, and I will never be without them in my home."

This testimony from a woman who was skeptical about buying Gin Pills should convince you that a sample box is well worth writing for. Do it today. Address:

Four Queer Ways of Treating Corns

Some Sit and Suffer

They let the corn spoil countless joyful hours. Dainty shoes are torture. Yet millions of others end that pain in a jiffy, and keep free from corns forever.

Some Pad Them

The pads are unsightly. Everyone knows that they hide a deformity. Why will dainty women, year after year, treat their feet in that way?

Some Pare and Pare

They get a partial brief relief. But they let the corn stay, and pare it again and again. And each time they risk an infection.

Some Use Ancient Cures

Some use methods which are harsh and mussy, out-of-date, unscientific. The very same treatments that fakers sold back in 1860.

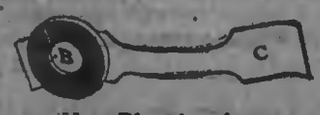
The Right Way
Ends Corns—At Once and Forever

Nowadays there are millions who know that all those old methods are folly. The new-day way—the simple, certain, scientific way—is easiest of all.

A famous chemist, years ago, invented the Blue-jay plaster. It was based on many years of corn study.

The plaster is applied in a jiffy. It wraps about the toe and fits snugly. In a moment one forgets it. The pain of the corn stops instantly, and never returns. Then a bit of wax, centered on the corn alone, gently undermines it.

In two days take the Blue-jay off and the corn will disappear. Sometimes an old, tough corn needs another application. But that's easy, and that's all. The toughest corn cannot resist Blue-jay.



How Blue-jay Acts

B is the B & B wax centered on the corn to gently undermine it.

Blue-jay is the doctor's way of ending corns. It is the modern, scientific way—made by a surgical dressing house of world-wide reputation. It is also the easy way, the simple, quick and safe way.

Millions now employ it. Half the corns in America, probably, are now being ended by Blue-jay. Users apply it when a corn first appears, so they never suffer, or keep a corn.

Consider that. Corns are absolutely needless. It is easier to end than coddle them. Every corn pain can be ended in a jiffy. Every corn can be eliminated. Every foot can be kept forever free.

Prove this tonight. Get a package of Blue-jay—watch the effect on one corn. Say farewell to all corns today. You owe that to yourself.

What is a double acting baking powder?

A double-acting baking powder is one that starts its action in the mixing bowl and finishes it in the oven.

Ordinary baking powders develop their full strength in the mixing bowl and you have to hurry your cakes into the oven. Then, you are always afraid that the oven is not just hot enough, or that a door will slam or something else happen to cause the cakes to fall.

You don't have to hurry or worry when Egg-O Baking Powder is used. Egg-O rises only partly in the bowl. You may let the dough stand 15 or 20 minutes or longer—doing so will give better results. When put into the oven, Egg-O continues its action—this second action being so steady and strong that a cake is not likely to fall even if it does get an unexpected jar.

EGG-O Baking Powder

is double-acting and just what is needed to make a light baking with the heavy Government Standard flours.

WOMAN FINED $10 FOR GIVING OUT BOLSHEVIST CIRCULARS

NEW YORK, May 2. —The annual spring offensive against work had a vigorous counter-offensive launched against it by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court when he first lectured and then fined Fannie Olisenstein, thirty years old, a cloak operator, No. 600 East 139th street, for distributing Bolshevist circulars.

The circulars read: "Workers of America throw within."

silly woman. Ten dollars; next victim," said Magistrate Corrigan.

"I have no sympathy with Bolshevism. These worthless people would be better off back where they came from. It is a foolish circular and she is a fool, do not labour the first of May; assert your rights; open the jails and please."

Interpreters.

"They've got a wonderful French-English interpreter at the Peace Conference," said President Hibben of Princeton. "He interprets the longest speeches without taking a note. His English is wonderfully good. That can't be said, you know, about the English of most interpreters. An interpreter in Egypt failed to turn up one day, sending to his employer, by way of excuse a note in English that said: 'My absence is impossible. Someone has removed my wife. My God, I am annoyed.'"

A Clever Thief.

A group of workers were lunching in a sheltered nook on a wharf. One of them went across the street for a plug of tobacco, and during his absence another substituted for his tin of pale coffee and milk his own tin of milkless, black coffee. When the first worker returned to his lunch he could hardly believe his eyes. "Well," said he, "I have heard of clever thieves, but to swipe the milk out of a feller's coffee is about the limit!"

Plenty to Do.

Mrs. Quotem—Oh, dear! One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives.

Mrs. Pokernose—It is some job for us women to keep track of the masculine half.

His Recommendation.

"Have you a recommendation from your last place?"

"Yes, sir; seven months off for good behavior."

Early Wallopers of Demon Rum

HISTORIANS of the movement that has resulted in the United States passing the prohibition amendment to the constitution agree that it had its beginning in a pamphlet written by Dr. Benjamin Rush, of Philadelphia, in 1785. This pamphlet was called "An Inquiry Into the Effect of Ardent Spirits Upon the Human Mind and Body." The following year it was published in an English periodical and in the United States Gazette, of which the Philadelphia North American is the lineal descendant. It was not until 1826 that the American Society for the Promotion of Temperance was founded, though other less influential bodies had been formed earlier with the same object. All acknowledged their indebtedness to the celebrated essay by Dr. Rush. In an article on the early American history of the movement, Rev. Michael J. Fanning, writing in the North American, quotes Frances Willard to the effect that "in the General Conference of the Methodist Church in 1812, five unsuccessful attempts were made to pass a motion providing that no sanctioned or local preacher should retail spirituous or malt liquors without forfeiting his ministerial character. This fact is respectfully brought to the attention of those who think the old-fashioned Methodists were somewhat bigoted on the subject of drink.

Four years later the conference passed this motion, after the word "malt" had been struck out, an indication that intolerance was beginning its insidious work, and that the professions of bartender and preacher could no longer be regarded as interchangeable. One of the early temperance reformers, Dr. Ode, of Medway, Mass., preached against drunkenness, with the result that one day he found a barrel of rum on the church steps, where it had been placed by his flock as an intimation that rum and religion had much in common. About that time Dr. Leonard Woods said that he could "count at one time among his acquaintances forty ministers who were either drunkards or confirmed drinkers." Apparently the clergymen of that time were of a sort that a man might have forty of them among his acquaintances.

But many hundreds of years before the temperance forces organized for their assaults upon rum hounds, wise men had called attention to the evils of intemperance. It should be noted, however, that it is only in comparatively recent years that the words "temperance" and "prohibition" and "teetotalism" have become almost synonomous terms when applied to alcoholic beverages. We do not know that even Dr. Rush thought nobody should drink; what he seemed to deplore, and in this he was like the temperance advocates of sixty or seventy years ago, was drunkenness. It is only in comparatively recent times that the proposition has been advanced that a man who never becomes intoxicated commits a sin, if not a crime, in taking an occasional drink. In searching for ancient references on the subject we shall avoid Biblical quotations, for they have been discussed ably by correspondents in the past few weeks, and because there seems to be an incurable difference of opinion as to whether the wine mentioned in the Bible was a sort of vodka or a sort of chocolate sundae.

but we may cite Epictetus, who, toward the end of the first century, said that one of the two gravest faults of man is not to be able to abstain from the things and pleasures he ought to abstain from. Later on Marcus Aurelius, certainly one of the wisest and best men who ever lived, in thinking of the finest thing he could say of the Emperor who adopted him, observed, "That might be applied to him which is recorded of Socrates, that he was both able to abstain from and to enjoy those things which many are too weak to abstain from and cannot enjoy without excess." On second thoughts this testimony seems somewhat out of place in a prohibition article. It would appear rather to praise the moderate drinker at the expense equally of the sot and the prohibition fanatic. In the thirteenth century Dante extolled the women of old Rome who were content to drink water, and he had words of approbation for Daniel and others who are supposed to have lived on locusts and honey and acorns and other strictly non-alcoholic substances.

Luther, in his address to the German nobility, deplored the excess in eating and drinking which distinguished them, and expressed the opinion that there ought to be a law to restrain it. In "Paradise Lost," Milton put words in the mouth of the Archangel Michael in telling Adam how to live that strongly recommended temperance, "Due nourishment, not gluttonous delight," was the dope. Others mentioned by Dr. Fanning who were aware of the evils of intemperance, and spoke out against it, are William Penn, John Locke, Lord Chesterfield, Cowper, John Woolman and Benjamin Franklin. As a moralist, Lord Chesterfield would no doubt have something rich to say on the subject. John Wesley thundered against the sin of drunkenness, and against the keepers of pothouses, the latter being referred to as "prisoners general to his Majesty's subjects," an intimation that, in the gentle art of inveighing, the founder of Methodism was a master, and that, had he chosen, and had not nature more richly endowed him, he might have been the Billy Sunday of his day.

JUST WHO ARE THE PUBLIC?

Somehow They Seem Never to Be Present When the Term Is Employed—Possible Explanation.

We hear much about the public. It is seldom praised; often it is berated. The public will stand for anything, we are told. The public likes to be duped, said P. T. Barnum years ago in explanation of his success as a showman. The public be damned, said a corporation head a generation ago. Society never advances, declared the philosopher Emerson. The public is a huge beast, some one else has said.

Almost anybody who talks about the public or matters pertaining to the public will reiterate such opinions today, observes the Kansas City Star. And no offense is taken; no indignation meetings are held and no resolutions drawn up in condemnation of such insulting language. Apparently nobody feels insulted.

Who, then, is the public? Nobody can tell us; always the thing eludes our search.

But is not the public anybody but you and me, or anybody except the persons talking about it? Therefore, the public can never be found, though one should inquire all his days. Always the thing is farther on, like the rainbow's end.

So there is little use relying on the public to do anything, to take the initiative, to start something, to rise up in rebellion against wrong oppression, outrage, injustice.

There has been much talk about rebellions, revolutions, when public indignation has reached the boiling point; but there never was and likely never will be a public uprising of any kind without a leader, without some individual working alone or in co-operation with a very few other individuals to organize "public sentiment," to give it form and substance, "a local habitation and a name."

Therefore all the abuse that has ever been heaped upon the public might be gathered into one mass and once more hurled at the thing's head and nothing would ever be heard of it and nobody hurt.

What recourse can be had, then, when the people suffer, when a community, a city, is oppressed by bad government, selfish and soulless corporations or what not? None at all by damning the public.

It all comes back to you and me who started the discussion. You are a vital part of the public; I am. You owe it to yourself and the cause of justice, as do I, to wait not a moment in doing something, in going straight to a neighbor and with him to somebody else, and on and on until an army is raised and the outrage put down. Let us realize our own individual responsibility to an abstract public. The public will do its duty when you and I act.

He Knew Well Enough.

Old Man—Is that your mamma yonder with the beautiful set of furs?

Willie—Yes, sir.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR HAVELOCK GIRL

Miss Hazel McGee gave a miscellaneous "shower" in honour of Miss Audrey Wood, (a bride-to-be) at the home of Mrs. Jos. Hoffman on Friday night of last week. Mrs. J. Burnett read the names and greetings on the cards accompanying the gifts, and presented the various articles which were very pretty and useful. Miss Wood responded, thanking all for their gifts. Games and music were indulged in afterwards, and Mrs. Hoffman served a very dainty lunch, all present spending a most enjoyable evening.— Havelock Standard.

Compare the tone and value

The only way to get a true idea of the exceptional values of our "Phonolas" is to compare them with other cabinets selling at about the same prices.

We venture to state that you cannot get another phonograph at $25 equal to the cabinet at that price. Certainly Model B at $61 is unexcelled value. It is 17¼ inches wide, 18¾ inches deep, and 12⅞ inches high—a good-sized instrument, with a double-spring, easy-winding, quiet motor and a surprisingly large volume of tone.

It would be hard to compare our magnificent "Organola" model with any other, because this is the only phonograph in the world with tone control pipes which include every note in the scale and give wonderful clearness and volume to the music.

We are able to give these exceptional values because we make our "Phonolas" complete in our two large plants in Canada at Kitchener and Elmira.

"Phonolas" play all makes of disc records. Ten models, ranging from $25 to $340.

Jack Dunn is Indicted by Jury

BALTIMORE, Md., May 2.—Jack Dunn, head of the Baltimore Baseball club, was presented by the grand jury on a charge of violating the Sunday Work law. It is alleged Dunn sold score cards as the price of admission at the exhibition game against Brooklyn last Sunday here, and made it obligatory upon the hundreds who viewed the game to give up from 35 cents to 75 cents in order to get inside the park. The charge is that Dunn, through his agents, forced the spectators to pay admission fees under the guise of paying for score cards, which charge, it was said, was based on the seats occupied.

The presentment is based solely upon the Sunday Work law. The court fixed bail at $500 and Dunn will arrange to give bond for his appearance in court when the case is called for trial.

After All His Trouble.

Two men were hurrying along Park row when the wind seemed to be blowing from all directions to the peril of umbrellas and anything not firmly anchored. One of them noticed the handle of a wrecked umbrella which had been thrown into the street along with many others and, stopping to pick it up, remarked to his companion that it was too good to pass. As he stooped a gust of wind captured his hat, and it went spinning along toward St. Paul's chapel, he after it. He ran into a man, slipped, fell in the mud and arose in time to see his hat run over by a truck. At a nearby restaurant, where he was drying his clothes, he said: "I lost a five dollar hat and spoiled a suit of clothes for the handle of a thirty cent umbrella. That would not be so bad, but I see the handle is broken."—New York Tribune.

A Painting.

What is a painting? It is the language of the artist in which he expresses his thought, conception of mind or emotion of heart. Where a writer expresses himself in words, the artist expresses himself in colors, light and shadows. An author's description of a place, person or object is but a word picture, while the artist's canvas stares us in the face, so to speak, flashing the subject continually before our eyes until we can grasp its every meaning without so much as turning a page. Thanks to our own Gilbert Stuart and his wonderful conception of the portrait of George Washington, it would take a paragraph or more to describe George Washington's mouth or nose, where Gilbert Stuart tells it to us in a few strokes of his masterful brush. —Elliot A. Hasseman in National Magazine.

Ideal Politics.

What I wish first to insist upon is the essential worth, nobility, primary indeed, of the liberal pursuit of politics. It is simply the highest, the most dignified, the most important of all earthly objects of human study. Next to the relations of man with his maker there is nothing so deserving his best attention as his relation to his fellow man. The welfare of the community is always more important than the welfare of any individual or number of individuals, and the welfare of the community is the highest object of the study of politics.—Whitelaw Reid.

Failures of Soldiers' Armor.

Many years ago several inventors developed bullet proof cloths or breastplates, and in spite of much advertising their suggestions were never adopted, much to the surprise of civilians. The reason is very simple. If the bullet is stopped its energy is transmitted to the shield, which in turn delivers a blow to the soldier's body. The severity of the blow depends upon the velocity of the bullet, and if the shield is very light the chest wall receives more or less injury. In order to be effective the shield must weigh at least ten pounds.

It is a repetition of the old circus trick of striking with a sledgehammer an anvil on a man's chest. If in place of the anvil we substitute a thin metal plate the blow would be fatal, and the sledgehammer has about the same energy as a bullet at high velocity. If the shield weighs but six or eight pounds the blow of the bullet almost knocks a man down. Soldiers are not to wear armor, but to get behind it, as in armored ships, forts and motorcars. —London Tatler.

California Roads.

"I am convinced that if the several thousand Americans who go on annual motor trips through Europe, either taking their cars with them or hiring them on the other side, could only be made to realize that on the edge of the western ocean they can find roads as smooth and well built as the English highways or the routes nationales of France, and mountains as high and sublimely beautiful as the Alps or the Pyrenees, and scenery more varied and lovely than is to be found between Christiania and Capri, and vegetation as luxuriant and hotels more luxurious than on the Cote d'Azur, and a milder, sunnier, more equable climate than anywhere else on the globe, they would come pouring out in such numbers that there wouldn't be garages enough to hold their cars."

"Kicked Into Literature."

Son of an adventurous naval captain, Rolf Boldrewood, or, to give him his real name, Thomas Alexander Browne, the author, had one of the most romantic careers in the annals of literature. Pioneer squatter in early life in Victoria, he made such good use of his opportunities that while still in the twenties his check was good for a quarter of a million. Then, if unfortunately for himself, luckily for novel readers, a long drought killed off his flocks and herds and compelled him to enter the government service as a stipendiary magistrate. Shortly after this he happened to be kicked by a horse. This led to his being laid up, and to while away the tedious hours he wrote an Australian sketch called "The Kangaroo Rush." He sent it to the Cornhill, which accepted it, and so, as he used to say merrily, "he was kicked into literature."—London Opinion.

Spinning a Web.

A patient Englishman, who last summer watched a garden spider spin its nest from start to finish, has told what he saw in Knowledge. At half past 9 o'clock in the evening the spider, a half grown female, began work by dropping from one branch of a pine tree to another below and there making fast a line, which eventually formed two of the perpendicular radiating lines of the web. From that time it continued to work without interruption until twenty-five minutes after 1 the next morning. The network and the radial lines were done by half past 12, and the spiral part of the web was consequently made in less than an hour. He says the finished web was one of the most perfect he has ever seen.

Opportunity for Retail Merchants

THE next few years will mark a tremendous change in the business of retailing.

Motor Transportation, now reduced to a low-cost basis must revolutionize local trading just as Railroad Transportation revolutionized national trading.

As men everywhere grasp this idea, as they seize the opportunity for business growth that now presents itself, the retail business will be operated on a higher, more efficient plane. The public will be better served. Larger and more varied stocks will be offered for sale. Better and bigger stores will appear.

The Ford One-Ton Truck makes available this opportunity. It is Motor Transportation at low cost—low first cost, low maintenance cost, low operating cost.

A small outlay will motorize your deliveries and open to you the opportunity for business expansion.

Complete Trucks—
Two Standard Bodies

Ordinary hauling and delivery work can be best adapted to two standard types—the Stake Body and Express Body.

These two body types are kept in stock ready for immediate delivery. They insure the maximum efficiency from the Ford Truck. They give the buyer of a Ford Truck the recognized benefits of Ford production.

Both types have the Enclosed Cab with the two-way windshield which gives the driver proper protection from the weather.

See these complete trucks. Seize the opportunity to enlarge your field of business. Let us solve your delivery problem.

The HOT SPOT Chalmers is the One Car of the Day

Today this car is on a production basis at the factory that Chalmers executives little expected to occur even in July.

Why is this?

The answer is "Hot Spot." For this simple but really magnificent device does a trick in the use of gas that is almost beyond belief.

It "smashes up" raw gas, "pulverizes" it, makes it "fine as dust," so that you can get every last bit of power out of gas.

Then the great Ram's-horn rushes it gently but quickly through "easy air bends" to the cylinders, and what is the result?

Not only high power from a low-grade gas, but an even, soft flow of power that rests your nerves, saves your tires, and gives you a new and rare delight in driving.

Please don't miss this present day Chalmers. It's the one car of the day.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Children and Sore Throats.

Don't trifle with your child's sore throat. It may be harmless, and it may be the center of infection from which diphtheria will spread through an entire neighborhood. Antitoxin is an almost absolute cure for diphtheria when given in time. It is likewise a proved preventive, acting in this regard like a temporary vaccination. With such an agent in the hands of medical science all that is needed is care and co-operation on the the part of parents and teachers to wipe out the diphtheria scourge altogether.

HAVANA'S NEW BRIDGE.

Planned to Be Unique in Height, Construction and Approach.

The harbor of Havana, Cuba, long admitted to be one of the handsomest in the world, will shortly be spanned by a bridge unique in height, construction and approach.

For years it has been planned to erect a bridge from the Morro castle side of the Havana harbor to the city side, but this undertaking has always been postponed because of the large amount of heavy sea traffic which would of necessity have to pass beneath the bridge and because of the difference in levels between the two sides of the harbor. The former objection, engineers said, would necessitate a bridge over 250 feet in height and the latter would entail a long and very costly approach on the city side of the harbor.

Modern engineering methods, however, have provided solutions for both of these problems, and the bridge will soon be commenced, the Cuban congress having appropriated $2,200,000 for the construction of the giant span.

The bridge itself will be nearly 200 feet above the surface of the harbor, thus allowing the largest vessels afloat to pass beneath without danger to their superstructure. There will be but a single span to the bridge, supported by massive masonry pillars at either side. The central portion of the bridge will be "raised" so as to offer additional protection to vessels passing beneath it.—Popular Mechanics.

WORLD'S LONGEST DAM

IT HAS JUST BEEN COMPLETED IN ALBERTA.

Great Structure Was Erected In Connection With Colossal Irrigation Scheme and No Project to Rival It Has Ever Been Carried Out on the American Continent—Will Add to Richness of West.

THERE has just been completed in the Prairie Provinces of Alberta, Canada, a monster dam. It can claim the distinction of being the longest edifice of its kind in the world. Whereas the famous Assuan dam, in Egypt, has a total length along the crest of six thousand four hundred feet, the new Canadian structure is no less than seven thousand eight hundred and twenty feet in length.

But apart from its record in the matter of length it has many notable features. It has been erected in connection with a colossal irrigation scheme, the largest individual project of this character that has been carried out on the American continent.

While most irrigation projects have for their objects the obtaining of a larger yield of cereals or fruit crops, the Canadian enterprise is destined solely to increase the dairying and live stock output of the province.

The scene of this latest triumph on the part of the irrigation engineer is Bassano, on the Bow river, some eighty-five miles to the east of Calgary. Across this broad stream a mighty dam has been thrown and the river brought under subjugation for watering a huge tract of country. The waters held up by this dam alone irrigate, by means of two thousand eight hundred miles of canals and ditches, four hundred and forty thousand acres of land.

But included in the general scheme is the irrigating of a further tract of three hundred and seventy thousand acres by diverting the waters of the river at another point, making eight hundred and ten thousand acres in all. Shortly, too, these acres will be increased to over one million two hundred and fifty thousand acres, providing homesteads on rich irrigated land for thousands of settlers.

The undertaking owes its inception to the enterprise of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which owns some six million acres of the finest virgin land in the Prairie Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba, which it received as a grant for the construction of its transcontinental line. Some three million acres of this land is in Southern Alberta, a great open prairie plateau lying between the Bow river on the south and the Red Deer river on the north. Its surface is rolling, and its soil, consisting of heavy black loam and a clay subsoil, is excellent.

In order to encourage settlement on this land and, incidentally, provide freight for its line, the Canadian Pacific Railway determined to see what could be done in harnessing the waters so that a regular and plentiful supply could be guaranteed to the farmer. First they carried out an exhaustive survey of the whole region. This occupied several years, an irrigation project demanding surveys and examination far more complete than those for a railway line. The engineers first traversed the region in all directions, taking measurements and noting the rises and fall of the land. They spent several months upon the ground, virtually dwelling in what was then a wilderness so far as any life was concerned.

They now gave their attention to the rivers. First they made a thorough examination of the Deer river, and then the Bow river. They studied their banks, their beds, ascertained their volume, and the discharge at a given point in the dry season and during flood.

As a result of their surveys it was shown that the block, as the region was termed, naturally divided itself into three sections — the western, eastern, and central — of about one million acres each, and the work of developing them has been carried out in the order named.

In the western section three hundred and seventy thousand acres has been brought under irrigation by diverting the waters of the Bow river at a point just outside the city of Calgary. Here a canal, seventeen miles in length, sixty feet wide at the bottom, and one hundred and twenty feet wide on the water level, carries the precious fluid to a great lake three miles long, half a mile wide, and forty feet deep. It is virtually a natural depression, but has been strengthened by a large earthen dam.

From this reservoir water is carried to the hundreds of farms by one thousand and six hundred miles of secondary canals and ditches. The engineers' real difficulties, however, began when they tackled the eastern section, for it is here where the great dam is situated. It was not a question of merely diverting the waters of the river into another channel, but of first curbing the stream and then raising the level of the river over forty feet, and controlling the flow. This was accomplished by the erection of a great composite dam across what is known as Horseshoe Bend, on the Bow river.

There is no engineering work that demands such careful preliminary investigations as dam-building, particularly when it comes to the storage of a large body of water. For dams do burst with terrible consequences.

The most noteworthy instance was the destruction of the town of Johnstown, in Pennsylvania. It was literally swept off the map by the bursting of an earthen dam across the little Conemaugh river under the pressure of tremendous floods. Over two thousand people perished, and property to the value of over two millions sterling was destroyed. Since

That phrase came into dealers' minds through the coming of other bicycle tires. As "Dunlop" were the basic tires, naturally other tires had to be more or less patterned after the original. PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Fruit as Medicine.

The use of fruit diminishes the acidity of the body and thus antagonizes rheumatism and gout. The acids in fruits undergo changes which diminish the acidity of the blood and aid in the elimination of uric acid. The most digestible fruits are ripe grapes, peaches, strawberries, apricots, oranges, whortleberries, very ripe pears, steamed figs, dates, baked apples and stewed fruits.

A dietary consisting wholly of fruits is a valuable means of overcoming biliousness. Such a dietary may be maintained for one or two days or a week. A modified fruit dietary is highly beneficial. Two meals may be eaten, the breakfast of fruit only and the ordinary dinner, or, if three meals are taken, the first and last meals should consist of fruit only. The most laxative fruits are apples, figs, prunes, berries and peaches.

A Wonderful Bullet.

It is claimed by M. Rogosea, a Spaniard, that he has invented a marvelous bullet, destined to revolutionize the art of warfare, for, fired from an old smoothbore gun of 1830 pattern, with a charge of but nine grams of powder, it can destroy walls or houses at a distance of 1,200 yards, or, discharged from a modern rifle, at a distance of over 3,000 yards. The bullet is seven inches long, pointed like an arrow and weighs about seven ounces. It is a diminutive shell rather than a bullet. One of its many qualities is that, though fired with black powder, not the faintest trace of smoke issues from the gun at its discharge. The bullet proceeds even from a smoothbore gun in a straight line, not in a series of loops, as it ought to do, according to the laws of ballistics.

The Eastern Veil.

A movement is on foot in Cairo for the emancipation of the Moslem woman and the discarding of the traditional veil. The leaders of this movement are young men who have studied in the colleges and universities of England and other European countries and who consider that the seclusion of the Egyptian and Moslem woman behind the veil has been the chief factor in keeping her in her present backward state.

Varicose Veins Tuberculous.

That varicose veins are a species of tuberculosis is the new theory advanced by Professor Landouzy, dean of the faculty of medicine, Paris. Before the Academy of Medicine in that city a few weeks ago he announced that he had found the Koch bacillus in the lesions of varicose veins and that guinea pigs inoculated with it developed tuberculosis.

Rebuilding German Population.

All questions relating to rebuilding of the shattered Germanic populations engage unceasing attention. There has just been another German-Austro-Hungarian medical congress on the subject in Berlin. Eminent physicians and surgeons pointed out that, while there was a vast deal that their profession and the public health authorities could do to help in the repopulation of the two states, liberal social legislation by their governments was an equally important factor. Education must be cheapened, the cost of living, so far as rearing children is concerned, must be reduced by every possible means; taxation must be readjusted so that the lower and middle classes will henceforth bear the minimum burden; housing reform was urgently called for, and ways and means had to be found for permitting more people to share the benefits of food-producing land.

Weeds and Rubber.

Of German plants known to contain rubber, several have attracted attention, says the India Rubber World. Indeed, fully twenty years ago the idea of growing rubber in Europe was seriously discussed. Several indigenous plants were found which yielded rubber, or a rubber-like gum. The "Sicilian artichoke" is a composite similar to the artichoke in appearance, and yields considerable rubber. It is not found wild in Germany proper, but is cultivated there. May there not be rubber-yielding plants in this country? the bystander is inclined to ask.

Two Luxemburgs.

There is a province in Luxemburg, the largest of the eight provinces of Belgium, and a grand duchy of Luxemburg, lying southeast of Belgium, which is an independent state. The two formerly constituted a province of Holland, but the separation of Belgium from Holland in 1830 was followed by various adjustments and changes, ending with the division of Luxemburg, one part belonging to Belgium and the other independent. Prior to the war both were guaranteed as neutral territory.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

The Invalid's Room.

The invalid's room should be, without exception, the brightest and most cheerful room in the house. The custom of putting the invalid in a dark or small room in order to isolate him is a foolish one. It is essential that the patient, who must spend twenty-four hours a day in a room, should have as much light and air as possible. It is conceivable that a room, desirable because of its light and airiness, may be noisy, but noise is less of an evil than darkness or lack of fresh air. Ventilation is exceedingly important. Even in winter there is no reason why the windows should not be kept open if the patient is well covered and out of drafts. It is a mistaken idea, unfortunately deeply rooted, that colds and sore throats are the result of too much air.

LURE OF THE ANTARCTIC.

Shackleton's Daring Scheme to Conquer the Icy Continent.

What is left of polar exploration now that both the poles have been discovered? What is there to tempt intrepid men to the ends of the earth now that the American and the Norwegian have planted flags on the apexes?

Apparently the last chapter has not even yet been written. Sir Ernest Shackleton, one of the gallant knights of the antarctic, has planned an expedition far more perilous than any of those undertaken by the searchers for the pole.

Amundsen, Scott and Shackleton himself elaborately planned their dashes to the antipodal summit. Amundsen reached his goal, Scott perished, and Shackleton was forced to turn back. Each of them prepared for his return by establishing a line of supply depots. Even the supply depots were insufficient to save the lives of Scott and his party. No man ever came near succeeding who had not thus provided for his retreat to his base of supplies.

Now Shackleton purposes not only to attain the pole, but to pass beyond it and to traverse the vast antarctic continent from shore to shore. His task will be exactly twice as difficult as that of the man who seeks and attains the pole. His course will be steadily forward; he will have no line of retreat.—Ohio State Journal.

A NEW WORLD MAP.

All Civilized Nations Have Combined to Make It a Success.

In 1909 a movement was begun looking to the preparation of a map of the world on a millionth scale, equal to fifteen miles to the inch. Such maps have already been made for some countries, particularly England and Scotland, but a map of the world on such a scale is an immense undertaking, and as such the different nations of the world were asked to cooperate in its production.

The first conference was held in London four years ago, and another international conference, participated in by government delegates of thirty-two countries, has been in session in Paris. Specimen sections of the map were presented at the conference, and further details of organized or international team work were gone over.

As the first map on such a scale and one requiring years for its completion and co-ordination of work in practically all the civilized countries of the world, the map will not only be the greatest ever constructed, but it will record the present status of geographical science as well.—New York World.

Lowest Cost Per Mile

"I HAVE ridden my C. C. M. bicycle pretty regularly for sixteen or seventeen years," writes an enthusiast, "and it is still a good machine."

What was the cost per mile of that splendid service? Certainly far and away less than that of a cheap, inferior bicycle. The few dollars you might save on an ordinary wheel are likely to be lost over and over again in the shorter life and poorer service of such a machine. Make certain of lowest cost per mile with

C·C·M· Bicycles

Could you see the inside of the frame joints, you would find there a "fish-mouth" reinforcement of unusual length and special design that greatly increases the strength. This typical example of sincerity is found at the points of heaviest strain—always with a reserve of strength.

What has extra finish to do with service? Note the depth of brilliancy in the enamel and nickelling. C. C. M. handle bars and all bright parts are generously nickelled over a coat of copper—and copper can't rust. Years after ordinary bicycles are not fit for good company, the sparkle of your C.C.M. makes you proud of it.

All C.C.M. bicycles have the Hercules coaster brake—the only brake without a side arm. It is light, simple, powerful and effective. After coasting the clutch engages without slipping and with utmost smoothness. We back this brake with our guarantee.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

PLAYING A PART

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

"Mr. Kenworthy," said Mrs. Middleton when that gentleman appeared for her dinner party, "before we dine I wish to speak a word to you about the young lady I have assigned to you for a dinner companion. She has a mild form of insanity, or rather monomania. She fancies that every man she meets is in love with her, and no matter what he says she considers it a proposal of marriage. But don't be alarmed; the next day she forgets all about it."

Kenworthy assured his hostess that he would excuse the young lady for anything that might occur between them and she left him to attend to other matters connected with her dinner party without giving him any other information about the young lady he was to take out to dinner, not even mentioning her name.

At the first minute the sudden indisposition and regrets of an invited guest rendered a change in the arrangement of the couples necessary. When dinner was announced Kenworthy had not been presented to the lady that had been assigned him for a dinner companion. The procession had started for the dining room when a sister of the hostess hurried toward him and, leading him to a young lady sitting by herself, introduced him. He bowed crooked his arm, and the two formed the last couple to take their seats at the table.

Among the changes made was Mr. Kenworthy's dinner companion, and in the hurry the card bearing the name of Miss Bliss, beside whom he was to have sat, had not been changed for that of Miss Steele, the lady who had been assigned him in her stead. Miss Steele glanced down at the card on taking her seat, and a strange look came over her face. Then the corners of her red lips quirked upward, and a mischievous look came into her eyes. Kenworthy, too, gave a quick glance at the name and opened conversation.

For three hours the guests regaled themselves with Mrs. Middleton's table delicacies, and Miss Steele had ample time to win Mr. Kenworthy's good opinion, to say nothing of his admiration. During the early part of the dinner he was quite troubled lest she should construe something he said into a proposal of marriage, but about the time the game was served he began to think that he wouldn't mind it much if she did. Then he became curious as to what she would consider a proposal, and lastly he began to put forth certain tests. Pretending a mistake, he took up the glass of wine before her and sipped it, remarking at the same time that it must be a different brand from what he was drinking, for it tasted far sweeter. The supposed Miss Steele dropped her eyes, but said nothing. This started a succession of delicately turned compliments on the part of Mr. Kenworthy, to all of which the lady listened with apparent emotion.

It is the nature of the small boy to see how near he can skate to an air hole in the ice without breaking in. Urged on by a similar impulse, Mr. Kenworthy proceeded to see how far he could talk "soft" to the monomaniac without making love to her. The basis of his investigations was curiosity. If he had become infatuated with her in so short a time he was not aware of it. The dinner came to an end, and on retiring from the table Miss Steele led the way to a window seat quite apart from the other guests.

"Mr. Kenworthy," she said, opening and shutting a fan she held in her hand as though struggling with some deep emotion, "I confess that the period of our acquaintance has been very short. Nevertheless I believe in quick love. I have always felt that I could recognize my mate instantaneously and my mate would recognize me as quickly. The flattering words you have spoken to me have convinced me that I am not mistaken in believing that you have honored me with your love, and I am sure you would not have given me to understand that you love me without proposing marriage."

Mr. Kenworthy had skated too near the edge of the air hole and had tumbled in.

"Mr. Kenworthy," she said, "I wish to present you to Miss Bliss, who was to have been your dinner companion had not regrets from one of my invited guests caused a change at the last moment."

Kenworthy alone noticed the twinkle in the eye of Miss Steele as she gave place to Miss Bliss and walked away with the hostess. The next morning Miss Steele received a note from Mr. Kenworthy regretting the interruption of the night before and begging permission to call upon her for the purpose of making arrangements for their wedding. Miss Steele laughed heartily and replied that she had no remembrance of anything that had occurred to warrant Mr. Kenworthy's assumption, but she would be happy to see him as a valued friend.

Mr. Kenworthy spent a year trying to induce Miss Steele to marry him, but failed. It was reported that at the time of Mrs. Middleton's dinner party she was as good as engaged to the man she married, but friends who heard the story of her playing monomaniac said she was not quite so mean as that.

WHAT IS THE BEST TONIC?

The Complete formula of Vinol is printed on each label showing that it is the greatest tonic in the world. Why experiment with unknown preparations? If you need more strength take

Vinol

The Well-known Cod Liver and Iron Tonic, Without Oil

THERE IS NOTHING BETTER

Weakness is the one great drawback to health after sickness or when one is run down. Vinol creates strength because it is a non-secret combination of the most famous body-building and strength-creating elements known—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese and Glycero-phosphates. You who are run down, nervous, lack energy and strength, we know that Vinol is what you need.

Two Master Writers.

It was an odd coincidence, but a striking one, that the greatest genius of England and the most masterful mind in Spain passed from earth on the same day. Shakespeare and Cervantes both died April 23, 1616, the former being only fifty-two years old, and the latter sixty-nine.

The Ladder.

"Yes, he's one of our leading citizens. He certainly has climbed high in a few years. Why, he holds our best federal job."

"Indeed! How did he get it?"

Fine Distinction.

"There are some things about life that I don't understand."

"What now?"

"A man is looked up to if he moves in a circle and frowned down on if he belongs to a ring."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Extinguished.

"He was positively burning with love for her."

Night-Time Time-Pieces

THE movement for the electric clock in the Toronto City Hall was brought over from England 21 years ago. It cost thousands of dollars. And it showed time in the dark.

About the same time very wealthy men were carrying in their pockets another kind of a time-in-the-dark time-piece—a watch that sounded the time for them on a tiny gong when they "pressed the button." This striking watch was known as a "repeater" and cost from $150.00 up.

Now you can buy a guaranteed Ingersoll Radiolite, the modern time-in-the-dark time-piece, for as low as $3.00. Instead of the old exasperating striking mechanism to sound the time, the Ingersoll Radiolite glows the time. Genuine radium in the substance on the figures and hands does it.

It's the watch for up-to-the-minute-men, the leaders, the kind of men who get things before the crowd knows they are a necessity. The retailer has a complete line, including the $3 model pictured above. Now is the time to select. Look for INGERSOLL on the dial.

LAWYER ON TRIAL ON FRAUD CHARGE BY FOSTER MOTHER

NEW YORK, May 2.— Richard H. Lane, a lawyer, was placed on trial here before Justice Vernon M. Davis, in the Supreme Court, charged with having obtained from Mrs. Victoria A. McKenzie, seventy-five years old, of No. 600 West 141st street, $8,500 by fraudulent representations. Lane is a foster son of the complainant, who was a daughter of the late Francis W. Lasak, who was a partner of the elder John Jacob Astor in the fur trade.

Lane, it is charged, represented to Mrs. McKenzie that a patented brake was in use by surface cars in the city and she could obtain an interest in the device for $72,000. Mrs. McKenzie, it is charged, paid $8,500 as a first instalment. Later, it is alleged, she learned that no such brakes were in use here and she complained to the District Attorney, when Lane's indictment followed.

HAD SEVERE COLD

AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Daily Thought

If you mean to act nobly and seek to know the best things which God hath put within the reach of men, you must fix your mind on that end, and not on what will happen to you because of it.—George Eliot.

A Clergyman's Wife Wants Women to Know Advantages of Internal Bathing

If women could only see the thousands of letters Dr. Tyrrell has received from grateful women in all parts of the world thanking him for his wonderful invention for Internal Bathing, they would soon discard the medicine bottle and look to the cause of their trouble. 95 per cent. of all human ills are due to accumulated waste in the Colon or Large Intestine. Warm water, properly used with the 'J. B. L. Cascade' will relieve the cause of your troubles and perfect health will follow.

A Winnipeg clergyman writes: "My wife is naturally sensitive about having her name appear in public print, yet is anxious that others should known what the 'J.B.L. Cascade' has done for her. It has really given her a new lease of life. For years she had been doctoring for Constipation which became worse each year. Since using the 'J.B.L. Cascade,' first about four years ago, she has not been sick a day, and has become robust and strong again Should any person wish this letter confirmed you are at liberty, to give my name in private."

The "J.B.L. Cascade" is an invention perfected by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York and has done much during the past four years to restore health and lessen disease than all other means combined.

The "J. B. L. Cascade" is shown and explained at the Wayne Drug Store. Ask for Booklet explaining all about Internal Bathing and what it has done for others. It is free.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or there times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Young Conquerors.

Napoleon said that a man ages quickly on battlefields. Speaking of one of his generals, he said at Austerlitz that Ordener was worn out, adding: "One has a short time for war. I am good for another six years, and then I shall have to stop."

"Strangely enough," says Lord Rosebery in "The Last Phase," "his judgment was exactly verified. Six years and a month from Austerlitz (which was fought on Dec. 2, 1805) would have brought him to 1812, to the Russian campaign, which, if he had observed his own rule, he would have avoided."

When his "star" was eclipsed for ever at Waterloo he was but forty-six years of age, but he had been a broken man in body, and to an increasing extent in mental power, long before Wellington fought his last battle at forty-six, Ney at forty-five, Nelson at forty-seven. Alexander the Great was only thirty-three when death ended his career of conquest. Hannibal was in his forty-sixth year when he was finally defeated at Zama by Scipio.

A Pair of Eminent Grave Diggers.

The profession have a saying that parts make actors. When the $20,000 benefit to Lester Wallack was given in New York, with one of the historic "Hamlet" casts of the century, the public, of course, expected to see a performance that could never be forgotten because of its all round greatness. There was disappointment for the expectant innocents. All star casts want proportion, and this particular performance of the sublime tragedy was "queer."

For example, Joseph Jefferson and William J. Florence played the gravediggers, and in their dressing room after Horatio's "there crack'd a noble heart," Mr. Jefferson said to his companion:

"Billy, whose lines were you speaking, anyway?"

"Bacon's, I guess," Florence replied.

"Perhaps," mused gentle Joe. "I knew they weren't Shakespeare's."—Detroit Free Press.

The Firlinfoens.

At Brianza, in Lombardy, there flourishes a very curious sort of band all the members of which play the same kind of instrument, known as the "firlinfoens." This corresponds to what we know as "panpipes" and is constructed of reeds fastened side by side, the bass pipes being often several feet long, while the others gradually decrease in size.

The "firlinfoens," as the players are called, after their instruments, are as a rule ignorant of music and they learn their tunes by ear, often from a phonograph. It is said that the panpipe players experience all the sensations of intoxication after a march due to the energetic blowing and the constant wagging of the head to and fro. The music, although conveying to the stranger at first a most curious effect, is said to be not unpleasant.—

AERIAL TIME SIGNALS.

How They May Be Picked Up by Owners of Wireless Outfits.

The wisdom of furnishing vessels at sea with the correct time by wireless has been demonstrated time and again since the government began sending the signals over a year ago. Since that time, too, many jewelers, railway officials and others on land who need the correct time have been taking the messages. The sending instruments are extremely powerful, and any owner of a wireless outfit within their range may get the time absolutely correct twice a day by properly tuning his receiving apparatus.

The stations that send out the reports and the wave lengths used by each are as follows: Arlington, 2,500 meters; Key West, 1,000 meters; New Orleans, 1,000 meters; North Head 2,000 meters; Eureka, 1,400 meters; San Diego, 2,000 meters; Mare Island, 2,500 meters.

The time signals have been distinctly noted over 2,000 miles from the sending station, and as the waves travel 180,000 miles a second the difference between the sending and receiving time is practically nil.

All the stations send the time signals at noon and 10 p. m., the first three according to seventy-fifth meridian time and the last four according to one hundred and twentieth meridian time. The signals begin five minutes before noon and 10 p. m. Every second is sounded except the twenty-ninth in each minute, the last five seconds of the first four minutes and the last ten seconds of the fifth minute; then at noon and 10 p. m. the signal is a longer contact after another ten second break.—Chicago Record-Herald.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, magic!

A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Saved by Their Horses.

"It's wonderful how a horse knows danger in the firing line. During a recent push in Palestine my horse, for instance, understood exactly the difference between a shell coming over and one likely to land anywhere near our lines. When the buzzing of a Taube's engines has been heard in the distance I've known them to stampede and race for miles before they halted. But when the machine disappeared they turned back. I've patrolled close to Turkish positions on dark nights, and although there has been no sign of a hidden enemy my horse has suddenly reared, and the next second a shot from a nearby bush or cactus grove has rung out. Many a Light Horseman owes his life to this strange instinct amongst the hoofed Australians."

First Across Canada.

The first white man to cross this continent by a route north of Mexico, was Sir Alexander Mackenzie, a Scotsman who rose high in the service of the old Northwest company which was amalgamated with the Hudson's Bay company in 1821. Mackenzie was in the far West when he planned his trip across country to the Pacific coast. In the autumn of 1792 he led his party far up the Peace river where they built a post and wintered. On May 9, 1793, the party set out, passing up the Peace river, through the Rocky mountains, across to the Fraser river which was followed down stream for some distance, and then across country through an unexplored region, until the party came out on the Pacific coast. Mixing a quantity of vermilion with melted grease, Mackenzie wrote on the inland side of a high rock rising from the shore these words to mark his visit: "Alexander Mackenzie from Canada by land, the twenty-second of July, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three. Lat. 52 degrees, 20 minutes, 48 seconds north." Mackenzie then retraced his course and returned to the East.

Keep the Bowels Regular and You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly they will sooner or later become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes:—"I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

Sleep Without Drugs.

"Doc, how can I get to sleep without using dope?" asked a man troubled with insomnia of a noted physician.

"On going to bed assume a comfortable attitude in which every muscle is relaxed," said the doctor, "but not the attitude in which you are accustomed to go to sleep, though something resembling it. Every movement, even coughing and yawning, must be strictly repressed, especially the desire to turn over. Maintain the same attitude without change, constantly resisting the longing to move or turn over. As a rule, by the end of fifteen or twenty minutes of this you will find yourself growing very drowsy and then, just as the desire to roll over becomes absolutely uncontrollable turn with the least possible effort and assume the position in which you habitually go to sleep. Natural sleep should follow at once. This method seldom fails. Give it a thorough trial at least before resorting to a drug to bring sleep."—Buffalo Express.

Heated Bearings.

Sometimes when a bearing becomes heated and requires oil it will be found that the oil will not flow down in the oil hole. Either the hole is clogged with dirt or the heat may cause the air to rise and prevent the oil from entering. Where a wire cannot be used effectively the following remedy, although it is not infallible, is almost sure to make the oil reach the bearing.

Fill the hole with oil and quickly place the thumb over it to prevent the air from escaping, and if the oil cup does not leak the heated air inside will rise above the oil, and in two or three minutes it will be forced into the bearing, even if it has to pass considerable dirt.

When a bearing cannot be reached in this way and when light oils, such as kerosene, are ineffective, try placing a little mercury in the oil hole and allow it to remain a few minutes, then use oil.—Weekly Advocate.

GLACIERS OF THE ALPS.

Most of Them Appear to Be Melting and Retreating.

Some new measurements by the Swiss Alpine club confirm the continued recession of the Swiss glaciers. In spite of the bad weather of 1912 and in spite of the fact that some of the glaciers were protected by heavy snowfalls or have had hardly any sunshine, their liquefaction continues to proceed at an increasing rate.

The largest of the glaciers, L'Aletsch, has retreated ten feet, following on nearly sixty feet in 1911, and rather more in 1910. The Rhine glacier has gone back thirty-four feet in addition to the seventy feet lost in the previous two years. An exception to the general rule appears at first to be furnished by the two glaciers of Grindelwald, which have come on since last year, but the advance does not compensate for the loss of the previous year, and since 1893 the two glaciers have lost nearly a quarter of a mile. Their temporary advance is clearly attributable to the inclement weather of last year.

Nearly all the smaller glaciers, out of the fifty-two surveyed by the Alpine club, show some retreat, and the largest loss appears to be that of the Palu glacier, near Bernina, which is losing regularly seventy feet a year. Periods of recession of the Swiss glaciers have been noted before, and they have been followed by periods of advance, so that it has been suggested that the present instances are dependent merely on cycles of less rainy or snowy winters and that there is no permanent glacier loss.—London Post.

How the Czar Travels.

The czar of Russia has one of the most luxurious railway trains in the world. It is a veritable palace on wheels, replete with every comfort and luxury. But owing to the absence of railways it cannot be used in certain parts of the empire, and the czar has lately ordered some motorcars of exceptional dimensions for use in these districts. One car is for his personal use and the second for his suit, while the third is completely equipped as a kitchen, with an alcohol stove, hot water reservoir, ice storage accommodation, a silver service for a dozen people, a folding table and twelve chairs. The interior of the czar's personal car can be converted into a comfortable bedroom.

The Illiterate Vote.

In the United States 5,516,163 persons over ten years old do not know how to read or write; 2,273,008 of these are men of voting age, and 617,733 are native born whites. In many states the illiterate vote holds the balance of power in any closely contested election. The total illiterate vote in the country is equal to the entire vote of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and Delaware.—New York Post.

SHOE STUFFED WITH JEWELRY

NEW YORK.—An old shoe with an unquestioned kick in it terminated for all time a rather ideal relationship beween two families, separated by two hundred miles for many years but closely bound in sympathy and gratitude. The shoe, which was an old one, contained $1,500 worth of jewelry and as a result of its arrival, toe first, into the life of William Bondy, of No. 947 East 172nd street, he is now making the best of life at the Bronx County Jail.

Among the five children who make life fairly riotous in the Bondy home is Nettie Zuckerman, fifteen, who was adopted by the Bondy family many years ago. She has an aunt, Mrs. Augusta Eagle, of Philadelphia, and through all the years of Nettie's residence with the Bondys she has regularly received bundles and packages containing clothes and other presents for herself and the Bondys.

On April 5 the Bondys are said to have appealed to Mrs. Eagle for one of those ever loving bundles and soon after sending it Mrs. Eagle realized that she had included an old shoe in which she had stored a brooch worth $1,000 and a ring worth of the peace treaty. $500. She had cached the jewelry following a robbery in her Philadelphia neighborhood. When she discovered its loss she was in the Bronx within three hours talking rapidly to Mr. Bondy.

Mr. Bondy gave Mrs. Eagle the brooch, but explained that he had not found the ring. Later he admitted having found it but has loaned it to a friend needing jewelry and still later admitted pawning the ring for $100. Mrs. Eagle waited patiently to have Mr. Bondy retrieve the ring and inasmuch as there appeared to be nothing stirring she had him arrested and arraigned in the Morrisania Court.

Mr. Bondy explained that $100 was a whole lot of money, which those present were well aware of. He was held on $500 bail and having no bondsman went for the time being to jail.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

Veterans Threaten to Wage War On the Farmers in a Campaign For Free Trade

Hamilton Veterans Blame the Farmers for Present High Cost of Living.

PETITION POWERS

HAMILTON, May 5.—If the United Farmers and farmers in general, as producers, will not co-operate with the consumers in an effort to limit exportation of foodstuffs and reduce the present high cost of living, the Veterans of France intend to wage a campaign for free trade. They argue that, if protection benefits the farmers by keeping prices sky high, free trade would be applicably as good for bringing down the price of commodities for the consumers. After four years of unbounded prosperity the Veterans claim that the farmers should now be content with smaller profits, thereby affording the working classes an opportunity to live. On Saturday afternoon at a women's get-together meeting to discuss the situation, it was moved by an honorary member of the Veterans of France that the government be petitioned to adopt a policy of free trade for twenty-five years. The President of the Veterans this morning stated that the organization was determined to combat the farmers and their "grab all policy" which has placed a decent living beyond the reach of the ordinary citizen. "What is good for the goose is good for the gander," he said, "and we propose to fight them in a campaign for free trade."

SOLDIERS' GRAVES ARE TO BE MARKED

Brigadier-General Williams is Making Arrangements to Have This Done.

The following letter, received by the Superboro branch of the G. W. V. A. from Brigadier-General Victor Williams, is self-explanatory:

May 3rd. 1919.

Peterboro Branch G.W.V.A.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir: I am, indeed, sorry, not to be able to be with you on the 19th inst., as I have to go outside this district on special duty, and will be absent for two or three weeks, dating from the 8th inst.

I am making arrangements to have the crosses for the graves of our old comrades, who are buried in this district, lettered. Will you please send to Major McManus full particulars, Regt. No., Rank, Name in full, Batt. or Unit, and date of death.

Please send for the present the above particulars in connection with those who have died in service in the C.E.F., since 1914: and also please include all cemeteries in Peterboro. Major McManus will forward you a sample cross as soon as one is available. I think it would be nice to have a little ceremony when you place the cross at the head of the grave. I personally intend having quite a ceremony here in Kingston.

Yours very sincerely,
V. WILLIAMS.
Brig.-General.

Secretary Whatley of the G.W.V.A., asks that the friends of soldiers who are buried in either of the local cemeteries, communicate with the G.W.V.A., giving particulars of the name, regimental number, rank, unit, and date of death. This should be done at once.

FRANK L. JENNE HAS SOLD HIS BUSINESS

Messrs. Peter and Harry Thornton of Orillia, have purchased the men's furnishings and clothing business, which has been established by Mr. Frank L. Jenne. This is the local Semi-Ready Store. Mr. Peter Thornton has recently returned from over seas, where he served for three years with the 9th Brigade machine gun company, and Mr. Harry Thornton, who was formerly associated with Mr. Jenne in Peterboro, has been with Mr. A. Weatherwax of Orillia. They are leaving Orillia with the best of wishes of many friends, expressed in a recent issue of the Packet, and in this city they should expand the success Mr. Jenne has achieved. Mr. Harry Thornton is already known to many citizens, especially among the younger men, and has the advantage of an acquaintance the newcomer has always to build up.

The transfer of the business takes place this week. Mr. Jenne is moving to Quebec to engage in business near his home. His departure will be regretted by a large circle of friends, whom he has met in business and social circles. He has proved himself a bright, energetic young business man and a fine character that assures his success in any city.

Fighting With the Government Troops

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, May 5.—A rebellion against the Coburg dynasty at Sofia is reported in a despatch to the Acht Uhr Abendblatt.

Sanguinary fighting has been going on between Government troops and Revolutionists, who demand a Soviet Government.

Ferdinand, the former King of Bulgaria, is a member of the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. Official notification of his abdication in favour of his son Boris was published in November, 1918. Later he was reported to have arrived at Coburg and to have asked permission of the Swiss authorities to reside in Switzerland.

PLEASANT EVENING AT PETERBORO CLUB

Farewell Smoker for Mr. A. F. Knight—The Speeches.

A pleasant evening was spent by a very large number of the members of the Peterborough Club on Saturday evening; the one regrettable feature was saying farewell to Mr. A. F. Knight, formerly manager of the Bank of Ottawa, who is moving to Toronto to a bigger field of activity in his profession.

The Social Committee, under the direction of Mr. C. E. Pennefather, had arranged a smoker for the occasion, and during the evening some excellent musical numbers were rendered by Prof. Devey and Messrs. E. Jones, tenor, and T. H. Ward, baritone.

[illegible] Mr. W. H. Bradburn, chairman of the evening, referred to Mr. Knight's leaving the city, which was a distinct loss, as Mr. Knight had been a good citizen and a good club member. He assured Mr. Knight of the good wishes that would follow him from his many friends in Peterborough.

Mr. Knight, in a neat speech, acknowledged the toast that was proposed to his future success. He had enjoyed his residence in Peterborough very much, and in the course of his banking career, which occasioned his living at different parts of the Dominion, his removal from Peterborough had caused him the greatest regret, as he had many friends in the city and in the Club whom he regretted to lose in daily contact in business and social circles.

His Honour Judge Huycke regretted the going away from Peterborough of Mr. Knight and his family and made very kindly reference to Mrs. Knight, whose departure is also regretted.

Mr. E. G. Patterson was also sorry to learn of Mr. Knight's departure. As a neighbour, a Club member, and citizen he was all that could be desired.

Canon Davidson, Rector of St. John's, made particular mention of the pleasant evening spent by the members, regretted the loss of Mr. Knight to the city, and wished him, Mrs. Knight and family a very bright future.

Notwithstanding the fact that it was a farewell smoker, the evening was most pleasantly spent, and closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

PETERBORO CANOE IN THE NORTHLAND

S. A. White's most popular novel and a "best-seller"—"The Stampeder"—telling the story of a young Englishman, a victim of circumstances, who is compelled to leave England, advertises Peterboro in a graphical and typical way. A party on the gold trail in the Yukon, among whom is the young Englishman, are travelling north in a large canoe. In chapter four the following appears:

"The skiff bore in towards the canoe just as a huge, white-capped wave threatened to bury it. The stout fellow met it bravely with a sweeping stroke. The spray hid the Petterboro's nose for an instant and it seemed as if the craft would never rise."

Peterboro, given as the name of a canoe is fairly common on the British Columbia coast and in the Yukon. Jack London in many of his stories uses Peterboro to denote the a canoe, especially if it is a first-class craft. A poor unwieldy craft is simply called a canoe.

Pleasures are the commas used to punctuate life's sad story.

MANY CALGARY WORKERS ARE IN FAVOUR OF THE ONE BIG UNION

(By MAIN JOHNSON)

CALGARY, May 5.—When sitting on the Industrial Commission, Messrs. Moore and Bruce, Labour members, are protected from hostility by their position, but on Sunday night they stepped down from their position of privilege, and as individual Trades Unionists entered the arena of conflict. They addressed a large meeting of Unionists at the Allen Theatre, and experienced stormy opposition from advocates of the one big union. It is officially estimated that only half of the audience were supporters of the new movement, but certainly they made ninety-per cent. of the noise, and, as far as applause is concerned, easily swept the boards.

Although many local unions are voting against the one big union, the miners appear to be thoroughly in favour of it, and they and their supporters in other unions assumed the aggressive in an exciting night.

One man, speaking from the audience, said that just as Kerensky had tried unsuccessfully to stem the tide in Russia, Moore and Bruce were trying to do so here.

CLASS WAR.

Another fiery speaker, said to be a stranger in Calgary, and who stated that he has been all through the States, aroused the crowd to a high pitch of excitement in favour of one big union and class war, concluding with the call, "On, Workers, On." Bruce himself, although declaring for Trades Unions instead of one big industrial union, stated his personal belief that social revolution was coming. The workers themselves would determine the time and instruments.

Tom Moore, outlining the aims of Trades Unions and of Trades and Labour Congress, admitted it had made mistakes, but affirmed that it still remained the workers' great bulwark. It was the system of craft unions with federal arrangements for joint co-operation. He compared the O. B. U. to the rainbow-coloured pills of a quack physician, but his sentiments of this point were coolly received by the crowd.

Canadian Second Division Will Sail on Thursday of This Week

20th Battalion Comes Back With a Splendid War Record—Only Lost Eight Prisoners.

THE FAREWELL

(By Thomas Geggie.)
(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, May 5.—I am informed by Argyle House that the Second Division will begin to sail on the 8th. The 20th Battalion had been under orders to [illegible] on the 3rd.

Seventy original officers and other ranks will return with the 19th Battalion, commanded by Col. E. H. Miller, D.S.O. During the war the 18th won nine D.S.O.'s and three bars, thirty-six Military Crosses and three Bars, eighteen Distinguished Conduct Medals and one Bar, one hundred and eighty-five Military Medals and thirteen Bars, four Meritorious Service Medals and seven Foreign Decoration. Among the latter are two Montenegrin silver medals, awarded Ptes. Newton and Wilson, who, under a murderous fire during the first day light trench raid in July, 1916, gallantly rescued Capt. Kilmour, D.S.O., who was badly wounded and in danger of falling into the enemy's hands.

A Splendid Record.

The 20th Battalion has had a particularly splendid war career and earned the distinction of being specially mentioned in Sir Douglas Haig's communication to the War Office on the occasion of the raid on the German trenches at Bultegreay in January, '17, when one German officer and 90 other ranks were brought in as prisoners.

The Victoria Crosses.

Among the Battalion list of honours the two Victoria Crosses won by Lieut. Algie and Sergt. Hobson, neither of whom survive. The other honours include ten D.S.O.'s and one Bar, forty Military Crosses and three Bars, eighteen D.C.M.'s, 127 Military Medals and five Bars, and three Foreign Decorations. Lost only eight prisoners. The 20th Battalion is commanded by Lieut.-Col. B. O. Hooper, D.S.O., M.C., who came overseas as a junior subaltern in the 19th Battalion. Since his arrival in France the 20th suffered 2,386 casualties of whom 714 were killed. It is noteworthy that only eight prisoners were lost to the enemy throughout the war. Six of these constituted a stretcher party who, carrying a wounded comrade inadvertently strayed into the German lines.

Cheered the Veterans.

Enthusiastic scenes were witnessed at Liverpool on Tuesday when the 15th Battalion, with 1,700 other Canadian troops sailed on the Baltic from the Princes pier. A crowd numbering over 2,000, many of them old country relatives of the home-going veterans, invaded the quayside, and their parting cheers quite drowned the music of "Old Lang Syne," played by the Band of the Notts and Derby Regiment.

On their arrival from Bramshot the men were met by Liverpool's Lord Mayor, who wished them God speed and a safe journey. Gen. Baden Powell also addressed the men, saying he had a personal interest in the pleasant nature of the Baltic passengers. He himself was sailing on her to visit the Boy Scout centres of Eastern Canada.

Gen. MacDonell Overcome.

Gen. MacDonell, the First Division's popular commander, was the centre of a spontaneous demonstration, hundreds trying to shake him by the hand, and the gallant leader appeared constantly overcome with the emotion of bidding farewell to the splendid men who have worn his "old red patch" with such distinction.

Italy May Return to the Conference

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 5.—The status of Italy as one of the five Great Powers has been brought into question by her withdrawal from the Peace Conference, and it is this status which is proving a powerful lever in inducing Italy to accept the invitation of the Council of Three to resume her place at the Peace [illegible]

The "Treaty of [illegible]" repeated reference to the five Great Powers as final authority in regulating many subjects, and this provision would have to be changed to "Four Great Powers" in case Italy remained out of the Conference.

PRISONER REFUSED TO HAVE LAWYER

Robert Herbert Codd Was Remanded for Another Week.

Robert Herbert Codd, of Toronto, who was remanded for a week last Monday, pleaded guilty to three charges in the police court this morning. He elected to be tried by Magistrate Dumble, and refused to have counsel. On a charge of forgery, he admitted that he altered a Royal Canadian Volunteer Certificate of the Royal Navy, so that it described the bearer as having been wounded on active service. Numerous other changes were made in the document, presumably to appeal to the public for sympathy and help.

His Story.

According to the prisoner's story his parents live in Toronto. He enlisted in the Royal Navy and was detailed to a mine sweeper, in Scapa Flow, Scotland, and was seriously hurt. He was taken to Portsmouth Hospital, where he lay for four and a half months. He was then sent back on Canadian service, and placed on the Niobe. After being discharged he wrote to Ottawa for his discharge papers, but in the meantime received his original papers. He added to one of the papers but stated that he never used the forgery nor was he ever called upon to produce his papers.

The Magistrate was of the opinion that both of the papers were spurious and when informed that he was wanted in Lindsay on two charges, one of fraud, and the other of the theft of a returned soldier's button, the Magistrate wished to have the whole case disposed of in Lindsay, but Crown Attorney Hatton was insistent that the case be concluded here.

Two other charges were also preferred against the prisoner, one of wearing a returned soldier's button when not entitled to it, and another charge of jumping board bills, both of which the prisoner pleaded guilty.

He told the court how he stole the returned button. A soldier's coat was hanging in a hotel in Lindsay with the button on the breast. Without a moment's hesitation he took it, and has been wearing it ever since.

The Magistrate refused to sentence the man, although he pleaded guilty to all the charges, saying that he did not wish to take advantage of the young man's ignorance. The Chief was instructed to communicate with the military authorities and get the name of the man to whom the stolen button belongs.

The case was again adjourned for a week.

BAKERS GET AN INCREASE

THE AGREEMENT

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 5. — Reduction of hours from 54 to 50 a week.

Increase of wages from $3 to $5 a week.

Six hundred bakers in Toronto affected.

All 21 bakery firms in Toronto covered.

Down go the hours of labor, and up goes the price of bread.

The consumer as usual will pay the increase in the wages of the men.

The price of bread went back today to the war time price of 11c a small loaf, the price that was paid before the bakers had their brief but breezy price-cutting battle.

Mr. Zeph. Hilton, one of the leading city bakers, stated that every one of the 21 bakery firms was now in agreement with the new wage scale and hours of labor.

Mostly Night Work.

"The men were deserving of an increase, and they get it without a fight," he said. "There was no disposition on the part of the bakers to fight them. The men have to work mostly at night, and that must be taken into account. There were perhaps one or two of the employers who were a little dilatory in signing the agreement, but there was no dispute with the men."

Oven and dough men are to get $28 a week, table men, qualified bakers, $25 a week, while helpers, $22 a week for day work, and $23 for night work. In addition to this boost of wages, the drivers are also to get an increase and some of the employers have already given it to their men. The drivers are organizing.

The Bakers Organization has been successful [illegible] and this is the first wage schedule. President John Drummond is well pleased with the result. He quotes Mark Bredin of the Canada Bread Company, as saying that the increase will mean $16,000 a year. However, estimates Mr. Drummond, the 30,000 loaves sold by this firm would at an extra cost of a cent a loaf, more than cover the increase in wages.

OUR WOOD PRICES FOR PRESENT WEEK

Wood is all Cut and Ready for Use—Mixed Good Value.

Last week we advertised special prices for wood. The response has been sufficiently gratifying to justify us continuing these prices in order to clean our yard out and get the room we will need when the sowing season starts. This wood was cut last fall and for that reason is much superior to wood cut and piled up a year ago. Our prices for this week are as follows.

Mixed Wood—Nine dollars a cord, cut.

Hardwood—Ten dollars a cord, cut.

The mixed wood is all good body wood and has a good percentage of hardwood. It is good value at the price offered.

Peterboro Planing Mills wood yard, opposite the Braund Building (office and yard formerly occupied by Wolstenholm.) Charlotte street. Telephone 86. Call and inspect the wood.

THE WEATHER

This spring is late, and the recent heavy rains will still further retard work on the land. April had 15 days rain, but the total amount was not excessive, being but 2.15 inches. May already has 1.50 to its credit, rain having fallen every day. The first thunder and lightning of any account occurred yesterday. Twelve years ago Sunday (May 4, 1907) six inches of snow fell. Thirty-four years ago to-morrow (May 6, 1885) six inches of snow also fell. This was the year of the North West Rebellion.—W. P.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"Service should be the first consideration, and it is with any successful business. For the convenience of busy men who are engaged every day we keep the Semi-ready store open every Saturday night.

"I recognize the fact that a man's store should remain open longer in the evenings than a store where ladies alone shop, for men often do not find it convenient to leave important work.

"I want you to see some of the new and exclusive Semi-ready models in British worsteds."

WAR VETERANS' BIG DRIVE OPENS IN TWO WEEKS

Two weeks from to-day the big drive on behalf of the Great War Veterans Association of Peterboro will commence. The objective is $15,000 and the money is to be used in completing the alterations to the new club-house on Murray street and in equipping and furnishing the new quarters. It is a cause which should have the enthusiastic support of the people of this city. Similar campaigns in other cities are being inaugurated and in Toronto the returned soldiers will have a big share of the $1,500,000 fund which is being raised by the Big Four Drive. All over the country the debt that is owed to the men who fought is being discharged in a similar manner and it is believed that the people of Peterboro will not want their city to get the reputation of being indifferent to the desires of the returned soldiers. A big committee of citizens and veterans have the arrangements for Peterboro's campaign in hand and the details include a house to house canvass.

A Golden Opportunity For Peterboro Citizens

To Hear An Enthralling Story of an Escape From German Prisons.

Peterborough citizens are being afforded the opportunity of hearing an excellent address by the only Canadian-born officer who escaped from Germany. The subject of the address to be given by Lieut. Beverley Robinson, of the Royal Air Force, is: "Escaped—After 21-2 Years in Nine German Prisons."

He describes one British officer as the "bravest fellow he ever met." This officer was regarded as the most dangerous prisoner they had. He had escaped eleven times from different camps, was recaptured every time, and was shot dead with his companion on his twelfth attempt.

Hear this wonderful story in St. Paul's Church, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. Tickets now on sale.

Memorial Stone to Late Robert Innes

There has been erected to the memory of the late Robert Innes, a very handsome granite monument in the Little Lake Cemetery. It is of Romanesque design, in Barrie grey granite and all hammered finish. It is a very suitable memorial, properly inscribed and will add to the adornment of the cemetery.

It was manufactured by order of the Executors by the Coughlin Monumental Works of this city.

Mutt and Jeff at the Grand Next Saturday

An opportunity for universal rejoicing which invariably attends the announcement of a new Mutt and Jeff play will in all probability be enhanced by the fact that these two renowned personages of cartoon fame are to appear at the Grand Saturday, matinee and evening. On this occasion the locale of their latest exploits and frolics is the Golden West, which should open a valve for endless opportunities for some of the best fun the public has been able to witness in many a day. Critics all over the country have proclaimed the production one of the best that Manager Gus Hill has arranged since he took the pair of popular, "Bud" Fisher comics and presented them upon the stage. For three acts they are permitted to run riot with the gamut, and the result of their antics and follery forms almost three hours of irresistible screams, mirth and unadulterated laughter. From start to finish the auditor is thrown into the very pits of side-splitting machination. In fact one is bound to laugh whether they wish to or not—quite an achievement in these days of fast changing fashions and serious conditions.

The company is composed of a select cast. This includes a champion beauty chorus of the prettiest young women gathered in a single offering. The music comprises a dozen song hits, while there is an attractive array of inimitable specialties, surprise features and novelties.

"Mutt and Jeff," in the Wooly West, is the title of this extraordinary conglomeration of melody, singing, dancing and hilarity. Matinee will be held on Saturday.

MEAT PACKERS OUT ON STRIKE

Over Three Thousand Walked Out This Morning—Strikers Are Orderly.

WOMEN OUT

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 5th — Three thousand one hundred and twenty packers went on strike between 10 and 10.15 this morning to compel recognition of the union.

At the Wm. Davies Companies' abattoir 900 employees started to walk out at 10 o'clock and continued to leave until they were practically all out. Then they assembled in front of the building an dwent to the Labor Temple. The men were in good spirits, and some stated that pickets had been appointed.

About 900 men from the Harris Abattoir Company, 700 from Swift's, Limited, and about 600 from Gunns, Limited, filled St. Clair Avenue, near Keele, at ten minutes past ten. The strikers included a number of women and men of all nationalities at Swifts. A score out of 30 who had just started to work this morning were among the strikers. The men walked out in a very orderly fashion.

The managers of the plants state they are confident the differences will be overcome before to-morrow night, although the situation at present is the same as it was on Saturday night.

Five minutes after ten o'clock today the first employee left the plant of the Matthews-Blackwell Co., at the foot of Bathurst street, and signalized the strike of the meat packers. The men declare that 300 men and women will be out on strike before noon.

TO-NIGHT

Don't forget "Romantic Mary" tonight in St. Alphonsus Lyceum at 8:15 under auspices of the Sacred Heart Literary Club. Come and enjoy a laugh.

THE VETERANS' DRIVE.

Although the war is virtually over, and in a few days, it is hoped, the Peace articles will have been signed; the obligations of the people of Peterborough in connection with the war have by no means ended. Our debt to the men from this city who left their homes and loved ones and offered the bulwark of their bodies to check the ambitions of the power-mad Kaiser and his people has yet to be written off. It will never be fully discharged, of course, for nothing that we can do can equal the sacrifice made by our citizen soldiers. No grant of money or anything else that we can give could be sufficient to reward them fully for what they have done.

A realization of that fact should be sufficient to ensure the success of the great drive on behalf of the Great War Veterans, which begins in Peterborough two weeks from to-day, and which has as its objective the raising of $15,000 to complete the building and equipment of the new G. W. V. A. clubhouse on Murray Street. The project is one that is dear to the hearts of the returned men. They are looking forward to the day when the building shall be ready for occupation. If the citizens of Peterborough will do their share the time is not far distant when the veterans will have their desire for a successful culmination of this month's campaign will give Peterborough a returned soldiers one of the finest clubhouses of its kind in the province. Such a result is one upon which our people can surely take pride. It will be a satisfaction in the days to come to take our visitors to see this splendid building and to be able to say: "Here is what we have done for the men who did not hesitate when the country was in danger." The building will be one that every citizen of Peterborough can be proud of; a home for our returned men that will be of the greatest benefit to them.

There are a few people, of course, who do not believe in the clubhouse system at all. Those who are of that opinion should take the position of one citizen, who remarked, "Well, I don't myself favour this building proposition, but the point is, the boys want it; and goodness knows, they have earned anything they want in reason. So I am going to help them get their wish." That is the spirit in which all our citizens should approach the coming drive, which will commence on the 19th May.

OTTAWA MUST ACT.

The claim of the widows and dependants of Imperial and Allied reservists who were citizens of Canada, and who answered the call to arms and met death fighting for the Empire's cause, for assistance from the Canadian government, is so clear that it is surprising that it should at this late date be necessary for organizations of returned soldiers to endeavour to prod the Dominion authorities into action. These women and children whose husbands and fathers lie beneath the wooden crosses in France and Belgium, are Canadian citizens; they have to keep life in their bodies on the lack of the grim cost of living on the meagre pension of the Imperial government. Judging how difficult the struggle must be in view of the fact that the widow of a British soldier with three children only receives a pension allowance of $23.70 per month. Subtract the rent and cost of fuel from that pittance and the sum left is so pitifully small that one wonders how these unfortunate families have kept from starvation. Had it not been for the relief offered by the Patriotic Fund many of these families would have been in desperate straits, and now that the Fund has practically finished its work and will soon be out of existence, there will be no reserve to assist the widows and children who will be powerless to keep the wolf from the door unless the government of the country they have adopted as their home will come to the rescue.

The solution of the problem, of course, is THAT the pension of these families should be made equal to that of the widows and children of fathers of the C.E.F. who have made the supreme sacrifice. That is, the Canadian government should supplement the pension they receive from the Imperial authorities, raising it to the Canadian scale, which is none too large in view of the cost of food stuffs, clothing, fuel and rent. There are, it is stated, living in Canada at the present time, the widows of 400 Imperial soldiers and of 250 reservists from Allied countries, and to take care of these families would cost about $300,000 per year. New Zealand and Australia have already adopted the principle that in all such cases the women and children shall be placed on the same footing as the dependents of the men of the New Zealand and Australian contingents in regard to pensions.

If the facts were to be brought before the people of Canada there is no doubt that there would be an insistent demand that the Dominion government should afford relief in the manner suggested. As it is there is a constantly increasing pressure being brought to bear upon the authorities, and action in the matter cannot long be delayed.

ROADS AND THE H.C.O.L.

In the frequent discussions which have taken place over the question of good roads, at the various meetings held in Peterboro and in this district lately, one angle of the subject that has escaped public attention is the relation of good roads to the cost of living. The Ottawa Citizen discussed this aspect of the question in an interesting article the other day, pointing out that to reduce the cost of hauling, carrying and carting any article, is to reduce its price to the consumer. A reduction in the cost of transportation by road it was pointed out, means that the farmer, the fruit grower are encouraged to grow to capacity, to load to capacity, and to ship to capacity, and that waste, criminal at any time, particularly so when millions are near starvation, becomes unprofitable as well. Under the present condition of the roads in Peterboro County the amount of potatoes and other produce that are wasted because bad roads prevent them from reaching a market, can readily be imagined.

"The greatest stimulant to production, to conservation of food, to its ready marketing and indeed to national self-sufficiency, is good roads," says our Ottawa contemporary. The past two or three years have proven the immense value of our highways in conjunction with motor trucks in increasing production. In the United States a movement, known as "Farm to table produce post" has enlisted the support of the Post Office Department. Last year the postal authorities instituted in some of the Eastern States a series of express motor truck postal routes, the effect of which was to make more direct and speedy the transit of food by United States parcel post from farm to city market or to consumer, and the return of urban goods to the producer. This movement has proven to be a great success from the standpoint of the city dweller, the country producer and also the postal authorities.

At a meeting of the Highway Transport Committee of the Council of National Defence, held in September last, Mr. Hoover, the well known American Food Administrator, pointed out that with motor express lines the farmer need not maintain so many draft animals, and that horses that eat the crops of millions of acres might be largely dispensed with and the land used to raise food for the people. According to conservative estimates made in many states last year alone the rural express operators saved the labor of thousands of men to the farms. One motor truck operator can in a single day save the time of a dozen farmers in going to a town to buy or sell.

The capacity of the average horse on an earth road in the best condition on the level is said to be about 3,600 lbs., while on a broken stone road it is 6,700 lbs. The difference is 3,200 lbs.: almost another earth road load. The relation of the earth road as against broken stone road to the cost of living, is patent, because too often the second load over the earth road never reach a market. This view is supported by the conclusion of Mr. Hoover, who at the meeting referred to above, made the emphatic declaration that 50 per cent of the perishable produce of America is wasted, largely through insufficient methods of transport. He expressed his belief that a developed rural express system will lead to the establishment of public markets and give us the necessary base of economical success with resultant lower prices.

In regard to the effect of the conditions of roads on haulage costs, the figures of Professor Creighton of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, are of interest. He gives the saving in the cost of hauling effected by the following classes of improved roads in cents per ton miles as: Earth or sand clay roads, 7¼c; gravel roads, 18c; bituminous macadam, concrete or other expensive pavement, 15c. These figures do not take into consideration the saving in wear and tear on vehicles, harness and animals, the undoubtedly great benefit to a community from improved social opportunities; nor other benefits occuring to anyone.

The value of these figures is more apparent in regard to the cost of living as affected by commodities other than those consumed at the table, such as coal and lumber. However, the inter-relation of one object of daily commerce with all the others is so intimate that all are affected in some degree by the conditions controlling the cost of producing and marketing of a single commodity.

A general system of improved roads in this country would go far towards solving the problem in almost every home to-day of ways and means. Obviously, the establishment of rural motor express lines awaits the building of satisfactory roads. "First things first" in the Federal Government's reconstruction policy would brook no delay in making a start.

THE PROPOSED SCHOOL

By MR. D. W. DUMBLE

When I saw the announcement that the Board of Education proposed to build a new twenty room Public school on a $35,000 lot at a cost of $200,000 or thereabouts, I got a shock, for already my city taxes had amounted to a figure that were threatening destruction.

I formed an idea of the whereabouts of the proposed site, but it was hazy, so I determined to go and see it. I did so and found myself on familiar ground. It lies immediately west of Monaghan boundary, and east of what is known as Edison Heights, and adjoining the latest street railway extension about which there was so much discussion last fall. I walked on it and over it. It is no doubt an ideal school site. Before me I looked with great interest, for 50 years ago I got up very early and about daylight I went with a man into Chamberlen's swamp and dug out a lot of swamp elms which I carted home and planted on McDonnel and Reid streets, where I now live. This is the finest American street tree, but it required plenty of room— sixty feet apart is none too much for this magnificent tree. I saw no swamp there to-day, but the great O.G.E. buildings and houses innumerable, crowding right up to the proposed school site. I was told that the —— school was a mile away and the South General about half a mile. I was told that a recent census revealed that there were close by the site for the proposed school 500 school children—enough to fill 12 rooms. The remembrance of the Chamberlen swamp brought back to me vividly an exciting occasion. It was on a hot summer Sunday, the old George street Methodist church was full, the city town fire bell rang out loudly. The people were nervous and excitements were rare, so up they jumped and poured out of the church. Great volumes of smoke poured over the town and the word went out that it was the Chamberlen swamp. It had been chopped long enough to be dry and it burned fiercely, but as there were no houses near it the people went back into the church and got the rest of the service and a most vivid impression of what the torments of —— might be.

Now, as to what the proposed school ground is like, I say without hesitation, it is ideal, the field is surrounded by trees, it has a natural drainage. It overlooks the city, though it is as easy a grade as that leading up to the —— school. The street railway is immediately in front of it. There is a full school population between it and the site of the South Central school and the river. To buy more land for enlarging the South Central school would be very expensive and would be unwise as it is badly situated with regard to railways and other objectionable features.

The New Site

Is on the city limit, in fact over the line and in Monaghan, but it is high and dry, and it is wiser to let the pupils go out to the sweetness of country air than to bring them into the unsweetness of the central city.

Railways will never get very close to the new site, as they won't climb the hill. If it is true, as alleged, that more school accommodation is urgently required, then so far as the site is concerned the Chamberlen site is admirable.

There are other considerations that must be faced. Labour is taking advantage of the disturbed times and the revolutionary spirit that is disturbing the world, creating unrest and a vague impulse to appropriate to its own use what it cannot earn by the old methods, so labour meets and makes decrees that appear to capital as confiscation. This is troubling and checking enterprise and progress, and in the end will defeat its purpose and end in disaster. If things are not right, then right should be secured by gentle and reasonable and just methods. Hasty resolutions directed by greed and without due regard for the other fellow will not secure that happy medium that will secure lasting and fair results. It looks as if it was not a good time to build a 20-room school. Perhaps a ten or twelve room school would meet present requirements. The part could be a part of a larger scheme and design that could be completed at a more opportune time.

Then as to the quantity, I would like to see a ground that would contain a park, with cricket ground, baseball grounds, bowling green.

This city never spent a dollar for a people's park. They got what they have as gifts, and the city is too illiberal to grant enough money to keep up a few flower beds. For heaven's sake let us do the decent thing and give our young people, male and female, a decent outing place where they can get exercise and recreation.

I think the price asked for the 16 acres is too high. To make more than $25,000 for the entire 16 acres, streets would require to be made through it. If sold in little lots it would demean it. Meanwhile taxes must be paid; interest would be lost and the money, after long waiting, would come in in driblets. The owners are meanwhile growing old, and will, 'ere long, slip away. I would say that $25,000 is a full fair price for the sixteen acres. Let the present Chamberlen homestead remain in the occupation of the present owners during their lives, and let their memory be preserved for all time by naming the entire grounds "Chamberlen Park."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

"IT IS A CALL FOR PRACTICE," SAID THE REV T. J. THOMPSON

Anniversary Services Held Yesterday in St. Paul's Church—Inspiring Addresses.

THE MUSIC

Rev. (Major) T. J. Thompson, of Ottawa, preached at both services in St. Paul's Presbyterian church yesterday, the eighty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the church.

Major Thompson is a cultured and gifted orator who has seen service both in Egypt and Gallipoli, and in view of his war experience, and his general knowledge of European and Asiatic conditions, his subject in the morning service, "Present Day Conditions," was particularly interesting.

Mr. Martin B. Chenall of Cobourg Methodist church, presided at the organ and splendid music under his direction was rendered at both services, in a masterly and highly commendable manner.

Rev. Mr. Thompson based his discourse on the 28th verse of the eleventh chapter according to St. Matthew:

"Come unto Me all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Simple Life.

Illustrating his point he spoke of the early life of Jesus, how simple it was, and how close it came to us in our own early life. He told of two or three homely incidents in the early life of Jesus which might have been taken from a chapter of the life of any twentieth century family. Joseph and Mary were extremely poor and her several sons, including Jesus, who at a very early age was renowned for his wisdom, were apprenticed to their father in his carpenter shop, while his daughters helped in the household duties. Here Jesus labored until 30 years of age, a long apprenticeship, when he started preaching from the fulness of his heart. His life was simple throughout. Jesus saw the great burden that was laid on men in those days through the social system—a system which we know nothing of. We are equal in committee boards and parliament but men in those days were under an iron heel and were regulated by a higher authority.

The Present Day.

Speaking of the present day struggle between Capital and Labor Major Thompson stated that there will never be established between man and man right relations until the Spirit of Jesus is entered into—until we are prepared to relinquish that spirit of trying to get ahead of the other man. He spoke of a metal worker, one who is "out" in Toronto. This man was indignant because the laborer had received 50c an hour and they (the metal workers) had been insulted with an offer of only 50c an hour.

Another Popular Cry.

"Until we get our rights we have no duties," a popular cry of a negro agitator, was quoted by Major Thompson. "That is diabolic," he stated. "This is an age of criticism, and we are all aware of the upheaval and the unrest of the present day. There is no solution until we adopt the golden rule."

Must Listen Patiently.

Speaking further of agitation, he said, "We must be prepared to listen patiently to the unreasonable clamour we hear about us. It is a call for patience. It is rather harrassing to hear a man say that the man who has the nastiest job should receive the highest pay, that the scavenger should receive more than the captain of industry who sits behind a $200 mahogany desk. The man who will really help us is the man who will help us to settle some of our social problems. Our slogan must be 'Each for all and all for each.'

Another Problem.

The Lord had not merely in mind social unrest. There was the extreme formality of that day, which shackled men. Jesus was a Jew, but he saw how the formality of the Jews through the ages had bound them. They had allowed the traditions of men to become of greater importance to them than the simple truths of God. This he prepared to clear away. Before the Jew came to the Synagogue there were so many traditions and old customs to comply with that they piled up the entrance to the place of worship and obscured the real reason for entering there. There is nothing more dangerous to the soul than machinery. If we take the selfishness out of grief the sting is gone. We must bear the burden of others and fulfill the law of Christ. If we do this our own great crushing sorrow will disappear, and only the shadow of others' sorrow, will touch us.

"Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Evangelist Torrie Will Remain For Three More Nights

Evangelist Torrie decides to stay in Park street Baptist Church three more nights closing his mission Wednesday night and returning to his home in Toronto Thursday and opening a two weeks mission in Montreal next Sunday.

The three services were well attended Sunday and the results were most gratifying to the church and the Evangelist. There were quite a number "Struck the Trail", in an open session of the school at 3 o'clock and in last night's service.

When the Pastor, Rev. Dougald Brown told the congregation at the close of last night's meeting the possibility of the Evangelist remaining three more days, practically the whole congregation rose to their feet expressing their desire to have him stay.

Evangelist Torrie's subject tonight will be "Can a man know positively he is saved?" This is a great subject and a large congregation is expected to-night to hear this sermon The choir and Mrs. Torrie will furnish special music. A hearty welcome awaits all to these three last services Come to-night.

GIRL'S SILENCE SAID TO BE CAUSED BY THREATS

NEW YORK,—Threat of death if she did not accept $3,500 and leave the State is believed by the District Attorney's office to have impelled Miss Mollie Lewis, a pretty motion picture actress, to refuse to testify at the trial of Joseph Bennett in General Sessions. Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen adjourned the case until Miss Lewis twice became hysterical during the proceedings and caused postponement of the case. Investigation is being made into the charge of intimidation.

Bennett, who is said to be known along Broadway as "Curley", was indicted last month for an alleged violation of the State White Slavery law after Miss Lewis had testified against him before the Grand Jury. Miss Eleanor Lewis, a sister, and Miss Fieda Lewis, a cousin, also were questioned by the Grand Jury and will be called as witnesses against Bennett. They, too, are motion picture actresses and attractive. A representative gathering of the Great White Way district was in court when the case was called.

Screams in Court Room

When the jury had been selected and James E. Smith, Assistant District Attorney, had outlined the prosecution's case Miss Mollie Lewis was called to the stand. Immediately she became hysterical, her screams causing a stir in the court room. Judge Mulqueen ordered a recess. In the afternoon, as Mr. Smith began to question the pretty witness, Miss Lewis cried:—

"It's all a lie. I am the only one to blame. I want to go home to mother. Please let me go."

The turn in the case took Mr. Smith by surprise, and Judge Mulqueen directed an adjournment. Miss Lewis was put in charge of Miss Maude Miner, of the Waverly Home. As the couple were leaving the room Miss Eleanor embraced her sister and the two became hysterical. Eleanor was prevailed to accompany her sister to the home. William J. Fallon, counsel for Bennett, pressed forward as if to speak to the witness and in protest from Mr. Smith, Judge Mulqueen warned the lawyer not to do so.

Bennett, for whom $10,000 in Liberty bonds was put up as bail, also left the court room. Mr. Smith said he would attempt to prove the alleged case against Bennett with the other two girls as witnesses. Others, he said, will be called to testify.

"I received information several days ago that Miss Lewis who approached and offered $3,500 if she would leave the jurisdiction," Mr. Smith said outside the courtroom. "The girl was advised, I am told, to go to any State except Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware to avoid being amendable to subpoena. 'How would you like a bullet put into you?' I am told some one said to her. I believe I know who that person is.

"The sudden change of the witness was a great surprise to me, as she told me she would testify against Bennett as a protection for other girls. That Broadway mob cannot run things down here, and the sooner they know it the better. Miss Lewis has been here only a year from the West. Her story before the Grand Jury was sensational."

Viola Mueller's Mother Attacks Man in Court

NEW YORK, May. 2.—Hearing a woman testify that Benjamin Sherman, of No. 995 Simpson street the Bronx, had passed a night with her daughter, Viola, fourteen years old, in a rooming house near Cooper square Mrs. Regina Mueller, of No. 20 Baldwin street, Newark, N. J., leaped at the prisoner in Yorkville Court and clasping her fingers about his throat bore him to the floor.

The attack on Sherman, who is a large man, came as a surprise at the end of the testimony of Mrs. Selma Boss, of No. 27 Stuyvesant street. Without giving any warning Mrs. Mueller rushed over to where Simpson was standing, and with a shriek that could be heard in the street leaped on him. As she clenched her fingers about his neck he fell, Mrs. Mueller on him.

Magistrate William E. Sweetser pounded his gavel for order as the spectators rose and pressed toward the enclosure, while the Assistant District Attorney, Mr. Direndo, and a special officer of the Children's Society seized Mrs. Mueller. As she was being led from the room by attendants she turned toward Sherman and shouted, "I want to kill him! I want to kill him!"

Bernard Kopelman, Sherman's lawyer, had asked an adjournment at a previous hearing that he might produce a witness who would testify his client did not accompany the girl to the rooming house. After hearing the woman's testimony the lawyer waived examination, and Sherman was held in $5,000 for the Grand Jury.

Persistency on the part of an agent of the Children's Society resulted in finding Mrs. Boss, whom Viola Mueller had described when found in the East Twenty-sixth street rooming house, ten days after her disappearance from her home in Newark. The child said she was taken into a house near Cooper Union by Sherman, but could not recollect the address. The agent spent two days with Viola in the vicinity and she finally pointed to a building, in which Mrs. Boss was found.

MR. McCORMACK IN "MACUSHLA"

At the Grand Next Friday, May 9th.

The stage at the Grand will look like a bit of the Emerald Isle on Friday evening, when Barry McCormack, the famous young Irish star, appears in "Macushla," a new four-act comedy drama by Rida Johnson Young—for the scenery was built and painted from photographs of some of the most beautiful spots in the Old Country, selected by Mr. McCormack, who is proud of the fact that he was born in County Cavan. The play, as befits an Irish comedy-drama, is replete with romance, thrills, laughs, and song—for Mr. McCormack is noted as a singer as well as an actor, and lovers of sweet melodies will soon be singing his "She's Irish," "Who Knows?" "Words from an Irishman's Tongue," and "Irgland You're the Motherland."

Mr. McCormack, who will be remembered for his "Terence" in which he was last seen here several years ago, has surrounded himself with a notable company, including Clive Moore, seen here in "Daddy Long Legs" and "Peg o' My Heart"; Perce Benton, recently playing in New York in "Please Get Married"; Josephine Williams, recently with "The Big Chance" in New York; Martin Mann, well known through his work with Fiske O'Hara and further back with William Scanlon; Charles Bunnell, of Robert Emmett fame; R. Henry Handon, Nella Bombay, Miriam Crawford, Homer McDaniels, and James Marr.

At the Grand To-Night, Tuesday and Wednesday

Rex Beach's "Too Fat to Fight", in Addition to the All Star Vaudeville Programme.

Rex Beach bids fair to add lustre to his famous name when "Too Fat to Fight," newest of the Rex Beach Pictures produced for Goldwyn, comes to the Grand Theatre, to-night Tuesday, Wednesday, matinee daily. He will surprise his public with a drama of purpose and patriotism rather than of Alaska and the West.

It tells the story of Norman Dalrymple, former football star, played by Frank McIntyre, who is now a mountain of flesh and, much to his sorrow, too fat to fight. Turned down by every branch of the service "Dimples," as he is called, succeeds in joining the Y.M.C.A. and serves his time at passing doughnuts and carrying coffee for the doughboys until he finds himself in a fix from which he emerges to his hospital cot to pin a decoration for bravery upon the expansive bosom of his pajamas "Dimples" wakes to find that he spoke almost prophetically when he said he'd "give a leg to be with the boys over there". On of his is gone. But his decoration and a certain discovery he makes about the girl he loves recompenses "Dimples" for his sacrifice.

In addition to this great picture the vaudeville will be one of the best programs to visit Peterboro. Headed by T. D. Pepple and M. Greenwald Radium of Splendor. "The Revue de Vogue." There is no other act in vaudeville of like kind. This can be accounted for by the lavishness displayed by the superb producers. The scenery comprises of thirteen different changes and the original Chicago Co., of 12 people, as the title would indicate the costumes are actually the latest creation in Satorial Art.

As an added attraction Ella La Vail, the wonder Aerial Artist will close the program. Miss La Vail was two years with the great Barnum and Bailey Circus and either one of these big acts are worth the price of admission alone. Seats reserved for the evening performances in advance.

WITH THE VETERANS

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Peterboro branch of the G.W.V.A. will be held to-night at 8 o'clock

The Veterans ball club will practice to-morrow evening at 6.30 o'clock.

Canon Davidson, chairman of the Social Committee has announced a "get acquainted" smoker for Thursday evening in the G.W.V.A. rooms. All returned men are invited and they are asked to wear a ticket on the lapel of their coat with their name written on it. There will be songs, choruses and boxing.

The G.W.V.A. are organizing quoit and football clubs in addition to the ball team which is already entered in the City League.

A membership certificate for the Great War Veterans Association designed by Comrade T. R. Cooper of the Peterboro branch, has been endorsed by the executive of the Provincial Association and has been sent on to the Dominion Association. The certificate which is a most artistic one, topped by the coat of arms and with a list of the battles in which the Canadians, have been engaged, has been greatly admired by all who have seen and all branches of the Association to which it has been sent, have approved of the design. Its adoption by the Dominion Executive is altogether probable.

BICYCLE WEEK IS ON

Commencing last Saturday, 3rd May, the cyclists all over Canada are having their annual "Bicycle Week." The local cyclists are enthusiastic over the idea, as it falls at a very opportune time, just at the beginning of the bicycling season. The dealers in bicycles and accessories are finding that there is a greater interest than ever before in this line of their business, and cycling promises to boom during 1919. The idea of Bicycle Week is to create and stimulate a greater interest in cycling among Canadians. From coast to coast special advertising campaigns are in progress. The manufacturers are co-operating with the dealers, and the result is that people will during the next week be talking about nothing else but the prospects of a good bicycle season. The local merchants have fallen in line with the idea very enthusiastically. Their enterprise deserves recognition from the section of the public which is interested in bicycling.

Have You the Desire to Help a Fighter

A Peterboro Man Who Has Greatly Suffered for Years Loses Both Feet From Rheumatism.

From time to time benefits have been arranged for worthy causes, and the public generally has supported them very liberally. Recently the condition of a young married man, with children, came to the notice of his co-workers in one of our city plants. Through rheumatism he was required to have one of his feet amputated some time ago, and for the same reason it was necessary to take off the other foot about three weeks ago. The man has worked without flinching, suffered pain and agony in order that he might earn the money required to keep him and his family. The man has made one of the grandest fights to live a human being could put up. He has no desire to be dependent on the city or his friends for his livelihood, but the fight for the time being is delayed owing to his last amputation.

In appreciation of what this man has gone through, his fellow-workers and others who know of his pluck and the extremely tough time he has had, have arranged a benefit concert for him, to be held in the Victoria Hall on Thursday night next, the proceeds of which will be used to procure a second artificial foot for him in order that he may be able to resume his regular ocupation.

Tickets are on sale, and everybody who has been approached is buying one or more, and it is felt that if they could be had at one of the up-town stores, hundreds of people might be inclined to help out, who otherwise would not have the opportunity. The concert itself will be a good one and well worth the money for a ticket.

The man's name is Mr. Frank Munden, and he has smiled through it all; and it is a pleasure to dozens of men who are doing their best to make a big financial success of the concert.

BUTCHER BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS

Mr. Harry Wheeler Sells Out to Mr. Stanley E. Mahood.

The long-established butcher business formerly conducted by the late George Wheeler on Hunter Street, Ashburnham, and subsequently by his son, Mr. Harry Wheelr, has been taken over by Mr. Stanley E. Mahood, of River Road.

Mr. Mahood has had a great deal of experience in the buying and slaughtering of cattle, and believes he can give excellent service. Mr. Wheeler is going into the wholesale business.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

This evening the members of the Board of Education will meet on the proposed site for the new school to replace the present South Central School.

The Board may decide to secure six acres of the Chamberlain property on the Monaghan Road, upon which will be erected a two-storey school, large enough to accommodate the increasing demands of that particular district.

The building it is proposed to erect will have at least seventeen classrooms and a large auditorium, which will be used for the kindergarten class. Domestic science and other departments will also be provided for.

WILL LOOK TO ALLIES FOR COMPLETE SUPPORT

(Canadian Press.)

BRUSSELS, May 5.— The Belgium Council met at the Palace at eight o'clock and conducted in session till midnight. Paul Hymans, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and head of the Belgian deelgation at the Peace Conference, expressed the opinion that the treaty as it now stands gave honourable and satisfatcory terms to Belgium and recommended that it should be signed. The Council unanimously endorsed M. Hyman's view, but was equally unanimous in expressing the opinion that the attention of the Powers should be drawn to the financial and economic situation in Belgium and to the necessity that the Allies assure Belgium of complete support looking to her economic restoration.

WILL RETURN THE PENINSULA TO CHINA

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 5.—The policy of Japan is to return the Shantung peninsula in full sovereignty to China, retaining only the economic privileges granted Germany and the right to establish settlement under the usual conditions at Tsing Tao, it was declared by Baron Makino, leading Japanese delegate.

Four Transports Are Due This Week

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 5. — Four transports, the Cassandra, Royal George, Mauretania and Melita, are now on the Atalantic en route home with returning soldiers, and some wives and families. There are 7375 in all. All but the Mauretania will come to Quebec, and she goes to Halifax.

Physical Director For Peterboro "Y"

Lieut. Douglas Loomis Will Have Charge of the Work.

The Board of Directors of the local Y.M.C.A. have engaged Lieut. Douglas Loomis, M.C., as physical director, his duties to commence at once. Lieut. Loomis has had considerable experience in Y.M.C.A. work, being physical director in St. Catharines, a position which he resigned to enlist with the 93rd Battalion. He went overseas with the Peterborough unit as a sergeant and won his commission on the field, besides the award of the Military Cross. He was wounded in France and during convalescence served for a short time in the Y.M.C.A. overseas service. Lieut. Loomis is one of the best known Y.M.C.A. workers in Canada and the local institution is to be congratulated on obtaining the services of such an efficient physical director. An active athletic programme will be conducted this summer, the schedule to be announced later.

"I would have willingly given five hundred dollars, if necessary, for the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," said M. Gratz, a well-known baker, who lives at 109 W. Montgomery Street, Spokane, a few days ago.

"For more than twelve years," he continued, "I suffered all the tortures of rheumatism, and all the misery that goes with a bad case of stomach trouble. My feet and ankles were so badly swollen and the pain so severe that I could hardly walk, and my arms were so stiff and drawn that I would have to get somebody to help put on my coat. I also suffered with the worst sort of pains in my back and hips, and I hardly ever got any sound sleep.

"I had a bad case of stomach trouble also, and all my food soured and made me miserable for hours after eating. I have often gone for forty-eight hours without eating a bite—was afraid to try it.

"Eight years ago I gave up my home and business in Pendleton, Oregon, and went to California seeking health, and I later made two trips to the Catalma Islands, a widely-known health resort, hoping that I might get some relief from my suffering there. I honestly believe I have taken a waggon load of different kinds of medicine, but nothing ever reached my trouble until I took Tanlac. Actually three bottles of this medicine has done what all these other things failed to do. I have no rheumatism now—not a sign of it—my appetite is as good as it ever was, and nothing I eat hurts me. Why, I can eat cabbage now without any bad after effects. Every night when I go to bed I know that I am going to get a good night's sleep. I have gained eighteen pounds, am as well and hearty as I ever was in my life, and am working ten to twelve hours every day. Tanlac is certainly a blessing to all suffering humanity, and I am more than glad to recommend it to everybody.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son..

Budget Address is Expected Next Week

(Special to The Examiner.)
(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, May 5. — There is still no definite intimation as to when Sir Thomas White, as Finance Minister, will deliver his budget address to the Commons, but it is not expected it will be before May 15th at the earliest. In the meantime the most important legislation to be discussed will be the soldiers settlement bill to be introduced to-morrow by Hon. Arthur Meighen. This bill will validate recent orders in council and provide otherwise for the welfare of the soldiers.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5.—Sir Joseph Ball, head of the British Lumber Purchasing Commission, is in Ottawa, and will urge upon the government the desirability of extending a further credit in Canada for the purchase of Canadian lumber. A credit of $40,000,000 has already been extended and taken up. There are, it is stated, still heavy demands for Canadian lumber in Europe.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, formerly Minister of Labour in the Laurier government, and who has since been devoting himself to a study of labour conditions in the United States and Canada, leaves to-morrow for England, where he will make a study of the Whitley report and the working of the Industrial Commissions.

SEAPLANES WERE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Machines Were All Ready For Trans-Atlantic Flight.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, May 5. —Fire at the naval air station at Rockaway Beach to-day damaged naval seaplanes N.C. 1 and N.C. 4, which were to start to-morrow on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight. The wings on N.C. 1 were completely destroyed and this plane may be unable to attempt the ocean cruise. It was believed that the N.C. 4 could be repaired in time for the "jump-off."

BILLY SUNDAY BACK WITH THE SAWDUST

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — Billy Sunday is back with the sawdust in his tabernacle in Richmond, Va., but the 3200 men and women who heard him speak here will not forget how he lambasted the Boche, the Kaiser, government ownership of railroads and the Bolsheviki.

The paprika evangelist spoke at a meeting of the Business Men's War Council of the Pocket Testament League, in the Metropolitan Opera House.

He shouted, and cheered, and danced about the platform in joy over the defeat of booze, and his audience joined in the delirium with him.

"On July 1, the devil will bank his fire, hang crape on the front door, and hell will be for rent," exclaimed the devil-chaser.

"Thank God," he went on, "after that date America will be so dry that a man will have to be primed before he can spit."

If the Kaiser had been within two feet of Bill during his hour address, he would have been knocked out, for Sunday swung his fist ferociously as he excoriated, spit at and growled at the former Emperor.

Lambasts Hohenzollern.

"I run out of English every time I talk about the Kaiser," confided Sunday, "and I never mention him unless I feel the need of a disinfectant to rinse out my mouth."

He puckered his lips to show his disgust. "We've made liberty and freedom as sure as New England granite," he resumed, "and we toppled over the weazle-eyed, hog-jowled, beer-guzzling, pretzel-and-sauerkraut-loving demon of a Kaiser.

"No matter what happens you have to hold your nose every time you think or talk about Germans or Germany. The preachers over there preached the way that lobster of a Kaiser wanted them to. They advocated a super-man, and our idea is a super-God.

"The war was a battle between heaven and hell, and the devil and hell took the count.' All America wants is six feet of dirt to bury her boys in, and we don't want a darn acre of their land or a mark of their money. But we don't want any of the German Hp either.

"No nation on God's earth could lick us. We are not cocky and we do not carry a chip on our shoulders. Yet let anyone try to put something over on us. The man who says the war was brought on by failure of religion is a black hearted liar. It was brought on by the failure of religion in Germany. The Kaiser said that he and God were partners. The Devil had to fan himself when he heard about the Kaiser. The Kaiser made hell a sideshow.

Billy said Germany lost out before the war when Germany turned from the Cross of Calvary to the cross of Krupp.

No Room for Dirty Gang.

From the Kaiser the evangelist jumped to Bolshevism. Germany, he said, was the incubator for the Bolsheviks. Bill said he would deal the bean of any Bolshevik who tried to convert him.

"Germany, with her moral rot started this dirty, rotten snake of Bolshevism that is gnawing at the heart of the world," he said. "If I had my way the jails would be so full of the Bolsheviks their feet would stick out of the windows. And I'd hire steamships and send them back where they came from.

"We haven't any room for the dirty gang that thinks more of another flag than ours. The Kaiser and his bloodthirsty gang started out to exterminate Christianity, and that's what started Bolshevism.

"The Bolshevik yells, 'Down with capital.' Yet everyone of these dirty men would take every dollar you have. Bolshevism and socialism don't go near barbers and bathtubs. I am dressed in rags or broadcloth, and I will hit it as hard as I can."

Rape Railroads.

Bill's disgust at government ownership of railroads was summed up in: "It's the bummest, punkest service I ever saw," and a wallop at the "cheap-skate, booze-guzzling, vote-stealing politicians, who don't know any more about running a railroad than I do about a ship."

The evangelist also charged that some "fine bunk" and not old-fashioned religion was being preached to the soldiers overseas. This led to a knock at preachers who preach abstracts.

"No wonder that a man with a plea can stand on a street corner and win converts," he said, "while another guy stands up in a pulpit with a black nightgown around his shoulders, and draws $10,000 a year, and preaches to empty benches."

THE WORLD OF SPORT

NEWS OF THE O.B.A. LEAGUE

The Streets and Parks Committee of the Cobourg Council have this week ploughed up and scraped the infeld of the baseball diamond at Victoria Park, and are making a "skinned" diamond for baseball enthusiasts. The committee are showing a good interest in sports, and intend making further improvements.

OBJECT TO BELLEVILLE COMING INTO LEAGUE

Port Hope has written to Secretary M. J. Dedman, of Lindsay, objecting to Belleville being admitted to the League. Port Hope's objection is very unreasonable. Everything possible was done to have Bowmanville remain but their management acted like a baby crying for the moon and the league officials had no alternative but to drop Bowmanville and admit Belleville. If our baseball enthusiasts will brush up their memory a little they will recall about three years ago when Bowmanville was in this district in hockey and after playing two home games dropped out. The chances are they would have done the same in the Baseball League. Surely Port Hope is large enough to support a team to the extent of transporting them fifty miles. And the local club will find Belleville a much more attractive drawing card than Bowmanville. There is every prospect for a good season but this is only possible by every team pulling together for the good of the league. The officers will see that no team receives any advantage over their opponents, so stop kicking and boost for the league. —Port Hope Guide.

Worked in the Rain.

The Romaine street sewer gang worked in the rain yesterday completing the preparatory sheeting of the trench beneath the G.T.R. crossing west of Park street. The men are proceeding with the laying of the pipe this morning. Yesterday's work was necessitated by the advantage of putting in the sheeting without interference from passing trains.

CANOE BUILDERS ON STRIKE TO-DAY

Asking for the recognition of the Boat Builders' Union by making the factories closed shops, also that men newly engaged be Union members or that they become so within a reasonable time, and also for a slight increase in wages from May 1st to Sept. 1st, the employees of the Peterborough Canoe Company and of the Canadian Canoe Company did not return to work this afternoon when their demands were refused this morning.

The Union was organized several months ago and is practically one hundred per cent. in both the factories, according to information given to the Examiner. It is understood that the men are also organizing in Lakefield.

Want Men Here.

Mr. B. Nicholls, the local representative of the Swift Packing Company, has been instructed to advertise here for electricians, mechanics and labourers to go to Toronto to replace the striking employees who walked out this morning.

Back at Wm. Hamilton Co.

Following negotiations with Mr. P. Westbye, general manager of the company, the labourers and helpers of the Wm. Hamilton shops returned to work this morning upon the consideration of a readjustment of wages. There is no change reported in the moulders' situation.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN THIS MONTH

The total solar eclipse, May 29th, 1919, will be comparable with the eclipse of last summer in the long stretch of continental territory covered by the path of totality, though not in accessibility of places along the path. The path extends across South America at its widest part, and also across equatorial Africa. The duration of totality will be exceptionally long (six seconds or more.) The Carnegie Department of Terrestrial Magnetism, Washington, is planning to send two expeditions to favourable points.

The Lindsay Mail Carriers Will Wear Large Stetson Hats

According to information received from Ottawa, the Post Office Department will send an official to Lindsay in the course of a few days in connection with the introduction of street mail delivery. His duties will be to map out the mail routes and report to the Government, the number of carriers required to cover the town.

It is pointed out that there must be a satisfactory numbering of the houses before the system can be introduced, and the municipality is supposed to attend to this important matter.

The Dominion Government has decided to dress all letters carriers in khaki, Stetson hats and shirt waists during June, July and August. The hats will resemble somewhat the United States army hat, and will be a much better protection from the sun than the caps hitherto used.

A BALL PLAYER FROM KINMOUNT

Backwoods Twirler is Said to be Some "Real Dazzler."

"Ab" Hill arrived in town from Kinmount where he has been employed in his father-in-law's saw mill. Ab has signed up with the Lindsay O.O. A baseball team and will reside here from this date forward. He will work at the local candy works until the paving operations begin and will then be employed as a timekeeper with the Standard Paving Co. Hill is a baseball twirler by trade or profession as you might call it, and if rumours be true, he can slant some real dazzlers across the plate. Time will tell.—Lindsay Post.

WAS REPORTED KILLED.

BELLEVILLE, May 5.—Pte. Charles Fierce, of Northport, Prince Edward County, who enlisted and went overseas with the 155th Battalion form this city, returned home on Friday. He was reported killed in action in 1918, and his arrival home was an agreeable surprise to many of his friends.

COBOURG TOURNEY TO BE HELD ON 16TH JULY.

COBOURG, May 5.—The annual meeting of the Cobourg Lawn Bowling Club was held; and the following officers elected for the season: Hon. President, J. W. Bickle; President, W. H. Hopper; Vice-President, W. DeLany; Treasurer, H. McCullough; Secretary, J. H. Roberts.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED

BELLEVILLE, May 5.—The farm buildings of Edward Maxwell, near Bancroft, in North Hastings, were on Thursday night destroyed by fire Considerable machinery, an automobile, grain and hay were burned. The loss is partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

FIRST WIFE IN CHINA GETS ONTARIO ESTATE ONTARIO WIFE NOTHING

TORONTO. — When a Chinaman dies leaving two wives, one in Canada and one in China, the lady he married first, no matter where she resides, is entitled to the dower in his Ontario estate, under the provincial law. This was the decision made by Mr. Justice Middleton in a case brought before him.

ADALIA.

Picturesque Town Occupied By the Italians.

Adalia, which Italy, at the suggestion of Great Britain and with the approval of France, has decided to occupy with military forces, is an interesting town.

On the southern coast of Asia Minor, in a far corner of the Gulf of Adalia, is situated the picturesque modern town of Adalia. Few towns in Turkey can vie with it in real genuine interest from the viewpoint of presenting to the stranger a deep insight into the habits and customs of the people. The harbor itself is small but deep, and only little coasting steamers can anchor well in toward the quay.

The town has been built upon a cliff 130 feet high, which commands the sea and over which tumble innumerable streams of clear, cold water that have their sources far up among the distant snow-clad mountains. These streams serve at the same time to irrigate magnificent orchards of figs, pears and mandarins.

One sees in every part of Adalia pieces of ancient sculptures used as adornments in the walls, street corners, doorways, courtyards and fountains. About the only antiquity, however, that has retained its original position is the splendid wall, which has been preserved almost in its entirety, although belonging to different epochs of history, and which has naturally been patched and repaired frequently during the hundreds of years of its existence. The wall around Adalia is similar in many respects to the one at Wisby, on the island of Gotland, in the Baltic.

Adalia is noted for its dancing Dervishes. Greeks of this section have lived so exclusively among themselves for generations that they have retained many ancient habits of their race. This is also true of the Jews who reside here. The bazaars and mosques are also extremely interesting, inasmuch as they have retained their distinctly Turkish character since medieval times. In some places the streets are very narrow, and the balconies of many of the houses project outward one above the other to such an extent that two persons can almost join hands across the street from the upper stories. In this respect many of the streets of Adalia remind me of similar streets in Brunswick, Germany.

Adalia also has a considerable silk industry, as the climate of this section is conducive to the growth of the mulberry tree. The cocoon shops are erected outside the city limits and are interesting, for the reason that the laborers employed are made up of the different nationalities represented in this district.

Omsk, Kolchak's Capital

OMSK, seat of the Government headed by Admiral Kolchak, as temporary dictator, to which the Archangel, Southern Russia, and other anti-Bolshevik groups have pledged co-operation, is an idyllic city, despite its comparative isolation.

Located on the Irtish river, longer than the better-known Volga and approximately as long as the Mississippi, Omsk, erstwhile seat of government of the Steppes region of West Siberia, under the monarchy was the crossroads of the routes to Central Russia, Orenburg and Turkestan.

It lies along the trans-Siberian Railway, running from Moscow to Vladivostok, a 5,335-mile journey, taking thirteen days, formerly made in an express train equipped with bathrooms, dispensary and library.

Amid the ruins of an old fort, behind the museum of the Imperial Russian Geographical Society, stood, until a few years ago, the house in which the famous Russian novelist, Feodor Dostoievsky, spent his four years of imprisonment ten years before the Civil War in America.

Here Dostoievsky wrote his Siberian novel, "Recollections of a Dead House," translated into English under the title, "Buried Alive in Siberia," which is the "Little Dorrit" of the Siberian exiles. Indeed, his subjects and characters have been compared to those of Dickens, though his treatment is far more grim. Out of his experience with criminals while at Omsk also came his "Crime and Punishment," in which, with semi-prophetic vision, he pictured a future Russian people freed from bonds of force but united by ties of mutual trust and kindness.

In the principal square of Omsk stands the Church of St. Nicholas, in which hangs a banner reputed to have been that of Yermak, a Cossack bandit of the Volga, who turned over the vast domain of Siberia to Ivan the Terrible in order to procure his own restoration to Moscow court favor.

Thus that tyrannical and talented Czar came into possession of the extensive territory which had been wrested from the Mongolians by Russians who had fled from the mad vagaries of Ivan. This same Ivan, it will be recalled, threw his regents to the dogs, dared to proclaim himself Czar, though his father had not, then summoned the first Russian National Assembly, killed his son in a fit of anger, and took the hood of the strictest monastic order just before the end of a dissolute, personal and brilliant political life.

Founded only about 200 years ago, Omsk now is a city approximately the size of Hamilton, Ont. It is neither well built nor industrially important. Its nearest neighbor along the Irtiuk is Tara, an older city, where Peter the Great ordered 700 citizens butchered because they declined to take an oath of allegiance.

The Omsk Museum was a principal point of interest for tourists because of its collection of ethnological relics of the Steppes, or barren plains of Western Siberia, which includes many prehistoric specimens.

Long a Cossack centre, the Siberian Cossacks found Omsk a convenient rallying place to resist the Bolshevik influences which appealed strongly to a foreign or mixed element in Russia that has no counterpart in Siberia. Descendants of many of the colonists sent to Siberia by the Government, and also of many political exiles, are of good Russian stock.

Watch Jewels.

There are in every good watch from seven to twenty-one "jewels." Sounds rich, doesn't it?

Some of them are rubies, others sapphires—two kinds of gem stones rated much higher in market value than the diamond.

These sapphires and rubies, furthermore, must, to serve the watch-making purpose, be flawless.

How, then, can the watchmakers afford to buy them? Surely they must get them cheap. As a matter of fact, they do, because the gem-stones used for this purpose are of inferior color and brilliancy—useless, even if they were bigger, for jewelry.

Twelve hundred thousand first-class watches manufactured on this continent annually call for 12,000,000 jewels—5,000,000 rubies and sapphires and 7,000,000 garnets.

A watch is said to "run" on so many stones. The more valuable the timepiece, the greater the number of stones used in its make-up. The tiny gems, pierced to receive the axles of wheels, offer a minimum of friction, and do not wear out easily.

Enormous quantities of these watch-jewels are cut in Switzerland and marketed in boxes of 500 and 1,000. To each stone is given a rounded form with a hole through the centre.

The Earliest Elevator.

The earliest mention of a device in any way resembling the modern elevator or lift, may be read in Vitruvius, who describes a hoisting machine which was invented by Archimedes. This elevator of the second century B. C. was worked by ropes which were coiled upon a winding drum by a capstan and levers. The same writer refers to another similar machine which was made to rotate by a man who walked inside the cylinder. Such a primitive elevator is still in use to lift passengers and luggage from the first to the second story of a convent on Mount Sinai.

Dutch Tanneries.

On account of the inability to import tanning materials overseas, several Dutch tanneries have built small extracting plants at an expense of about $20,000 each.

It is said that several of the best specimen at the stockyards are unable to [illegible]

"Semi-Ready" Business Changed Hands

The undersigned regrets to announce that, owing to the death of my father, and the invalliding of my brother from a semi attack of influenza, I have been compelled to dispose of my Semi-Ready business in Peterborough.

An emergency call has summoned me to return to Sutton, Quebec, to take a financial interest in my late father's and brother's business, known as The N. J. Wyatt Can Works and The Eastern Townships Maple Syrup and Sugar Exchange.

Messrs. H. C. Thornton and Peter F. Thornton

Formerly of Orillia

They are now in possession, and I can cheerfully recommend them to the confidence of the gentlemen of Peterborough. Mr. Peter F. Thornton is a returned member of the 58th Batt., and Machine Gun Corps having seen active service for the past 3½ years, and Mr. H. C. Thornton, who has over 8 years experience in the clothing business, and was head salesman with me before enlisting.

I take this opportunity of thanking the numerous patrons of Semi-Ready for their very liberal patronage during the past three years, and bespeak for my successors a continuance of the same.

WEDDING BELLS

MORDEN—HARTLEY.

The wedding took place on Saturday morning at the Episcopal Church Lindsay, of Mr. John Morden of Peterborough, and Miss Grace Hartley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hartley of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Morden will reside in Peterborough.

SHAVER—COLEMAN

The marriage took place at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon last, in St. Stephens' Church, of Miss Anna Margaret Coleman, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Coleman, of Oliver avenue, Westmount to Mr. Morley Edward Shaver, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shaver, of Peterborough, Ont. Pink rambler roses were arranged in the chancel of the church and the Very Rev. Dean Evans performed the ceremony. Mr. Coleman gave his daughter away and she wore a gown of white satin veiled in Georgette and trimmed with pearls her tulle veil was arranged under a Dutch cap of real lace and caught with orange blossoms, her bouquet being a shower of white roses and sweet pea. The bride's sister, Miss Alice Coleman, wearing pink and white brocade, a black picture hat and carrying a bouquet of Opheia roses, was maid of honor and little Miss Martha Coleman, niece of the bride, and Miss Audrey Tod, were flower girls. Both wore accordian pleated crepe de chine with poke bonnets of white tulle and carried baskets of sweetheart roses. Lieut. Edwin Sheahan was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Milton Coleman, brother of the bride and Mr. Howard Pelton. The bride's mother gowned in black satin with Spanish lace coatee and wore a black picture hat with ostrich tips and a corsage bouquet of purple sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. W. Shaver, of Peterborough, Ont., who was in town for the wedding wore a gown of grey satin, a black hat trimmed with ostrich tips and corsage bouquet of pink sweet peas. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents following the ceremony, where Easter lillies decorated the drawing room, the bride's table and dining being decorated with white sweet peas and maiden hair ferns. Going away the bride wore a navy blue tricotine suit with a small black hat and taupe fox furs. The honeymoon will be spent in New York. Out of town guests include: Mrs. Mary Strode, of Norwich, Ont., Miss Anna Nash, of Cornwall, Ont., Miss Frances Preston of St. Albans, Vt.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM JOHNSTON

On Tuesday, April 29th., there died at his residence, 340 Selye Terrace, Rochester, N.Y., Mr. William Johnston, formerly of Peterborough, aged 78 years. Besides his wife, he is survived by six children, Mrs. Thomas Free, Mrs. William Miller, James, Herbert and Thomas Johnston, of this city, and John R. Johnston of the A.E.F. France; one brother, Alexander Johnston of Canada; 11 grand children and one great-grandchild.

Deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. Frank R. Clarke, jeweller of this city, who was in attendance at the funeral in Rochester. Mrs. Thos. Jobe of this city, is a sister-in-law of the deceased.

MRS. RICHARD MOWRY.

The death took place on Sunday morning, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. F. Stenson, of a life-long resident of Peterborough in the person of Mrs. Richard Mowry, relict of Richard Mowry.

Mrs. Mowry's maiden name was Mary Sedgwick, and she was in her eighty-seventh year. For a number of years she was a resident of Ashburnham, living on Mark Street, where she had many old friends which she made by her very lovable disposition and kindly actions. She has been failing for some time, but has only been confined to her room about a week.

She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters: Mrs. Scrimiger, of Hamilton; Miss Rebecca Mowry and Mrs. Frederic Stenson of Peterborough. Her only son, Sergt. Edward Mowry, was killed in action.

The funeral will be held to-morrow (Tuesday), 6th May, 1919, from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Frederic Stenson, 351 Reid Street, the service at the house being at 2 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Mallott will officiate. Interment will take place in the Little Lake Cemetery.

DIED.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Fred Stinson, 351 Reid street, on Tuesday, May 6th, at 2.30 o'clock. Services at the house at 2 o'clock sharp, Rev. Mr. Mallott officiating.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of John Gordon Miller, who was killed in action May 3rd, 1917, in the Battle of Fresnoy.

Somewhere in France as daylight fades.
The gleaming sun shall steal across
And tender beams in soft caress
Shall linger on a wooden cross.
So far from home a mother's tears
May never on the light sods fall,
And far from home who helped to be
In days to care his all in all.
Oh, lonely grave! yet not alone;
For God is mindful of his own;
Somewhere in France, at twilight hour,
The reverent peasant passing near,
Shall linger by the hero's grave
And breathe to heaven a breath of prayer;
While childish hands with love entwine
A wreath of fragile lilies fair,
An emblem fragrant and divine.
Though British soil enfoldeth not,
He sleepeth in a kindly spot
"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend."

Netherlands May Refuse to Give Up the Ex-Kaiser

Legal Opinion is That Former Kaiser Not Guilty of Crimes Mentioned in Treaty—Not Guilty But Responsible.

NEW YORK, May 5. — A London correspondent to the New York Tribune says:

The announcement that the former Kaiser and other men responsible to the laws of civilized warfare will be brought to trial has given rise to the question here whether there might be any possibility of Holland refusing to give up the ex-Emperor.

Investigation shows clearly that such a possibility exists. Dutch circles in London firmly expressed the opinion that the extradition of the former Kaiser is impossible. They point out that the extradition laws do not include political crimes.

It is the legal opinion in the Netherlands that the Kaiser is not guilty of any crimes definitely mentioned in extradition treaties with Holland.

Moreover they point out that if crimes were committed they certainly were committed in German territory. Therefore, that is the country whence a request for the extradition of the late war lord must come. They express doubt whether it will be found legal to claim that the Kaiser's crimes were committed in France and Belgium or on the high seas.

Not Guilty But Responsible.

One well informed authority said that Holland's attitude toward the affair is that the Kaiser was not guilty but was the responsible party, and that there lies a distinction which the allies perhaps have not always made. It seems from what can be gathered here that Holland will dispute it, for such action, however, would be an entirely different matter.

Such a request would be carefully considered by the Dutch Parliament. The success of such a request would depend greatly upon its tone and the degree to which it conformed to diplomatic usage.

It is apparent from the tone of the American minority report that our delegates believe the conviction of the Kaiser on legal grounds will be impracticable.

From a political viewpoint it is possible. But politically it would be virtually impossible to demand the former Kaiser's extradition therefore, it seems probable that the extradition will be requested, not demanded. There is a possibility of such a request being declined. There is a probability that a demand would be refused.

One good authority in London expressed the candid opinion that the Dutch "would be glad to get William Hohenzollern off their hands." But Dutch sources here point out that the former Kaiser is regarded in Holland as a private gentleman, guilty of no crimes against the laws of Holland, and paying his income, and other tax. But he admitted that "the former Kaiser is being carefully watched to make sure that he starts no political intrigues in our country."

The final decision of the matter rests with the present Dutch Government, which declines to make any statement on the matter before receiving a request or a demand for Wilhelm's person.

THOSE FASHIONS.

"Ah, sir with me and be my love!
No more I'll scorn your dress
So straight and narrow, if not prim,
But all its loveliness
I'll sing with ardor from my heart,
As passing grace above;
Also your feather duster plume
If you will be my love."

"Yes, dear one, I will fly with you
And will not ridicule
The freakish garb with bat-like wings
Which makes you look the fool
Except to eyes of love like mine.
I find it picturesque.
And I will marry you, my love,
E'en in this new weird dress."

The English Language.

It would be impossible to give the exact number of words in the English language. Words are constantly being coined and foreign words are being added to the language. A recent edition of a leading dictionary gives between 400,000 and 500,000 words. Many of them are derivatives, as run, run, running, run, runner, etc.

SYNOPSIS OF THE HISTORY OF THE KINMOUNT BRIDGE

Cost of Maintenance Will Be Shared By Peterboro County—The Work of Quarter of a Century.

The boundary line between the Counties of Peterboro and Victoria was run between the townships of Galway, Peterboro Co., and the township of Somerville, Victoria Co., in the year 1855 by Mr. Michael Dean, P. L. S. In making his report by map and field notes to the Government he recommended (on account of physical difficulties) to deviate from the boundary at or near the south east angle of the 14th con. of Somerville Tp. and cross the Burnt River at a point about 20 to 25 rods from the boundary and continue north to the northern boundary of Somerville and Galway.

A short time after this survey was made, the Government opened the road, under the colonization road department and it was known as the Bobcaygeon road. The lands were open for settlement and in a very short time every lot, fit or unfit for settlement was an up hby discharged British soldiers—Pensions— on both sides of the road. The Government built a bridge over Burnt River at the point indicated by the surveyor on his map and the Government gave in perpetuity the falls near the bridge to a man to erect a saw and grist mill for the benefit of the settlers and as far as I can learn. This man (Scotch) John Hunter gave the name of Kinmount to the new village in the wilds of Somerville and Galway. I do not know the exact date but think it was 1881 when the second bridge was built but the counties of Peterboro and Victoria erected it. Peterboro disclaiming all legal liability to contribute.

Took Proceedings

In the year 1882 Victoria Co., took proceedings against Peterboro Co. to compel the said Peterboro Co., to arbitrate in regard to building and maintenance of said bridge. This case was tried before Chief Justice Wilson, who decided against Victoria The townships of Somerville in the year 1895 took proceedings in the courts to compel the Counties of Peterboro and Victoria to assume the Kinmount bridge. Justice R. Meredith decided against the township of Somerville.

The matter was left in obeyance until Nov. 24th, 1915 when the present reeve of Somerville Tp., moved in County Council, seconded by Mr. Tiers that the standing committee on Finance and assessment be instructed to take into consideration and report on the advisability of this County with the County of Peterboro assuming the maintenance of the Kinmount bridge reconsidered Jan. Somerville.

Committe reported—Clause 4 that a committee composed of the Warden, chairman of this committee and Messrs. Morrison, Fee, Hetherington and Broad be appointed to confer with the council of Peterboro relative to the Pigeon Creek bridge. Your committee recommend that the same committee discuss with the council of Peterboro Co., the maintenance of the Kinmount bridge.

Another Attempt

Another attempt by the reeve of Somerville to have the matter of the Kinmount bridge reconsiderrd Jan. 26th 1916 in the county Council was ineffectual. The next attempt was to try to get legislation. In March 1916, Dr. R. Mason M. P. P. was asked to try to procue an audience for delegates from Somerville council in regard to a Private Bill for the Kinmount bridge from the Minister of Public Works. This was granted and a day set but the Reeve had an attack of La Grippe and the Council decided in his absence to defer until another date.

A Meeting

Dr. Mason then arranged for a meeting on Feb. 21st., 1917 with Hon. Findlay McDiarmid Minister of Public Works and also introduced the delegation, which consisted of Reeve Council and clerk of Somervil. Mr. John Carew, M.P.P. of South Victoria and Mr. R. J. McLaughlin solicitor for Somerville Township.

Peterboro was represented by a strong deputation of County Councillors Co. clerk, Mr. Ed. Peck Solicitor and Mr. Gillespie M.P.P. of Peterboro. At the conclusion of the interview the Minister of Public Works was satisfied that Somerville township had good grounds for bringing in a private bill and was satisfied for the council of Somerville to do so.

The session was however too far advanced to have the Bill introduced at that time. The petitions and bill were prepared and all in order for the session of Parliament in 1918 by Mr. R. J. McLaughlin.

Introduced Bill

Feb. 15th. 1918 Dr. R. Mason introduced the bill known as "An Act Respecting Burnt River bridge in the township of Somerville." The Bill was given first reading on this date and was referred to Private Bills committee. This committee on Feb. 28th., met representatives from Somerville Tp. with their solicitor, Peterboro Co., and solicitor and Victoria Co., and solicitor. After considerable discussion, it was decided that as there had been litigation twice in this case to bring the matter before the Railway and Municipal Board for thorough investigation. Said board to report to Private Bills committee at next session.

The Railway and Municipal board met in the Board rooms January 16th., 1919, Somerville, Township Peterboro and Victoria Counties being well represented. R. J. McLaughlin, Reeve Morrison, Councillors Thos. Byrne, Mr. George Train, Township Treasurer and Post Master of Kinmount, for Somerville Tp.; Mr. A. M. Fulton, Solicitor, Warden Howdins, Mr. J. R. McNeillie, County Clerk for Victoria County; Mr. Edward Peck, Solicitor, Warden Anderson, County Clerk Elliott, a large delegation of County Councillors and Mr. Gillespie, M.P.P., member for West Peterboro and Peterboro County; Dr. R. Mason, M.P.P. of North Victoria and Haliburton, headed our representatives.

The report of the Board was emphatically in Somerville's favor.

The Private Bills' Committee met March 27th., 1919, after a short discussion. The report of the Board was passed unanimously.

On March 28th Dr. Mason moved the second reading of the Bill which was carried. On April 7th. 1919, Dr. Mason moved the third reading of the Bill which was carried. The Bill will become law and the injustice that Somervlle Township has suffered for over a quarter of a century is at an end and from henceforth the cost of maintenance will be borne by the Counties of Peterboro and Victoria.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"Well, I sent for you professionally," she retorted coolly. "You don't suppose I took your love making seriously."

He flushed dully, after the manner of men with thick fair skins, and his hard blue eyes lost their fire as he stared at her. It was incomprehensible that she could misunderstand him.

"It was serious enough for me. I merely stayed away, because, having spoken as I did, I—well, I cannot very well explain. You will remember that I made you promise to send for me if you were in trouble—"

"I remembered!" She felt his rebuke obscurely. "It never occurred to me to send for anyone else."

"Thank you for that."

"Did you mean anything but politeness when you said that you had been anxious to see me?"

He hesitated, but he had already made up his mind that the time had come to put here on her guard. Besides, he inferred that she had begun herself to appreciate her danger.

"You have read the newspapers. You saw the reporters this afternoon. Of course you must have guessed that they they hope for a sensational trial with you as the heroine."

"Ask the public. Even that element that believes itself to be select and would not touch a yellow paper devours a really interesting crime in high life. Never mind that now. Let us get down to brass tacks. They want to fix the crime on you. How are they going to manage it? That is the question for us. Tell me exactly what they said, what they made you say."

Mrs. Balfame gave him so circumstantial an account of the interview that he looked at her in admiration, although his rigid American face, that looked so strong, turned paler still.

"What a splendid witness you would make!" He stared at the carpet for a moment, then flashed his eyes upward much as Broderick had done. "Tell me," he said softly, "is there anything you withheld from them? You know how safe you are with me. But I must be in a position to advise you what to say and to leave unsaid— if the worst comes."

"You mean if I am arrested?" She had a moment of complete naturalness, and stared at him wildly. He leaned forward and patted her hand.

"Anything is possible in a case like this. But you have nothing to fear. Now, will you tell me—"

"Do you think I did it?"

"I know that you did not. But I think you know something about it."

"It would cast no light on the mystery. He was shot from that grove on a pitch dark night, and that is all there is to it."

"Let me be the judge of that."

"Very well. I had put out my light—upstairs—and, as I was nervous, I looked out of the window to see if Dave was coming. I had hanged to ride him home— and go! Then I happened to glance in the direction of the grove, and I saw some one sneaking about there—"

"Yes!" He half rose, his eyes expanding, his nostrils dilating. "Go on. Go on."

"I told you I was nervous—wrought up from that dreadful scene at the club. I just felt like an adventure! I slipped down stairs and out of the house by the kitchen door— Frieda takes the key at the back hall door on Saturday night — thinking I would watch the burglar; of course that was what I thought he must be; and I know Dave would be along in a minute—"

"How long was this after he telephoned? It would take him some time to walk from Cunnack's; and he didn't leave at once—"

"Oh, quite a while after. I was sure then that he would be along in a minute or two. Well—it may seem incredible to you, but I really felt as if excitement of that dangerous sort would be a relief."

"I understand perfectly." Rush spoke with the fatuousness of man who believes that love and complete comprehension of the object beloved are natural corollaries. "But—but that is not the sort of story that goes down with a jury of small farmers and trades-people. They don't know much about your sort of nerves. But go on."

"Well, I managed to get into the grove without being either seen or heard by that man. I am sure of that. He moved around a good deal, and I thought he was feeling about for some point from which he could make a dart for the house. Then I heard Dave in Dawbarn street, singing. Then I saw him under the lamp-post. After that it all happened so quickly I can hardly recall it clearly enough to describe. The man near me crouched. I can't tell you what I thought then—if I knew he was going to shoot—or why I didn't cry out. Almost before I had time to think at all, he fired, and Dave went down."

"But what about that other bullet? Are you sure there was no one else in the grove?"

"There may have been a dozen. I heard some one running afterwards; there may have been more than one."

"Did you have a pistol?" He spoke very softly. "Don't be afraid to tell me. It might easily have gone off accidentally—or something deeper than your consciousness may have telegraphed an imperious message to your hand."

But Mrs. Balfame, like all artificial people, was intensely secretive, and only delivered herself of the unvarnished truth when it served her purpose best. She gave a little feminine shudder. "I never kept a pistol in the house. If I had, it would have been empty—just something to flourish at a burglar."

"Ah—yes, I was going to say that I was glad of that, but I don't know that it matters if you had taken a revolver out that night, loaded or otherwise, and confessed to it, you hardly could have escaped arrest by this time, even if it were a .38. And if you confessed to going out into the dark to stalk a man without one — that would make your adventure look foolhardy and purposeless—"

It was evident that he was thinking aloud. She interrupted him sharply: "But you believe me?"

"I believe every word you say. The more differently you act from other women, the more natural you seem to me. But I think you were dead right in suppressing the episode. It leads nowhere and would incriminate you."

"It may come out yet. That is why I sent for you, not because I was afraid of those reporters. Frieda was on the back stairs that night when I came in. I thought I heard a sound and called out. I told Anna that night and she questioned Frieda indirectly and was satisfied that she had heard nothing, for although she had come home early with a toothache, she was suffering so intensely that she wouldn't have heard if the shot had been fired under her window. So I dismissed such misgivings as I had from my mind. But just after those reporters left she came up to my room and told me that she saw me come in, and tried to blackmail me for five hundred dollars. I soon made her admit that she had not seen me; but she had heard me, no doubt of that. I explained logically why I was there—after a drink of water, and that I called out to her because I thought I heard some one try the door—but if those reporters get hold of her—"

His face looked very grim. "That is bad, bad. By the way, why didn't you run to Balfame? That would seem the natural thing—"

"I was suddenly horribly afraid, I think I knew he was dead and I didn't want to go near that. I ran like a dog back to its kennel."

"It was a feminine enough thing to do." For the first time he smiled, and his voice, which had insensibly grown inquisitorial, softened once more. "It was a dreadful position to find oneself in and no mistake. Your instinct was right. If you had been found bending over him—still, as you had no weapon—"

"I think on the whole it would have been better to have gone to him. Of course that is what I should have done if I had loved him. As it was, I ran as far from him as I could get—"

"Well, don't let us waste time discussing the ought to have beens. Unless some one can prove that you were out that night, the whole incident must be suppressed. If you are arrested on any trumped up charge—and the district attorney is keener than the reporters—you must stick to your story. By the way, why didn't you tell the reporters that Frieda was in the house about the time the shot was fired?"

"I had forgotten. The house has been full of people; the neighborhood has lived here; I have noticed her no more than if she were as wooden as she looks."

"Do you think she did it?"

"I wish I could. But she would not have had time to get into the house before I did. And the footsteps were running toward the lane at the back of the grounds."

"She is one of the swiftest dancers down in that hall where she goes with her crowd every Saturday night. I have been doing a little sleuthing on my own account, but I can't connect her up with Balfame."

"He wouldn't have looked at her."

"You never can tell. A man will often look quite hard at whatever happens to be handy. But she doesn't appear to have any sweetheart; although she's been in the country for four years. She is intimate in the home of Old Dutch and goes about with a young Conrad, but he is engaged to some one else. All the boys like to dance with her. She left the hall suddenly and ran home—ostensibly with a toothache. If she hid in the grove to kill Balfame she could have got into the house before you did. What was she doing on the stair, anyway?"

"I didn't ask her."

"She may have been too out of breath to answer you. Or too wary. Those other footsteps—they may have been those of an accomplice; the man who fired the other pistol."

"But I would have seen her running ahead of me."

"Not necessarily. It was very dark. Your mind was stunned. You may have hesitated longer than you know before making for the house. One is liable to powerful inhibitions in great crises. Where is the girl? I think I'll have her in."

He walked the floor nervously while Mrs. Balfame went out to the kitchen. Frieda was sitting by the stove knitting. Commanded to come to the parlour, her little eyes almost closed, but she followed Mrs. Balfame and confronted Rush, who stood in the middle of the room looking tall and formidable.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attends the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 250,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

The most successful solvents are used to extract the medicinal properties from these herbs.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtue.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Fate of a Fallen Queen.

When the French dethroned Queen Ranavalona of Madagascar she was given a small house in Algiers and a still smaller pension. Some little time ago she was permitted to visit Paris. No carriage or car was placed at her disposal. She was left without money to see the sights or go shopping, and she was not taken to theaters or social gatherings. Most of her time she passed in her room, looking out through the window at what was going on below. At last she was driven to apply to the authorities for passage back to Algiers, and there she has since remained, living in the most humble fashion imaginable. Yet the island over which she once ruled is larger than France itself.

The biggest cinematograph feat yet is that of an Italian company, which is now at work upon "The Holy Bible From Genesis to Revelation." Many of the scenes will be filmed in Palestine. Six thousand people will take part in it. As a film of such length—20,000 feet—would occupy a long time in exhibition, the company have decided to divide it into fifteen parts of two reels each. The flood and the fall of Babylon are two of the proposed scenes.

Cold Cool A-plenty.

A geological survey of parts of Spitzbergen shows that there are immense deposits of superior coal in various places, and interested individuals and companies alike are planning to tap these resources and bring them upon the highway of international trade. Not many years ago Spitzbergen was an unknown land, and for many years it was a resort only for whalers, fishermen and bandits.

Try this real hair tonic at home—

"Shampoo, Sir?"

There would be decidedly less baldness if more men knew the great comfort and simplicity of the Lux shampoo. Its rich lather thoroughly cleanses and invigorates the hair and scalp. Washing the hair is oft-times something of a task but with Lux it is no trouble at all.

Lux will remove only the superfluous oil—the dust and grime—it is so pure it can injure nothing that pure water itself may touch.

Rinses out absolutely clean leaving the hair soft, silky and glossy with new vigor and health.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A FOSTER CHILD

How a Conspiracy Was Organized to Rob Her

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Ethan Trowbridge, a miner in Colorado, who had been prospecting on his own account, came to his cabin one evening sick and discouraged. He had some time before entered a claim on which he had found evidence of gold and had been endeavoring to show that it was of sufficient value to enable him to secure capital to develop it. While working in the rain he had caught a severe cold and had on this memorable evening come to his home never to leave it again. In a few days he died.

Trowbridge left a wife and a little daughter three years of age. The widow was absolutely penniless. She made every effort to support herself and her little girl, but she, too, soon broke down in health and followed her husband to the grave.

The only person who ministered to her in her last illness was a negro woman commonly called Aunt Sue. At Mrs. Trowbridge's death Aunt Sue carried the little girl to her own home and took care of her the same as one of her own children.

Twelve years passed. Edith Trowbridge, now fifteen years of age and old enough to understand that she was living with a different race from her own, left her foster mother with deep gratitude for her kindness to go forth into the world to earn her own living. The old woman parted with her reluctantly. But her own children were at work, and she realized that it was time Edith should be. Besides, it was proper that the white girl should associate with those of her own color.

Edith Trowbridge found a position as nurse with a Mrs. Kimball, a lady who shortly afterward removed to St. Louis, taking the girl with her. Edith's story interested her employer so far that she sent her to school, where, being very bright, she learned rapidly. At nineteen she had become a member of the Kimball family, though she continued to relieve Mrs. Kimball of many household duties.

Edith Trowbridge was known during the time she lived with Aunt Sue by the name of Springer, that being Aunt Sue's name, so far as she had a name. While with Mrs. Kimball she became known as Edith Kimball. At twenty years of age she was enjoying many social advantages and was a favorite. Among her young men friends was Arthur Ingersoll, who had recently been admitted to the bar and gave promise of a successful career. Ingersoll fell in love with Edith. She reciprocated, and they became engaged.

One day a man appeared at Aunt Sue's cabin and told her that Edward Springer, her master when she had been a slave, had died and left her and her children $1,000 each. All she had to do to secure her inheritance was to give him a list of her children. Aunt She could not write, but she gave the man the names required and, in order to serve her foster child, included Edith. The man took down these names, and Aunt Sue made her mark at the bottom of the list, a neighbor being called in to witness the signature.

It was about this time that a letter came to the St. Louis postoffice addressed to Edith Trowbridge at the Kimball address. Edith opened the letter, wondering who it was who knew her by her real name. The writer asked her if she would sell a four acre lot, of which she was the owner, on Clear creek, near Georgetown, Colo., and if so what price she put upon it.

This was Greek to Edith, who had no knowledge of such lot and believed the writer had made a mistake. So she wrote him to this effect. He wrote back that the land had been pre-empted by one Ethan Trowbridge seventeen years before and it was supposed that she was her father's only heir.

Edith now referred the letters to her lover, who took the matter up and through a correspondent in Colorado discovered that a valuable vein of ore had been discovered on property adjoining the claim entered by Ethan Trowbridge shortly before his death. The vein was supposed to extend through the Trowbridge claim, and many persons were trying to find the owner of the Trowbridge property in order to buy it.

On learning these facts Ingersoll took the information to his sweetheart, and there was a joyful meeting, Edith having become an heiress. It was arranged between them that he should go to Colorado as her agent and look into the matter. So after Edith had signed a power of attorney to that effect they parted, and the next day Ingersoll started westward.

That was the last meeting between the lovers for some time. The next word Edith received from her lover was a letter from Colorado in which he informed her that he had received a severe blow, which must also fall on her with equal force. He informed her that he had seen convincing proofs that she was the daughter not of Ethan Trowbridge, but of a negress named Susan Springer, who had certified that Edith was her child.

Of course all was over between them, since he could not bring himself to marry a girl with negro blood in her veins. He was heartbroken.

The shock to Edith was far greater than to Ingersoll. She had lost her lover, she had been disappointed in her inheritance, and Aunt Sue had certified that she was of the negro race. For a time the girl was so far crushed that she was incapable of taking any action; then, when the first anguish had passed, she made her confession to Mrs. Kimball. That lady gave her heartfelt sympathy, and when Edith assured her that she had a faint remembrance of her white mother the lady offered to assist her in securing proof as to her real parentage.

A few days later, having been furnished with what money she needed, Edith started for Colorado. On arriving there she went at once to the cabin of her foster mother, Aunt Sue.

"Bless yo' heart, honey," exclaimed the old woman, "yo' mighty good to come back to see me! Hab yo' got de money?"

"What money?"

Aunt Sue then told of the visit she had received and the legacy, adding, "I didn' want yo' to lose yo' share, honey, so I tole de man yo' was one o' my own chillen."

"Oh, Aunt Sue!" exclaimed Edith bitterly.

"Wasn't dat right?"

"Have you said the children received your legacies?" asked Edith, ignoring the question.

"No, and I haben't see de gentleman sence."

"I'm afraid you never will. All he wanted of you was to get your statement that I was your daughter."

"Oh, my goody gracious!"

Arthur Ingersoll returned to St. Louis a deeply disappointed man. He refrained from attempting to see Edith, but wrote a note to Mrs. Kimball to say that he thought it best he and his former fiancee should not meet again. Mrs. Kimball replied that Edith had gone to Colorado to collect proof that she was of pure white blood and the daughter of Ethan Trowbridge.

Ingersoll was in a quandary. If he endeavored to assist the girl he loved, to prove that she was exclusively of the white race and if turned out that she was not, he would be more deeply involved with her. If, on the contrary, he denied her such assistance and she proved that she was all white it would be tantamount to deserting her in time of trouble. He pondered on the matter, but for a long while came to no decision.

A week's indecision was enough for him. He decided that he would not desert Edith. Having come to this conclusion, he took a train for Colorado.

He found Edith at a hotel in Georgetown. He advanced to meet her with open arms, but she drew back.

"There can be nothing more between us," she said, "till this matter is cleared up."

"You will let me help you clear it up?"

Edith hesitated, but he pleaded so hard that she yielded. She told him of her interview with Aunt Sue and of her suspicion that some one had laid a trap to beat her out of her inheritance. Then they both went to work to unearth the scheme.

They were not long in discovering that a man of the name of William Trowbridge had laid claim to the property in question, claiming to be Ethan Trowbridge's only brother; that he and Ethan had never had a sister; consequently William was sole heir-at-law. Ingersoll saw at once that the proper ground on which to dispute this man's claim was that Edith was Ethan Trowbridge's daughter and consequently heir-at-law. But the enemy had Aunt Sue's statement that Edith was her daughter. The only hope was to prove that in Edith's blood there was no negro blood.

Having filed the necessary papers in the case, the lovers returned to St. Louis, where they consulted physicians and men of science, with a view to discovering whether there was any known test for pure white blood. They were informed that there was, but it would be necessary for Edith to go to the east, where the most advanced specialists were located.

So far as Edith's immediate circle was concerned, there was no necessity for making the journey to submit to such a test, for it was plain to them that there had been a conspiracy with a view to securing her inheritance. But the proving of her case in law seemed to render the matter obligatory to her. Just as she was about to start word came from Colorado that a woman had been found who had known the Trowbridge family, had been at the house when Edith was born and had been cognizant of the death of her parents and her removal to the cabin of Aunt Sue.

On receipt of this news the lovers decided to return to Colorado, take the deposition of this woman and file it with the other papers in the case. But Ingersoll insisted before starting that they be married, since he was now satisfied as to Edith's birth. She consented, and they went westward as man and wife.

By this time William Trowbridge, who had secured Aunt Sue's statement that Edith was her daughter and who was not a brother of Ethan Trowbridge, fearing he would be prosecuted for conspiracy and perjury, disappeared. On the affidavit of the person who had known the Trowbridges and other proofs of her identity Edith was put in possession of her inheritance.

It was found that the vein on the adjoining property had been worked clear up to the line of the Trowbridge claim, opening and growing richer as it advanced. Edith before leaving Colorado sold the property for a fortune and returned to her home a very rich woman. She insisted on taking Aunt Sue with her, since the latter was getting old, and installed her in her St. Louis home to work or not as she chose.

BEWARE OF TENDER, INFLAMED GUMS

Pyorrhea, with a premature loss of teeth, is almost inevitable if you do not properly care for your gums. Here is the explanation:

As you age, the body tissues naturally relax. You see this tissue loosening in the neck. It goes on in your gums, too. As you grow older, your gums shrink below the normal gum line. Through lack of care they become spongy and inflamed. Then you have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. And many under forty, also.

Don't let a tender gum spot develop. These tender spots breed disease germs which enter the system through tiny openings—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments. Immediately get Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. Forhan's tones the gums and hardens them. They in turn keep the teeth healthy. Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans them scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 30c and 60c tubes. All Druggists.

The March to Mecca.

The great caravan which every year sets out from Cairo for Mecca has a conductor on a camel leading the way. Day and night, whatever the weather is, he remains without any covering, naked to the waist. With him march men with large torches, which are kept alight during the night and illuminate the column of smoke above them, so that it appears a pillar of fire. During the day, when the head of the caravan is difficult to see on account of intervening hills and mounds of sand, the torches are kept burning, so that instead of the light which served during the night a column of smoke indicates to the straggling caravan from afar the direction of the march and the time and place of a halt.

THE BURNING STARS.

What Set Them on Fire? Ask Astronomers.

One of the biggest puzzles of astronomy is just that. Why are the stars on fire, and what started them to burning? Our sun, which is a small star, offers a near-at-hand example.

A theory suggested is that the phenomenon is due to collisions. If two cold heavenly bodies ran into each other, the energy of their impact (traveling many miles per second) would be converted into heat, transforming them into masses of flaming gas.

But there is a whole lot of empty room in the heavens, and such collisions must presumably be rare. How, at all events, could there be enough of them to account for all the billions of them to account for all which is a burning sun?

Another theory is that each star was originally a mass of hot gas. But, if so, what made the gas hot? Is it to be supposed that the drawing together of particles of matter (solid or gaseous) toward a common centre engendered heat enough to set the whole on fire, thus evolving a young sun?

Nobody knows what the nebulae, which cover vast areas of the heavens as with a filmy lacework, are composed of. They may be clouds of meteoric matter. Whatever they are, it is thought that they represent the raw material out of which suns are eventually fashioned.

Yet another, and quite the newest, theory is that radio-active substances contained in the material of forming suns give rise to the heat that starts them to burning.

Our own sun is a very old star, almost decrepit. One evidence of this is afforded by the dark spots that constantly appear on its surface. As a symptom these spots correspond to the wrinkles on the face of an aged person.

Suns, like people, are born, grow on and die. If we would view a star that is nearly dead, we have only to contemplate the so-called "dark companion" of Sirius. It is so faint as to be barely distinguishable by the telescope, though twenty times the size of our own orb of day.

Sirius is, from our viewpoint, the brightest star in the sky. It is a young and vigorous sun, forty times as bright as ours. If it was as near to us as our own solar orb, we should all be burned to death in a minute. It would melt the very rocks of the earth's crust. But its "dark companion" is nearly extinguished.

We have knowledge of one sun, nearly as big as ours, that has gone out altogether. It is a companion of Algol (in Medusa's Head), and is 830,000 miles in diameter. Like Sirius and its comrades, the two revolve about a common centre of gravity.

Algol—called Al-ghul (grave-robbing fiend) by early Arabian astronomers—was anciently regarded as malefic or baleful. It is a pure white star that once in every sixty-nine hours fades out to a fraction of its normal brightness. For nearly five hours it fades, and then, remaining unchanged for twenty minutes, soon regains its splendor. This is due to interference by the dark companion, which shuts off three-fourths of its light.

The star Castor (in Castor and Pollux) reveals itself to the telescope as a pair of mighty suns, and the bigger of the two revolves about a third gigantic orb that is wholly dark—a curious reversal of the arrangement between our sun and the earth.

Astronomers every now and then make discovery of a previously unknown dark star. In some cases they may be seen by the light reflected from their bright companions; in other instances their presence is unmistakably indicated by perturbations of the latter. But it seems entirely reasonable to presume that such extinguished suns are plentiful in the illimitable void of space. Like them, our own solar orb will eventually burn itself out and vanish from the view of star-gazers who look out upon the night skies from distant parts of the Milky Way.

Fighting the Gypsy Moth.

The calosoma beetle, an imported natural enemy of the gypsy moth, is found to be multiplying very fast in the moth infested territory of Massachusetts and seems likely to do much toward keeping this pest in check. This is only one of a dozen or more species of insects that are being used in the moth campaign, so that the outlook is decidedly encouraging for its suppression.

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:— "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Why Dominion Friction Surface Belting Keeps Employees Satisfied

There are few manufacturers who haven't discovered that satisfied employees are an absolute necessity to low cost of production.

But poor equipment will not keep employees contented—it will not permit maximum production—it increases upkeep cost—it creates needless waste of time for operators and machines while making repairs.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting, in eliminating these conditions, does much to keep employees satisfied, for it enables operators to turn out maximum production at low cost—does away with most transmission troubles and saves power by taking a grip on pulleys that practically prevents all slipping.

Our Belting Experts are ready to show you how this "plus service" belting will keep your employees satisfied, just as they have for many other manufacturers. Phone, wire or write to our nearest service branch—there is no obligation.

WINNIPEG VETERANS WANT ALIENS' LAND.

Would Confiscate All Their Money and Property Over $75.

WINNIPEG, May 3.—Demanding the immediate internment of the enemy alien population of Manitoba, their deportation and the confiscation of their money and property over $75 in favour of the widows and orphans of the soldiers, a delegation of between two hundred and three hundred members of the G.W.V.A. appeared before Premier T. C. Norris in the Parliament Buildings on Thursday night.

He informed the veterans that private employment agencies would cease to exist in Manitoba from June 1, when licenses expired.

In regard to deportation and confiscation of alien property the Premier stated he would make strong representation to Sir Thomas White and the Department of Justice at Ottawa regarding the views of the veterans on the question.

SAVED THE FLEET.

Brilliant Exploit of a Brainy Wisconsin Lumberman.

A BIT OF WAR TIME STRATEGY

The Red River Was Dammed, and Admiral Porter's Gunboats Shot the Rapids, Though the Scheme Had Been Ridiculed by Army Engineers.

In the spring of 1864 a Wisconsin lumberman by a brilliant exploit saved the Red river fleet of the Mississippi squadron from destruction. To thwart the intrigues of Napoleon III., who had sent a French army into Mexico, the federal government desired to gain a strong military foothold in Texas. To this end it was planned to send an army and fleet into interior Texas by way of the Red river, which was navigable only in the spring.

The army under General Banks, supported by Admiral Porter's fleet of gunboats, began the ascent of the river. But matters went badly almost from the beginning. The leaders quarreled among themselves, the preparations made were inadequate, and, worst of all, the Red river suddenly began to fall, when by all precedents it should have risen. Admiral Porter, fearful that his fleet would be caught in the shallows, hurriedly descended the stream, and the army, already savagely handled by the opposing Confederate force, followed after.

At Alexandria, in central Louisiana the retreating federals found themselves face to face with a crisis. At this point the Red river is broken by a mile of rapids; the stream had fallen so quickly that the gunboats could no longer navigate the channel. The water was but three feet four inches, whereas Porter's larger gunboats drew at least seven feet. Here was indeed a desperate situation. The army, far from its source of supplies, the victorious enemy pressing in hot pursuit and the $2,000,000 fleet marooned in falling water. It seemed to almost every one that the only course open was to blow up the vessels.

But Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Bailey of the Fourth Wisconsin, who was serving at the time as acting engineer of the Nineteenth army corps, came forward with a plan for bringing the ironclads to safety. It was to raise the level of the water above the rapids by constructing a great dam across the river. When a sufficient depth of water had accumulated he proposed to break the dam in the center, thus forcing the vessels with the outrushing flood through the shallows and into the deep water below. Before the war Colonel Bailey had been a lumberman and had often seen this scheme employed in the Wisconsin pineries to "lift" stranded rafts of logs to safety.

The project was at first received with ridicule by Colonel Bailey's superiors. It was declared impossible of achievement by the best engineers in the army.

But there was nothing else to be done, and at length the Wisconsin lumberman was dubiously granted permission to put his project to the proof. His first step was to requisition detachments of "pinery boys" from the Twenty-third and Twenty-ninth Wisconsin regiments, who understood what was to be done and how to go about it.

In all 8,000 men were employed in the enterprise. Hundreds of men were set to felling trees, other hundreds toiled in the quarries that were opened for the occasion, and two or three hundred wagons were engaged in the essential work of transporting the materials for the dam. Up to their necks in the swift current, which swept over the rapids at the rate of nine miles an hour, under the blistering southern sun, the men toiled.

At the end of eight days the river was sufficiently high to permit three of the lighter gunboats to pass the upper falls, where they had been held, and come down to a position immediately above the dam, ready to pass the lower rapids. One more day and the dam would be high enough to permit all to come down in readiness for the final attempt.

On the morning of the ninth day, however, the steadily increasing pressure of the water caused two of the stout barges in the middle of the dam to swing aside, and through the opening thus created the accumulated torrent swirled. The three lighter vessels that were in position to make the passage, together with a fourth that had meanwhile come up, promptly took advantage of the break and, running the remaining rapids on the flood tide, safely reached the deeper waters below.

Somewhat encouraged by the escape of at least four of the vessels, the men bravely set about repairing the damage that had been done. Within three days the break had been closed and in addition two wing dams constructed on the upper falls. The remaining gunboats, somewhat lifted by the backwater of the wing dams, were now hauled over the upper falls, and on May 12, amid the tumultuous cheers of 30,000 soldiers lined up along the shore, made the perilous passage over the lower falls to the deep water below.

On June 11, 1864, congress adopted a resolution of thanks to Lieutenant Colonel Bailey. A few months later the officers of Admiral Porter's fleet presented him with a beautiful sword and before the year was over he had been promoted by order of the war department to the rank of brevet brigadier general.—Frederick Monk.

Oil Flow Helped by Electric Heat.

An electrical method of carrying warmth to the bottom of oil wells has been found in many cases greatly to increase the flow of oil. The heating process, says Popular Mechanics, decreases the viscidity of the oil, usually occasioned by the admission of air to the well and the cooling of the rock bed. Minute crevices and capillary channels which afford easy passage to warm, thin oil become quite impassable if the oil gums. The electric heating method not only thins the oil but often generates gas whose pressure helps the oil to the surface. The system found military use in the abandoned oil fields of Roumania and Galicia.

40c An Hour For Labourers And 60c For Carpenters Are Wages Fixed By Council

City Can Get All the Men It Requires at These Rates, Ald. Turner Stated Last Night in Moving the Resolution — Labour Aldermen Alone Opposed It.

APPLIES TO CITY EMPLOYEES

The Council's answer to organized labor's demand for higher wages, particularly for the laborers and carpenters who may be employed on any civic work this year, is contained in the following resolution, moved last night by Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Hamilton:

That 40c an hour be the city's rate to outside laborers with the scale adjusted downwards for some old men of long service; that 60c an hour be paid to carpenters; that the working day be nine hours, from 7 a.m. to 12 a.m., and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; that no recognition be given to any cost or society in engaging labor.

This resolution was carried by a vote of 5 to 4 as follows:

For—Aldermen Phelan, Taylor, Edgar, Turner and Hamilton.

Against—Aldermen McIntyre, Garside, Morrison and Gainey.

Workingmen Present.

A large representation of workingmen stayed until the meeting was over last night but refrained from making any demonstration of the feelings that may have reacted to this resolution fixing the city's wages, as compared with the rates already set by the Laborers' Union, who recently agreed to reduce their scale from 50c to 45c an hour, at the suggestion of the Board of Works, and by the carpenters who have been receiving 67½ cents an hour.

A Labour Amendment.

Ald. Garside moved an amendment that the laborers be paid 45c. "If the carpenters should receive 60c the laborers should have 45c," he said. "The laborer must live and he has no salary to [illegible] the carpenter." He had no objection to carpenters at 60c.

"I had in mind," explained Ald. Turner, 'that the carpenter must supply his own tools. He must have a kit of them and he must serve as an apprentice. Therefore he should receive that much more than the laborer."

Ald. Garside—"The Trades and Labour Council proposed an eight hour day instead of nine for the city laborers because it would provide work for extra men."

Make the Men Contented.

"I would adopt the eight hour day," said Ald. McIntyre, "because you can get the best work out of men. They are more satisfied with their job, and a man is worn out at the end of a nine hour day. It takes as much for the laboring man to live as for the $1500 salaried man. Half the laboring men are going to have it; there is ing men is going to have it; there is no use trying to keep them back. This council should show the rest of the country that they are in favor of this eight hour day. (Sharp applause from the audience.)

Mayor Duncan—"My men have the eight hour day but they want to quit 15 minutes sooner just the same. The men on the corporation are just the same. If labor will be satisfied with 40c we can go ahead with work we have in prospect; if not, it is going to stop a lot of work. Manufactured goods from the United States in spite of a 35 per cent. duty, are undersselling here our own goods. It is in the interest of the city that we should try to take steps to hold things."

"This is the dearest town in the country," said one of the men in the gallery.

Ald. McIntyre remarked that manufacturers are getting more profits.

Ald. Hamilton—"The fact is they are not making money this year. They will be lucky to get through."

Ald Gainey asserted that 90 per cent. of the people in Peterboro were working people.

INDIANS ATTEND THE GRAND COUNCIL

Delegates From All Over Ontario Present—Want Representation.

Special to the Examiner:

PARRY SOUND, Ont., May 6. — To-day the Grand Council of the Ojibway, representing 15,000 Indians in Ontario, are meeting in the Council Hall at Parry Sound. In romance one pictures the dark forms stealing through the primeval forests to the council chamber, and birch bark canoes gliding across the sunlit water of Georgean Bay to the mission dock, but truth to say it was a large and powerful motor boat which drew the delegation from the Christian islands to Parry Sound in five hours yesterday, while the men from the Rama Reserve on Lake Couchiching and the Shawiniga Reserve forty miles north of Parry Sound, came by train with their club-bags in hand.

Serious Debate.

To-day a serious debate on political questions is taking place in the Brown Council Chamber on Parry Island, where over a hundred representatives of the Chippewa, or Ojibway, as they call themselves, ask that the Government give representative in Parliament to the 15,000 Ojibways in Ontario, not to mention the members of other tribes. Another request the Grand Council is making is to have Parry Sound and other reserves surveyed and divided into farms. The Parry Island Reserve contains 1,600 acres.

Delegates from Peterboro County are present at the conference.

TURNBULL KITCHEN CABINET CLUB

The Cabinets Find a Ready Sale—Plan Is a Success.

In order that the great labour saving device of the age, a kitchen cabinet, may be installed in every home in the manner most convenient to the housewives of the city, the management at Turnbull's Store, recently embarked upon the plan adopted in many of the larger cities and formed the Turnbull Kitchen Cabinet Club. Although the Club is only in its infancy hundreds of the housewives of the city have displayed their interest in the plan and the demonstrator in the top floor has had a busy time since the club was launched. To save the time and patience of the public, the management selected only the best sellers and these which it was felt carried with them an assurance of satisfaction from every standpoint and as result have six varieties of the smartest and best equipped cabinets available on the continent. The six cabinets chosen embrace all varieties and finish including brown, white enammelled and oak, each equipped with every necessary utensil. THE PACKERS ARE STILL OUT

THE DEMANDS

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, May 6.—The situation in the meat packers' strike remains unchanged, after thirty hours' idleness. The packers still refuse to negotiate with the representatives of the Meat Cutters' Union. The men on the other hand say they are determined to remain out until their demands are met.

"None of the packers have yet put forward any fact to prove that the demands of the men are exorbitant," said Lou Braithwaite, the men's organizer, to-day. "The men are determined to fight to a finish."

Bavaria Rejoices Over the Defeat of the Spartacans

(Canadian Press.)

MUNICH, May 6.—All Munich celebrated the victory over the Soviet government yesterday. The streets were crowded with people who cheered the passing troops or gave them refreshments. Captured Sparticides were hooted as they were escorted through the streets, bands played national airs outside the palace, and crowds sang patriotic airs. The Bavarian War Ministry will be transferred from Bamberg to Munich and a resolution dissolving the Bavarian army will be adopted by the cabinet because of the poor work done by Bavarian troops during troubles in this city.

Jimmy Gates Willing But Wage Not Enough

With a smile as sparkling and ingratiating as a May morning, "Jimmy" Gates appeared before the Council last night with written orders from the police department instructing him to make a spring round up of stray and wandering dogs.

"The police say they have had many complaints about dogs, your Worship," said Mr. Gates, whose mission was flashed to the Aldermen as soon as he entered the chamber.

"Yes, your Worship, but you've got to make a little rise. I underestimated last year's pickings by a long way. I was away out," the official dog catcher suggested by way of asking for an increase in his rates.

Mayor Duncan—"What 'rise' do you want?"

"I want $1.25 a dog or $15 a week. I got 75c. a dog last year."

Mayor Duncan—"But the name you got was worth something."

Mr. Gates—"I put the fear of the Lord into a few of them, but a name won't feed me. I've got to look after the food question."

Mr. Gates' application for higher wages was referred to the Property committee, and if the committee appreciates the industrious "Sherlocking" for curs that roam the streets, such as Mr. Gates manifested last year, he should get the $1.25 for every capture.

OUR WOOD PRICES FOR PRESENT WEEK

Last week we advertised special prices for wood. The response has been sufficiently gratifying to justify us continuing these prices in order to clean our yard out and get the room we will need when the sawing season starts. This wood was cut last fall and for that reason is much superior to wood cut and piled up a year ago. Our prices for this week are as follows.

Slabs—Four dollars a load, cut.

Mixed Wood—Nine dollars a cord, cut.

Hardwood—Ten dollars a cord, cut.

The mixed wood is all good body wood and has a good percentage of hardwood. It is good value at the price offered.

Peterboro Planing Mills wood yard, opposite the Braund Building (office and yard formerly occupied by Woltenholm.) Charlotte street. Telephone 66. Call and inspect the wood.

Farmers Are Moving Towards Direct Political Action, Declares Woman Member of Legislature

Yesterday's Session of the Industrial Relations Commission Concerned the Relations of the Farmers to Labour—Tired of Capitalistic Influences.

THE FARMERS' UNPROFITABLE YEARS

(By Main Johnson).

CALGARY, May 6.—As is natural in a province overwhelmingly agricultural, the relations of the farmers to labour was the subject of considerable discussion before the Industrial Relations Commission in its yesterday's session.

The list of evidence pointed to a desire for co-operation, although there were some rifts in the lute. It was Miss Jean McWilliams who first mentioned the subject, in complaining of the living and particularly the housing conditions provided by farmers for hired men.

Woman Member Represented Farmers

Mrs. McKinney, M.P.P. for Claresholm, admitted that these conditions might well be improved. Mrs. McKinney was the first woman in Canada to sit in a Legislature, and is well known further east by her visits there. She said to the Commission that she represented a rural constituency, and from first hand knowledge, could only discuss conditions in country districts. There was unrest among farmers too, and it was a growing discontent. They felt especially that there was something amiss with the Governments. Certain interests, they thought, had far too much control. Farmers and Labour had not a share of the control they were entitled to. She felt that farmers and Labour could and should co-operate, although their detailed views and interests naturally did not coincide exactly.

Farmers Are Against Moneyed Autocracy.

The farmers were moving towards direct political action. They were determined to overthrow moneyed autocracy that was exploiting both farm and labour alike. The farmer, as well as the city workman, felt he was the victim of capitalistic exploitation. Political parties, as constituted at present, were dominated by capitalistic influences.

Mrs. McKinney was asked if some Labour men did not look upon the farmers as capitalists. She agreed that this was true of abnormally large farmers controlled by syndicates, but said that in the majority of cases the farmers laboured side by side with the hired men.

Commissioner Riordan, of Montreal —"What would farmers say about the nationalization of everything, including land?"

Mrs. McKinney—"I don't think they have discussed that very much."

Senator White—"What would farmers think about growing their products and selling them without profit?"

Mrs. McKinney—"The farmer has to live."

Senator White — "Yes, but above that?"

Mrs. McKinney—"Farmers have a number of unprofitable years, and in good ones they should be able to recoup themselves for previous losses."

Before Mrs. McKinney replied to this, Chief Justice Mathers asked: "If the farmer help, but keeps all the profit except wages for himself, what about the labourer and the full result of his toil?"

Thought Size of Farms Should be Limited.

W. B. Nicholson, an oil driller, who also used to work a quarter section of land, thought farmers were part of labour. He thought there should be a limit to the size of a farm any one man could own. If farms are too big, the farmers get an opportunity to exploit the labour of other men just the same as any one else.

J. R. Brodie emphasized the difficulty farmers were experiencing this spring in getting help. The greatest authority in Calgary on the farm problem and the relation of the agrarian movement to other forces in the State is H. W. Wood, the well-known president of the United Farmers of Alberta. He did not appear before the Commission, but I had a chat with him during the day, asking especially if there was co-operation or conflict between farm and labour movements in Alberta.

"There is no amalgamation or technical co-operation of organizations," said Mr. Wood.

"And personally I think that each class should work ahead separately. In the transition period he did say, however, that the farmers and moderate labour were linked up in many of their ideals, especially in the belief that there must be greater democracy, both in business and politics. Farmers and working men also were agreed in their antagonism to poverty and to wealth. There should be a minimum and a maximum, and the labour must not be overlooked in talking about the former.

BRAMPTON FIREMEN SAVED ERINDALE

Were Rushed to Burning Village in Automobiles.

Special to the Examiner:

BRAMPTON, May 6. — When the fire bell sounded at 4.30 p.m. yesterday, calling for volunteers to go to Erindale, where there was a big fire threatening the entire village, seven automobiles filled with the town firemen responded to the call. The first car arrived at the scene of the fire just twenty-five minutes after the alarm. The men from town at once formed a bucket brigade to the river, and worked for the better part of two hours to keep the fire from the mill. The residents of the village give them the credit to-day of having saved the village. The fire started in Barker's store, cause unknown, and spread to the next store and to the hotel, both of which had been consumed when the Brampton firemen arrived.

AN ONION GARDEN ON HUNTER STREET

It has been said that the Canadian people have very little knowledge of intensive gardening, but those who happened to walk along the south side of Hunter street between George and Water streets this morning, must have come to the conclusion that some advancement at least is being made along this line. In a three-foot square hole in the pavement some one has arranged a miniature vegetable garden, complete to the extent that it even includes a "Keep off the grass" sign. From the fact that onions form the principal feature of the garden, it has been suggested that the greater production effort on Hunter street has something to do with the ambitious onion-growing plans of the member for West Peterborough, as announced last year. At all events the "garden" attracted a good deal of attention to-day.

SIR ROBT. BORDEN PROMISED A SEAT

Penalty to Be Imposed Should Germany Refuse to Sign Treaty.

VERSAILLES, May 6.— When German delegates enter the dining room of the Hotel Trianon on Wednesday afternoon to receive the text of the Treaty of Peace, they will find representatives of the Powers arrayed against Germany awaiting them at one of the great tables which have been placed in the room. Premier Clemenceau and Lloyd George and President Wilson will stand at the head of the table. The Germans will not join the Allied delegates at this time, but will be conducted to a smaller table standing by itself at the open end of the great horseshoe formed by green covered tables arranged for the meeting. There they will listen to M. Clemenceau's opening address and receive the judgment of Allied and Associated nations, as formulated in the volume of conditions drawn up during the four months of deliberation by the Inter-Allied Conference. Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, will have a seat at the Conference.

The complete economic isolation of Germany is being considered by the Council of Foreign Ministers at the Peace Conference as a measure to be adopted in the event that Germany refuses to sign the Peace Treaty.

BIG CONFLAGRATION IN COLUMBUS

Several Fatally Injured in Fire Last Night.

(Canadian Press.)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 6.— Seven persons are known to have perished and a dozen were injured, several probably fatally, in a fire which destroyed a six-story apartment house in the down-town section shortly after midnight this morning. Men, women and children jumped from windows and several children were thrown from upper floors into fire nets. The damage is estimated at $500,000.

CITY HAS A STRIKE NOW

Laborers on Sewers and Streets Quit This Morning—Action Was Precipitated by Council's Wages Set Last Night.

35 MEN AFFECTED

Between 35 and 40 of the city's labourers went on strike this morning, declaring that the Council had broken faith by its action last night in fixing the wage for labourers at 40c an hour in defiance of the Union's rate of 45c, which had been reduced from 50c at the suggestion of the Board of Works last week.

The Union had given notice that on May 1st the local rate would be 50c but reconsidering the effect of this wage they dropped it to 45c and on the understanding that this was the prevailing rate, believing that the Council had virtually agreed to it, the men according to their statement were prepared to carry on.

Ald. Turner's motion last night was a challenge which was immediately accepted. It was known practically after the Council meeting last night that the men would quit this morning. The street cleaners reported as usual at 7 o'clock this morning and "quit before they started". There were five or six of them and they have been paid 30c an hour for a nine hour day.

The Romaine street sewer gang dropped their tools at 10 o'clock. Their wage has been $3.50 for nine hours with one or two of the special men earning 45c an hour.

Other men who responded to the call to strike were several of those employed at road grading on Romaine street where a few are still working.

Drain Men at Work.

Jack Thirsbeck's gang on the surface drain on Simcoe street were still working this afternoon.

BELMONT CLUB'S ANNUAL BANQUET

The tenth annual banquet of the Belmont Club took place last evening in the Empress Hotel. Seventy-five members were present. An inspiring address was delivered by Captain Harry Rogers, who spoke for three hours on his experiences while in France, as a prisoner in Germany and in Holland. He gave a vivid word picture of conditions in prison camps and hospitals in Germany before the armistice was signed. He told of the treatment meted out to the different nationalities in the prison camps and the many attempts to escape, some of which were successful. In one of the camps the prisoners worked on a secret underground tunnel for six months in order to escape, and just as the work was completed a Sinn Feiner informed the prison authorities and the plan to escape was nipped in the bud.

Mr. Ronald McKee in a few remarks informed the club that two of their members, Mr. Frank Jenne and Mr. Harry Cook, were leaving the city to take up work in other places.

A sumptuous banquet was served by mine host Mr. Chris Graham, after which the election of officers for the ensuing year took place.

Dr. A. W. McPherson and Mr. J. C. T. Lang were elected honourary president and honourary vice-president respectively, offices which they have held since the incorporation of the club.

The Officers.

Mr. Ronald McKee was re-elected President by acclamation for a third term and Mr. W. T. Belleghem, who last year was the popular Second Vice-President, was moved up a notch and elected First Vice-President. The remaining officers who were elected are as follows:

Second Vice-Pres. — Mr. William English.

Secretary—Mr. William Heaslip.

Treasurer—Mr. H. F. Hall.

Executive Committee— Mr. Chester Therber, Mr. C. M. Moncur, Mr. Harry Dulmage, Mr. Stanley Lowe and Mr. Wilfrid Tully.

Auditors— Mr. Frank Linton and Mr. Harry Carey.

The annual report was read by Mr. Frank Linton and showed one of the most prosperous and successful years the club has had, notwithstanding that thirty-five of the members went overseas over 20 per cent. of the total membership at that time. When these members return the club will have an enrollment of over 100 members.

MAY CHANGE CITY'S BANK

Ald. Phelan Introduces Resolution to Transfer City's Account to the Bank of Montreal.

SAYS INJUSTICE DONE

An effort to transfer the city's account from the Bank of Toronto to the Bank of Montreal was indicated in the resolution moved by Ald. Phelan, and seconded by Ald. Edgar, at the meeting of the Council last night. Introducing this motion, Ald. Phelan reviewed the events by which the city's business had been first transferred from the Bank of Toronto to the Bank of Montreal in 1914, when certain loans were required to enable the city to proceed with street paving. Mayor Buller went to Montreal after failure to obtain the money from the Bank of Toronto, met the president of the Bank of Montreal, and secured the funds required. In September of that year the account was placed with the latter bank and remained there until February, 1917, when it was returned to the Bank of Toronto, following persistent urgings of some members of the Council.

Ald. Phelan stated that he considered the city had been ungrateful, and that a great injustice had been done the Bank of Montreal.

Ald. Edgar supported him, recalling that in 1917 he had done all he could to prevent the passing of the account to the Bank of Toronto.

On a motion replacing Ald. Phelan's this question was referred to the committee of the whole council in order that the new members might become conversant of the facts of the case.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR CANADA

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 6.—Prof. McClennan, of Toronto University, who was invited by the British Admiralty in 1915 to investigate the possibility of a large scale production of helium, found large quantities available in natural gas in Ontario and Western Canada, procurable at a cost of a shilling per cubic foot. Thus the possibility of securing large supplies of Helium was assured simultaneously with the practical details of production. Airships inflated with Helium have been developed by the British Navy, and the progress made warrants the opinion that in another year, large quantities of Helium will be produced in Canada at a low price, and Helium-filled airships will be in the service.

Performing Bear at Nicholls Oval

Walter Kitney, caretaker of the Nicholls Oval, has the nucleus of a "zoo" in a black bear, which has proved a great attraction to visitors, especially the young folks. Mr. G. N. Gordon wrote the Council last night that he had seen many children enjoying the fun of watching the bear perform tricks for them. Mr. Kitney was willing to keep the bear, but needed a pen, which it was estimated would cost $10. The Property Committee will consider the encouragement of this nucleus of a menagerie.

TUESDAY, MAY 6TH, 1919.

REDS SHOULD BEWARE.

It is a significant but no surprising fact that the disloyal talk and action of some of the Bolshevik imitators in Canada has already drawn down upon those agitators the condemnation of the returned soldiers, and the Red Flaggers would be well advised to moderate their language less the force they so openly advocate may be suddenly and unpleasantly used against them. The men who have fought for the defence of democracy overseas are no anxious to see the liberty enjoyed in Canada overthrown in favour of the terrorism which is the chief platform in the plank of the Bolshevists. They know that Bolshevism is a more deadly enemy to Canada than were the Kaiser's hordes, and having triumphed over the latter they do not propose to sit idly at home and watch the efforts of incendiary disturbers upset the whole social system of the country. There is no place for the Bolshevik standard in an organization of returned soldiers and the recent public addresses of prominent members of the Great War Veterans are a plain warning to the agitators that there are limits beyond which they will not be allowed to go.

Nor is organized labour deceived by the wild talk of the "Bolshies," as Peter Wright calls them. The Bolshevik system is a menace to trades unionism and the workers who want to attain their ends by constitutional means, are not being carried away by the frothing of these Reds who have suddenly blossomed forth. If the campaign continues some of these would-be Lenines are very liable to find that patient as are the Canadian people, there can be an end to everything and the end in their case may be far from pleasant.

PETERBORO'S SHARE

It is beginning to be recognized that while it should be the task of the state to provide pensions for the men who have been disabled in the great war and to arrange facilities for the re-training of those who cannot because of their injuries, return to their old occupations, the city from which these soldiers went forth to fight has also its obligations. One of these is to take care of the social and other needs of the returned men and for that reason there should be a ready support for the effort that will take place in Peterboro the week after next to raise $15,000 for the completion and furnishing of the Great War Veterans Clubhouse. It is true that the demands upon the public generosity since the beginning of the war have been great; it is equally true that these demands were patriotically received and responded to by the people of Peterboro. Our citizens did not fail when the task before them was that of backing our men on the battlefield; we surely will not fail to stand by them and theirs now they have been spared to come home. Nobody should feel that the appeal that will be made this month on behalf of Peterboro's returned soldiers is any less urgent that those which were made during the war. Our people should be so grateful from their deliverance from the perils that hung over them that they will open their purses even more readily than they did in the days when the men up are now asked to help were holding back the dreaded enemy.

The drive of the week of May 19th should be a triumphal success: it will be if the people of this city realize that the debt they owe the returned soldiers can be partially at least discharged by a generous and ready response.

THE GRAVES OF THE BRAVE.

The action of General Williams, commanding No. 3 Military District, in arranging to have the graves of all members of the C.E.F. who have died in this district since the beginning of the war, marked with a cross suitably lettered, is one upon which that officer will be heartily commended. While he was in Peterborough recently, General Williams referred to the necessity of paying proper honour to the dead, and before he left the city visited both of the local cemeteries. His promise that the matter would be speedily attended to has been faithfully carried out, and the last resting place of all Peterborough soldiers who are buried here will be fittingly marked. General Williams deserves the thanks of the people of Peterborough for the interest he has taken in this matter and for his prompt attention to the details. In order to facilitate the work it is necessary that the particulars as to the regimental number, unit, rank, etc., of each soldier buried here should be known, so that the friends of those who have passed away should lose no time in reporting these particulars to the Great War Veterans, who will forward them to the proper authorities and who will undoubtedly carry out General Williams' suggestion of having the placing of the stones marked by appropriate ceremony.

The crosses for the graves are being supplied at General Williams' own expense and the generosity of the new commanding officer of the district and the sympathy and regard he has shown for the memory of the dead will earn him the respect and gratitude of the people of Eastern Ontario.

THE VETERANS' CONVENTION.

The invitation to be tendered by the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association at the annual convention in Windsor next week, that the Provincial gathering of the Association shall be held in Peterborough next year should, and no doubt will be, strongly endorsed by the City Council, Board of Trade and other local bodies. The presence in Peterborough of hundreds of delegates from all parts of Ontario would mean much to this city and the civic authorities and the citizens generally would undoubtedly be delighted to welcome the representatives of the men who have fought in the great war. Already there are 134 branches in Ontario to send delegates, and this number will be largely augmented by next year, so that if the Peterborough branch succeeds in capturing the 1920 convention, it will mean one of the biggest affairs of its kind the city has ever had.

An eastern city is the logical choice for next year's convention, as the Provincial War Veterans met last year in Hamilton, and are to gather this year in Windsor. From a G.W.V.A. standpoint, Peterborough has unique claims for consideration as the local branch were the first in Canada to pay for a charter, and were among the few represented at the inaugural meeting of the G.W.V.A. Geographically, the city is conveniently situated for a provincial convention, while the local Veterans will have the advantage of possessing an Assembly Hall of their own, commodious enough to serve for convention purposes.

There will undoubtedly be keen competition for the honour of welcoming the Provincial eterans next year. A number of cities, including Belleville, are already in the field and the efforts of the Peterborough War Veterans to secure the prize for this city should receive the whole-hearted support of the civic authorities and of other local bodies. The task of winning the day should not be thrown completely on the shoulders of the local G.W.V.A. delegates, although they can be counted upon to exert every effort to press the claims of Peterborough and to bring the 1920 Provincial convention to this city.

"Too Fat to Fight" Is a Good Picture—The Vaudeville.

Dalrymple known better as Dimples was "Too fat to Fight" and he took the only course open to him he trained for 'reducement' in Y. M. C.A. Dimples was once an athlete but good and easy living had so bulged him that the army decided that he could not enter the trenches. Dimples was a real patriot and he wanted to help and matters were made no better when his rival in love, received a commission in the American Flying Corps. After systematic training in Gym. Dimples asks for another chance but he still tipped the scales at 238 which the weigher-in said wasn't a weight but a telephone number. A friend suggests the Y.M.C.A. service but after an unsatisfactory interview Dimples is told that he isn't even good enough to carry soup into the trenches. The magic word of a multi-millionaire who spends nearly all his fortune in aid of the "Y" campaign procures for him the "Y" clothes and he goes overseas and as he describes himself. "There are so few laughs in this war that I do not mind being one of them. He is the life of the "Y" huts in sorrow as well as in fun. Every day finds him with the boys or up the line comforting and feeding French people left destitute. At night he forms a soup link and carries the hot stuff for the men. In one attack he goes into No Man's Land and is badly wounded attempting to help a wounded comrade in. In hospital Dimples desperately wounded is the life of the establishment. The German planes come over the hospitals on their fiendish mission blowing and killing wherever they go regardless of the Geneva cross. of mercy. Amidst the bombs and smoke and dust Dimples starts that old heartening tune "Hail, hail the gangs all here, for what the h— do we care" and almost immediately the panic subsides.

The Curtain

The next day a high officer stands by Dimples bed and for gallantry under fire pins on him the American Distinguished Service Cross. His heart is still more gladdened when the girl whom he thought was lost to him tells him how she loves him. The curtain is rung down with Dimples consuming his favorite dish—corn starch pudding.

"Too fat to fight", by Rex Beach is one of the greatest movie triumphs ever screened at the Grand Opera House combining as it does comedy and pathos.

The Vaudeville

Seven scenes depicts this year's "Revue de Vogue", an act in vaudeville as popular as "The passing show". The latest in gowns and dancing is shown and a Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City, with all the appurtenances, organ, preacher, chancel, groom and four brides are shown. It is the fastest and snappiest turn which Manager Dahn has yet presented.

Ella La Vail, the aerial and trapeze artist gives enough thrills to last a life time as she hangs by her mouth or feet. She exhibits feats of personal strength surprising in one of the female sex. To-night and to-morrow night will see her at the Grand.

40c AN HOUR

Ald. Gainey—The masses of the people are laboring people. Forty-five cents an hour is not too much for an eight hour day. It's coming, and you might as well get into line. I would include 67 1-2 cents an hour for carpenters in Ald. Garside's amendment."

Ald Garside—"I am not altogether in favor of 67 1-2c an hour. It will lock us up in the bridge work. The laborers came down from 50c to 45c, but we have not heard whether the carpenters will come down any. I'd make it 65c for carpenters. I have heard from contractors and others that they will not build if the carpenters are going to charge 67 1-2c."

Take It or Leave It.

"We are not discussing the Unions' wages,' stated Ald. Turner. "We are setting the prices for the city's work, and we will get all the men we want for it. We are saying that these are the wages we will pay, and they can take it or leave it."

Ald. Morrison said that 45c was little enough for the laborer. 'I understand that the Mayor is paying his painters Union wages and that work is not as hard as digging in sewers. We should try to get the men satisfied."

The Amendment.

"I have a motion and an amendment that isn't seconded.

Ald. Garside's amendment was withdrawn and Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that the city pay 45c, to laborers and 67 1-2c to carpenters.

The amendment was lost on a vote that was reversed in carrying Ald. Turner's motion.

The Preliminary Recommendation

A recommendation from the Trades and Labour Council that the city establish the eight instead of the nine hour day for its laborers, paved the way to the Council's pronouncement.

The communication signed by Wm. Stevens, secretary of the Labour Council, was transferred to general business, and when it was produced at the close of the meeting, Ald. Turner discussed at considerable length the labor situation, to which he said, he had given serious thought.

Labour conditions were not very bright, he began, and the manufacturers were having a hard time to get work. The Government was advertising the sale of all sorts of surplus supplies bought for war purposes, and was disposing of them at very low prices. Shoes, rubbers sheets, linen for airplanes, thread, tents, and many other things, were being thrown upon the market with a resulting diminution of buying by the wholesalers from the manufacturers, in addition to this condition last years weather was peculiar. Dealers had bought at high prices but had not sold the usual quantities because of the weather's influence on the demand. Hence they were carrying big stocks, and were cancelling orders they had placed. In view of these circumstances he did not think it was the right time to ask for high wages. Conditions did not warrant them. If hours were shortened the men's wages would be decreased.

"I have thought of a resolution that would cover local labour," Ald Turner concluded, and he forthwith read it to the council, enumerating the clauses briefly stated above.

Should be no Influence.

Referring to the provision that no sect or society should be recognized in engaging labor, Ald. Turner did not explicitly assert that this was an objectionable feature that obtained here or not. There were many good men, he said, who did not belong to any society. A man should be neither engaged nor dismissed because of any affiliations. The city should keep an open shop and there should be no discussion as to whether a man was a Jew or a Gentile, or whether he was an Oddfellow, Forester or a member of any other Society. No one should antagonize men who did not belong to his lodge. Ald Turner deprecated any discrimination of this kind against any employee, stating that a man had a perfect right to belong or not to any society.

GEORGE STREET EPWORTH LEAGUE ELECT OFFICERS

Literary Society In Three Act Play

"Romantic Mary" Presented in the Lyceum.

"Romantic Mary," the clever three act comedy presented last evening in St. Alphonsus Lyceum under the auspices of the Sacred Heart Literary Society, proved a record success, both from the standpoint of the excellent manner in which it was staged and the large and enthusiastic audience it drew. In the leading role, "Mary Eager," the romantic Mary designated by the title, Miss Agnes Murray made the best of all the splendid situations offered, and with her romantic outlook on the world kept her aunt, Mrs. Winn (Miss Florence Leahy) in constant remorse and the audience in fits of laughter. Each of the cast fully appreciated the opportunities offered for them to display their pronounced talent throughout the play.

The Cast.

Mrs. Winn, an Inconsolable Relict—Florence Leahy.
Eleanor Winn, her Daughter—Margaret Willard.
Mary Eager, her Niece — Agnes Murray.
Jennie, a Maid—Ella Lynch.
Henery Hastings, always ready to talk it over—Vincent Kilkoran.
Dr. Millman, one who doesn't know what it is to be a widow—Earl Judge.
Andrew, his Man—George Lenord.

Between Acts.

Between the acts a piano duet was rendered by Misses Mary and Lucelle Nolan, a vocal solo by Ed. Bartley and a song specialty by T. Collins, which were both well rendered. Mr. A. Weatherhead acted as accompanist.

The Edison Tone Test is a Proof not an Argument

The New Edison calmly occupies its place as the peer of all sound re-producing instruments. Its position is unchallenged, and most people know that eventually, sooner later it will have to be

The NEW EDISON

The New Edison re-creates all music. That is not an empty phrase, it exactly expresses the actual fact. You want to hear a great singer, the New Edison brings the artist's voice right into your home.

A violinist plays for the New Edison, you have it re-created perfectly at your fireside. Any other instrument, orchestra, band or vocal choruses, all are the same to the New Edison. Just as they are rendered it gives the selections to you, any time and as many times as you wish.

It is not now a question of whether you want a New Edison, but of how soon you will be ready for your New Edison.

You have an Edison store in your town, where you will be given cheerful service, and full demonstration at any time, and if you are not ready to pay all cash, will make easy payment terms.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. T. Buckley of Lindsay, were in Peterborough Sunday attending the funeral of Mrs Buckley's father, the late Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. Aubrey Elston left this morning for Toronto to study wireless telegraphy.

Miss Isobel Hay is in Toronto, spending a week with friends.

Mrs. MacLean of Winnipeg, is in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Moncrief, 198 Robert Street, Toronto, have returned home, after spending three months in this city.

Mr. G. H. Beason returned to Peterborough, after spending the past month in St. Catharines.

MR. LEN CONNORS ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL.

Was Severely Burned on the Back of the Hands.

Mr. Len Connors, who on Friday last while in the employ of the Canadian General Electric Company, was severely burned on the hands as a result of coming in contact with an electric circuit, was able to leave the Nicholls Hospital yesterday. The knuckles on the back of his hand were severely burned, and it is estimated that 2400 volts passed through his body. Connors, who resides in Brownson, was working on a ladder at the time of the accident. The ladder slipped and threw him against the wire.

MAGISTRATE DISMISSES WOMEN'S WRANGLE.

Magistrate Dumble listened patiently this morning to an assault case brought into Police Court by a Water Street resident, who resides in the same house. She accused her of "shaking her up a bit" and making her nose bleed.

The defendant countercharged, and stated that Mrs. —— refused to allow her into an upstairs room which the landlord assigned to her by deducting 50c a month from the rent of the defendant.

"Behave like Christians," admonished the Magistrate. The case was dismissed.

Clean Up—Clean Up

The City Council has set apart the present week as CLEAN-UP-WEEK in Peterborough, and all citizens are urged to thoroughly clean up all their premises during the week, in order that the whole city will be clean and tidy by Saturday night.

A full compliance with this request will improve the appearance of the city and will greatly assist in the destruction of [illegible]

Chairman, Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Mark Street Mission Band Held Concert

Interesting Programme Was Provided—Made a Life Member.

There was held in Mark Street Methodist Church last Friday evening one of the best concerts ever contributed by that organization, and too much praise cannot be accorded to Mrs. Whattam for her patient, painstaking efficiency in the training of the children.

Rev. Mr. Whattam was the chairman, and during the evening Miss Edith Champion was made a life member as a prize for having sold the greatest number of tickets. Miss Bernice Doxsee received second prize.

The feature of the evening was the presentation of a religious patriotic exercise, entitled "Ye are the Light of the World." The different characters were taken by the following young ladies:

Canada—Miss Ruby Hamblin.
Canadian Representatives—Edna Simmons, Florence Record, Eva Manley.
Christianity—Miss Maggie Sucee.
Heathen Representatives: Japan—Miss Lillian Hamblin. China—Miss Mabel Hill. Indian—Miss Beatrice Castle. India, Child Orphan, Miss Kathleen Haliday. Child Widow—Miss Jean Thorne.

Miss Dora Burton offered the children's prayer and also recited "Peal on, Oh Bells."

The Programme.

Recitation—Bernice Doxsee.
Recitation—George Record.
Song—Mabel Bettes.
Recitation—Minnie Burnham.
Recitation—Edith Champion.
Recitation—Alice Weston.
Song—Helen Haliday.

Evangelist Torrie at Park Street Church

Evangelist Torrie had the inspiration of speaking to the largest week night service in Park Street Baptist Church last night. It was evidently proven no mistake was made in the decision to continue the services three more nights. The Evangelist preached on the subject, "Can a man know positively he is saved?" The service was one of the best. In the after-meeting there was no trouble to get the people to take part in the service. A great number of people took part and frequently three and four people were on their feet at once. Mrs. Torrie's solo, "Choose Now," climaxed the Evangelist's sermon and made a profound impression. The choir sang two selections from the Billy Sunday book with telling effect. There are only two nights left. A full church is expected to-night and a packed church Wednesday night. Plan and come to the last two services.

LAKE TEMISKAMING CLAIMS TWO VICTIMS

Cries For Assistance Were Not Heard.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW LISKEARD, Ont., May 6.—Hedge and Frank Birr, brothers, were drowned in Lake Temiskaming last night while in a canoe. Cries were heard. Before assistance could reach them, both had disappeared. The bodies have not been recovered.

"THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN IN EGYPT"

Interesting Address by the Rev. T. J. Thompson.

A large and interested audience heard Major (Rev.) T. J. Thompson of Ottawa, speak last evening in St. Paul's Sunday School on "The White Man's Burden in Egypt." Major Thompson who went to Egypt in 1915 has returned to Canada with an intimate acquaintance with conditions throughout the country. In his address he dealt with the history of Egypt from her earliest years up to the present time, pointing out the burden assumed by the British in the occupation of the land. A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Sheriff Hall and seconded by Mr. A. Mowat. Rev. Robert Pogue occupied the chair. A keenly appreciated solo was given during the evening by Mr. Douglas Carlisle accompanied by Mrs. Logan.

A feature of the entertainment was the splendid views of Egypt shown by Mr. Thompson on the screen many of which he had taken himself.

BOY WAS THROWN FROM HIS BICYCLE

Alan Yelland, 693 Harvey street, was thrown from his bicycle yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock and given a severe shaking up when a car owned and driven by W. Calvert, 9 Dennison avenue, collided with him at the corner of George and Hunter streets. The boy was crossing George street on Hunter street, when he saw the car coming north and fearing that he could not make the crossing he turned north and appeared to stick and could not get away in time to miss the car. Mr. Calvert has agreed to pay all expenses incurred in repairs to the wheel.

CASE HEARD IN DIVISION COURT

At the Division Court on Friday last an interesting case from Ennismore was tried by His Honour Judge Huycke. Apparently the case arose out of a former case heard last March, when James Guiry took action to force Joseph O'Connor off a farm rented by O'Connor from Guiry. In this action the landlord's application was dismissed without costs. Mr. Guiry then brought action to establish a claim for damages to the farm while occupied by O'Connor. Mr. O'Connor put in a counter claim, and Mr. Guiry recalled some items omitted from his original claim and obtained leave to add these items to his claim. The case lasted from three in the afternoon until a quarter to eight at night. The Judge dismissed both claim and counter claim without costs. Mr. Guiry pays his own costs, including witness fees.

Setback for the Peanut Industry

Pedlar's Cart Was Struck by an Automobile Last Evening.

A lot of Greek oratory was wasted upon an unappreciative crowd last evening at 9.45 at the corner of George and Simcoe streets when a car driven by a man named McGlynn, collided with the hand driven peanut cart owned by Costas McKrecostas in front of Kingan's Hardware. McGlynn was coming south and turned east in too small a space, when he hit the cart, breaking the wheel and emptying the contents on the road. McGlynn agreed to settle for the cost of repairing the wheel, but the Greek held out for an additional $10 for loss of business incurred while making repairs and for the popcorn and peanuts lost on the road.

Ratepayers Will Vote On the Stickney Motors By-law June 5th

Company Asks for a Fixed Assessment of $10,000 for 10 Years — Street Foreman Alex. Fitzgerald Has Resigned — Other Business at Last Night's Meeting of the Council.

The Stickney Motors By-law will be submitted to the people on Thursday, June 5th. The agreement granting the company a fixed assessment of $10,000 for ten years on prescribed conditions of employing a minimum of 50 hands for ten years, the working period to be regarded as nine months in each year. The company is proceeding with its plans for making an early start in the manufacture of motor trucks, and also intends to turn out gasoline engines and farm tractors. Under the agreement which was approved by the Council last night, the company must be in full operation by July 1st, 1920, but they confidently expect to set their machinery in motion as soon as possible, assuming, of course, that the citizens give their assent to the fixation of the company's assessment. Of this the Council hasn't a doubt but that the by-law will be carried almost unanimously.

The Signs of the Times.

J. H. Tromanhauser sent the following epistle to the Council with an appreciation of the return of the cheque that accompanied his tender for the Hunter Street bridge:

"Your letter of the 16th enclosing our cheque for $10,000 deposited with our tender on the Hunter Street bridge is received this morning, and we thank you for the kind compliance with our request. We would say further that we have received an invitation from Mr. Barber to tender again on the bridge, but on account of the peculiar methods adopted by your Council, and the general possibilities for difficulty which we consider surround the entire job, we have declined Mr. Barber's request, and will not again tender for the work. We refuse to tender on the grounds that your Council demand a guaranteed contract. This we cannot or will not comply with, and it is evident that your Council fail to see the handwriting on the wall of present world conditions, only fools rush in and guarantee, while wise men tread on safer ground.

Asks for Increase.

Street Commissioner Evans' application for an increase in salary was referred to the Board of Works. Mr. Evans has been with this department sixteen years.

Resignation Accepted With Regret.

Owing to injuries sustained in an accident five weeks ago, Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald, the city's street foreman, forwarded his resignation to the Council last night.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Taylor, that his resignation be accepted, and that the Council express its appreciation of Mr. Fitzgerald's services and regret that he found it necessary to resign.

For Holiday Rates.

Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that the Dominion Railway Board and the Minister of Railways and Canals be urged to restore the pre-war single fare and fare and one-third holiday rates on the railways.

Ald. Turner—And that we ask the Board of Trade to endorse this.

Ald. Gainey—And the Trades and Labour Council.

Ald. Turner—The Oddfellows, Foresters and other societies too if you like.

Communiques From Board of Health.

Two recommendations from the Board of Health were referred to the Property Committee. One urged that milk dealers be compelled to have their names painted conspicuously on their delivery waggons, and the other that bread waggons have only a rear door, and that it be kept closed while bread is delivered.

Report on Taxes.

Tax Collector Green's report was as follows:

Total on roll	$496,876 24
Amount deposited	479,486 36
Balance	$17,089 88
Deposited in April	$9,763 42

Turn-Table for C. P. R.

The C. P. R. have prepared plans for a turning table to be located on the unopened end of Water Street, near the boat-houses along the river north of the railway, east of George Street and south of Dalhousie Street. It will leave a roadway of thirty feet along the river, and will not interfere with the boat-house north of the bridge. Supt. R. W. Scott's letter and blue-print were referred to the Board of Works and Railway Committee in conjunction.

Lavatories For Fair Grounds.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition directors purpose building public lavatories at the Fair Grounds this year, and request the city to provide and permit a connection to the sewer on Lansdowne Street. Their communication was referred to the Board of Works.

Want Water Service.

Mr. A. E. Prest's petition for a water main on Lansdowne Street, between Aylmer and Park Streets, was referred to the Utilities Commission. More than 75 per cent. of the property owners have signed the petition.

Brantford Man Accused of Accepting Exemption Bribe

Was a Member of Exemption Tribunal —Case Before Magistrate on Thursday.

Canadian Press:

BRANTFORD, May 6.—Ald. J. H. Harvey Clement, a member of the Exemption Tribunal under the M.S.A., is charged with accepting a bribe of $500 in March, 1918, and $20 per month since, from George Tomlin, to escape being called up. The Magistrate will investigate the case on Thursday.

The inexpensiveness of furniture will be a surprise to many who will visit the Home Furnishing Store, Charlotte Street, where an early season reduction sale is now in full swing. This firm not only makes the prices of furniture easy, but they also make it easy for you to buy now by their easy terms of payments.

Slashing Four Days' Sale at M. Fine's

The weather during the past month has not been favorable for shopping, and business has not been as brisk as it should be at this time of the year. In order to make up for shortness of sales, Mr. M. Fine, 427 George street, announces a four days' slashing sale of Millinery, Dry Goods, and Ready-to-wear, commencing to-morrow. A large list of specials are advertised, many of them quoted at half regular price, which ought to bring out shoppers in large numbers each day this week.

MUTT AND JEFF AT THE GRAND ON SATURDAY

New Song Hits and a Bevy of Pretty Girls.

Once again those two bonifide humorists, "Mutt and Jeff", are in our midst. This time they appear as seekers after the yellow metal—gold—with their adventures taking place in the Golden West. And, as usual, that astute and far-discerning Manager, Gus Hill, is sponsoring their exploits, having arranged for their presentation in a three act musical comedy which is said to be the best and most entertaining of the Mutt and Jeff series produced in years, upon the stage. Opening in the effete East these two popular cartoon characters quickly make their way to the land of alkali and faro, where they indulge in all sorts of side-splitting capers and escapades. The buffer of the noted twain is as usual, Little Jeff. Matrimony and high-jinks never go hand in hand as far as Little Jeff's concerned. He is probably the most hopeless bachelor the world has ever had. Yet in this instance he is prepared to become a benedict for the coin of the realm. A scheming lawyer, who has his eye on a certain valuable gold mine which is to become the sole property of the diminutive funster if he weds. He rings in an imposter, an old maid named Priscilla Murray. He is smitten with the real widow himself, and this plot forms the basis of some of the most rollicking comedy, complications and situations ever invented by any playwright.

The action is punctuated with a dozen song hits, ensembles, dances feature novelties, surprises, screams, rib tickeling bits and high class revelry, without the semblance of any lulls or monotinous moments. A pretty and fascinating chorus, attired in captivating array, have been engaged in conjunction with an extremely competent cast. "Mutt and Jeff" in The Wooly West, is scheduled to be seen at the Grand Saturday matinee and evening.

RUSSIAN STEAM ROLLER ADVANCING

Kolchak's Troops Are Pushing Into European Russia—Ukraine in Hands of Anti-Bolsheviki.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 6.—Admiral Kolchak's Siberian army continues its movement westward toward the Volga, and it is expected that the cities of Viatka and Samara will fall into their hands soon. The Bolshevik forces there are apparently incapable of checking the orderly, well-organized advance from the east with Kolchak threatening the valley of the Volga and Udenitch menacing Petrograd. With Kiev in the hands of the anti-Bolshevik troops and with Kolchak's northern army moving rapidly toward the line of communication between Moscow and Archangel, the Bolshevik military situation seems extremely precarious.

Voice of The People

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—There are few people apparently willing to take the trouble to express themselves through the public press or your columns should be filled with letters wholly disapproving of the extravagant proposals made in regard to the Hunter street bridge and the new Public school. Surely a single car track is all that will ever be needed on the bridge. As to the school it seems little less than an outrage to call upon our citizens to purchase sixteen acres of land. Does the Board of Education think they are building an agricultural college?

This "building-for-the-future" idea has gone utterly beyond the bounds of common sense. If, between the reckless expenditures of the Council and the Board of Education, Peterborough becomes too expensive a place for the ordinary man to live in, there will be no future to be luxuriously provided for.

Few places had a better start or greater natural advantages and there is no good reason for our city taking a place among highly taxed municipalities. There seems to an outsider to be a lack of intelligent co-operation between the Council and the Board of Education. Cannot they "get together" and consider how to advance the city's interests and meet its needs without unduly burdening the taxpayers at any particular time. Is not a necessarily expensive sewer project to be also added to our load almost at once?

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

A Golden Opportunity For Peterboro Citizens

To Hear An Enthralling Story of an Escape From German Prisons.

Peterborough citizens are being afforded the opportunity of hearing an excellent address by the only Canadian-born officer who escaped from Germany. The subject of the address to be given by Lieut. Beverley Robinson, of the Royal Air Force, is "Escaped—After 2 1-2 Years in Nine German Prisons."

He describes one British officer as the "bravest fellow he ever met." This officer was regarded as the most dangerous prisoner they had. He had escaped eleven times from different camps, was recaptured every time, and was shot dead with his companion on his twelfth attempt.

Hear this wonderful story in St. Paul's Church, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. Tickets now on sale.

These Are The Groceries That Go, Absolutely Without Charge, to Every Member of the Club

Turnbull's Kitchen Cabinet

The labor-saving device that saves the housewife miles of steps.

The Turnbull Club Plan

The plan that puts the Cabinet in your home while you are paying for it on terms that suit YOU.

On our top floor you will find six separate and distinct styles of Kitchen Cabinets with well posted and attentive salesmen ready to demonstrate to you their many advantages.

If after examining them carefully, you should decide to do away with kitchen drudgery and useless work—do away with all inconveniences and save miles of steps—we will be glad to let you have a TURNBULL CABINET on terms that will not involve any drain on your purse.

People who have never seen Electric Light can easily be persuaded that the Kerosene Lamp is "Just as good." Likewise, you will never realize the benefits of a TURNBULL KITCHEN CABINET in your home unless you come and inspect the six models of these modern labor-saving household helps now displayed on our top floor.

It will make you think of the "Cupboard" you have used in the Past, and you will realize that the PAST is where it belongs.

The intensity and rush of modern life demands every labor-saving help it is possible to get, and there is no labor-saving device for the home quite the equal of the TURNBULL KITCHEN CABINET.

In our Simcoe Street window, you will see a splendid display of these Cabinets.

$2.00 Makes You a Member of the TURNBULL KITCHEN CABINET CLUB. The Balance you pay on terms that suit your convenience.

The Cabinets

THE TURNBULL CABINETS are the last word in Kitchen Cabinet construction, and have embodied in them every modern device for making easier the every day work of the kitchen.

TURNBULL'S KITCHEN CABINETS are equipped with the following—

Revolving Spice Jar Holder.
Daily Reminder List and Order Pad.
Flour Bin, with Sifter attached. Drops perpendiculasly to the table top for rolling. Has glass spy port for viewing contents.
J.M. Asbestos Baking Sheets, with directions for their use.
Heavy Crystal Glass Tea, Coffee and Salt Jars Nickeloid or Porcelain Sliding Top, extends to 49 inches.
White Wood Cutting Board.
Divided Cutlery Drawer.
Sliding Wire Shelf.
Wire Rack for Pie Plates, etc.
Nickel Ferrules and Ball-bearing Casters.
Wire Rack for Flavoring Extract Bottles.
Three Receptacles for milk tickets, change and bread tickets.
Recipe Card Index complete.
China Cupboard with white enamelled interior.
White Enamel Interior.
Glass Sugar Container in swinging bracket with faucet below.
Storage Drawer with removable felt-lined cutlery tray.
Sanitary base. Easy to sweep under.

The Club Plan

In the first place the club is limited to 50 members. This is the number that has been set as our allotment.

When you select your Cabinet from the six Separate and distinct styles, your name will be put on the club list. You pay $2.00 in cash to the salesman, which makes you a member of the club, and you arrange for the remaining payments which are made to suit your convenience.

The Cabinet will then be delivered as quickly as possible, or at any time you desire, and with it go the big premium lot of groceries, without extra charge.

There are no Extras to buy. Joining the club puts a Cabinet in your home. The regular payments made to suit your convenience will soon give you the ownership of a Kitchen Cabinet.

The payments will hardly be missed and a better investment for saving of time and strength of the housewife it is not possible to make.

LOCAL VETERANS AFTER CONVENTION

Peterboro Delegates Will Invite Provincial G.W.V.A. to Meet Here Next Year.

The Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, at its regular semi-monthly meeting last night, with President A. S. Morrison in the chair, decided to make a determined effort at the Provincial G. W. V. A. Convention in Windsor next week to secure the next annual Ontario Convention for Peterborough. A cordial invitation, which, it is expected, will be backed up by the City Council and other local bodies, and the local delegates were instructed by last night's meeting to do everything in their power to bring the big gathering of returned men to this city in 1920. It was decided that the Peterborough branch should send the full representation of delegates to which it is entitled by its membership. At the last meeting Secretary Sidney Whatley and Comrade T. Williams had been chosen and last evening it was decided to send three more delegates. President A. S. Morrison and Comrades T. R. Cooper and George Findlay were unanimously selected. Ex-President H. J. Staunton, who is a member of the Provincial Executive, will also be present at the convention.

The Old Guard.

The meeting decided to extend the social privileges of the G. W. V. A. Rooms to the veterans of 1866 and 1866. Considerable discussion took place over the advisability of extending this same privilege to the veterans of other wars, and it was finally decided to have the delegates to the Provincial Convention lay the matter before the Ontario body for advice.

Similar action was taken in regard to a proposal to form a juvenile branch or club in connection with the G.W.V.A., the sons of veterans to be eligible for membership. The matter was discussed briefly, and finally, on motion that it be taken up at the Provincial Convention, was adopted.

The recommendation of the Executive Committee that a resolution advocating a re-arrangement of the relief fund so that one-half should be set aside exclusively for those who saw service on an actual fighting front be given the six months' hoist was carried.

The Board of Trade.

Some discussion took place as to the advisability of joining the Board of Trade, and after an explanation of the aims and objects of the Board had been given, it was unanimously decided that the Veterans should co-operate in every way possible with the movement.

"The G.W.V.A. want to help every movement that has as its ideal the advancement of Peterborough," remarked one speaker, and his remarks were warmly applauded.

President A. S. Morrison and Comrade R. E. Layfield, who are already members of the Board of Trade, will look after the interests of the Veterans on that body, together with ex-President H. J. Staunton, who was chosen by last night's meeting to become a third member of the Board.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered General Williams for his kindness in providing crosses to mark the graves of soldiers who have died in this district since the beginning of the war.

It was decided to hold the next regular meeting on Monday next, May 12th, in order to prepare for the big drive which will be held the following week.

Vacancy in Council Continues for Month

Ald. Murray's resignation was accepted by the Council last night and the Labour Council's recommendation that Mr. Joseph Crowe be appointed to the vacancy was read.

'Some think the Council can make appointments," said Mayor Duncan, "but there is a question about it. This might be left with the Solicitor. It can't be dealt with until the next meeting anyway."

Ald. Morrison—"The Solicitor is here; he must have an idea by this time what we can do."

Mayor Duncan—"We can't make the appointment until the meeting following the one at which the resignation is accepted."

The appointment is, therefore, deferred.

WIDOW AND CHILDREN GET $1,000,000 LANGDON ESTATE

NEW YORK. — Woodbury G. Langdon, prominent banker, who died April 20 last at his residence, No. 719 Fifth avenue, made substantial provisions for his widow and children in his will filed for probate in the Surrogate's Court. All art work, personal effects and household furnishings are left to Mrs. Sophia Elizabeth Langdon, widow, together with a specific bequest of $50,000 and a share in the residuary estate. Mr. Langdon's fortune is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Sharing equally in the residue are the widow and six children. The will discloses that two of Mr. Langdon's sons, Woodbury G. Langdon, Jr., and Montgomery Langdon, are invalids, having been declared incompetent. Both are receiving treatment at Dr. McDonald's sanitarium in Central Valley, N.Y.

Among the friends named as legatees are Dr. Robert Watts, who receives $10,000; Luther A. Mulbank, $5,000, and an annuity of $1,500 to Charles H. Pearce.

Barry McCormack In New Irish Play

"Macushla" Will Be Shown at the Grand on Friday.

"For many years" says Barry McCormack, the star of "Macushla" in which he will appear at the Grand Opera on Friday evening, only, "the villain of the typical Irish play was an informer or a Michael Feeny, as we called him. That day has gone. The 'informers' have been driven from Ireland and from Irish drama. The Irish question is being handled now-a-days by diplomacy not dynamite and the Irish play has changed accordingly. The world has gone ahead and the Irish have not been backward in going forward' as the saying is. There's still plenty of material for Irish drama—just as much as Shakespeare had several hundred years ago—jealousy, love, romance, envy, misunderstanding, sacrifice.—all the emotions that have served the world since Adam's time, and there's no longer any excuse for the old-fashioned 'Irish 'villain who wasn't Irish at all but only served to put a stigma on the Irish."

150,000 WORDS IN PEACE TREATY

Newspaper Summary Expected To-morrow—Contains 8,000 Words in Summary.

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, May 6.—Arrangements for the handling of the summary of the peace terms have been made with the Canadian Press from here. The summary will be eight thousand words in length, and will be cabled to North Sydney. It will then be wired to Ottawa and to Washington and the West Indies. From Ottawa it will be relayed by the Canadian Press to Toronto. It was first said that this summary would not come until the end of the week, but it is now expected to-day or Wednesday. The Peace Treaty will run to about 150,000 words.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Saturday night the Y.M.C.A. entertained about 75 boys with a series of motion pictures on educational subjects. Three of the eight reels displayed home gardening in a splendid manner. Tuesday night, May 6th, the boys will meet for organization of their 1919 Boys' Garden Club. Every boy over twelve years interested in gardens is invited.

BOARD OF WORKS TABULATES LONG LIST OF SUMMER "CHORES" FOR THE STREETS DEPARTMENT

Fruits of the Annual Tour of Inspection Are Compiled in Report Adopted at Council Meeting Last Night—Considerable Work of Repairing Streets.

NEW GAS MAINS ROUTED

Once a year the Board of Works makes a tour of the city for purposes of inspection, and while some of the more sensitive members of the Motor League would grab at the chance of being pathfinders for this annual expedition, the Council are evidently made aware of many of the imperfections, especially in the streets. The results of this year's trip were listed in the Board's report, presented by Ald. Phelan last night, as follows:

That notice be given of the intention of the Council to pave Water street from Charlotte street to King street and King street from George street to Water street, under Section 9 of the Local Improvement Act.

New Gas Mains.

That the request of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for permission to lay gas mains on the following streets be granted:

King street, Frederick avenue to Monaghan road.

Dublin street, Harvey street to Water street.

Bethune street, King street to Sherbrooke street.

Alfred street, Chamberlen street to Albert street.

Bethune street, Sherbrooke street to Dalhousie street.

Stewart street, Perry street to 300 ft. south.

Prince street, Park street to George street.

Driscoll Terrace, Hunter street to Cricket Place.

Cricket Place, Driscoll Terrace east.

More Trees To Be Cut Down.

That B. J. Grady be permitted to cut down a Manitoba maple at 177 Douro street and to trim an elm in front of 175 Douro street; that Hugh Regan be permitted to cut down three maple trees on the Monaghan road and one maple and one basswood tree on Gilmour street at his premises; that J. Dunlop be given permission to cut down the middle one of three trees at 180 Antrim street, and to do the necessary trimming to the one on the west side of his property; that Mr. Cresswell, 169 Antrim street, be permitted to remove one tree in front of his property; that W. J. Grisdale be permitted to remove one tree in front of 582 Aylmer street; and that Mr. Best, Antrim street, be permitted to remove two trees from in front of his property, the removal and trimming of the trees to be done under the supervision of the City Engineer.

Work For Streets Department.

That the following work, which was recommended by the Board, be done:

King street—A drain from the creek to Aylmer street and north on Aylmer street.

Sherbrooke street—The bridge over the creek to be widened at the north side to straighten the sidewalk and a new floor to be put on the bridge.

George street—Graded and surfaced with stones from the Canadian Pacific Railway to Romaine street and graded and gravelled from King Edward street to Lansdowne street.

Princess street —To be graded and gravelled.

Prince street—To be graded and gravelled.

Maud street—To be gravelled.

Lansdowne street— To be repaired from Lock street to Park street and this repair work to be taken up with North Monaghan township.

Park street—Drain on the east side across the corner of the intersection of Westcott street to be opened and a drain across Park street.

Albert and Alfred streets—Holes to be filled.

Park street—To be picked up and gravelled from Chamberlen street north.

Sherbrooke street—A drain to be put in across the Monaghan road on the north side and extending east on Sherbrooke street and the street to be picked up and rolled, and holes filled in with gravel.

Downie street—A large pipe to be put in at both sides crossing Simcoe street and the gutter to be deepened on the west side north of Simcoe street.

Monaghan road — To be repaired south of McDonnel street and the Township of North Monaghan to be charged with its share of the work.

Gilchrist street— To be gravelled from Dublin street to London street.

Donegal street—To be repaired from Dublin street to London street.

Division street—To be gravelled and the ditches opened.

Water street—The City Engineer to give an estimate of the cost of laying a drain from Mrs. Kendry's to the Goose Pond.

Water street— The Hydro-Electric Power Commission to be asked to raise the grade of their tracks from the Grand Trunk Railway crossing north to the end of the track and the street then to be covered with broken stones.

Smith street—The City Engineer to give an estimate of the cost of underdraining east of Concession street and of covering the street with gravel of broken stone.

Woodbine avenue—To be repaired.

Euclid avenue—To be repaired and an approach put in at Mrs. Coughlin's.

Duffering street—To be graded and gravelled.

Stanley avenue—To be repaired.

Rogers street—To be repaired from Douro street to Hazlitt streets.

Carlisle avenue—The approach at number 264 to be repaired.

Concession street—The City Engineer to write to the Superintendent of the Trent Canal in regard to the condition of the approaches on Concession street north of Maria street.

Driscoll Terrace— To be gravelled, and the City Engineer to report on the laying of a drain from Cricket Place to 100 feet north of Cricket Place.

Cricket Place—To be graded.

Railway Tracks Elevated.

That the attention of the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways be called to the fact that their tracks have been raised at several crossings after the concrete sidewalks were laid, and that this should be remedied so that the sidewalks will make a proper approach over the railway crossings.

Forbidden Meeting Broken Up By Troops

British Troops Arrive in Athlone — Member of Parliament Attempted to Address Meeting.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 6.—British troops broke up a forbidden meeting at Athlone, Ireland, last night, by charging upon the crowd with the bayonet. A number of persons were wounded, and armoured cars have taken possession of the place. Laurence Ginneil, member of Parliament for Westneath, attempted to address the meeting.

NEW SERVICE TO NEW YORK.

Visitors to New York City will be glad to know that the Grand Trunk Railway are inaugurating on May 4th, 1919, a through sleeping car service from Toronto to New York, leaving Toronto 9.45 p.m. daily, and arriving in Gotham at the Pennsylvania Terminal. This will be a great convenience to visitors to New York as the Pennsylvania Station is centrally situated and is in easy reach of the latest hotels and the shopping and theatre districts. Ask Grand Trunk Agents for further particulars. 7d-100

CITY BALL TEAMS BEGIN WORKOUTS

Orientals Practiced Last Night and War Veterans Will Work Out To-night.

Manager Jake Solomon's Orientals were out at Riverside Park last night, the first of the City League crews to get into action, and there was a surprisingly big turnout for the initial workout. Manager Solomon, who managed the champion Riversides last season, is this season at the head of the Oddfellows' team, the Orientals, which is practically a combination of last year's Orientals and Riversides. At last night's practice Kirn, Phelan Murray, McCarpey and Lebarr of the Riversides were out, in addition to McNeeley and Bergoine, the Orientals' battery last year, and Roy Cherrett, shortstop of the Thistles, who has thrown in his lot with the Orientals this year. Two or three new players were out, and the Orientals promise to have a fighting, well-balanced outfit.

To-night the Great War Veterans' team will practise at Riverside Park at 6.30 o'clock.

ANOTHER STRIKE ON IN MONTREAL.

Special to the Examiner:

MONTREAL, May 6.—Two thousand employees of the Canadian Car and Foundry Co., who have a federation of their own, including all the trades employees, made a demand today for an eight-hour day and an increase in wages from 55c to 80c per hour, and threaten to strike if the answer is not favourable.

CANADIAN OFFICER HONOURED BY EDINBURGH UNIVERSITY

President Wilson and General Smith Will Also be Honoured With a Degree.

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Ont., May 6.—Brigadier-General A. E. Ross is to be honoured at the next convocation of Edinburgh University, Scotland, with the degree of Doctor of Laws. The same honour is to be bestowed on President Wilson and General Smith of South Africa.

General Ross will attend the convocation and receive the degree. He is now in France, and is leaving shortly on a trip to Germany, and from there he will go on to Scotland.

Young Men's Suits Especially Attractive

Picture here is a waist line model—2 buttons—that is pretty much the thing this spring. It is snappy from the word go. Several nifty colourings in the season's best weaves. Not more than two suits of the same kind. But they have the kick young men want in their clothes.

Many Models To Choose From

Besides the waist line and one-button model as described, we are showing the 2-button Double-Breasted, 3-Button Peak Lapel with Belt, a two-Button Patch Pockets, a one-Button Waist Line Double-Breasted, a two-Button Peak Lapel Close Form Fitting. These are all nifty models, choice patterns of cloths, with best of workmanship and linings. Guaranteed to keep their shape and with character in every line.

Young Men's Suits Especially Attractive

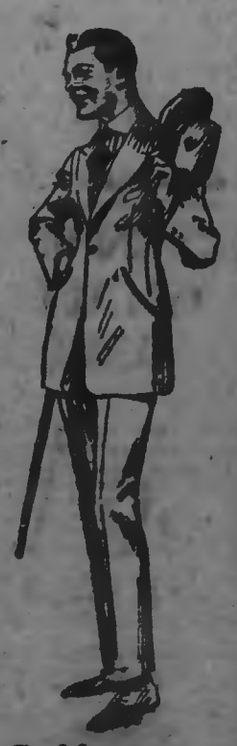
Picture here is a one-button Coat. A very natty style, and much admired by the good dressers. Note the way it fits around the collar. It is a clean cut model—and breathes confidence and power and good judgment to the wearer. They have the athletic vest and trouser styles that appeal to the young men.



A CONSERVATIVE SUIT—THE QUIET DRESSER

Has not been forgotten. He is particular to degrees we have not overlooked. Radical changes in styles do not appeal to him, yet he insists on little variations. His coat and vest must be correct length and lapels of becoming width and depth, and the trousers neither too wide nor too narrow, but just right. There is a nice showing in many shades of Greys, Browns, and assortment of neat mixtures that will appeal to the quiet man.

A WEEK NOW WORTH MONTH IN THE FALL ON BRIDGE WORK IS

REMINDER OF MR. J. E. RUSSELL

Mr. John E. Russell, of the Russell, Townsend Company, whose tender for the construction of the Hunter street bridge was recommended by the Board of Works, and the resolution subsequently rescinded, commented upon the Board's action in the following letter read at last night's meeting of the Council:

Gentlemen,— I was somewhat surprised upon getting the report of Mr. Townsend and Mr. Navin, to learn that that your Works committee had rescinded their motion awarding us the contract for the Hunter street bridge, and by the passing of their latest motion had placed the bridge question back to the same unsettled condition it was in several weeks ago. It is needless for me to point out to you that if the latet recommendation of your Works committee is sustained in Council it will mean very considerable delay in the commencing of operations, as by the time you have your conference with the contractors, award the contract, prepare the agreement and report back to the Council for ratification, considerable precious time will have elapsed, and a week now will be worth a month in the late fall.

No Fear of Injunction.

Despite the action taken by your committee in turning down the original award, I believe in our tender you have the fairest, most practical and economical method of building the bridge, and any fears you may have of becoming liable under the injunction proceedings are, to my mind, absolutely groundless. There are many ways the expenditure could be curtailed in the event of the unlooked for possibility of the cost exceeding the appropriation. To enumerate a few avenues of retrenchment the following amounts could be saved—By narrowing the bridge, $20,000; by omitting the present hand rail and substituting temporary rail, $15,000. The rubbing and finishing of the exterior concrete which is worth $5,000 or $3,000, could be left until the last without in any way affecting the essential functions of the completed structure.

I am not mentioning the above saving possibilities because I have any timate cost of the structure, but only timate cost of the structure, but only to impress upon you the needlessness of the threatened injunction proceedings causing you any anxiety, even if Mr. Hall on behalf of his client, could take personal action against you, which is doubtful.

Confident of Satisfaction.

If your Council should award us this contract I conscientiously believe that by working in conjunction with your Engineer and committee we can carry on the work economically, harmoniously and with the very minimum of friction or annoyance to the Council, and by the time the bridge is completed the Council will be well pleased with their action, as we are egotistical enough to believe that with our organization in Toronto, and with the personal supervision and experience of Mr. Townsend at the work, we will be able to give you dollar for dollar value and leave you a structure which from a utilitarian and monumental standpoint will not only be a credit to ourselves, but also a credit to the Council and a satisfaction to your citizens.

In the event of the Council sustaining the latest motion of the Board of Works, I would request that you be good enough to have deposit cheque returned with as little delay as possible.

Trusting that you may be able to arrive at any early and satisfactory solution of your problem, I am,

Respectfully yours,
JNO. E. RUSSELL.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

You Appreciate It When Its Gone

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder" does not apply to the absence of Eyesight. Yet it takes almost the loss of his Eyesight to make some men give their Eyes the attention and assistance they have been clamouring for, perhaps for a long time. Be warned in time, and let Dr. Fowler examine and care for your Eyes at the first sign of dimness of vision.

The Benefit Concert On Monday Night

Tickets on Sale at Wright's Barber Shop and Examiner Office.

In connection with the news item in last evening's Examiner, regarding the Benefit Concert for Mr. Frank Munden, who has had the great misfortune to lose both his feet from rheumatism, it has been arranged that those desiring to help can purchase tickets at Ed. Wright's barber shop and at the Examiner. The concert is to take place in Victoria Hall.

A committee is to be formed to take charge of the fund, composed of men from the shop where Mr. Munden worked, and other citizens.

It is hoped to raise $500.00. There never was a more deserving case in the city of Peterboro, and it is hoped that those who feel inclined to do a little to help out will buy these tickets and go to the concert. Buy a ticket anyway; they only cost 25c and

MR. JOHN HOLLAND.
The death occurred this morning at his residence, 10 Inverlea Street, after a lingering illness of heart disease, of John Holland. His wife survives him.
The funeral will take place on Thursday morning at 8.30 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Peter's Cemetery (private). Please omit flowers.

MRS. GEORGE McCRAE
The death occurred at her home in Brantford on Thursday, April 27th of Mrs George McCrae, a former resident of this city residing on King street. Mr. McCrae is superintendent of the Goold Shapley and Muir foundry in Brantford. Besides her husband two daughters are left to survive, Mrs. W. T. Brown, Toronto, and Miss Eva at home. A mother and three sisters are residents in Montreal.
The funeral took place last Tuesday afternoon to Mount Hope Cemetery.

MR. LEONARD FAIR.
The death is recorded of Mr. Leonard Fair, of Listowel. The deceased, who was a son of the late Mr. Joseph Fair, formerly of South Monaghan, was at one time manager of a Western Ontario branch of the Royal Bank. He leaves an aunt and numerous relatives in this district. The late Mr. Fair was a nephew of the late Mr. J. W. Leonard who died in Toronto a few days ago.

JOSEPH RECORD.
An old and highly respected resident passed away at Young's Point Monday morning, after a very short illness, in the person of Joseph Record. Deceased was born at Three Rivers, Quebec, 79 years ago, but has resided at Young's Point most of his life. He is survived by his wife, one son, Francis, of Owen Sound, Ont., and one daughter, Alice, of Toronto. The funeral will take place from St. Mary's Church, Young's Point, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, to the Catholic Cemetery.

GRAIN MARKET

The cash grain situation remains very strong, with all markets for corn or oats 1c. to 2c. higher. In the options market it is a different story, for yesterday this market was decidedly weak, the May option in corn closing 4 3-4c. lower than Saturday's close, July 3 3-8c. lower, and Sept., 4 3-4c. lower. Very bearish statements regarding present crops estimates and the general food situation were issued during the day, and these no doubt influenced the speculative markets.

This Leaves the Skin Free from Hairy Growths

(Toilet Talks.)

A simple method for completely removing every trace of hair or fuzz is here given. This is painless and usually a single treatment will banish even stubborn growths. To remove hairs, make a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be certain you get delatone.

BOUGHT TRENTON MUNITION PLANT

Last week the sale of small parcels at the Imperial Munition Plant was stopped, pending negotiations for the sale of the whole plant. This has been successful, the purchasers being Messrs. Briggs & Turvis, of Chicago, who represent Chicago interests. The deal covers the whole of the 355 acres. Mr. Wright and Mr. Bruce were here on Monday acting for the purchasing company. One of these gentlemen has returned to Chicago to report. While nothing is given out by the purchasers, it is believed that Trenton will soon have a new big industry. —Trenton Courier.

Youth Shoots Three, Spreads Panic in Streets of New York

Fired Only In Self-Defense, He Says, After He is Saved by Mob.

NEW YORK, May 6.—That section of Harlem bounded by Broadway, Amsterdam avenue, and 130th and 132nd streets, was terrified when Giuleme Gesso, twenty-five years old, of No. 214 West 130th street, ran wild with a revolver, shooting one policeman and two civilians and causing serious injuries to another policeman.

A crowd of several hundred persons joined in the pursuit of the man with the revolver and a lynching was narrowly averted by the arrival of police reserves from the West 125th street police station.

Those injured are:

Police Sergeant John Davaney, fifty-two years old, taken to Knickerbocker Hospital, suffering from lacerations of the forehead and shoulder and bruises of the body.

Badly Bruised in Scuffle.

After Gesso was captured, he was taken to Bellevue, suffering from bruises about the head and body, and charged with felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan law.

The shooting was caused indirectly by Joseph Sweeter, soldier at Camp Merritt, who was calling on his aunt at No. 571 West 130th street about half-past one yesterday afternoon.

When Sweeter left his aunt's apartment on the fifth floor he was confronted by Gesso in the lower hallway. Gesso demanded to know what he was doing in the tenement house. Sweeter explained, and Gesso threatened him with a revolver, according to the police. Sweeter returned to his aunt's apartment and she then called upon Eugene Breen, who lives next door, to accompany her with Sweeter to the Fort Lee ferry. Breen did so, but when they returned to the house Gesso confronted Breen and another argument ensued, ending in a fight.

According to Breen, Gesso drew a revolver and shot him. Breen managed to follow Gesso into the street and the chase followed.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 140 cars, with 2,738 cattle, 417 calves, 1,868 hogs, and 19 sheep and lambs.

When over 3,000 employees of Toronto's five large packing houses went on strike yesterday morning, it was the signal that the usual big Monday's cattle market at the Union Stock Yards, was all off for yesterday. Fortunately for the shippers and drovers, the receipts were light, many of them having been previously advised that a strike was probable. Acting on this advice, shippers had held back their stock. Under normal conditions, the first market in the month of May is a very big market. Had no strike been in the air, probably over 5,000 cattle would have been offered in the market yesterday. As it was there was less than 3,000, and the balance of small meats was very light. Although the larger buyers for the packing houses were for the time being "not on the job," except for buying a few cows and bulls, the smaller local wholesale butchers who run their own abattoirs were in the market for their usual supplies of cattle, and besides there were two or three buyers from outside points. Under these conditions the market was not at all dead, and a few good transactions were effected. Three loads of good steers were bought for Montreal, among them one load of extra choice sold at $15.25, and two other loads at $14.25. Some good loads of butchers for local trade were bought around $13.60 to $14. Cows and bulls held fairly strong.

Calves were steady, but very few offering.

There was practically no sheep and lamb market.

Hogs sold at last week's prices at $15.50 off cars.

MRS. BALFAME

"I am Mrs. Balfame's lawyer," he said without preamble. "She sent for me because you tried to blackmail her. What were you doing on the stairs when you heard Mrs. Balfame in the kitchen? You left the dance hall sometime before eight, and that could not have been more than five minutes past."

Frieda pressed her big lips together in a hard line.

"Oh, you won't speak. Well, if you don't explain to me, you will to the Grand Jury to-morrow. Or I shall get out a warrant to-night for your arrest as the murderer of David Balfame."

"Gott!" The girl's face was almost purple. She raised her knitting needles with a threatening gesture that was almost dramatic. "I did not do it. She has done it."

"What were you doing on the stairs?"

"I would heat water for my tooth."

"Cold water is the thing for an ulcerated tooth."

"I never have the toothache like that already. I am in my room many times before I think I go down. Then, when I am on the stairs I hear Mrs. Balfame come in."

"She has explained what you heard."

"No, she have not. I think so when we have talked this evening, but not now. She is—was, I mean, all out of her breath."

"I was terrified." Mrs. Balfame retorted so promptly that Rush flashed her a glance of admiration. Here was a woman who could take care of herself on the witness stand. "First I thought I heard some one trying to get into the door, and then some one sneaking up the stairs."

"Oh—yes." Frieda's tones expressed no conviction. "The educated lady can think very quick. But I say that she have come in by the door, the kitchen door. Always I take the key to the hall door. She know that, and as she not know that I am in, she go out by the kitchen door. Always in the daytime when she goes to the yard she go by the hall door."

"What a pity you did not slam the door when you came in. It would have been quite natural as you were in such agony." Rush spoke sarcastically, but he was deeply perturbed. It was impossible to tell whether the girl was telling the truth or a carefully rehearsed story.

"Of course you know that if you tell that story to the police you will get yourself into serious trouble."

"I get her into trouble."

"Mrs. Balfame is above suspicion. It is not my business to warn you, or to defeat the ends of the law, of which apparently you know nothing—"

"I know something. Last night I have tell Herr Kraus; and he say that since I have told the coroner I know nothings, much better I touch the lady for five hundert and go home."

"Oh-h! That is the advice Old Dutch gave you! Splendid! I think the best thing I can do is to have you arrested bright and early to-morrow morning. Mrs. Balfame is cleared already. You may go."

She stared at him for a moment out of eyes that spat fire like two little guns in the top of a fort; then she swung herself about and retreated to the kitchen.

"That ought to make her disappear to-night. Her friends will hide her. The mere fact of her disappearance will convince the police, as well as the reporters, that she is guilty. You are all right." He spoke boyishly, and his face, no longer rigid, was full of light.

"But if she is innocent?"

"No harm done. She'll be smuggled out of the country and suspicion permanently diverted from you. That is all I care about." He caught her hands impulsively in his. "I am glad, so glad! Oh!—It is too soon now, but wait—" He was out of the house before she grasped the fact that he had arrested himself on the brim of another declaration.

Mrs. Balfame went up to bed, serene once more in the belief that her future was her own, unclouded, full of attractive possibilities for a woman of her position and intellectual attainments.

She made up her mind to take a really deep course of reading, so that the most spiteful should not call her superficial; moreover, she had been conscious more than once of certain mental dissatisfactions, of uneasy vacancies in a mind sufficiently awake to begin to realize the cheapness of its furnishings. Perhaps she would take a course in history at Columbia, another in psychology.

As she put herself into a sturdy cotton night-gown and then brushed back her hair from a rather large forehead before braiding it severely for the night, she realized dimly that that way happiness might lie, that the pleasures of the intellectual life might be very great indeed. She wished regretfully that she could have been brilliantly educated in her youth. In that case she would not have married a man who would incite any spirited woman to seek the summary release, but would be to-day the wife of a judge, perhaps—some fine fellow who had showed early promise that Dwight Rush must have done. If she could attract one man like that, at the age of forty-two, she could have had a dozen in her train when young if she had had the sense to appreciate them.

But she was philosophical, and it was not her way to quarrel very deeply with herself or with life. Her long braids were as evenly plaited as ever.

She sank into sleep, thinking of the disagreeable necessity of making the kitchen fire in the morning and cooking her own breakfast. Frieda of course would be gone.

CHAPTER XVII.

The next morning, when Mrs. Balfame, running lightly down the back stairs, entered the kitchen half an hour earlier than her usual appearance in the dining-room, the front of her housefrock covered with a large apron and her sleeves pinned to the elbow, she beheld Frieda slicing potatoes.

"Why!" The exclamation was impetuous, but her quick mind adapted itself. "I woke up early and thought I would come down and help," she continued evenly. "You have had so much to do of late."

Frieda was regarding her with intense suspicion. "Never you have done that before," she growled. "You will see if I have the dishes by the dinner washed."

"Nonsense. And everything is so different these days. I am hungry, too. I thought it would be nice to hurry breakfast."

"Breakfast always is by eight. You have told me that when I come I get up by half past six. First I sir the house and sweep the hall. Then I make the fire and put the water to boil. Then I peel the potatoes. Then I make the biscuit. Then I boil the eggs. Then I make the coffee—"

"I know. You are marvellously systematic. But I thought you might make the coffee at once."

"Always the coffee come last." Frieda resumed her task.

"But I don't eat potatoes for breakfast."

"I eat the potatoes. When they fry in the pan, then I put the biscuit in the oven. Then I boil the eggs and then I make the coffee. Breakfast is by eight o'clock."

Mrs. Balfame, with a good-humoured laugh, turned to leave the kitchen. But her mind, alert with apprehension, cast up a memory, vague but far from soothing. "By the way, I seem to remember that I woke up suddenly in the night and heard voices down here. Did you have visitors?"

Frieda flushed the deep and angry red of her infrequent moments of embarrassment. "I have not visitors in the night." She turned on the water tap, which made noise enough to discourage further attempts at conversation; and Mrs. Balfame, to distract her mind, dusted the parlour. She dared not go out into the yard and walk off her restlessness, for there were now two sentinels preserving what they believed to be a casual attitude before her gate. She would have given much to know whether those men were watching her movements or those of her servant.

Immediately after breakfast, the systematic Frieda was persuaded to go to the railway station and buy the New York papers when the train came in. Frieda might be a finished product of the greatest machine shop the world has ever known, but she was young and she liked the bustle of life at the station, and the long walk down Main Street, so different from the aristocratic repose of Elsinore Avenue. Mrs. Balfame, watching behind the curtain, saw that one of the sentinels followed her. The other continued to lean against the lamp-post whittling a stick. Both she and Frieda were watched!

But the disquiet induced by the not unnatural surveillance of premises identified with a recent crime was soon forgotten in the superior powers of the New York press to excite both disquiet and indignation.

She had missed a photograph of herself while dusting the parlour and had forgiven the loyal thief as it was a remarkably pretty picture and portrayed a woman sweet, fashionable and lofty. To her horror the picture which graced the first page of the great dailies was that of a hard defiant female, quite certain, without a line of letter press, to prejudice a public anxious to believe the worst.

Tears of outraged vanity blurred her vision for a few moments before the full menace of that silent witness took possession of her. She knew that most people deteriorated under the mysterious but always fatal encounter of their photographs with the "staff artist," but she felt all the sensations of the outraged novice.

A moment after she had dashed her tears away she turned pale; and when she finished reading the interviews the beautiful whiteness of her skin was disfigured by a greenish pallor.

The interviews were written with a devilish cunning that protected the newspapers from danger of libel suit but subtly gave the public to understand that its appetite for a towering figure in the Balfame case was about to be gratified.

Below Your Equator

there is, in the form of the intestinal canal, a wonderful laboratory, within which are manufactured the very materials which are vitally necessary to sustain life, and also violent poisons which directly and indirectly cause disease and death.

Food waste, if allowed to accumulate, stagnates and gives rise to poisonous matter. This, if allowed to be absorbed into the blood, produces 90% of the disease that attacks mankind, from a transient neuralgia to a permanent hardening of the arteries.

Bright's disease, liver trouble, heart enlargement, high blood pressure, skin affections, rheumatism, insomnia, nervous exhaustion, mental affections, all may be caused by such self-poisoning, the warning of which is obstinate or habitual constipation.

Nor is it safe or sufficient to take castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in the effort to force the bowels to move. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies, but the dose must be constantly increased with an ever-weakening effect.

But Nujol acts differently—and successfully. Nujol is not a drug—does not act like any drug.

Nujol brings about thorough and natural bowel evacuation, at regular intervals, because it helps Nature to restore and to maintain the proper mechanism by which body waste is removed and its stagnation prevented.

Nujol overcomes constipation by removing its causes. Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and send coupon for free booklet—"Thirty Feet of Danger."

Teutons Accept Defeat

Without Much Dignity

Future Looks Very Dark

"THE moral backbone of the German people is broken," said a correspondent of the London Times who left Berlin at the end of January. "There is no dignity in the way they carry their defeat." Comparing the way in which the Germans take their loss of the war with the way the French acted after 1871, the correspondent continued:

"The Germans seem to have lost all spirit of enterprise. Only the most necessary work is done, and even that is badly done. Nobody seems to care. Nothing is done to transform the factories which had served the purposes of war into factories for peace production. In some of them the workmen are kept and paid, though the works stand still. The workmen pass the day playing cards. But do not think they are satisfied. In one factory where not a stroke of work had been done for months the workmen, or card players, even asked for an increase of pay and a six-hour day. When this was refused they threatened to strike.

"Capitalists do not dare to invest their money in industry, mines or commerce, but try to smuggle it out of the country out of reach of socialization and taxes. Several people whom I did not even know came and offered me large sums if I would smuggle their money and securities into a neutral country.

"When Germans discuss defeat, as they often do even with strangers, they never admit that they were beaten on a military scene. One often hears the expression 'our invincible field grays.' They admit two causes of defeat, the British blockade and British propaganda; these together shook the morale of the people and prepared the revolution. That even a decisive battle was fought between Cambrai and St. Quentin they ignore, as well as the fact that the final blow of Marshal Foch's offensive was to be delivered by Gen. Castelnau in the south about Nov. 15, which, of course, was known by the German negotiators and prompted their decision to accept unconditional surrender.

"It seems to me that only the Socialists in Germany understand that the basis of the armistice was an unconditional capitulation; the others seem to imagine that the armistice was a kind of preliminary peace in which Germany obtained certain guarantees on the basis of Mr. Wilson's fourteen points. Only the Socialists admit that the situation is such that the German Government will have to accept the Allies' peace conditions, however hard they are. But the Democrats still make an attempt to show some national pride, or perhaps keep up the national bluff dear to the old government. They often say that if the peace conditions go one single inch further than Mr. Wilson's points the Germans will have been cheated, and the Government may refuse to sign them.

"The Socialists hate war too sincerely to think of revenge, even if they also would resent a diminuation of German territory and heavy indemnities. But the Conservatives are chauvinists, and preach revenge whatever may happen."

Ancient Botany.

The oldest botanical work in the world is sculptured on the walls of a robm in the great temple of Karnak at Thebes, in Egypt. It represents foreign plants brought home by an Egyptian sovereign, Thotmes III. on his return from a campaign in Arabia. The sculptures show not only the plant or tree, but the leaves, fruit and seed pods separately, after the fashion of modern botanical treatises.

A New Discovery.

A new heat insulating material composed of a mixture of a special clay and cork, has been discovered by a Norwegian engineer. The clay and cork mixture is burned, and the result is the formation of a very light substance that is said to be eminently suitable for all heat insulating purposes.

Origin of "Gotham."

Gotham, as a nickname for New York, was first used by Washington Irving, in "Salmagundi," a humorous work, in 1807, because the inhabitants of the city were reputed to be such wiseacres. The original Gotham is, or was, a village in Nottinghamshire, England, the natives of which were made a laughing stock for their foolish sayings and doings, an instance of the latter being their alleged joining hand in hand round a thorn bush to hedge in a cuckoo so that it would sing all the year. They became known far and wide as "the mad men of Gotham." But if tradition is to be believed, there was method in their madness. The story is that King John wanted to establish a hunting lodge in the neighborhood, but that the villagers, unwilling to contribute to the cost of supporting the court or entertaining their monarch, feigned to be imbeciles when the king's messengers arrived, and so managed to get out of it. The "wisemen" later boasted, "we ween there are more fools pass through Gotham than stay in it." A collection of their jests was published about 1566, under the title of "The Merry Tales of the Mad Men of Gotham."

Gen. Foch's Golf Tactics.

Now we know where Marshal Foch got his strategy. The great Frenchman plays golf—not a professional game, but in a safe and sane amateur manner, and he hates to lose a ball. Also he hates to waste time from the game to hunt up the missing. So after the day was over he would take his flash-light and prowl over the links after the strays. Almost invariably he would come in with more balls than he started with. No one could identify the derelicts, and so they went into his box.

That was how it was that the Germans were surprised so often and how so many of them were rounded up in the dark. A careful golfer should make a good tactician.

Almanacs

The first written almanacs were probably compiled by the Greeks of Alexandria between 100 and 150 A.D. Calendars are much older, the ancient Romans having proclaimed the first of the month, and posted a notice of its occurrence in a public place. The first of the month thus came to be called Kalends, from "I call" or "I proclaim," and thus the word calendar was derived. Probably the oldest calendar in existence was found in the ruins of Pompeii. It was cut upon a square block of marble, upon each side of which three months are registered. The first almanac printed in Europe covered the years 1475, 1494 and 1518, and was published at Buda, Hungary.

Peanuts.

The peanut growing industry in the Salt River Valley of Arizona has made a long stride in the last year. From the few scattered acres of a few years ago the area planted to peanuts in that district has grown until it now reaches 1,000 acres. The yield to the acre averages two hundred pounds.

Toronto Landmark Destroyed.

One of the old landmarks of Toronto—the Black Horse Hotel—which has stood at the corner of Front and George streets for nearly a century—since 1820—has at last fallen a prey to the ravages of time, and is now being demolished.

Built as a residence in 1820 by George Munro, it later became the leading hotel in the market district. Its southern windows, looking out upon Toronto Bay, would have seen the first long funnelled, paddle-wheel steamers, with much splashing and smoke, making their first voyages on the great lakes and have watched the harbor front grow from a muddy bank to its present industrial importance.

The old tavern has for many years been shorn of its former pride. Owing to its dilapidated condition it has not been used as a hotel for seven years. Chadwick was the name of the last proprietor. John Holderness, who left about 1836, Capt. Cox, Charles Ireson, Wales and Grimbleboe, were some of his predecessors. For many years it has been used as a lodging house. It was the property of the Munro estate.

Robertson's Landmarks of Toronto gives the following story of the old house: "Just after the close of the war of 1812, two brothers, Scotchmen by birth, came to York from Niagara, and engaged in business here. Their names were John and George Munro. George, the younger of the brothers, was but a boy of fourteen at the time of commencing his mercantile career. In the spring of 1822 the brothers were contributors to the fund for building two bridges over the Don. About this time or earlier, for George Munro was a very young man at the time, he was married, and changed his residence to a new house, which he built about 1820, at the northeast corner of Front and George streets. The building, which is still standing, and now known as the Black Horse Hotel, has been somewhat altered from its original appearance, and its surroundings have greatly changed.

"The main part of the building does not differ much from the original structure, which was a commodious two-storey frame house painted white, standing about fifteen feet back from Front street. About the Front street residence was a large lot extending halfway back to King street, and about an equal distance towards Frederick street. It was handsomely laid out, planted in part with choice fruit trees and blooming on other parts with flowers. Opposite the house on the Bay shore bank was a piece of ground owned by Mr. Munro and by him enclosed by a fence and planted with shrubbery and nearby a great elm tree about which Indians used to camp."

Mr. Munro was an active partisan in politics, with strongly Conservative tendencies. In 1841 he was elected mayor of Toronto, and while holding that office carried to England Toronto's congratulating address on the birth of the Prince of Wales. During the session of 1844-1845 he sat in Parliament for South York.

They Disagreed.

"This dictionary of yours ain't any good," said the father, looking over his schoolboy son's books.

"What's wrong with it, father?"

"Why, it spells most every word different from the way I spell it!"

Failure Trait Pine.

A Lazarus of the forest is the eastern scrub pine, also called Jersey pine, a small, puny tree of poor and pitiful form, willing to subsist on the "crumbs" that fall from the table of others. It grows in New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and farther south and west. It creeps into open spaces and is the companion of sassafras and huckleberry bushes. Old, worn out, gullied fields appeal to this pine, because little else will grow there, and it is not obliged to fight for room. In course of time, however, as the impoverished soil begins to recover broad leaf seedlings come in. As these increase in size the scrub pines die and finally disappear. Though they have been in full possession of the ground, they are unable to hold it against competitors.

The Bashful Lover.

The girl who has a bashful suitor should cease lamenting the inconveniences of the situation and thank Providence for him. He will be very, very faithful. No need for heartburnings, no cause for jealousies, will arise in this connection. For not only have the other girls no time for him (a fact which, taken alone, is hardly a recommendation to the average woman, by the way), but he himself—oh, joy of joys! —will have no time for the other girls.

And so the maiden who has a very bashful lover should cease repining. Once she has secured that eminently suitable person, it is up to her to train him and educate him in the way he should go. And there is no fear that he will ever depart from her.—Ellen Adair in Philadelphia Ledger.

A Zeppelin Engine.

A six-cylinder 162-horse power Benz engine used for Zeppelin purposes has cylinders 130 millimeters diameter and 150 millimeters stroke. The cylinders are all cast separately, and the weight of the engine complete comes out at 370 pounds per brake-horse power at the normal speed of 1,550 revolutions a minute.

...ress Strongly in Favor Of Russian Conference Held on Princes' Islands

THE moral propriety of entering into negotiations with the Bolshevik Government may be argued pro and con; but it is difficult to see what else the Allies could in regard to Russia. This seems to be the general trend of editorial opinion on the question of the Princes' Islands conference. On the other hand, it is universally pointed out that for the contending parties in Russia it would be suicidal not to accept the invitation, especially after the Bolsheviki have declared their intention to attend.

One writer summarizes the situation thus:

"The Allies greatly desire a settlement of the Russian question, and will have scant patience with any group which refuses to negotiate. A parallel might be found in the case of a labor war which has so exhausted tolerance that either labor or capital by refusing concessions might finally cause a shifting of sympathy toward the other side.

"This psychological side of the case the Lenine Government has not overlooked, and the rival governments cannot afford to overlook it, either. If sympathy with the Bolsheviki is still confined to very narrow circles, it is obvious that sympathy with their opponents has waned very rapidly of late."

It is equally to the interest of the Allies and the non-Bolshevik Russian parties, some writers contend, that the latter should be represented in full at the Prinkipo conference. It would be most unsatisfactory for the representative of the Allies to meet with the Bolsheviki alone. That would be tantamount to a direct meeting with an organization that is generally regarded as an outlaw. Possibly, however, acceptance by the Bolsheviki will cause a reconsideration by the other Russian elements. What for the Allies the condition sine qua non for parleying with the Soviet Government is the latter's recognition of the Russian national debt is generally emphasized. Says the Ottawa Citizen:

"We learn now that Lenine has agreed that the Soviet Government should pay the bond interest on the pre-war foreign debt of the country, and that with this concession he will go to the conference on Princes' Islands fortified with the armor of a declared righteousness. As a matter of fact, he could not go otherwise. The first proof of Russia's good faith to be demanded by the Allies would have been the recognition of the responsibility of whatever government Russia would have, ultimately, for the debts in question, unless Russia contended that the Allied and neutral nations would be treating with an outlaw nation in a commercial sense and all the treaties and agreements that could be entered into in the circumstances would not help matters. No country will trade with a creditor that has repudiated his honest debts."

Turning to the foreign press, it may be said in general that the British newspapers, all except the extreme Tory organs, favor the plan of the Princes' Islands meeting, whereas the majority of the French papers are distrustful and even hostile. The London Mail says the assumption that the calling of the conference means recognition of the Bolsheviki is "too hasty."

"Le Figaro" implies the warning that this measure of conciliation may sow the seed of dissension between the Allied powers themselves, pointing out that the French radicals are ridiculising Wilson's stand for the purpose of opposition to their own government.

A Priceless Idol.

It is a part of the creed of Mohammedans to smash the shrine of an idol they may come across. When they invaded India they defaced in this way many a Hindu god. A figure of Vishnu in green jade was buried in the bed of the Ganges during this invasion and is now preserved in a temple in Benares. It is the only perfect image of all the old idols, and its sanctity is such that the priests at Allahabad have offered for it its weight in gold, or with two magnificent rubies, for the eyes of Buddha. But they refuse to buy it.

Wasted Effort.

After a fire recently a brave fireman was grasping and panting from the burning building with his apparatus in the flames. Under one arm he carried a small but heavy box, which he deposited in a place of safety with the air of a man who had saved a government bond from destruction. On opening the box it was found to contain six bottles of a new patent medicine.—Argonaut.

Germans Sing "The Marseillaise"

THE story how the German revolution came to a camp of French prisoners near Munster is being told in Le Figaro by Maxime Girard, himself one of the interned French soldiers liberated by the signing of the armistice.

"It was almost like a theatrical performance, enacted for our special benefit," he writes. "For two hours on Nov. 9 I almost rejoiced in being a prisoner of war.

"We knew already on the 7th that the sailors had revolted at Kiel, Hamburg and Cuxhaven and hoisted the red flag on many ships. The next day we heard that Gen Ritter, commander of the 7th Army Corps, was just outside of our camp, waylaid by a soldier whom he had reprimanded for not saluting him properly.

"But the real thing started on the 9th. Early in the morning we were told that a delegate of the Soldiers' and Workingmen's Council would visit the camp. We thought it was a practical joke.

"But it was true. A civilian, wearing one of the famous small green hats featured by cartoonists and a wide red brassard, appeared at the gate of the camp. The soldiers surrounded him. It was the 'delegirte' from Munster. A guard of honor consisting of four soldiers with bayonets fixed accompanied him.

"After the soldiers of the camp had examined his credentials, he mounted a table and read the order of the day as follows: 'Tear off your cockades. Degrade the officers. There is only one here to issue orders, and that is me.'

"In a minute the ground was covered with eagles and cockades which the soldiers tore off their caps and uniforms and trampled under their feet. All this was going on before our eyes.

"Then came the turn of the non-commissioned officers. The delegate entered the office of the sergeant-major and demanded that he also should tear off his cockade. The sergeant-major started a speech, but was rudely interrupted by the delegate, who gave him two minutes to make up his mind. It took about thirty seconds before the cockade lay on the floor.

"Another sergeant who showed signs of resistance was disarmed without any parleying. Even his helmet was taken from him.

"A soldier exclaimed: 'Let's go to the officers.' A delegation was dispatched to confer with Capt. Baron X., commander of the camp. They met him in the yard. Without uttering a word one of the soldiers pointed a finger at the cockade on the captain's cap. The captain registered lack of comprehension. Silently the soldier repeated the gesture. And the captain, Baron X., commander of the camp, very obediently lifted his cap and tore off the imperial emblem, throwing it on the ground.

"Then the 'delegirte' came to us prisoners and began a parley with the head of our relief society. He told us that there was no question of giving us our freedom; that in our own interest we should strictly adhere to the rules issued for us, but at the same time he asked if we had any grievances. Our representative presented a series of complaints, and the 'delegirte' issued orders on the spot granting our demands in full.

"Then the 'delegirte' asked to be conducted to the headquarters of our musical society, called 'Symphonie.' His request was complied with. And then the real surprise was sprung on us.

"The 'delegirte' asked the leader of our orchestra to play the 'Marseillaise.' And while the band played the 'delegirte' lifted his hat and stood there uncovered, and all the German soldiers uncovered, too. When the song was finished, the 'delegirte' applauded vehemently, and all the German soldiers applauded, too.

"The same scene was re-enacted in the hall of our other musical society, 'Harmonie.' The 'Marseillaise' was played, and all the German soldiers stood there, their caps pressed to their hearts, at attention.

"Nor was this all. The 'delegirte' asked if we had any French flags. Of course each of us had a flag, but we were afraid to say so. Then the German repeated his question, adding that if we did not happen to possess any French flag we had better make a few right away.

"In a couple of minutes the whole camp was bedecked with the tricolor flags of the French Republic. It was a dream come true."

Paper From Leaves.

Owing to a scarcity of other materials, paper was made in France during the war from dead leaves. The leaves are crushed, then the powdered portion is carefully separated and the fibrous ribs and veins turned into pulp. These are made ready for use by simply treating with lye, washing and bleaching. For cattle food purposes the leaf powder may be mixed with molasses and made into cakes. For fuel, the powder may be compressed into brinquets, or it may be converted into comparatively pure porous carbon by destructive distillation.

Every Wage Earner Should Answer Question Himself or Herself

WHAT DOES THE FUTURE HOLD FOR YOU IF HEALTH GIVES WAY?

In dollars and cents, what is the worth of the brawn of your arm; what is the value of the staying power that permits continuous labor—what are they worth to you?

Suppose you did something so foolish as to reduce your strength, vitality or judgment one half, and it were impossible to get them back—how much would you pay to regain the lost portion?

When you let yourself run down you reduce your chances for success in life — if sleeplessness comes you score lower still—should appetite or digestion fail, you are stared in the face by physical bankruptcy.

Don't let it go so far, take Ferrozone, it has cured thousands and it will cure you; it builds up bodily strength, makes muscles like steel, replaces Spring tiredness by energy and new life. Ferrozone rebuilds sick folks because it contains the strengthening elements that every run down system requires.

Especially before the hot weather comes, everyone needs a purifying tonic—Ferrozone fills the bill exactly—nothing known that juvenates and uplifts so fast.

At once the appetite improves. You rest well and arise next morning feeling fit and fine.

Headaches disappear, weakness gives way to the vigor that only Ferrozone can supply. Try it, results are guaranteed, 50c. per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers or by mail to any address if price is remitted to the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

Is Your Nose Plugged? Have You Catarrh?

If Subject to Colds, Here is Real Good Advice.

Don't load your stomach with cough syrups. Send healing medication through the nostrils—send it into the passages that are subject to colds and catarrh. Easy to do this with Catarrhozone, which cures a cold in ten minutes. Even to the lungs goes the healing vapor of Catarrhozone—all through the bronchial tubes, nostrils and air passages—everywhere a trace of disease remains will Catarrhozone follow. You'll not have colds, nor will you suffer from sniffles, bronchitis, or throat trouble if Catarrhozone is used. Get it today, but beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhozone. Large size, two months' treatment, costs $1.00; small size, 50c; sample size, 25; all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

DEMOBILIZATION.

Men Will Come Home In Increasing Numbers.

One of the most pressing questions with which the Canadian Ministers have to deal is that of facilitating the return of troops to Canada. The matter is the occasion for continuing the conference with the overseas military staff.

The Canadian Corps is occupying a portion of Germany along the Rhine and the disposition of this force in the main must await peace developments. But in clearing the way for their return the military authorities are carrying out extensive demobilization operations. The extent of this demobilization is only limited by the transportation conditions. Estimates are that 30,000 Canadian soldiers will arrive home in January and thereafter 30,000 per month.

The sources from which these separate drafts are obtained are reserve battalions containing men who have been service and would be again available for the field were this necessary; non-combatant units and men of Category B or lower.

These demobilization measures are being carried out in conformity with the general plan worked out some time ago. The men go from the various camps to concentration camp at Kenmael Park, North Wales, and are then sent forward to the dispersal depot in Canada nearest their homes, where they are mustered out.

Troops available for demobilization in France are daily going to England, but this movement is not large owing to the difficulty of moving troops in France. For the moment soldiers in England have the preferential chance of getting home, but it is hoped this will be equalized later by the establishment of a concentration camp in France and direct transport from France to Canada.

The Canadian corps at the front will be demobilized by units, which will enable Canadian committees to extend a welcome to their home battalions. Plans are now being worked out to enable this to be done without undue delay. The objection to this source will be met by interchanges between battalions by which all soldiers from a given area will be collected in the battalions identified with that territory. Thus infantrymen from Toronto will be assembled with the whole army in Toronto battalions. There will be ample time to work this out.

Officers from the front say that the expectation of the corps is that demobilization will be by divisions in their numerical order. The Canadian demobilization scheme in Reason and Instinct.

A certain north country miner was particularly proud of a clever little dog he possessed. At times he was apt to claim a little too much for his pet, and one morning a neighbor was endeavoring to point out the difference between instinct and reason when an amusing interruption occurred. A seedy looking tramp turned the corner, and the dog, without so much as a word from his master, sprang into the road and offered battle.

"There you are," laughed the miner as the dog snapped and snarled around the heels of the tramp. "He don't like the looks of the chap. That's instinct."

Suddenly the tramp turned and kicked the dog into an adjacent field.

"There you are," ejaculated the miner's friend grimly. "The chap don't like the looks of the dog. An' that's reason."—London Tit-Bits.

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY

Make this lotion for very little cost and just see for yourself.

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and and you have a whole quarter pint of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons.

Salaries of Actors.

Enormous salaries of actors today are looked upon as a modern innovation, growing with the development of the American millionaire and the imagination of the American press agent. Such is not the case, says Robert Mantell. The Roman actor, Roscius, whose name has become synonymous with all that is marvelous in a player, earned a salary, which, according to Mr. Mantell, puts that warm friend of Cicero quite in a class with Charlie Chaplin. Roscius drew about $160 daily in the money of his time, which had a purchasing power equivalent to nearly $1,600 in Canadian money, even without the aid of the war and the patriotism of the restaurant men. That brings his annual salary to the half million mark. Another actor, the tragedian Aesopus, not to be confounded with the writer of fables, and who also was a friend of Cicero, received so great a salary that he left a vast fortune to his son. When the Emperor Vesparian repaired the theatre of Marcellus, he gave the tragedian Apollinaris, $20,000 to appear there, but the length of his services for that amount is not stated. To each of two harpist in the company, Terpinus and Diodorus, he gave $10,000, and no player received less than $2,000. In addition he made the actors numerous special presents of money, always gold.

Coming down to more recent times and more modest amounts, but still comparable with salaries of to-day, David Garrick drew at the height of his popularity $250 a night. Macready in 1838, when he staged for the first time Richelieu, Mr. Mantell's feature play this season, was paid $125 a night, and Miss Ellen Tree, about the same period drew the same salary.

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets and suffocations seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGaughey, North Battleford, Sask., writes:—"I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies, but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TISZA PLANNED BY RUSS.

Plotted Deliberately to Cause Great War.

Charges that the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, at Sarajevo on June 28, 1914, was the result of a deliberate plot led by the late Count Tisza, former Hungarian Premier, are made in a pamphlet written by a priest who was the spiritual adviser of the Duchess of Hohenberg, according to a Vienna despatch to the Frankfort Gazette. The pamphlet, entitled "The Sarajevo murder and Count Tisza's Responsibility for the World War," is said to have made a profound impression in Austria.

It is declared that Francis Ferdinand repeatedly refused to go to Sarajevo, and it was only an appeal to his courage that induced him to make the trip.

"The most elementary precautions were omitted," it is stated by the priest. "He was simply led into a trap prepared by the court at Vienna and by the Hungarian aristocracy, headed by Count Tisza."

The general idea of the pamphlet is that "Magyar magnates, with the consent of the Vienna court, wished to get rid of the archduke, who was extremely disliked, and obtain vengeance for the murder at the expense of the Jugo-Slavs, who would be made helpless. It is pointed out that "no proper" inquiry was ever made into the tragedy, and that no one was made responsible for the fact that precautionary measures were not taken.

Count Stephen Tisza, who was assassinated at Budapest on November 1, 1918, was for many years one of the leading figures in Austro-Hungarian political life. To him was attributed the whole Balkan policy of the dual monarchy, and it was reported that after Francis Ferdinand became heir presumptive to the throne of Francis Joseph, he was induced by Count Tisza to urge the scheme of a triune monarchy, made up of Germans, Magyars and Slavs, to replace the Austro-Hungarian empire. It was reported that this proposed Government should have its centre at Budapest instead of Vienna.

After the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, it was Count Tisza who took the initiative in the steps taken against Serbia. It is said that the ultimatum sent to Serbia on July 23, 1914, was largely his work. He is reported to have, in the meantime, communicated with the German Foreign Office, this action resulting in the famous conclave of Emperor William's military family at Potsdam, early in July, 1914, at which, it is charged, plans for immediate war were perfected.

THE CACTUS.

Is One of the Most Useful Plants to Man.

We are accustomed to think of the giant cactus of southwestern deserts (which few of us have seen, though often we have read about it) as a mere freak of vegetation.

It is all of that. But it is also one of the most useful of plants to man. There is no telling how the Indians of Sonora, in Mexico, would get along without it.

To begin with, its fruit in the bearing season (June and July) is the principal food of the natives. What they cannot eat fresh they boil to a syrup for winter use. Some of the syrup is fermented, yielding an intoxicating drink for occasions of festival.

The fruit harvest yields incidentally great quantities of seeds, which are collected in sacks for storage, like grain. These seeds are pounded to meal in a stone mortar and utilized for making bread; also for feeding chickens, which fatten rapidly on the diet.

The giant cactus has a skeleton composed of riblike elements that furnish a light, strong and elastic material for building purposes. They are used for the construction of chicken-coops, chairs, traps and many other things. A single rib serves for a long stick by which to knock down the ripe fruits from their lofty elevation—the huge plant sometimes attaining a height of fifty feet.

Woodpeckers peck holes in the trunk and branches of the cactus, eating the pulp. As a means of self-protection, the plant lines these cavities with woody fibre, and owls and other birds find them most convenient for nests. When the cactus dies the linings drop out, furnishing ready-made wooden cups and water-bottles.

The thirsty traveler in the desert can obtain all the drink he needs by firing a rifle or pistol bullet into the trunk of a giant cactus. Thereupon a fluid exudes that is an acceptable equivalent for water, though it does not taste good.

History of Shaving.

In tracing the history of shaving it should be sufficient to go back to the Greeks and Romans, upon whose civilization our own is based. Beards were highly esteemed among the former up to the time of Alexander the Great, who was smooth-shaven. One reason for the abolition of the beard among soldiers was the fact that it afforded the enemy something to lay hold of. At an earlier period the wearing of certain types of helmet and gorget had protected the beard. The Romans wore beards down to the time of the Gallic wars, while the Gauls, about barbarians, were smooth-shaven save for the moustache. The antiquity of barber shops and razors in Rome is variously given by historians. Some have claimed that the first barber shop, at least in that part of the world, was opened in Sicily in 300 B.C., while other authorities make this date far earlier or later. The Sicilian seems to have been the first barber.

Oregon is noted as a breeding state for goats, pure-bred sires often bringing prices in excess of $500.

Belgians Being Repatriated

ONE of the first problems to confront the British Government on the signing of the armistice was the repatriation of the 150,000 Belgian refugees in England and Scotland. Certainly the first impulse of most refugees was to celebrate the auspicious eleventh of November by the purchase of a trunk or some means of conveying their belongings back to their own homes. After four years' exile the thought that the invader was now definitely driven from Belgian soil gave rise to intense impatience once more to take possession of the land of which they had been dispossessed. The workmen of the Birtley Munition Works were the first to be recalled to work at the rebuilding of their own land, writes K. Ennis from London, as quoted in the Pittsburg Gazette-Times. Gradually Antwerp and the surrounding districts were repopulated and since January 15 it has been possible for the exiles to return to all parts of Belgium. Shipping facilities for the purpose have been greatly extended and arrangements are now in force to transport 10,000 refugees a week. It is estimated that by the end of March the country will be emptied of all Belgians save those desirous of settling here, or those wishing to return later at their own expense.

A glance at the list of prices prevailing in Brussels at the end of December suggests that the joy of return is likely to be dampened by the cost of living. Belgians who are self-supporting here and can afford to return at their own time are, in fact, waiting for this to abate. Eggs are quoted at 30 cents each, butter $4.80 the kilo (2 1-5 lbs.), coffee $3.40 a pound and sugar is unobtainable. Beef dripping is sold at $2 a pound, lard at $2.40 to $2.80, while toilet soap is at $5 the piece. Perhaps the most prohibitive price is that demanded for ordinary cotton, which is from $1.80 to $2.40 a reel. Clothes and boots are proportionately scarce and dear. Fortunately the sailing of the "Rubis" on January 31 commenced the re-establishment of the regular steamship service between Tilbury and Ostend. The first cargo included a great store of mattresses, bedding and clothing, as well as 100 tons of soap. The resumption of peaceful commerce ought soon to bring relief to the depleted country, while the restoration of the machinery and live stock, which has been carried off into Germany by the invader, should materially help the re-establishment of industry and agriculture.

The universities and other educational institutions are already issuing invitations to their students to resume their interrupted courses, although the immediate reopening is in some cases being delayed by the buildings being used as clearing stations for returning allied prisoners of war. Among the most eager exiles to return are the large number of nuns to whom the English convents have been affording hospitality. These are faced with the arduous task of repairing the damage and removing the disorder consequent on the prolonged occupation of their convents by German troops.

The return of the Belgians will witness the closing down of a special department of the British Local Government Board, created to deal with relief measures. When, in 1914, the country was roused by the account of their suffering to a spirit of "Britain for the Belgian," voluntary committees sprang up in every district and private funds were forthcoming in every direction. Gradually these funds were supplemented from the national exchequer and in proportion as voluntary contributions and organizations fell off there emerged a Government scheme employing a staff of 172 members.

The relief given varied with the individual requirements of the applicants. Where private hospitality was not available, accommodation was afforded in hotels or in houses lent rent free or at merely nominal rents. Favorable treatment was afforded at dispensaries, hospitals and sanitoria. As regards education, the children were placed in convents or colleges, according to their religion, a grant of $2.50 per week being made to the convent for each child. Clothing was supplied in all cases where investigation showed circumstances to demand it, and, while class distinctions were not officially recognized, every effort was made to guard susceptibilities where possible. The separation allowances of wives of Belgian privates were also supplemented to bring them up to those of British soldiers' wives. War-time labor shortage made it possible from a very early stage to absorb many of the refugees in remunerative employment. Very soon they were among the most highly skilled and best paid munition workers, and the whole colony of Elizabethville (so called after the Belgian Queen) at Birtley, County Durham, was populated by them.

But perhaps the most truly national industry which the Belgians founded here is represented by the "patisserie" shops in the West End of London. Food rationing had not been long in force before Londoners discovered the value of these establishments as being mysteriously capable of still producing satisfying "teas." Soon they became known as the last stronghold of the fancy cake and the provider of the almost extinct chocolate. It certainly would appear that the Belgians found in this country, in addition to a refuge from the horrors and deprivations of war, a new and profitable field for enterprise. They should carry away with them the memory of as prosperous and comfortable a time as it is in the nature of a period of exile to be.

Eighteen members of the British House of Commons lost their lives in the recent war.

The Home of the Squirrel.

Which is the more valable, a tree or a squirrel?

Animal lovers will have no hesitation in making a choice. They deplore the new policy of mending every hole in the trees of our parks and city "squares," because such cavities are the natural homes of squirrels. Also of many worth-while birds.

It is all very well to build miniature cottages for squirrel habitation and set them in the forks of trees but these fuzzy and interesting friends of ours do not care much for our style of architecture. A good deep hole in a trunk or limb is what they want for domiciliary purposes.

Most of the "cottages" remain untenanted. What happens to the squirrels? Evidently they disappear, most of them—as one may judge from their reduced numbers. Deprived of suitable residential and breeding quarters, they vanish away.

The "cottages" are not comfortable, from the squirrels' point of view, to start with. They are built wrong for their use. They are not weather-proof — not proof against cold in winter or against wet. In a season or two they begin to fall to pieces.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Sparkling and vivacious —merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexion; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

BIG JOHN CANADIEN.

Famous Old Lacrosse Player a Picturesque Indian.

Big John Canadien is dead. The famous Caughnawaga Indian who used to run the Lachine Rapids on New Year's Day in a canoe dropped dead at his home a few weeks ago. He was 78 years of age.

John Baptiste Canadien—his real name—took his canoe through the wild rapids on five different occasions and many a log raft beside. In addition he at one time piloted the steamers through the swirling waters.

It was in 1884 that John Baptiste Canadien did his "bit" for the Empire. Lord Wolseley was conducting his second campaign against the Dervishes and bending every effort to relieve Gen. Gordon in Khartoum. Everything was on the side of the enemy—the torrid Egyptian sun, the sand, his simple needs, which gave him increased mobility, his knowledge of routes and watering places. Passage up the Nile seemed to promise the greatest success, but the cataracts offered a problem. Skilled boatmen were required, and it was with the picked Canadian voyageurs that "Big John," went overseas. Eighty-one boatmen went to Egypt and toiled under the grilling sun of the Soudan in an effort to take troops and supplies up the Nile. Though their services did not bring the campaign to a successful conclusion, both Houses of the Imperial Parliament acknowledged their services by formal resolution, and commanding officers warmly commended them. By a strange fate a man born in Montreal was to succeed where others had failed—Sir Percy Girouard, K.C.M.G., D.S.O., R.E., who built the railway across the desert which carried Sir Herbert Kitchener and his troops in triumph to Khartoum.

Later he went to Europe with the Caughnawaga lacrosse team and was presented to Queen Victoria. He returned the same summer to the little home where he was born and there he lived until the end came.

The last time he ran the rapids was in 1901, when the present King, then the Duke of Cornwallis and York, visited Canada.

The old man's home was rugged and weathered, like himself. It was built nearly one hundred years ago. Big John, as his family grew too large for the one room, which comprises the ground floor, added a floor, added a story. "But these old beams are the same." On the walls were pictures of Big John in the glory of his Indian costume; another as a lacrosse player, recalling his trip to England as a captain of a team which played before Queen Victoria, and a signed photograph, which Her Majesty gave him.

GUARDING HUN ELECTIONS.

Incidents in the Occupation of Town In Germany.

It was in a German beer garden in a rather important town in the Rhine districts occupied by the Canadian Corps, writes a Canadian in Germany. And since the German town centres round its beer gardens it was there I found the best answer to my anxiety about the fraternizing of old-time enemies. I had watched all year, from closeup, the organized and unremitting hatred of the Canadian soldier for the fighting Hun. And from the same grand stand seat of war correspondent I had ample proof that the affection of the grey-coated German for the persistent, indefatigable, fearless Canadian was of the same calibre—longer drawn out.

But of the Canadian memory I was not so certain.

The beer garden was the typical German one—a roomy theatre, with large stage in front, cheap chairs that could be turned towards the performance or the glass of beer that once stood on the tables, and a bar extending across the entire rear. The stage was incidental, the chairs a medium only. The bar was the main idea in the old days of German guzzling and community life.

Now it was difficult. The long bar was half closed off, concealing a kitchen where tea and coffee urns stood ready for the evening's business. The seats were neatly arranged, with their backs towards the stage. The stage was a riot of red, white and blue. Indeed, the whole setting was so patriotic as to remind me of early war days when conscription was delayed on behalf of voluntary enlistment and the senses and sentiment were the mediums of appeal.

The manner of metamorphosis required no explanation. A Canadian Y.M.C.A. officer was my guide. When Canadian soldiers began to filter in to the town the Y.M.C.A. arrived with the first consignment. And the very first act of the officer was to ferret out the buildings suitable to his purposes of entertainment. And the beer garden—as in many another German village—supplied one of his most pressing wants. And the second phase of operations was to decorate in the flags and colors of the Allies.

The building seemed empty when I entered. But as we moved down the aisle two solid, silent figures loomed from the gloom — soldiers seated several chairs apart in the very front row.

Grim they sat, with frowning brows and firm chins, their arms folded in that instinctive expression of immovable determination. They scarcely shifted to look at us. There might have been a lieutenant-general up there on the stage, with these his guards. The officer explained.

The beer garden was the largest hall in town. It was also the local symbol of authority. The German elections were crowding. And the mayor had humbly craved of the Y the use of the hall for a pre-election meeting that afternoon. With the promise of dismissal at five in order not to interfere with the regular Y program, consent was given. Later the request—almost a demand—was for a two hours' extension. But the beer garden was the property of the soldiers for the time; and five was insisted upon as the time limit.

Some soldier conceived the idea that the super-decorations of the theatre in the Allied colors might not be completely in accord with the feelings of a German political meeting. He passed it on. It developed into a decision—unofficial—to establish two Canadians of good physique where every movement of the main actors on the stage would be under their supervision.

And there they sat, an hour before opening time, not a whit impatient. I thought I detected something the opposite of impatience in their demeanor. I looked from their set jaws and anticipatory eyes to the stage, where a table was already surrounded with chairs for the political discussion. Across the front, below the footlights, stretched a three-foot strip of red, white and blue. The dingy scenery was camouflaged in flags and colors. A great Union Jack depended from one chandelier on the right stage, and a Stars and Stripes from another chandelier to the left. It was a ridiculously incongruous setting for a political meeting in a country that had preached hate of those colors for four years.

But I knew not a ribbon or strip would be touched. Those grim faces assured me of that. But the steely glint in their eyes was not explained.

"You'll have a long wait—and a tiresome one," I volunteered. "And you won't know what they're talking about anyway."

A young Ole Bill of the army winked and screwed up the corner of his mouth. "No, it'll be Dutch to us. But"—he paused to give a tug at each coat sleeve, the initial movement of rolling it up—"we'll know if they aren't out of the building by five. And"—he hesitated diplomatically—"here's hoping!"

Drew Caricatures.

One of Princess Patricia's pet hobbies used to be sketching caricatures of members of the royal household. She was particularly clever at these. The billiard room at Bayshot Park, the country home of the Connaughts, has its walls covered with these humorous drawings. One of these, entitled "He was hungry," presents a likeness of the late King Edward rising from the table with a very broad smile of satisfaction on his face. Another, "The Charge of the (not too) Light Brigade," shows the late King, Prince Christian and the late Duke of Fife descending the steps of Marlborough House with formidable umbrellas in their clutches. Her sense of humor is one of the delightful things about her. In addition to her caricatures the princess had a very decided talent for painting. On several occasions during her stay in Canada her paintings were hung in the Art Galleries when exhibitions were on.

Patience Rewarded.

A man had been convicted for stealing and was brought before Judge Perkins. The judge was noted for his kind heart and his light sentences.

"Have you ever been sentenced to imprisonment before?" asked the judge not unkindly.

"No, never!" exclaimed the man, suddenly and dramatically bursting into tears. "Never!"

"Well, well, don't cry, my man," said the judge. "It needn't trouble you. You're going to be."—Lippincott's.

Times Have Changed.

Ding Ding.

"How is this for gallantry? Ferdinand never addresses me without beginning 'Fair miss' or something like that."

"Force of habit, my dear. He acquired it when he used to be a conductor."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Generous Amends.

"Of course you have made some promises you didn't keep."

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I never yet broke a promise to a man without giving him a better one in its stead."—Washington Star.

Hard Times.

Ernest was very big and very black, and when it came to sleeping and eating fully justified his name. Ernest did not fancy steady work, but he was apt to be available when spring came for odd jobs at a dollar a day and his dinner.

One spring he came in with a sheepish grin.

"Miss Sally, I been hearin' in de lodge meetin' 'bout dese hard times, an' I 'low I better raise my sal'ry to a dollar an' a quarter a day."

"You're not worth that, Ernest, and you know it. Besides, I can't afford to pay more."

Ernest scratched his head; this was a matter for more thought than he had anticipated.

"I figgered out when dey wus talkin' 'bout dem hard times dat I couldn't 'ford to work for no less. But"—his black face gleamed with a sudden thought—"I won' eat so much."—New York Post.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Two on A Tour

In Which the Conventionalities Were Rudely Ignored.

By TROY ALLISON.

The elevator of the Washington monument reached the ground after its solemnly slow descent, and Rhoda Jamison, feeling somewhat overawed by the world as seen from the top of the monument, sat down on a bench near the elevator door. She needed a few minutes to readjust her thoughts and to plan for the rest of the day.

Rhoda had saved every possible penny from her salary during the school term in order to take this Washington trip and had determined to crowd as much sightseeing into her ten days as any other Washington tourist had ever done.

She had spent hours with the visiting milliner in her town planning every detail of the time and had finally arrived in the city and taken a cab directly to the quiet lodgings she had recommended. The milliner had, however, forgotten to take into consideration the fact that the girl had never been accustomed to a city and to city ways and had therefore failed to prepare her for the feeling of desolation and loneliness that grew more and more oppressive every minute.

The Congressional library had satisfied her love of beauty, the capitol and the White House had seemed like old friends from the pictures in the geography and history from which she had taught for months, but in her classes she had been the personality. Here she seemed to dwindle into nothingness, and the things that had been mere ideas and pictures towered over her oppressively, and she was overcome by her littleness and her loneliness and longed for some one to speak to her with a hint of friendly interest.

The big, broad shouldered man sitting on the other end of the bench she had seen walking down the steps of the monument. He had evidently felt so secure in his superb physical strength that he walked down to examine more closely the inscriptions on the stones that cannot be studied so well from the elevator.

She saw him take a fountain pen from his pocket, adjust it and finally sort a package of souvenir post cards and begin writing industriously.

She remembered the package she had bought to send her pupils, so she took her own pen from her hand bag and commenced racking her brain for little things to write that would amuse them.

The postal she liked best of all, a daintily colored view of the monument itself, she addressed to her mother. Across it she wrote, "It's so very big, and I feel so little and so lonely."

She leaned forward to flirt a bit of dust from the tip of her pen, and a whiff of air blew the postal from her lap and left it lying at the big man's feet.

He saw it there and, thinking he had dropped one of his own, stooped and picked it up, reading it leisurely.

"I feel so little and so lonely," he read, and, surprised, turned to meet the flushed face of the girl.

"It's mine," she said, holding out her hand for it.

"Do you feel that way, too?" he asked eagerly. "That's me exactly!"

"I shouldn't have called you really 'little,'" she answered, with the frank friendliness of a girl who had never met with a circumstance that would cause her to be suspicious of humanity. "I reckon you are referring to the first part of the sentence. 'It is so big' would really seem more suitable."

"That's right," he laughed, looking at the postal, "but that just proves that I can hold more loneliness than you, for I am feeling lonely from the soles of my feet to the top of my new hat but that I bought in Carson City to see the sights of Washington in."

"At least you are farther from home than I. I'm from South Carolina," she chatted, three days' abstinence from conversation having left her with a surplus on hand.

"I was just sending some of those things to the boys," he said. "They are living in a shack near mine, and I will tickle 'em immensely to get these pictures of civilization. You see, we had been out there for two years digging away for gold without any success, and just as we'd fallen into a fit of gloom and shortage of grub why, we struck it rich."

"How lovely! Did you find it in chunks?" Her eyes sparkled like a child's.

"That's about the size of it," he laughed, with a whole souled heartiness he hadn't experienced for days "We sure found it in large sized pieces and I just thought I'd take a vacation to see the world. I've never been east before."

"Do you like it?" She failed to put as much doubt as to the charms of Washington in her tone as she might have put half an hour earlier.

"I've been about the loneliest person the dome ever shadowed. I could get on very well in the daytime, but I've wanted to sit around the fire at night and talk it over with the boys. How long are you going to stay?" he asked eagerly.

"Ten days. I've been here three." His face lengthened visibly.

"I'll be here a whole month," he added dolefully. "Why don't you stay longer?"

"You see, I haven't struck it rich—in huge chunks. The trustees of my school are rather a parsimonious lot."

"I don't know much about eastern etiquette, but I wonder if it wouldn't be tolerably proper for us to do some sightseeing together this afternoon?" he said, with a touch of boyish shyness.

"I wonder," she said slowly.

The joy of companionship settled the question for them, and he called at her boarding house morning after morning guidebook in hand, the plan for the day already laid out.

* * * * * * *

They had left the trip to Arlington for the last afternoon of her stay, and they wandered through the grounds, more beautiful than ever in their early summer foliage, until they reached the spot overlooking the Potomac where the tall shaft rises in honor of the heroes of the Spanish war.

"This is the loveliest spot of all," he said as they sat down on the grassy slope with their faces turned toward the river. "Washington will seem dead after I put you on the train this afternoon. Have you enjoyed this week, little woman?" a slight nervousness in his voice.

"It has been—perfect," she said softly. "After I had you to talk to the crowds didn't seem unfriendly at all. They changed into a set of good natured passersby."

"I—er—haven't seemed to miss the boys much lately, either," he said absentmindedly, watching her slender fingers arrange the largest daisies and clover leaves that she found near her. "but I'll go to missing them again the very minute your train pulls out this afternoon."

He sat up straight suddenly and looked at her almost sternly.

"Do you think a man ought to be forgiven for telling a lie?" he demanded abruptly.

Her face paled slightly, and her eyes were large with a fear that he might in some way confess himself unworthy of the friendly confidence she had placed in him. The unconventionality of their acquaintance stood out in her mind suddenly as viewed from the world's standpoint.

"You haven't—lied to me?" she asked faintly.

"Absolutely! No one ever told a bigger one," he said, with his eyes fixed on the clover leaves, failing to see her pallor, "for it will not be the boys I'll be missing; it will be—just you."

Her color came back with a rush, and she avoided his eyes as she rose hastily to her feet, the daisies and clover leaves falling to the ground.

"I'm sure I will be late for my train if we don't hurry back," she said abruptly.

"I almost wish you would miss it—it seems a shame that you cannot afford to stay longer when I have more money than I can possibly spend—unless the town will let me build 'em another library. You couldn't let me—er"—he stammered, not knowing how to express himself.

"So, I couldn't," she blazed, catching his half formed idea.

"There—there—little woman—don't get huffy. I suppose I do bump up against conventionalities occasionally, but somehow I hate for you not to have everything you want," he blurted out.

Her eyes softened, and when they reached the station she watched his broad shoulders as he elbowed his way through the crowd at the ticket office and wondered why, now her face was turned homeward, she should feel more homesick than ever.

* * * * * * *

When he had put her on the train he leaned over and spoke determinedly.

"I'm coming to South Carolina before I go back west."

She didn't answer, and he took from his coat pocket one of the clover leaves she had dropped on the ground at Arlington and held it up before her. She saw it had four leaves.

"Do you know what I am going to wish? That when I go back west—you'll go with me"—he waited, a big, awkward boy in his embarrassment, for her to look at him.

"I—I—the train is starting," she said, holding out her hand hastily, "but—if one finds a four leaf clover—he is supposed to get his wish."

A Shell-Shocked Soldier

Tells of His Remarkable Experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

MR. FRED. K. SAUNDERS, 66 Euclid Ave., London, Ont., writes: "After having returned from the front with shell-shock, and while still in a nervous condition, I met with a painful accident due to a fall from the top of a ladder, striking my back on the edge of a desk, which confined me to bed for three weeks. After the sprain had been reduced and the pain eased so that I was able to be around, I was obliged to return to bed, suffering a complete nervous breakdown. My regular physician attended me until the middle of September, without results being in any way satisfactory.

"My nights were spent in tossing about the bed worrying about the future, which looked so black. The continual loss of sleep caused me to become light-headed, so that I would say and do things quite unrational. My heart action became quite deranged, together with my stomach and digestion. My skin and the whites of my eyes became yellow. My kidneys were deranged, and when I would try to get up everything would go black in front of me with dizziness, and I would fall if nobody was near. Following these dizzy spells I would become so weak, and a sickening feeling of faintness would creep over me, so that for two or three hours afterwards I would be helpless, and my head would ache almost to the point of splitting. Nothing seemed to help these weak spells. I became so irritable that to speak to or answer anyone, even my wife, in a decent manner seemed almost impossible.

"About the end of October someone recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and my wife got some for me. After taking only a few doses I thought I felt a little hungry and better in several ways. The weak, dizzy spells were gone after taking two boxes. About that time I noticed my yellow complexion, and decided to get Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which I took occasionally at night. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and two boxes of Kidney-Liver Pills I was able to get up and be around the house, gradually taking more interest in life.

"My heart action gradually became normal, my digestion good, and the dirty, muddy, yellow color of my skin and eyes disappeared. My hands and feet were no longer cold and clammy, and my weight increased at the rate of four pounds a week. I was quite normal and fit for work after using eleven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and four boxes of Kidney-Liver Pills, and felt just as good as new, but in order to safeguard myself continued to take this treatment for some time afterwards. I really think—in fact, I know—that Dr. Chase's medicines saved me from the asylum or even paralysis, perhaps even saved my life. These are my reasons for saying that I swear by Dr. Chase's goods. I am never without them in the home, and recommend them to anyone as a safe and reliable medicine to those who will give them a fair trial. One or two boxes won't work any miracles, but I do believe in praise when praise is due, and I praise them to every poor soul who is in poor health. I shall be glad to answer any correspondence on these valuable remedies from anyone doubting their value as reliable and safe medicines."

The conditions so well described in this letter are experienced by many people who will appreciate Mr. Saunders' thoughtfulness in writing so fully of his case and pointing the way to cure. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, six for $2.75. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Thirty Knot Ships Wait on the Genius of Engine Designers.

In the year recently ended, we have seen the last word in modern ship-building appear in New York harbor, and it would perhaps be interesting to consider the strides made in this century. In 1900 the twenty-three knot Deutschland won the blue ribbon of the Atlantic, and when the Cunarders with twenty-six knots to their credit obtained the place it was proposed that in a few years the four day thirty knot boat would be seen; but, though the sizes of ships have increased and shortly the giant Imperator will no longer be the mammoth of the seas, the speed has dropped. Economy in space, in fuel, in cost of operation, has compelled a halt, and we seem to have reached for the moment the practical, highest speed of a transatlantic boat.

That the limit is actually reached is hardly possible, but the burden of increased speed lies now not with the ship designer, but with the engine designer. A smaller engine of higher speed with some as yet unknown reduction gear and we shall have the thirty knot boat in economical practical form. The ship can stand it. Can the engine designer design it?—American Machinist.

MRS. ELLEN KENDALL GETS $4,500,000 WITH $100,000 ALIMONY ALLOWANCE

NEW YORK, May 6.—A record sum of alimony has been settled on Mrs. Ellen Ballentine Kendall, well known in society in this city and Bar Harbor, Me., by her husband Lyman B. Kendall, New York banker, whom she recently divorced, according to her lawyer, William M. Sullivan of No. 35 Nassau street.

In effecting a financial settlement which was amicable to both sides the transfer of property, one million dollars outright and alimony of $100,000 a year was agreed upon, declared Mr. Sullivan. Through the arrangement Mrs. Kendall came into opsession of the city home, at No. 520 Park avenue, with its furnishings and art collection, both of which are appraised at $1,500,000 by the lawyer, and the attractive villa and estate at Bar Harbor known as Sonogee, said to be worth $2,000,000 because of its rich habilaments.

Altogether Mrs. Kendall received outright what is equivalent to $4,500,000, declared her lawyer, exclusive of the alimony, which is provided for withot any restriction based upon her marrying again. To insure the future payment of alimony more than $2,000,000 will have to be invested to protect Mrs. Kendall's interests.

Mrs. Kendall's action for divorce caused a furore in the colony at Bar Horbor, where the couple were prominent members. Mrs. Kendall had turned over her commodious villa to the government for convalescent soldiers invalided from overseas and was assisted by Dr. Abbe, the noted surgeon, in personally attending the wounded men.

Her action, brought in the Maine courts, alleged incompatibility of temperament and was undefended by Mr. Kendall. Only the plaintiff's witnesses testified, which resulted in Mrs. Kendall being granted her freedom.

Her attorney yesterday explained the differences existing between Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, which he said was responsible for their estrangment after twenty years of happy married life.

"Their views on social life were vastly different," he said. "Mr. Kendall desired a quiet, inactive life, preferably spent on his estate in Virginia while Mrs. Kendall believed in maintaining her social status here in the North. These differences proved irreconcilable. Although divorced the couple are still very friendly.

At her home, No. 520 Park avenue Mrs. Kendall last night confirmed the terms of settlement as announced by her lawyer. The plaintiff, whose alimony exceeds any granted in the courts of this State, surpassing that allowed Mrs. Katherine C. Gould, is the daughter of James Madison Ballentine, one-time State Senator of Idaho and prominent politician of that State. For a brief time he served as Governor and was defeated for the United States Senate by a small majority. Her husband is president of a corporation known as the 520 Park Avenue Company. He is fifty years old and Mrs. Kendall ten years his junior.

Too Busy Beavers.

The Canadian Pacific railway is experiencing difficulty at different places between White River and Cartier on account of beaver dams being erected and flooding its lands. At one place a dam was erected in the center of a culvert, and part of the filling had to be removed in order to do away with it. When this was done the beavers built another a little further down the stream, and this also had to be removed on account of the backwater.

It seems to be the general opinion that the government should declare an open season for a year and give the Indians and settlers a chance to dispose of the surplus beaver and otter.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Baby's Outing.

Frequently a baby is seen on the street in its coach out for "an airing," and the little face is all bundled up with the covers or a heavy veil bound around its face and head. That child is getting little or no fresh air. It is breathing between its face and the covering and taking in and out of the lungs the same air. This air would be found just as stuffy as in a closed room.

The mother wrongly believes that she is keeping the child from catching cold by keeping the cold air away from the face. It is perfectly proper to keep the entire body in which it is covered to prevent chilling, but decidedly wrong to cover the face. If it is so cold and blustery out that one fears the child's face will be frostbitten then it is better policy to keep the child in a well ventilated room.

The same thing applies to adults. What is the use of opening wide the windows if you bury your head in a lot of soft pillows and cover your face with the blankets? No one would consider sleeping out of doors with a sleeping bag on and a bag to cover the head and face.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Memorials of Our Heroes.

A statement on the work of the Imperial War Graves Commission, signed by Mr. Rudyard Kipling, announces that memorials to commemorate the parts borne by particular armies, divisions, or regiments in campaigns and battles, such as, to name only a very few, the Canadians at Ypres, the South Africans at Delville Wood, the Australians at Amiens, the British at the breaking of the Hindenburg line, will be advised upon by a fully representative military committee.

"Sir Frederic Kenyon recommended that in each cemetery there should stand a Cross of Sacrifice and an altar-like Stone of Remembrance, and that the headstones of the graves should be of uniform shape and size. Plain headstones, measuring 2 feet 6 inches by 1 foot 3 inches, were, therefore, chosen, upon which the cross or other religious symbol of the dead man's faith could be carved and his regimental badge fully displayed. The regiments have been consulted as to the designs of these badges. In due time, wherever a man may be buried, from East Africa to North Russia, his headstone will carry his regimental badge identifiable the world over.

"The commission feel that relatives should, if they wish, add a short inscription of their own choice. These will be at the relatives' expense, and it has been found necessary to restrict the length of the inscription to 65 letters. Every cemetery will keep registers of the dead buried there.

"It is inevitable that there must be single graves and groups. There is a strong sentiment among all ranks that such scattered graves look lonely; and the instinct of the service demands that those who fell by the wayside should be gathered in to rest with the nearest main body of their companions. That is what the commission, with all due care and reverence, proposes to do."

All letters should be addressed to secretary, Imperial War Graves Commission, Winchester House, St. James' square, S.W. London.

CANAL SCHEMES.

Old Controversies Revived With the Return of Peace.

Business men in Montreal who have studied the canal problems of Canada are generally opposed to the scheme which has been talked of in the United States, of a jointly constructed and internationally owned canal between Montreal and the Great Lakes. So far as public feeling can be fathomed in Montreal, it is confidently expected that should the Canadian authorities entertain the idea of entering into an arrangement for such an international waterway as is now being discussed in the United States, and abandon the Georgian Bay Canal project, there would be a vigorous protest from the shipping and business men of Canada.

"I am of the opinion that the people of Canada will vigorously protest against any scheme that may involve Canada in the construction of such a canal, in view of the fact that the plans for the Georgian Bay Canal are now well advanced," said Mr. Thomas Robb, president of the Shipping Federation, in discussing the matter.

"The Georgian Bay Canal project has the great advantage of being entirely on Canadian territory," he continued. If the international canal project was gone into by the Government of Canada and of the United States, it would mean that the Canadian people would have to throw the Georgian Bay Canal scheme overboard, and all the money that had already been spent on this project would be entirely wasted.

The cost of the Georgian Bay Canal proposal, giving a 22 feet deep waterway for the largest lake boats, would be $100,000,000. It is estimated that it would require ten years to build, while the annual cost of maintenance, including operation of storage reservoirs for regulating flood water of the Ottawa river, would be $900,000.

The distance between the Georgian Bay and Montreal is 440 miles, and no international waterways are affected by the scheme. It is estimated that the passage of a lake boat through this canal at a maximum speed of 12 miles an hour would be 70 hours, and a reliable water-power supply amounting to 1,000,000 horsepower would be secured as a by-product of the scheme.

The Georgian Bay Canal scheme involves the construction of 28 miles of artificial waterway and the improvement by dredging or excavation of 80 miles of river and lake beds. There are 332 miles of natural waterway, wider than 300 feet and over 22 feet in depth which requires no improvement.

It is proposed to have 27 locks and 45 dams on the entire canal, and in this connection the 1,000,000 horsepower previously referred to will be developed. So far as distances are concerned Chicago is 412 miles nearer to Montreal via the Georgian Bay Canal than to New York by the Erie Canal route, and 794 miles nearer to Liverpool than by the American water. Duluth is 424 miles nearer to Montreal by the Georgian Bay Canal than to New York by the Erie Canal route and 606 miles nearer to Liverpool. It is only 83 miles farther from Duluth and Fort William to Montreal via the Georgian Bay Canal than from the same port to Buffalo. From all ports on Lake Huron, Michigan and Superior the Georgian Bay Canal route to Montreal is shorter than the St. Lawrence and Welland route.

In 1910, Mr. R. W. Reford, of the Montreal Board of Trade, prepared a statement which strongly urged the construction of the proposed Georgian Bay Canal. In view of these facts business men in Montreal feel that the Canadian Government would scarcely entertain any proposal to abandon the Georgian Bay Canal project.

BACK FROM CAMP

This story comes from Camp Pike in Arkansas:

A negro soldier attempted to pass the sentry on the road leading from the camp to Little Rock.

The sentry asked the soldier for his pass.

"Ain't got none," the black replied.

"You can't pass," the sentry rejoined.

"Ah gotta get by," says the black. The sentry threw up his gun. The negro pulled a long razor from his pocket.

A Pickpocket's Trick.

"What puzzles me," said a well dressed man to a police captain to whom he had complained that a roll of bills had been taken from his trousers pocket in a subway car, "is how the thief got the money, since I never felt his hand in my pocket."

To which the official replied: "Let me explain. As soon as the thief had completed his preliminary work to satisfy himself that you had some money in your pocket he set to work to get it out. But he didn't put his hand in your pocket. This is what he did. He took hold of the lining of your pocket with his thumb and index finger, and when the car lurched or jolted he pulled the lining up a little more until fully the edge of the bill came in sight. As soon as enough of the bill had appeared to enable him to get a grip on it he carefully plucked it out of your pocket, and you never knew the difference. It appears simple but it requires considerable skill."—New York Sun.

The Board of Education Decide to Purchase Five Acres For School Site

Will Offer Chamberlen Estate $10,000 for Property—Lack of School Accommodation.

CAN EXPROPRIATE

As announced in Monday's Examiner, the extensive real estate deal contemplated by the Board of Education in the expropriation of the entire 16 acres of the Chamberlen estate, upon which to build the new Public school, has been abandoned, and in its place the Board last night decided to offer the estate $10,000 for the five acres on the south-west corner of Monaghan road and Sherbrooke street; 410 feet on Monaghan road and 531 feet on Sherbrooke street. The Building committee was authorized to deal with the matter of the purchase of the property and endeavour to arrive at an amicable settlement to avert legal proceedings. The committee will report progress to the Board.

Following the report of the special meeting of the Board, held to consider a site for the new school last week, the law firm of Peck, Kerr & McElderry wrote the School Board, stating that the expropriation of the Chamberlen estate would incur hardship to the owners, and that there were other sites available. They further stated that if the Board persisted in their stated intention of expropriation that an injunction would be instituted. A recent letter suggested that the southwest corner of the estate on the Monaghan road and Sherbrooke street was available, five acres for $12,500, and upon this site the Board finally decided.

Schools Act.

Mr. J. M. Greene pointed out to the Board that the Schools Act demands 1 acre for every 100 children and 1-2 acre for every succeeding 100 children. On that basis, for a 20 room school, where the 20 rooms are occupied, with approximately 800 children, 4 and 1-2 acres would be required. Recent examination of the lot stated had proven it to be a choice location from a matter of situation, drainage and all requisites, and it was upon his motion that the Board finally decided upon the lot.

Thorough Investigation.

Referring to the published statement Mr. G. N. Gordon did not consider that the matter of the site and building had been gone far enough into to reach a definite conclusion. Mr. R. Denne, the chairman, said that in his four years' experience on the Board of Education he had the gospel of lack of accommodation preached to him throughout that period. Mr. Gordon said that there was no question that the Building committee went thoroughly into the matter, but the Board as a whole did not. In the forty minutes the Board sat at the special meeting they could not have done so. He said that he saw a lot of attractive prints upon the table, but they meant very little to him, and probably to other members. He had never seen any transaction of the magnitude of the new school dealt with so quickly. He further added that for the sake of economy he considered that some other arrangements might have been made. It might be possible to build an annex to the King Edward school and construct a 12 to 14 room school. He thought that the Board as a whole did not have sufficient facts to justify the completion of the transaction. He thoroughly appreciated the fact that the site named was an ideal location.

Mr. E. G. Patterson said that the first question that had been put to him when he came on to the Board of Education was the building of a new school to relieve congestion in the South Central district, and he had looked into the matter thoroughly.

Mr. Denne stated that he had made a thorough investigation of the matter and had considered it from every angle. There was no question that the new school must be built. The only other two properties suitable for the purpose were beyond consideration in comparison with the site named. The first was the block upon which the South Central school is built, which would mean the expropriation of 18 houses with an assessed value of $33,280; the other a lot of about 2½ acres further west, facing on Patterson street on the south, Adeline street on the west and Sherbrooke street on the north, which meant an expropriation of 38 houses with an assessed value of $53,680. Neither of these sites could have been procured probably at the assessed value.

Dr. F. C. Neal said that he would hardly say that the matter had been gone into hurriedly and he could not say they have been precipitate. He thought the Board should hurry and get things through. Mr. J. W. Worth said that he had thorough confidence in the committee and was thoroughly in accord with anything they decided to do.

BETTER CONDITIONS EXIST IN ALBERTA

Fewer Men Are Out of Employment —The One Big Union Idea.

(By Main Johnson.)
(Special to The Examiner.)

EDMONTON, Alta., May 7.—At the end of the Industrial Commission's visit in Alberta it is apparent that unsettled as labour affairs are they are more normal than in British Columbia. Unemployment, an obvious prime cause for discontent, is perceptibly less, declining from ten thousand in Vancouver to one thousand in Calgary and only about seven hundred in Edmonton. There have also been more moderate settlements before the Commission than at the coast, where, owing to complexity of causes, the situation is undoubtedly serious.

While noting the improvement in Alberta it would be idle to ignore the fact that there is much discontent here too. Some of it and some of the antagonism between employers and organized labour have made their appearance directly before the Commission, but most of the disturbance centres in the agitation for the one big union, and this most prolific of disputes quashed to 84, Clair avenue. Arriving there, however, they found everything quiet. The pickets were walking their beats with stagely tread, office officials appeared from the windows, while Inspector Duncan and a small body of policemen, together with four mounted men, were doing their best to keep warm in face of the cold wind that was blowing and to prevent themselves from being choked with the clouds of dust which are always a nuisance in West Toronto when it don't rain or snow.

With a good natured remark here and there, the Inspector kept the men from forming a mob and gradually the "flying squadron," finding no signs of the approach of the enemy, dispersed to their homes or mingled with their fellows who had gathered at the other packing houses.

The appearance of a waggon containing bags of potatoes for delivery at Harris' looked for the moment like causing trouble. A picket approached the men in charge of the waggon.

"You don't mean to say you are going to deliver potatoes to feed those strike-breaking Chinamen, do you?" he queried. Inspector Duncan reminded the picket that the strikers had been strongly advised by their leaders to keep well within the law. The work of unloading the potatoes was proceeded with.

Office Staff Turns In.

In reply to the question as to what work the men who had not come out on strike were likely to be doing, one of the men replied: "Oh, any old thing, but one thing is certain, there is no killing going on." As a matter of fact killing had been in progress in at least one of the factories during the greater part of the day. The office staff, headed by the general manager, had laid aside their ledgers and became pig stickers for the time being. The manager himself, in overalls and long rubber boots, is said to have looked the part to a nicety, and with his office officials, apparently enjoyed the fun of killing and slaying 372 hogs during the day. At the noon hour the workers to the number of about a hundred, were served with dinner. The girls acted as waitresses, and one of them subsequently said that strike-breaking was rare fun.

Robertson in Toronto.

TORONTO, May 7.—Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour, is in Toronto to-day and is holding separate conferences with the Metal Trades Council and officials of the Union of Packing House Employees. President Louis Braithwaite, of the Packing House Employees' Union, states that the fight is a straight one for recognition of the Union. By this is meant the right of the Union to negotiate with the representatives of the packing houses. It is also likely that the representatives of the Union will bring up the question of government ownership of packing houses.

The Minister of Labour's position in the Toronto strikes is a peculiar one. The mechanics of the metal trades have been waiting for over a month for the employers to consent to

THE STRIKE IN TORONTO

Peterboro Strikebreakers Get a Cold Reception—Chinamen Stay on the Job.

ALL IS QUIET

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 7.— Indignation of strikers in big packing plants is freely expressed over the action of employers yesterday in bringing in strike breakers from Montreal, Peterborough and other places. Strikers' pickets established around the big plants prevented any of the strike breakers getting on the premises. Strikers are exerting efforts to get Chinamen still employed in plants to join them and to keep out Chinamen arriving to take the places of men on strike.

"Many of these big fellows cannot get out now, but are being kept in against their will," said one of the men.

"Then it's up to us to go to the police and insist that they secure the liberty of the Chinks who are thus being deprived of their liberty," replied another.

Some of the men were loud in their protest of Chinamen being allowed to step on premises being used in the preparation of food.

"It's against the law," said one of the men, "and our committee are going to see that the Medical Health officials prevent this method of trying to break the strike being continued."

Another striker said: "It's rumoured that one of the plants intend bringing a train load of foreigners from Chicago to-night and if we are not there to give them a reception it won't be our fault."

Police on Hand.

While speaking and cheering was going on, a messenger arrived with word that a carload of Chinamen were on their way to the Harris Abattoir. With

Summary of Peace Treaty Which To-day Was Formally Handed German Delegates

Closing Chapter in a Great World Drama—German Delegates to Peace Congress Declare They Will Sign Treaty, But That Germany Will Not Pay Indemnity—Supplementary Guarantees for France.

ALSACE AND LORRAINE RETURNED TO FRANCE

(By Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 7. — The Treaty of Peace between twenty-seven allied and associated powers on one hand and Germany on the other, was handed to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles to-day. It is the longest treaty ever drawn. It looks about eighty thousand words divided into fifteen main sections, and represents the combined product of over two thousand experts working continually through a series of commissions since January 18th. The treaty is printed in parallel pages of English and French. It does not deal with questions affecting Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey except in so far as binding Germany to accept any agreement reached with those former allies.

Following the preamble and the deposition of the powers, comes the Covenant of the League of Nations as the first section of the treaty. The following sections deal with the frontiers of Germany in Europe, European political clauses, naval, military and air terms, prisoners of war and military graves; responsibilities, reparations, financial terms, economic terms, aeronautic section, ports, waterways and railways, labor covenant, section on guarantees and final clauses.

"Germany by the terms of the treaty restores Alsace-Lorraine, accepts the internationalism of the Saar basin temporarily, and Danzig permanently; agrees to territorial changes towards Belgium and Denmark, and in East Prussia; cedes most of the Upper Silesia to Poland, and renounces all territorial and political rights outside Europe as to her own or her allies' territories, and especially to Morocco, Egypt, Siam, Liberia and Shangtung. The total independence of German Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Poland is also recognized. Her army is reduced to one hundred thousand. Conscription in her territories is abolished. Forts fifty kilometres east of the Rhine are to be razed; all importation, exportation and nearly all production of war materials stopped, until reparation is made. The allied occupation of parts of Germany will be continued, but a reduction is made at the end of three year periods if Germany is fulfilling her obligations. Any violation of conditions as to the zone fifty kilometres east of the Rhine will be regarded as an action of war.

THE REDUCTION IN STRENGTH OF GERMAN NAVY.

The German navy is reduced to six battleships, six light cruisers, twelve torpedo boats, without submarines. Personnel is not to be over 15,000. Germany accepts full responsibility for all damages caused the allied and associated governments and nations, with the initial payment of twenty billion marks. Germany to pay shipping damages one ton for ton basis by cession of a large part of her merchant coasting and river fleets. She must devote economic resources to rebuilding of the devastated regions; must demolish Heligoland, open the Kiel canal to all nations, and surrender fourteen submarine cables; allow the allied nations freedom of transit through her territories, and agrees to accept highly detailed provisions as to pre-war debts, unfair constitution, internationalism of roads and rivers, and other economic and financial clauses.

AGREES TO TRIAL OF FORMER KAISER.

Germany also agrees to the trial of ex-Kaiser by an international high court. Holland is to be asked to extradite Wilhelm of Germany as being responsible for delivering him.

The League of Nations is accepted by the allies as operative and by Germany in principle, but without membership. Similarly, an international labor body is brought into being with permanent office and annual convention.

Among those to carry out the peace treaty are repatriations, military, naval, air, financial and economic commissions, international high court and military tribunals to fix the responsibilities, and a series of bodies for control of international rivers, details of dispositions of the German fleet and cables. The former German colonies are left for solution between the allied and the associated powers. Other problems, such as laws of the air and opium, arms and the liquor traffic are either agreed to in detail or set for international action.

PARTIES TO THE PEACE TREATY.

The preamble names as the parties of one part, the United States, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, described as the five allied and associated powers, and Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, China, Cuba, Ecquador, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, The Hedjaz, Honduras, Liberia, Nicaragua, Panama, Portugal, Roumania, Serbia, Siam, Czecho-Slovakia and Uruguay, who with the five above are described as allies and associated powers, and on the other part, Germany.

ITALIAN DELEGATES RETURNED TO-DAY.

PARIS, May 7. — Vittorio Orlando, the Italian Premier, and Baron Sonnino, arrived in Paris from Rome this morning. The Premier resumed his seat in the council of four. As a basis of resuming participation in the peace negotiations, Orlando accepted the proposal that Italy administer Fiume as mandatory of the league of nations until 1923, after which Fiume will revert to Italian sovereignty.

The Echo de Paris says it has learned that Great Britain, France and the United States have concluded an agreement giving supplementary guarantees for France and security for peace treaty. It adds that the heads of the countries involved will draft this additional pact to-day. It will not be secret.

The German delegates to the peace congress declare they will sign the treaty but that Germany will not pay indemnity. In a discussion of the peace terms the German officials have always drawn a distinction between reparation and indemnity, construing the latter in effect as punitive damages.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"Old Mother Goose—as the tailors call the pressing machine—can hide a multitude of sins of omission in a coat. The most elegantly made garment can be made to look fine by the factory pressing machine—and it may hold up its head for a week or perhaps until the rain strikes—then it goes up and goes into what the sailors call 'the ship chest.'

"It's the hidden or inside work that makes Semi-ready real tailoring—an exact reproduction of a well-tailored custom-made garment minus $5 saved by direct weaving and buying and $5 more saved by the expert tams system of tailoring—two guineas saved."—

MOTHERS' DAY

The plan for Mothers' Day at Murray Street Church next Sunday is one which will commend itself to many. The people are asked to send flowers for the decoration of the platform in memory of their mothers if they are in the other world, and in their honor if they still live. These flowers are to bear not only the name of the mother, but a card suggesting any aged one or sick person to whom the donor would like them delivered within an hour after the morning gathering. Many cars will be employed bringing the people to the service and delivering flowers. It is especially desired that parents bring their children to the morning service. Special music.

WILL NOT MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE

City Will Get $50,000 Even If Cheaper Bridge is Built.

OTTAWA May 7.—Mayor G. H. Duncan and Ald. H. Phalen of Peterboro were in Ottawa to-day interviewing Mr. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals as to whether it would effect the government's promise of a grant of fifty thousand dollars providing the cost of the bridge is three hundred thousand dollars instead of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars as was originally proposed. The minister informed Mayor Duncan that this would make no difference in the grant.

CANAL LOCKS WILL BE OPEN SUNDAYS

They will be open from 7 a.m. until 11 a.m.; closed from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. and closed from 9 p.m. until midnight on Sundays. This Sunday work is optional to the canal employees, but they will receive an extra 20c an hour if they undertake the duties.

GRAND ARMY ENDORSE STRIKES

Are In Sympathy With the Painters and Butchers in Toronto.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 7.—The Executive of the Grand Army of Canada last night went on record as endorsing "the just demands" of the painters and decorators of Toronto, who are now on strike. The Grand Army of Canada is also, according to Secretary W. J. Cafmichael, behind the demand of the striking butcher workers of the city for an eight hour day.

WANT A PLACE TO HOLD MEETINGS

Plea to Hold Old Time Gospel Meetings in Peterboro.

Are there any property owners in Peterborough with sufficient love of God in their hearts and interested enough in the salvation of sinners to supply a place where the old time Gospel will be preached "in demonstration of the spirit and of power," where Christ will be lifted up and His name magnified, sinners saved, believers blessed and encouraged? There is an evangelist in town willing to labour to this end, not to take the people's money nor to please any clique, but to preach "Christ the power of God." A place at a moderate rent. Address Box 188, Examiner.

A SHOOTING ACCIDENT

Mr. Frank Burnett Met a Tragic Death—Was Well Known in Peterboro.

FUNERAL TO-DAY

Mr. Frank Burnett was found dead yesterday a short distance from his home near Birdsall. The deceased had been out shooting in forenoon and failing to return a search party went out and found his body near where he had been hunting. A charge from the gun had entered the body causing death. The late Mr. Burnett was the owner of the steamer Rainbow which plys in Peterboro waters. The funeral took place to-day to Cobourg.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie M.P.P., of this city and Miss Sophie Burnett are cousins of the deceased.

FIFTEENTH BATN. LANDS AT HALIFAX

Small Details From the First Division Also Disembark From the Baltic.

(Special to The Examiner.)

HALIFAX, May 7.—At eight o'clock to-day 450 officers and 760 other ranks of the Fifteenth Battalion disembarked here from the steamer "Baltic," and shortly afterwards departed for Toronto on two special trains. They are due to reach the Queen City on Friday afternoon. The Baltic had on board a total of 1,210 officers and 2,486 other ranks, of whom 660 were officers and 1,350 N.C.O.'s and men for the Toronto area. Included in the latter, in addition to the members of the Fifteenth Battalion were: First Divisional Train, 5 officers and 209 men; First detachment of the 30th Howitzer Battery; 15 officers and 320 men. The Fifteenth Battalion was in command of Lieut.-Col. C. E. Bent, C.M.G., D.S.O. and Bar, with Major J. Girvan, D.S.O., M.C., second in command.

Reception to the 21st Battalion Men

Local members of the 21st Battalion are arranging to hold a reception when the Peterboro contingent of that battalion return home. It is planned to have motor cars at the station with the wives and relatives of the returning soldier. The returning soldiers will be escorted to the car in which his relations are seated and will be driven to his home. In former receptions the soldiers have in some cases been unable to find their relations in the dense crowds and this new scheme was planned to overcome this difficulty. In order to facilitate arrangements relatives of the returning soldiers are asked to leave their names and addresses at the G.W.V.A. rooms also the names of the returning soldier. The names of other soldiers returning about this time together with their relatives' names should be handed in at the G.W.V.A. so that the glad hand may be extended to them also.

PETERBORO MEN LAND AT VANCOUVER

Montcalm Brings Home Siberian Troops

The 259th, 260th and 260th Machine Gun Corps of the Siberian Expeditionary Force has docked at Vancouver. The following Peterboro men were on board F. A. Condon, R. H. Conroy, J. P. Garvey, Lakefield, A. T. Lumby, J. Murdock.

STRIKES UNCHANGED

Local Situation Marking Time—Cause Man Say They Desired to Co-operate.

There are no changes reported to-day in the strikes of the local woodsmen, labourers and canoe builders. The labourers at the Wm. Hamilton Company are out again having gone back for only one day. The canoe men referring to one published statement deny that there was any lack of co-operation on their part. They assert that they desired the fullest discussion of their demands which were proposed over or three weeks ago.

A FAILURE IN QUEBEC.

The people of Ontario, who remember the arguments used at every Unionist meeting in this province during the last Dominion election campaign, of how the Military Service Act was going to make the young men of Quebec "toe the mark," and do under compulsion what they had not done voluntarily, will fail to find in the report of Lieut.-Col. H. A. Machin on the operation of the Military Service Act, any very convincing evidence that the promises made on that occasion have been lived up to. It is evident from the figures given by Col. Machin, that the Act failed to accomplish the results claimed for it by the orators who on every platform told the electorate that "Quebec would have to do its duty." Col. Col. Machin, himself a French-Canadian, is forced to admit that the Military Service Act was not successful in accomplishing any such results. Not only was the actual number of fighting men secured in Quebec away below the expectations, and the percentage of men who failed to report the highest in the Dominion, but it cost $40.78 per man secured in that province.

"The Province of Quebec," remarks Col. Machin in his report, "very grievously outstrips her sister Provinces in the number of defaulters. Not only is the total of 18,827 considerably higher than are the other provinces combined, but her percentage is no less than 40.83, which, to say the least, is a very regrettable state of affairs."

THE COUNCIL'S TROUBLES.

Whatever may be thought of the decision of the City Council in regard to the wage and working hours of the carpenters and labourers on city work, it is scarcely fair to say that the members of the Council were hurried through a verdict on this point to take advantage of the fact that there is a vacancy in the labour quota on the aldermanic Board. A successor to ex-Alderman Murray can not legally be appointed by the city fathers until the next regular meeting, as according to the advice of the city solicitor no appointment in a case of this kind can be made until the meeting following that upon which the resignation of a retiring member was accepted. It would have been impracticable to have deferred the settling of the wage question until that time, because it was the request of the Labourers' Union that the new scale should be put in operation, beginning from the first of May, and the labourers themselves probably wanted to know just where they stood. They would not have liked to have worked for several weeks, believing that they would get 45 cents an hour, and find out at the end of that time that the Council had not the intention of granting that rate.

As to the appointment of an alderman to take the place of the Labour member of the Council who has resigned, there does not seem to be a unanimity of feeling in the city that there is any obligation on the part of the city fathers to accept the choice of any particular organisation or even to solicit a labour man at all. It is true that ex-Alderman Murray was a Labour standardbearer in the last election and was successful in his campaign. The Trades and Labour Council are quite justified, from their standpoint, in pressing their claims on behalf of another Labour representative being chosen in his stead. But there are those who point out that it would be just as logical to select another manufacturer to succeed Ald. Hamilton if he were to resign or to allow the Board of Trade to choose another member of their body to take Ald. Turner's place if he decided to drop out as it would be to adopt the suggestion of the Trades and Labour Council and the Independent Labour Party.

RED CAMPAIGN REPUDIATED.

The cause of organized labour is much further advanced by the actions and speeches of such leaders as Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades and Labor Council, than it is by the irresponsible utterances of some of the agitators who have been endeavoring to sow the wind in Toronto. Of the same type as President Moore is Mayor McBride of Brantford, head of the Independent Labor Party in that city, whose opinion of recent Red Flag speeches, as given in a newspaper interview, sets forth the views of the great mass of trade unionists, and will be endorse dby them generally. Rightly Mayor McBride regards such statements as "the Red Flag is the emblem of organized labor the world over," as "a hare-brained remark that libels every decent labor organization and casts a stigma on every progressive labor movement." The Brantford labor leader realizes that great human progress should be the result of the sacrifice and suffering of the war, but he also realizes that such progress can only be effectively accomplished in "the British way," and by constitutional means.

"The proportion of profiteers in what is known as the capitalist class is no greater than the proportion of Bolshevists in our Labor class," said Mayor McBride, "and Canada has reason to be glad that the two extremes represent a mighty small part of our population. I pay no more attention to Mr. Simpson's vaporings than I would to Sir Joseph Flavelles prayer on profits. Neither will be answered, for the very good and sufficient reason that they have neither the shadow of truth nor righteousness.

"Canada is neither Russia nor Germany and the sooner we make up our minds that immigration to this country should be only from the British Isles, and that profiteering and exploitation must cease, the sooner we shall be well on our way to a sane, reasonable and progressive development of the greatest land on earth.

"In the meantime it is well to remember that not every industrial captain is a capitalist or profiteer any more than that every Labor man is a Bolshevist or Revolutionist. On analysis it will be found that most people are just members of the great family of humanity, and we will need a lot of reforming."

Labour is well served in having such a leader as the Mayor of Brantford. His stirring rebuke of the reckless agitators who have been endeavoring to set in motion the Bolshevik system in Canada, will be echoed in many a Labour meeting, and will offset the policy of the Toronto Reds. It is certain, as Mayor McBride says, that the Red Flag will never replace the Union Jack in Canada. There is no room in this country for the agitators.

IMPERIAL VETERANS.

If the British government does not see its way to providing on the Canadian scale for all its pensioners whose homes are here, then the Canadian Government should put these citizens of the Dominion on the same footing as the other defenders of Canada. Neither the Imperial reservist domiciled in this country nor the native sons of Canada who joined the Imperial forces are soldiers of a second grade. They have made sacrifices in the same proportion as the men enlisted in our own army and they have won their full share of the honors awarded to valor. They ought to be recompensed by Canada accordingly. It surely is a sound principle of public policy to encourage men to fight for this country. It surely is the desire of the Government to attract immigrants of the particular class to which British Reservists belong. It is men of that stamp, and not Bolshevists, or pacifists, or enemy aliens, or non-assimilable elements, that we want. If it is our wish to keep the tide of loyal British emigrants flowing to this country, we must make them feel that when they come here they will be adopted and cherished as our own people, and will have an equal chance with our own people.

Canada can well afford to have all its defenders whose homes are within its bounds treated alike. If the British Government does not supplement the pensions of the men of its army who belong to Canada, then it is up to the Canadian Government to do it, and to provide for the widows and orphans and other dependents of such of these men as gave their lives in this great war. That the debt is Britain's rather than Canada's may be maintained as a proposition of bookkeeping, but however authorities may differ about that, no one will deny that the shortage ought to be made up by somebody. Canada is the proud home of the fighters in question, and must see that they get their due. We hope Canadian provision will be made for this addition to the pensions of the men in question. If the British Government gives our Government credit for it, in its books well and good. The Canadian Government will have the satisfaction of having obtained justice for these particular defenders of the country. — Toronto Mail and Empire.

New Song Hits and a Bevy of Pretty Girls.

When Manager Gus Hill some years ago decided to transfer the famous cartoon characters Mutt and Jeff from the confines of the newspapers to the stage, there were many doubting folks who were ready to proclaim that these two noted personages would never be very funny outside the pages of the dailies where their mirth-provoking propensities won both fame and fortune for their creator, 'Bud Fisher'. That Mr. Hill's judgment has been so far reaching as it has been effective has been demonstrated. Probably no production of the many he has offered since he entered the show business has been as successful as those in which these world-renowned pair have figured. Each season he has surrounded the two in some sort of musical play until to-day their advent is looked upon with as much importance as the coming of our daily food. And why not? Everyone likes to laugh and forget their troubles, especially just now when their is so much real tragedy in the world.

This year the Long and Short of it, as this twain of hilarity mongers has been captioned, will have the leading roles in a play with the locale laid in the Golden West. If their adventures of the past have made us sit up and shriek with glee, and tickled our ribs until we were prone to admit that our sides ached and were sore, the prediction is made that they are bound this time to become so injured that unless we are careful the treatment of a skilled surgeon must needs become essential. Their excuse for cutting up all kinds of capers, tom foolery and didoes that would compel the silent sphinx to get up and yell; adventures that would make the bold est and most heroic savor of the nation stop and gontler, is called 'Mutt and Jeff in the Wooly West'. This triumph of modern construction and ingenuity will be the attraction at the Grand, Saturday, matinee and evening.

It is in three acts and three scenes with a plot permitting of innumerable surprises, features, novelties and irresistible hilarity, plausible action; the introduction of specially written songs and singing, dancing ensembles and other bits calculated to place the auditor in a state of infectious laughter from start to finish. The story briefly relates to a scheming lawyer who tries to embroil little Jeff into forming a marital alliance with an old maid whom he cares nothing about. A valuable piece of mining property is involved, which according to a will left by his late brother, reverts to him in the event of his marrying the widow. The lawyer endeavors to palm off another woman, with the result that deliriously funny situations and complications arise.

"Don't Take Jimmy Simpson's Utterances Too Seriously"

Mayor MacBride Scores Simpson's Red Flag Speeches—Reform in the British Army.

BRANTFORD, May 7.—Utter repudiation of the Red Flag tactics of "Jimmy" Simpson, self-styled leader of the Toronto Bolshevists, is made by Mayor MacBride, head of the local Independent Labor party, in an interview given out here. He declares:

"Just say for me that people should not take Jimmy Simpson's utterances too seriously. When Mr. Simpson, or any other person, makes such a hair-brained remark as that 'the Red Flag is the emblem of Organized Labor the world over,' he not only libels all decent Labor organizations, but he casts a stigma on every progressive Labor movement. Labor leaders of the United States have repeatedly repudiated the Red Flag agitators. Great Britain, the very birthplace of freedom, has no place for it, and I am quite sure it will never replace the Union Jack in Canada. Even Australia and New Zealand, where Labor has a large representation in both Houses of Parliament, do not give any place to the Red Flag doctrine. Their war record is sufficient answer to any such assertion.

"Our dead died for a better and more democratic Canada, and it is as certain as that day follows night that out of the great baptism of fire and blood great human progress will be made. That imperishable fact is accepted not by Labor alone, but by many of our industrial and mercantile organizations. Great reforms must and will come in our financial system and industrial affairs, but they will be brought about in the British way. We are all the time making progress.

Extremists are Very Small Part

"The proportion of profiteers in what is known as the capitalist class is no greater than the proportion of Bolshevists in our Labor class and Canada has reason to be glad that the two extremes represent a mighty small part of our population. I pay no more attention to Mr. Simpson's vaporings than I would to Sir Joseph Flavelle's prayer on profits. Neither will be answered, for the very good and sufficient reason that they have neither the shadow of truth nor righteousness.

"Canada is neither Russia nor Germany, and the sooner we make up our minds that immigration to this country should be only from the British Isles, and that profiteering and exploitation must cease, the sooner we shall be well on our way to a sane, reasonable, and progressive development of the greatest land on earth.

"In the meantime it is well to remember that not every industrial captain is a capitalist or profiteer any more than that every Labor man is a Bolshevist or Revolutionist. On analysis it will be found that most people are just members of the great family of humanity, and we all need a lot of reforming."

Several Workmen Had Narrow Escape

Heavy Plate Slipped During a Barn Raising at Warsaw.

WARSAW, May 6.—When the bottom was being laid for Mr. McManus' barn, one of the heavy plates slipped and several men narrowly escaped being seriously injured.

Rev. Hugh Brown left for Toronto where he has gone on business.

Mrs. Gurriffe went to Toronto yesterday to see some friends who have returned from overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ellis have returned from their trip.

Rev. Clare and wife spent a few days at Omemee last week.

Miss Barbara Kidd is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Jas. Hawthorne.

As Mr. Clare had to be away on Thursday, the regular day for the Methodist W.F.M. meeting the service was held on Tuesday afternoon instead.

Held a Social

The Young People of Colesaloe held their postponed social last Wednesday evening. They had a nice programme of songs, recitation, addresses, by Mr. and Mrs. D. Miller, after which a dainty luncheon was served. Mr. Jenkins, President of the C. P. S. presided during the entertainment.

Rev. Robert is taking up the lives of some of the world's great men, with the Trail Rangers on Wednesday evening. More boys were initiated at the last meeting.

At the King's Daughters' meeting last Friday, Mrs. Turriffe began a course of Bible Study with the girls. The lesson of nursing was: "Bathing a Bed Patient"—some new exercises were introduced by Mrs. Roberts in the Physical Culture class. On Friday of this week Mrs. Choate will give a lesson in Millinery.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Local Advisory Council for co-operation in Boys' Work will meet at 8 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A., on Thursday, May 8th. The following subjects will be discussed:

1.—Church Baseball League.

2.—Employed Boys' Baseball League.

3.—Summer Camp, either permanent or week end, in conjunction with the regular Y.M.C.A. Summer Camp.

A full representation of each Sunday School and Organized Boys' Classes is expected.

Come prepared to discuss the above subjects.

Built for Shrewd Canadian Truck Buyers

FOUR out of every five loads conveyed by horse or motor can be carried by the Maxwell truck. To men who know truck costs that means a lot. It means that owning a heavier truck is an extravagance. It means that buying a lighter job is foolish economy.

The Maxwell is every man's truck. It will do any hauling work at the lowest cost per ton-mile. On ten miles or a thousand.

Easy on gas, easy on tires—on any roads. Ten-foot loading space—big enough for 3000 pounds of feathers or a ton-and-a-half of scrap iron.

No false overhead costs in this truck. No manufacturing mistakes to pay for. No experimental work. Not a mere assembled job—it embodies the full fruits of the Maxwell manufacturing facilities and record.

It's a freight carrier that offers dollar-for-dollar value through and through. A business-speeder that will yield long and loyal service in any business.

It's a truck ideally suited to Canadian roads and Canadian conditions.

It's a truck on which you can get real service—anywhere in Canada.

The price is several hundred dollars less than any other truck of similar capacity. The reason—quantity production on a sound manufacturing basis.

Chassis price, $1550—f.o.b. Windsor, Ont.

PETERBORO TEACHERS PETITION THE BOARD FOR HIGHER SALARIES

Complain of the High Cost of Living—A Presentation to School.

At last night's meeting of the Board of Education, the Woman's Teachers' Guild sent in a communication drawin gthe Board's attention to the fact that in man yother towns the teachers are receiving higher salaries than in Peterboro, and that this situation renders Peterboro more or less of a stopping off place for the teachers. The staff here is as fully qualified as the staffs in other towns and cities, and as the cost of living has increased here proportionately to the cost in other cities they felt they were entitled to a raise and a fixed schedule. The schedule suggested for women assistants was $1200 as a maximum salary with a yearly increase of $100 and that in justice to those who have given teaching service in the city an additional grant equivalent to the amount added to the minimum be paid to those teachers who were on the staff previous to June, 1919.

The principals and vice-principals also asked for a definite settlement of the schedule naming a minimum salary for principals of $1700 and a maximum of $2200; for vice-principals, a minimum of $1200 and a maximum of $1700.

Suggested Gymnasium.

A report from Mr. George F. Rogers, High School Inspector, advised the addition of a gymnasium and a domestic science room in the Collegiate Institute. Mr. E. G. Patterson said that in a talk with Dr. W. H. Young, he spoke of the matter of a gymnasium for the boys of the Collegiate Institute, and Dr. Young had suggested that accommodation might be found in the north end of the Armouries. The Supervision Committee had met and found the north wing to be convenient. Mr. Patterson thought that it would be an easy matter to secure the room without cost, and fit it out as found necessary. This would relieve considerable expense as under the present provision the Board is paying the Y.M.C.A. $600 for five months rent of their gymnasium.

The matter was left in the hands of the Supervision Committee with power to act. The Principal and the High School Inspector will be consulted.

Make Presentation.

The National War Savings Committee asked the Board to accept an offer of a large and handsome picture for one of the schools in the city. They stated that a person who wished to have his name remain unknown, had placed several large pictures of the arrival of the British, French and American fleet at Quebec in their hands, and that one was available for each town. To determine which school might have the picture an election will be held, of which the committee would assume the cost and in which only those holding War Savings Stamps were eligible for voting.

Truant Officers Report.

The Truant Officer reported, 18 absentees during the month. Two cases involved the children of soldiers who were overseas, and although habitual absentees Mr. Miller did not like to take action. The Board authorized him to take any action he felt necessary.

Tenders For Text Books.

The Supervision committee was authorized to advertise for tenders for the text books and supplies and the Collegiate Institute supplies required for the ensuing year, with power to award the contract."

Property Committee.

The Property committee reported and recommended:

1st. That the committee be authorized to have fire escapes placed on the King Edward school as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made.

2nd. That the committee be authorized to advertise for tenders for the fuel required for the ensuing year, with power to award the contract.

Finance Committee.

The Finance committee reported and recommended the payment of the following accounts:

Hydro-Electric Power Commission, gas acct., $4.90; Consolidated Optical Company, repairs, $2.00; Estate of A. Macdonald, fire wood and lumber, $15.68; Wm. H. Lytle Cartage Company, carting, $1.00; W. R. Turner, repairs, $6.00; Higgins Hardware Company, hardware, $9.06; J. J. Turner & Sons, signs, $9.00; Peterborough Hardware Company, hardware, $18.76; Peterborough Utilities Commission, light and power, $37.96; Brown Bros., stationery, $34.05; J. E. Lillico, acct. Industrial classes, $5.11; Peterborough Examiner, do, $21.01; Mail & Empire, advertising, $12.75; Review Printing Company, stationery and advertising, $25.00; J. C. Turnbull Company acct. Domestic Science Dept., $2.94; W. H. Hamilton, acct. Domestic Science Dept., $11.37; Peterborough Milk Products, do, $6c.; M. J. THE POLICE REPORT OF MOTOR ACCIDENT

Truck and Touring Car Figure in a Collision.

A truck belonging to the Utilities Commission, driven by A. E. Parks, was in a collision yesterday afternoon at 4.15 with a touring car in charge of Mr. J. W. Hughes. According to the police version of the accident the Utilities truck was going north on George street and proceeded to turn west on Simcoe street, but did not keep as close to the right hand curb as possible, and also failed to give the right of way to Mr. J. W. Hughes' car, which was going south on George street. The police state that Mr. Hughes made every effort to stop his car and a long mark on the pavement indicated the length which his car skidded after the brakes were applied. The consequence was that Hughes' car ran into the side of the truck, which did not appear to be damaged, but considerable damage was done to the front of Mr. Hughes' car, which was towed to a garage for repairs.

The police intend to make a prosecution.

If Thin, Nervous, Run Down, Depressed, This Will Help

The wear and strain of life has tended in recent years to produce nervous debility in a large percentage of our population.

Thousands are affected with a feeling they can't exactly describe. They are always tired and droopy, lack ambition, have poor appetite look pale and suffer from depressing headaches and insomnia.

This condition is full of peril. It is the stepping stone to invalidism, the beginning of a shattered constitution.

We advise everyone in this condition to take a good medicine at once and try to get well while yet there is time.

Probably no better advice can be given than to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which have become famous in restoring the sick to good health. A general toning up of the system at once takes place. The whole body is vitalised by rich and purer blood. The appetite is increased, food is digested and naturally strength rapidly increases. Headaches go because the bowels are regulated and all wastes are carried off.

There is no experiment about using Dr. Hamilton's Pills because they certainly restore the sick, as a trial will quickly prove. Just as good for the old as the young, and suitable to the needs of women and children. This grand family medicine should be in every home.

EVADING DOG TAX.

Local Police Discover a New Form of Graft.

A system of petty graft has been carried on lately to the annoyance of the police in the city in the dodging of the extra tax on an extra dog. Under the system of dog licences the owner of a male dog pays $1.00 for one dog and $2.00 for a second one, $3.00 for a female dog and $5.00 for a second.

In three cases lately the owners of more than one dog have sent different members of the family to buy the second tag, escaping the extra charge. If this practice is continued, the police will deal with the offenders accordingly.

THE MURRAY STREET CHOIR CONCERT

The outstanding number of the Murray street Baptist choir concert, last night, was the chorus, "Abide with Me," with tubular chimes accompaniment played by Miss Ida Sanderson. The effect was deeply impressive, accentuating the devotional spirit of the old hyms, expanding and rounding its harmonies, and imparting to it a subdued tone and a fulness as if the music were softly rolling through a vast cathedral. The chimes created a sense of distance and a subtle atmosphere in which the prayer and the music of the voices and the tubes seemed to dissolve as one perfect, impalpable blend. Mr. Asa Huycke, the conductor of the choir, reveals a propensity for unusual effects which was never better directed nor more acceptable than in this somewhat novel presentation of the familiar hymn.

The concert was uniformly interesting and satisfying. The choir, composed of forty voices, was splendidly balanced. Its choral enunciation was exceptionally commendable, and its responsiveness was exact to a degree in shading and precision. It fact it seemed easily capable of even more difficult selection than those offered. This is simply a suggestion that the choir evidently possesses latent powers that were not all marshalled last night. Of course it is recognized that they fitted well into this programme, but the assurance may be ventured that the choir may attempt with success a work of an entire evening and of a standard that should be within its range. Mr. Huycke is to be congratulated upon his choir in its performance and also in its potentialities, and in another season it is hoped that he may lead it to new heights.

The two numbers that closed the first part, "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," and "The Violet and the Bee," bore the visible stamp of Mr. Huycke's preference. The vocal similitude of chiming bells in the first selection was pronounced, providing a resonant background to the melody of the sopranos. There was a touch of the same characteristic, in a lighter mood, that of novel effect, in the other number, and of all the selections by the choir there was a wholesome completeness, smoothness and clearness, an absence of blurring and uncertainty, that gave thorough enjoyment to the large audience.

To Miss Ida Sanderson is also due a large measure of congratulation for the success of the concert. As an accompanist of fine appreciation, solo organist and pianist, with the Misses Archer and Gillespie in the Chopin polonaise, her playing was almost faultless. She displayed a rather unusual versatility by including the chimes accompaniment in her performance. Miss Sanderson's talent might appear more radiant were it not for an unassuming manner, a natural modesty, which, however, lends a compensating charm to her musicianship.

The male quartette made a good impression in their first number, "The Holy City," but their second offering was not nearly so pleasing. Rev. J. A. McKenzie's reading on the subject of the city man's share in greater production, sounded like a Leacock satire, which perhaps it was. The selection amused the audience, some of whom doubtless had experienced some of the disillusionment of amateur gard-ning.

Mr. Frank Whitehouse so generously assists in local entertainments that his art as a violinist is taken for granted without due recognition of his musical sensibilities and skill. His tone in the variations of a hymn by Hayden was full of color in the round flowing notes, and in the double piano passages and harmonics was always compelling.

As a soloist, Mr. Huycke sang in good voice and with true appreciation of his subjects, and Mr. Tom Ward also sustained the good opinions he has created.

The ladies of the choir sang a cradle song lullaby that was a gem of that type. The choir is well supplied with sopranos and altos, and the baritones and basses when called to the fore, displayed a strength and texture, and likewise expressiveness under restraint that were encouraging assets. In fact the choir is ready for bigger things.

Imaginary Invasion of Germany Caused War, States Jagow

Former Berlin Foreign Minister Writes Book.

EXONERATES THE ALLIES

PARIS,—(French Wireless Service)—The imaginary invasion of German territory by the French was the pretext for the declaration of war on France, says Von Jagow, former German foreign minister, in a book which he has just published, entitled "The Unversal War, Its Causes and Beginning." The alleged French incursions were reported to the German staff by subordinate officers, von Jagow says, and the staff communicated the information to the government without attempting to ascertain the facts.

The former foreign minister asserts that before the war he was convinced of the necessity of an accord with Great Britain and expresses regrets that Germany unfavorably received offers of an alliance made in 1899. When the Austro-Hungarian ambassador in Berlin communicated to him the text of the ultimatum to Serbia, von Jagow says he thought it terms were too rigorous. He declared he expressed some astonishment that Berlin had not been informed earlier of the steps taken at Vienna.

Theodore Wolff ,in the Tageblatt, commenting on von Jagow's version of the interview he had with the Austrian minister concerning the ultimatum to Serbia, says that after reading it, he is more at a loss than ever to understand why the proposal made by Edward Grey to call a conference of ambassadors to examine the conditions to be enforced on Serbia was rejected so categorically by Germany.

THE WOMEN TEACHERS' GUILD HELD MEETING

Local Guild is One of Foremost in the Federation.

The April meeting of the Women Teachers' Guild was held Tuesday evening last in the Central school. The principal item of business was the report of the delegate to the conference of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, held in connection with the O. E. A. during Easter week.

The local Guild is one of the foremost in the Federation, and one of the two representatives elected for the Easter disgrict is Miss Ross, of the Peterborough Public school staff.

Of the twelve thousand Public school teachers in Ontario over eleven thousand are women and the Federation recently organized has already an enrollment of nearly half that number.

Rural Districts.

The aim of the Federation is the promotion of the professional and financial status of the women teachers of Ontario. A committee is now working on a scheme to fix a minimum salary throughout the province. The government has allotted a large sum of money to help the poorer rural districts raise their standard, and the Minister of Education has assured us of his hearty co-operation.

Teachers and Inspectors everywhere are welcoming the new movement with enthusiasm. Widespread recognition of valuable service and higher salaries will greatly minimize the evil of constant changing of teachers. There will also be drawn into the profession the best and ablest of our young women.

Teachers throughout the province may receive any advice or information desired from the executive of the Federation before seeking new positions in order to eliminate the possibility of one teacher underbidding another.

The members of the Guild feel that the united effort being made by this organization is a considerable step towards a solution of the very grave problem caused by the spirit of unrest in the teaching profession of to-day.

After this report had been received, a programme of an interesting character followed. It consisted of papers given by several members of the Guild dealing with the writings of some of the most prominent Canadian authors. Vocal solos were also rendered by two of the teachers.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner,

I have been approached by Mr. William Stevens, Secretary of the local Trades and Labour Council, and asked to explain why my garage was used as an assembly place for strike breakers. I wish to state that I was in Montreal at the time and that Mr. Dickson Nicholls, with whom I am well acquainted acted on his own responsibility and without my knowledge or approval.

Yours,
CHARLES BANKS.

D'ARCY SCOTT APPOINTED.

Will Be Chairman of Conciliation Board.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 7.—The Minister of Labour has appointed D'Arcy Scott, of Ottawa a former member of the Board of Railway Commissioners, as the third member and chairman of the Conciliation Board to arbitrate the differences between the Hull Electric Railway and its employees.

open negotiations. The strikers at the packing houses have offered to negotiate, or even submit their differences to a Board of Conciliation under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act. All the Toronto strikers are willing to meet the employers through their representatives to negotiate the schedules. The employers have refused. Senator Robertson's work will largely be in persuading the employers to negotiate or conciliate as in the case of the packers.

A Mass Meeting.

The strikers, both of the metal trades and the packing houses are arranging a mass meeting in one of the parks and are seeking permission of the authorities to hold it. It is practically impossible to obtain lodge room accommodation for the great numbers on strike, and certainly impossible to get any place big enough for all the strikers to meet together. Last night, it is stated, it was planned to take several hundred strike breakers to the abattoirs in West Toronto. The news got to the strikers and many hundreds of pickets were placed near the plants in West Toronto and the men claimed the whole plan was foiled. The railway men, it is stated, are giving every assistance to the strikers, and therefore before long they will use their influence to prevent any strike-breakers from entering the plants. The pickets were orderly and the police reinforcements which were placed in the vicinity, it is stated, were not needed.

LAST NIGHT FOR EVANGELIST TORRIE

To-night will close Evangelist Torrie's mission in Park street Baptist Church.

Evangelist Torrie spoke to another good congregation in Park street church last night on the subject "Conviction vs. Conversion". He cited many instances of people much aroused to a sense of duty and yet failing to "pay the price" and consequently losing the blessing. Lot's wife, Felix, Agrippa and the young man, who came running to Jesus and saying, "Good Master what Good thing must I do to inherit eternal life," were examples of this. Many examples from our own every day experience were also given. Why is this? Because men and women have never been brought to see the doom to which they are hastening and have never seen the supreme excellence and beauty of Jesus.

Mr. Torrie's last sermon to-night is to be on the subject: "The Tragedy of Calvary" and Mrs. Torrie will sing again by request "Alone" and 'Don't forget Jesus'. The choir which has given such good service throughout the mission will also sing. Come early to this last service if you want a seat.

THE INDEPENDENT LABOUR PARTY ATTRACTS WOMEN

Large Audience Hears Mrs. W. F. Singer at the Labour Hall Last Night—Women Should Use Franchise.

At the meeting of the Independent Labour Party last night, Mrs. W. F. Singer, organizer and supervisor of the Women's Department of Work and Labour for the Province of Ontario, addressed a large and attentive audience on the industrial and political issues of the labour movement. The house was filled to its capacity and great interest was taken in the proceedings, the ladies being well represented.

Mrs. Singer is an earnest and logical speaker and held the audience from start to finish, the tense quiet only being broken by intervals of applause.

Mr. P. McArthur presided.

Mrs. Singer said it was a pleasure for her to come to Peterborough to advocate the protection of humanity against unfair treatment. Throughout the whole Dominion there is grave unrest caused by employers of labour and the apathy of the government. Conditions had become unbearable, showing the great need of organization. Within the past two or three months great progress had been made and twenty charters had been issued to newly formed branches of the party. She said to act individually meant failure. Collectively meant success, for we realize that to get at the root of the evil we must elect the labour men to the legislature of the country. The high cost of living was the immediate cause of the labour unrest. But justice cannot be got while employers of labour legislate for the country. The workingman can change these conditions by the ballot and if they would vote as their conscience dictates there would be more labour men in Parliament. The workers are 85 per cent. of the population. Mrs. Singer scored the labour men for having only one labour representative in the Provincial house, Allan Studholme, an elderly man, true and earnest to the cause, who brought resolution after resolution before the house but had no one to second them.

Some Corset Truths For Women to Consider

To smooth out these inequalities a properly designed corset and the use of proper materials in the corset will re-create the figure.

MODART CORSETS Front-Laced

are poise designed. The designer of the MODART Corset makes all MODART Corsets give proper poise to the figure and then designs the corset to symmetrical artistic proportions.

Women with badly poised figures can never be graceful—try as they may. If proper poise is lacking, the grace is lacking too.

So whether you are tall or short, stout or slender, you can have the carriage that will show your figure and your clothes to the greatest possible advantage if you will adopt the MODART Corset.

We ask you to accept a trial fitting, which costs you nothing, and you will immediately see why social leaders, famous actresses and beautiful women generally wear the MODART.

Our experienced corsetiere will be glad to give expert advice as to the style best adapted to your figure.

Heeles Was Fined $100 and Costs

Was Night Operator on the C.P.R. at Havelock.

Harry Heeles of Lindsay was charged before Magistrate Langley this morning with being intoxicated while on duty as night operator on the C.P.R. at Havelock.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, who appeared for Heeles, put in a plea of guilty, and then made a strong plea for leniency on the ground that no lives had been endangered, and the defendant had already been fined for the same offence under the Ontario Temperance Act, and had lost his position on the C. P. R.

Mr. Wearing also went on to state that Heeles had made a new start, and that his people were eminently respectable people, and that his mother was in a serious condition of health owing to her son's trouble.

The Magistrate after considering the question and pointing out that that he could send the defendant to prison for five years and fine him $400 besides, imposed a fine of $100 and costs.

It is as hard to impose on some men the second time as it was easy to impose on them the first time.

SUMMARY OF PEACE TREATY

WAR WILL CEASE AT ONCE.

From the coming into force of the treaty the present state of war will terminate. From the moment and subject to the provisions of the treaty official relations with Germany and with each of the German states will be resumed by the allies. The Covenant of the League of Nations constitutes section one of the treaty, which places upon the league many specific duties, in addition to its general duties. It may question Germany at any time for violation of the neutralized zone east of the Rhine. It will work out a mandatory system to be applied to the former German colonies, and decide certain of the financial and economic problems. An international conference on labour is to be held in October under its direction and another on International Control of Ports, Waterways and Railways is foreshadowed.

Under the heading boundaries of Germany, the treaty states that Germany must cede to France Alsace-Lorraine, 5,600 square miles, and to Belgium, two small districts between Luxembourg and Holland, totalling 989 square miles. She also cedes to Poland the southeastern tip of Silesia beyond and including Oppeln, most of Posen, and West Prussia, 27,686 square miles. She loses sovereignty over the north-easternmost tip of East Prussia and internationalized areas about Danzig, 729 square miles, and the basin of the Saar, 738 square miles, between the westrn border of Rheinish Palatinate of Bavaria, and the south west corner of Luxemburg, the southeastern third of East Prussia and the area between East Prussia and the area between East Prussia and the Vistula is to have its nationality determined by popular vote as is to be the case in part of Schleswig.

Members of the league will be the signatories of the covenant and other states invited to accede who must lodge a declaration of accession without reservation within two months.

Section two deals with the constitution of the League of Nations and the validity of treaties, concluded after the institution of the league. The assembly may from time to time advise members to reconsider treaties which have become inapplicable or involved danger.

PARIS, May 7. — In addition to the securities afforded in the treaty of peace here, the president of the United States has pledged himself to propose to the United States Senate, and the Premier of Great Britain has pledged himself to propose to the British Parliament an engagement subject to the approval of the Council of the League of Nations, to come immediately to the assistance of France in case of unprovoked attack by Germany.

"Paint-up" and "Clean-up"

Many householders have been delaying painting and decorating during the war because they felt it to be their duty to avoid every item of unnecessary expense. Now that the war is over, and the boys have returned from overseas, everything requiring paint should be made spic and span. Families whose dwellings are dull and drab, because of paint neglect, inside or out, may now be stimulated to paint up and clean up, and so contribute to the good name and appearance of the community.

Attention is directed to the attractive announcements of the Low Bros., paint manufacturers, which will be found in the columns of the "Examiner" at different intervals. The reputation of this paint has steadily been maintained, and is acknowledged to rank among the most reliable paints made in Canada. The firm of F. R. J. MacPherson Co. are the local dealers for this paint.

Trapshooters Will Meet On Friday

Owing to the heavy rain of last Friday the Gun Club were unable to hold their regular shoot, but the opening will take place on Friday evening, May 9th, when all the gunners are expected to be present to start off the regular shoot. The committee is framing up several little competitions which will keep the members interested for the season. A grocery shoot of 50 targets will be started this coming Friday and the handicap will be taken from the first fifteen targets shot at.

All the members and anybody interested in trap shooting will be welcome at the Gun Club grounds at 6.30 that evening.

REV. DUNN FEELS IT HIS DUTY TO SPEAK

Wants Others to Benefit By His Experience—Gains Fifteen Pounds By Taking Tanlac.

Rev. J. H. Dunn, Pastor of the Church of Christ at 2110 East Second Ave., Spokane, Wash., and residing at 724 West Sharp Street, is still another in this high calling whose deep sense of gratitude and desire to help others will not permit him to remain silent regarding the wonderful benefits he has derived from the use of Tanlac.

"Tanlac has not only relieved me of my ten years suffering," said Rev. Dunn, recently, but it has built me up wonderfully, as I have gained fifteen pounds in a months time by taking it. My stomach was in such a disordered condition that I could not eat without suffering great pain. My food felt like lead in my stomach and I would expel sour gas with almost every breath. Those who diagnosed my case told me I had cancer of the stomach, and my worry and physical suffering combined were extreme. My head ached constantly, and I continually lost in weight and energy. I spent around three hundred dollars for medicines of various kinds, but got no benefit and my condition was indeed distressing.

"I finally bought Tanlac on the strength of high endorsements and my first bottle made a marked change in my feelings. So I bought another and then another, and now I am just like a new man. Before I took Tanlac I could not eat apples on account of the suffering the acid caused me, but now I can eat any number of them. In fact, I can eat just anything now without the least discomfort afterwards. A Medicine that will help anyone out of such a long term of suffering and set them right is certainly well worth recommending to the public. It gives me pleasure to do what I can for my fellow man, and as Tanlac has been of such great benefit to me, and not only to me, but also a number of my friends I can conscientiously recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Co.

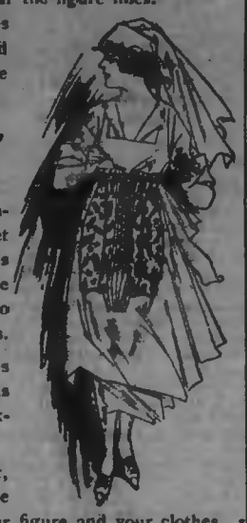
Some Corset Truths For Women to Consider

It is not an easy task to reshape a neglected figure into shapely lines. Neglect or poor corsetry allows little bumps, angles or hollows to mar the figure lines.

To smooth out these inequalities a properly designed corset and the use of proper materials in the corset will re-create the figure.



MODART CORSETS Front-Laced

are poise designed. The designer of the MODART Corset makes all MODART Corsets give proper poise to the figure and then designs the corset to symmetrical artistic proportions.

Women with badly poised figures can never be graceful—try as they may. If proper poise is lacking, the grace is lacking too.

So whether you are tall or short, stout or slender, you can have the carriage that will show your figure and your clothes to the greatest possible advantage if you will adopt the MODART Corset.

We ask you to accept a trial fitting, which costs you nothing, and you will immediately see why social leaders, famous actresses and beautiful women generally wear the MODART.

Our experienced corsetiere will be glad to give expert advice as to the style best adapted to your figure.

Heeles Was Fined $100 and Costs

Was Night Operator on the C.P.R. at Havelock.

Harry Heeles of Lindsay was charged before Magistrate Langley this morning with being intoxicated while on duty as night operator on the C.P.R. at Havelock.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, who appeared for Heeles, put in a plea of guilty, and then made a strong plea for leniency on the ground that no lives had been endangered, and the defendant had already been fined for the same offence under the Ontario Temperance Act, and had lost his position on the C. P. R.

Mr. Wearing also went on to state that Heeles had made a new start, and that his people were eminently respectable people, and that his mother was in a serious condition of health owing to her son's trouble.

The Magistrate after considering the question and pointing out that that he could send the defendant to prison for five years and fine him $400 besides, imposed a fine of $100 and costs.

It is as hard to impose on some men the second time as it was easy to impose on them the first time.

SUMMARY OF PEACE TREATY

WAR WILL CEASE AT ONCE.

From the coming into force of the treaty the present state of war will terminate. From the moment and subject to the provisions of the treaty official relations with Germany and with each of the German states will be resumed by the allies. The Covenant of the League of Nations constitutes section one of the treaty, which places upon the league many specific duties, in addition to its general duties. It may question Germany at any time for violation of the neutralized zone east of the Rhine. It will work out a mandatory system to be applied to the former German colonies, and decide certain of the financial and economic problems. An international conference on labour is to be held in October under its direction and another on International Control of Ports, Waterways and Railways is foreshadowed.

Under the heading boundaries of Germany, the treaty states that Germany must cede to France Alsace-Lorraine, 5,600 square miles, and to Belgium, two small districts between Luxembourg and Holland, totalling 980 square miles. She also cedes to Poland the southeastern tip of Silesia beyond and including Oppeln, most of Posen, and West Prussia, 27,686 square miles. She loses sovereignty over the north-easternmost tip of East Prussia and internationalized areas about Danzig, 729 square miles, and the basin of the Saar, 738 square miles, between the westrn border of Rheinish Palatinate of Bavaria, and the south west corner of Luxemburg, the southeastern third of East Prussia and the area between East Prussia and the area between East Prussia and the Vistula is to have its nationality determined by popular vote as is to be the case in part of Schleswig.

Members of the league will be the signatories of the covenant and other states invited to accede who must lodge a declaration of accession without reservation within two months.

Section two deals with the constitution of the League of Nations and the validity of treaties, concluded after the institution of the league. The assembly may from time to time advise members to reconsider treaties which have become inapplicable or involved danger.

PARIS, May 7. — In addition to the securities afforded in the treaty of peace here, the president of the United States has pledged himself to propose to the United States Senate, and the Premier of Great Britain has pledged himself to propose to the British Parliament an engagement subject to the approval of the Council of the League of Nations, to come immediately to the assistance of France in case of unprovoked attack by Germany.

MONTHLY REPORT OF THE SCHOOL NURSE

Five Hundred Children Have Defective Teeth.

In her report for the month Miss Maye Jory, the school nurse, informed the School Board that of 980 children examined, 500 had defective teeth, 100 enlarged tonsils, 230 defective vision, 16 rash and 30 were excluded for uncleanliness. She stated that the foreign element was hard to deal with, also that she had found the first aid kit to be invaluable.

Revision Needed.

Dr. Neale stated that a large number of questions needed revision and the matter of doing the revising was left to the chairman of every committee to revise the rules and regulations coming under their committees and report back. The Supervision committee was given power to arrange for an educational exhibit at the Fall Fair.

Applications Received.

THREE WESTWOOD SOLDIERS HONORED

Were Presented With Gold Watches —Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., Gave An Address.

Three returned veterans of the Great War were welcomed last evening in Westwood when Gordon Manley of the Fourth Battalion, Thomas Drummond and Thomas Long, M.M., all of Westwood, were presented with handsme gold watches by the Westwood Patriotic Society.

The reception was held in the village hall and over 350 people from Westwood and the community were present to participate in the reception. Mr. William Knox, President of the Westwood Patriotic Society, was chairman, and the address of welcome was read by Miss Georgie Everett and the presentations by Miss M. Cardwell and Miss Warner. A fine musical programme was presented and Mr. G. A. Gillespie M. P.P. and Rev. Mr. Horwood of the Westwood Methodist Church gave brief addresses after which refreshments were served.

Ptes. Manley, Drummond and Long are the first of Westwood's heroes who have returned since the armistice was signed.

KAWARTHA PARK COTTAGES ENTERED

Evidently in search of liquor, thieves entered practically every house at Kawartha Park during the winter and spring and the cottagers who have been up, state that everything in their summer homes has been turned upside down. On the Kawartha Park shore Mr. R. B. Rogers, Mr. Brock of Toronto, and Dr. Morrison found their houses in a state of general disorder. Some of them were systematically robbed. Mr. Neill and Claude Rogers have also shared the fate of the Kawartha Park cottagers. It is stated that the thieves made a round of the entire lake.

ROMANCE AT LINDSAY HOTEL.

Early yesterday morning lodgers in one of the town hotels heard some early risers, but thought it was only the customary hour for rising. The sequel was unfolded, however, later on in the morning when it was learned that the dining room girl and the bartender were "sick" and had packed their trunks and departed on their honeymoon trip.

Mr. Hotelman did not like the sudden departure, but hopes to pull through all right.—Lindsay Warder.

$102.00 FOR ONE PORKER.

Mr. Richard Staples, of Janetville, sold to Mr. Louis Staples, drover, Bethany, the most expensive porker ever sold in the Township of Manvers. It was delivered in Bethany and tipped the scales at 540 pounds. Mr. Staples received a cheque for $102.60 for the pig. The animal was a magnificent specimen of the Tamworth breed.

BURGLAR RANSACKS POLICE CHIEF'S HOME.

ST. CATHARINE'S, May 7.—A nervy burglar entered the home of Chief of Police Greene and ransacked several drawers, but departed by a rear door without any booty just as Mrs. Greene entered the front door. The house is situated only a stone's throw from the police station.

BAG OF GOLD FROM DEAD MEN'S TEETH TAKEN FROM BOCHE SOLDIER.

HAMILTON, May 7.—One of the soldiers who returned on the Metagama says that he found by the body of a dead German a bag of gold that had been extracted from the teeth of the dead, and that he valued it at 140 sovereigns.

"BILLY" BISHOP EARNS THOUSAND DOLLARS A DAY

OTTAWA, May 7.—Lieut.-Col. William A. Bishop of Owen Sound, premier living airman in the British war service, is making $30,000 a month, or thereabouts, in the United States at the present time, was stated in the House of Commons by Gen. Mewburn Minister of Militia.

The reference came up during the discussion of the bill to create an air board in Canada, when Hon. Mr. Lemieux suggested that Col. Bishop be accorded a place on the board. Gen. Mewburn said, in consideration of the fact mentioned above, that he did not think there was enough money in the militia department to induce "Billy" to act on the board now, but probably he would be available later.

OBITUARY

ALBERT E. HAMMOND

The death occurred on Sunday, May 4th., at Atwood, Ont., of Albert E. Hammond, beloved husband of Sadie Mann, daughter of the late T. R. Mann of Smith Township.

HELEN L. TAYLOR.

The death took place in Toronto on May 2nd, of Helen Lena Taylor, wife of Alex. McMeekin, in her 19th year. The funeral took place from her late residence, 8 Belong Avenue, to Prospect Cemetery. She leaves to mourn her loss a sorrowing husband and three brothers, Ernest, overseas, Leslie of Western Valley, Sask., and Bert, of Toronto.

Among the many friends from a distance were Mr and Mrs. Mason, and Miss Mary and Eva Nesbett of Peterboro. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

WITH THE VETERANS

Mr. W. Jarvis, Field Secretary for Ontario of the G.W.V.A. Advisory committee to the Repatriation committee of the Dominion Government, is in Peterborough to-day investigating conditions among local returned men, particularly as regards unemployment. He met a large number of Veterans this morning at the G.W.V.A. rooms and a number of grievances were aired which Mr. Jarvis is looking into this afternoon.

All returned soldiers, whether members of the G.W.V.A. or not, are invited to the "Get Acquainted" smoker to-morrow (Thursday) evening, in the G.W.V.A. rooms. The only admission charge is that each returned man shall wear fastened to the lapel of his coat a ticket upon which his name is written.

TO DISTRIBUTE TROPHIES.

Government Is Now Working Out a Scheme for Handling Relics.

OTTAWA, May 7.—Replying to J. H. Burnham, in the House of Commons on Tuesday, Hon. S. C. Mewburn, Minister of Militia, stated that no definite decision had been reached as to the construction of a building at Ottawa to accommodate war trophies. There would be a receptacle also for war paintings to be presented to Canada and photographs.

DON'T MISS IT.

The lecture in St. Paul's Church under the auspices of the Great War Veterans Association to be given by Lieut. Beverly Robinson promises to be one of the most interesting.

Lieut. Robinson spent 2½ years as a prisoner in Germany in nine different camps, in widely separated parts of the country under conditions varying from comparatively good treatment, to the notorious camps in the 10th Army Corps, Strohen and Holzminden, the latter commanded by the unspeakable "Charlie" Niemeyer, otherwise known as Milwaukee Bill.

Lieut. Robinson will give the best story of German prison life that you will hear.

Do your share in the "Brighten Up—Paint Up" Campaign.

We want to have the cleanest, neatest and best looking town in the Dominion, and so we hope that every citizen will do his share to fix things up around his own place. Clean up back yards and front yards; remove all old rubbish; keep the grass tidy and well cut; paint your house if it needs it; paint the fences and outbuildings. Take a keen personal pride in your own property and by so doing help your town to look its best.

The regular use of paint is an economy. Properly painted buildings keep in good condition and save expensive repairs as the paint protects them from the wear and injury of the weather. Well painted buildings are a source of pride to the owner and add greatly to the selling value of the property.

We are headquarters for all "Clean Up—Paint up" materials as well as paint. Drop in and see us and we will take care of your requirements. Our goods are right in quality and right in price.

Mr. Business Man!

Are You Interested in Peterborough ?

You have a stake in this city because your interests are centered here.

Your personal prosperity and that of our children depends mainly upon the prosperity of Peterborough.

If you make good in your field of work, it's because you improve and cultivate your field—which in this case is the city. The larger the city the greater the business opportunities; the better the city the greater will be your enjoyment of and pride in it.

The upbuilding of Peterborough is attainable not by what has been heretofore proposed and discussed, but by what is to be actually done by you and all of us together as a Board of Trade

In order to convert our plans and ambitions, as citizens and business men, into concrete realities, we must have team-work—one for all and all for one—in a steady get-there push to make Peterborough bigger and better.

Back up the work-together spirit of Peterborough. Pay something to be a worker. Send your application for membership in the Board to President J. J. Turner, at the new rooms over the Dominion Bank. Help to make a "showing of hands" at the general meeting of the Board on Friday Evening at 8 o'clock.

There was no doubt that two shots had been fired from the grove simultaneously, and from revolvers of different calibre (picture of tree and gate).

Was one of them—the smaller—fired by a woman? And if so, by what woman?

Not one of the females whose names had been linked at one time or another with the versatile Mr. Balfame but had proved her alibi, and so far as was known—although of course some one as yet unsuspected may have climbed the back fence and hid in the grove— the only two women on the premises were the widow and her extraordinarily plain servant.

Balfame was shot with a .41 revolver. In one of the newspapers it was casually and not too politely remarked that Mrs. Balfame had larger hands and feet than one would expect from her general elegance of figure and aristocratic features, and in the same rambling sentence (this was written by the deeply calculating Mr. Broderick) the public was informed that certain footprints might have been those of a large woman or of a medium-sized man. In the next paragraph but one Mrs. Balfame's stately height was again commented upon, but as the public had already been informed that she was an expert at target practice, reiteration of this fact was astutely avoided.

A great deal was said here and there of her composure, her large studiously expressionless grey eyes, her nimble mind that so often routed her inquisitors, but was allied to a temperament of ice and a manifest power of cool and deliberate calculation.

The dullest reader was quickened into the belief that he was the real detective, and that his unerring sense had carried him straight to the woman who had hated the murdered man and had quarrelled with him in public a few hours before his death.

The episode of Mrs. Balfame's offer to make her husband a glass of doctored lemonade and the disappearance of both beverage and glass was not mentioned; presumably these bright young men did not believe in digressions or in rousing a curiosity they might not be able to appease. The interview concluded with a maddening hint at immediate developments.

Mrs. Balfame let the papers drop to the floor one by one; when she had finished the last she drew her breath painfully for several moments. The room turned black, and it was cut by rows of bared and menacing teeth, infinitely multiplied.

But she was not the woman to give way to fear for long, or even to bewilderment. There could be no real danger, and all that should concern her was the outrageous, the intolerably vulgar publicity. A woman whose good taste was both natural and cultivated, she felt this ruthless tossing of her sacred person into the public maw much as the more refined octoroons may have felt when they stood on the auction block in the good old days down South. She shuddered and gritted her teeth; she wished that she were a hysterical woman that she might find relief in shrieking at the top of her voice and smashing the furniture.

Why, oh why, could not David Balfame have been permitted by the fate which had decreed his end on that particular night to enter the house and drink the lemonade; to die decently, painlessly, bloodlessly (she shrank aside when compelled to pass those blood stains on the brick path), as any man might die when his overtaxed heart simply stopped? She would have run down the moment she heard the fall, she would have managed to get the glass out of the way if Frieda had condescended to visit the scene, which was quite unlikely. She would have run over to Doctor Lequer, who lived next door to the Gifnings, and he would have sent for the coroner. Both inevitably would have pronounced the death due to heart failure. It was fate that had bungled, not she.

She mused, however, that she should have had a duplicate glass of lemonade to leave half consumed on the table, as it would be recalled that he had expected to imbibe a soothing draught immediately upon his return; and adjacent liquids invariably induce suspicion in cases of sudden death. But that did not matter now.

She set her wits to work upon the identity of her companion in the grove. Was it Frieda? Or an accomplice of the girl, who was already in the house or on the alert to direct him out by the rear pathway. But why Frieda? She knew the raging hate that had filled her husband since the declaration of war, and she knew that his rivals in politics hated him with increasing virulency, as they were beginning to hate everybody that presumed to question the right and might of Germany.

But she was a woman just and sensible. Nor for a moment could she visualize Old Dutch or any of his tribe shooting David Balfame because he cursed the Kaiser and sang Tipperary. The supposition was too shallow to be entertained.

The person in the grove had been either a bitter political rival too intimate with the local police to be in danger of arrest, or some woman who for a time may have believed herself to be his wife in the larger village of New York.

She could have sworn that that stealthy figure so close to her was a man, but women's skirts were very narrow and silent these days, and after all she herself was as tall as the average man.

Before noon the house was filled with sympathizing and indignant friends. Cammack came up town to assure her that it was a shame, and he would ask Rush if those New York papers couldn't be had up for libel. He'd take the eleven-thirty for Dobton and consult with him.

The ladies were knitting, no one more impersonally than Mrs. Balfame, although she was wondering if these kind friends expected to stay to lunch, when an automobile drove honking up to the door, and Mrs. Bartle teetered over to the window.

"For the land's sake," she exclaimed. "If it isn't the deputy sheriff from Dobton. Now, what do you suppose?"

Mrs. Balfame stood up suddenly, and the other women sat with needles suspended as if suddenly overcome by noxious gas, with the exception of Mrs. Cammack, who ran over to her sister-in-law and put her plump arm about that easily compassed waist. Mrs. Balfame drew away haughtily.

"I am not frightened," she said in her sweet cool voice. "I am prepared for anything after those newspapers—that is all."

The bell pealed, and Mrs. Gifning, too curious to wait upon the handmaiden, ran out and opened the front door. She returned a moment later with her little blue eyes snapping with excitement.

"What do you think?" she gasped. "It is Frieda they want. She is being subpoenaed to Dobton to testify before the Grand Jury. The deputy sheriff is going to take her with him."

Mrs. Balfame returned to her chair with such composure that no one suspected the sudden weakening of her knees. Instantly she realized the meaning of the voices she had heard in the night. Frieda had been "interviewed," either by the press or the police, and induced, probably bribed, to talk. No wonder she had not run away.

But she too resumed her knitting.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Young Bruce had had no appetite for his part in the Balfame drama. He had presented himself at the back door, however, at eight o'clock on the night of the interview with the heroine, assuming that Frieda would be moving at her usual snail's pace from the day of work toward the evening of leisure. She slammed the door in his face.

When he persisted, thrusting his cherubic countenance through the window, she threatened him with the hose. Neither failure daunted him, and he was convinced that she knew more of the case than she was willing to admit; but it was obvious that he was not the man to appeal to the fragment of heart she had brought from East Prussia. The mere fact that he looked rather German and yet was straight American— employed, moreover, by a newspaper that made no secret of its hostility to her country—satisfied him that he would not be permitted to approach her closely enough to attempt any form of persuasion. He drew the long breath of deliverance as he reached this conclusion; the bare idea that he might have to bestow a kiss upon Frieda in the heroic pursuit of duty had induced a sensation of nausea. He was an extremely fastidious young man. But even as he accepted defeat with mingled relief and chagrin, the brilliant alternative occurred to him.

He had ascertained that Frieda was intimate in the home of Conrad Kraus, otherwise "Old Dutch," of Dobton, the County seat. Conrad, Jr., treated her as a brother should, and it was his habit to escort her home from the popular dance hall of Elsinore on Saturday nights. Bruce had no difficulty in learning that the young German-American had been dancing with his favourite partner when her dead nerve seemed to threaten explosion and had fraternally run home with her. The energetic reporter did not wait upon the next trolley for Dobton, but hired an automobile and descended in front of Old Dutch's saloon fifteen minutes later.

Young Kraus was busy; and Bruce, after ordering beer and cheese and taking it to an occupied table, drew information from a neighbour that Conrad, Jr., would be on duty behind the bar until midnight. It was the habit of Papa Kraus to retire promptly on the stroke of nine and take his entire family, save Conrad, with him. The eldest of the united family continued to assuage the thirst of the neighbourhood until twelve o'clock, when he shut up the front of the house and went to bed in the rear as quickly as possible; he must rise betimes and clerk in the leading grocery store of the town. He was only twenty-two, but thrifty and hard-working and anxious to marry.

Bruce caught the next train for New York, had a brief talk with his city editor, and returned to Dobton a few moments before the closing hour of the saloon. He hung about the bar until the opportunity came to speak to Conrad unheard.

"I want a word with you as soon as you have shut up," he said without preamble.

The young German scowled at the reporter. Although a native son of Dobton, he resented the attitude of the American press as deeply as his irascible old father, and he still more deeply resented the suspicion that had hovered for a moment over the house of Kraus.

"Don't get mad till you hear what I've got to say," whispered Bruce. "There may be a cool five hundred in it for you."

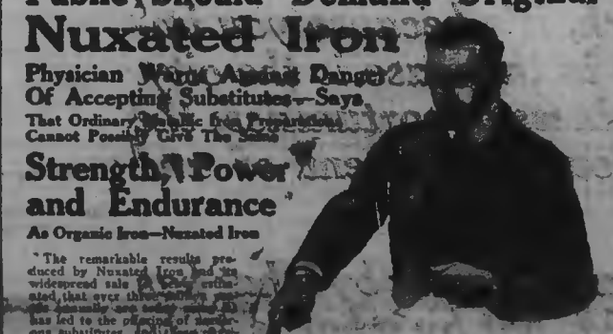
Public Should Demand Original Nuxated Iron

Physician Warns Against Danger Of Accepting Substitutes—Says That Ordinary Public Is In No Position Cannot Possibly Tell The Same

Strength, Power and Endurance

As Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron



"The remarkable results produced by Nuxated Iron and its widespread sale [illegible] estimated that over three million [illegible] has led to the placing of dangerous substitutes, [illegible] physicians mentioned below say the public generally should exercise the greatest caution to protect their health against substitutes for Nuxated Iron, as these substitutes instead of being organic iron may be nothing more than a metallic iron compound which may in some cases produce more harm than good. Those who feel the need of a strength and blood builder, should go to their family doctors and obtain a prescription calling for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and present this to their druggist so that there may be no question about obtaining the proper article." But if they do not wish to go to the trouble of getting a prescription for Nuxated Iron then they should be sure to look on the label and see that the words NUXATED IRON are printed thereon.

There are thousands of people taking iron who do not distinguish between organic iron and metallic iron and such persons often fail to obtain the vital energy, strength and endurance which they seek simply because they have taken the wrong form of iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see how much you have gained.

Extraordinary Note: The widespread publication of the above information has been suggested by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Department) New York and the Westchester County Hospital; Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author and others so that the public may be informed on this subject and protected from the use of worthless substitutes. Nuxated Iron is now obtainable from all druggists in Canada. It is not a patent medicine nor a secret remedy but one which the most eminent physicians in Europe and America prescribe every day in the year. It is the organic iron constituent in the blood that is lacking in the pale cheeks of the anaemic man or woman and when this is restored to normal by organic iron, power, strength and endurance naturally follow. Unless you are organic iron deficient you will not obtain the results you should. Nuxated Iron does not contain drugs, is not a stimulant and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they will refund the money of any purchaser who does not increase their strength and endurance more than 100 per cent within four weeks' time.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Colour and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Lord Birkenhead Becomes Keeper of the Great Seal. Some Historic Anecdotes

SIR F. E. SMITH, the new Lord Chancellor of Great Britain and Ireland, is going to take the title of Lord Birkenhead. It is an excellent title, but his visit to Paris the other day raised many questionings among the anxious. The Lord Chancellor is the guardian of the Great Seal, the official sign of all writs, charters, and grants from the crown. In the old days the Great Seal was known as "The Key of the Kingdom." The Lord Chancellor is also the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal. In the unwritten constitutional usage of Great Britain there are two stars that never set. The Great Seal, symbol of sovereignty, cannot make a legal exit from the kingdom. And when the Lord Chancellor, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, leaves the kingdom a commission must be appointed to take charge of it and see that it and the Commonwealth take no detriment. Cardinal Wolsey carried the Great Seal as far away as Calais, but Calais was then British. Lord Haldane was over in the United States [illegible] seven years ago. It is said that these were the only two Chancellors to deport the Great Seal. In Lord Haldane's case, however, the guardianship of the sacred emblem was properly assured by the appointment of Commissioners, of whom Lord Morley, "a better parson than politician," somebody said, was one. Lord Haldane was gone for only two weeks, but the Constitution had to be defended.

SIR F. E. SMITH.

The London Times recalls the story of Lord Brougham's troubles with the Great Seal in William IV's time. In 1834 he wanted to take a trip on the Rhine, but he found that if he did he would have to put the Great Seal in commission, which would cost him the tidy sum of $7,000. Being of a frugal mind, he and the Great Seal went to Scotland. At some country house the ladies amused themselves by taking the Great Seal from Brougham's bedroom and hiding it. "When he recovered the precious object from a tea chest in the drawing room, he allowed the ladies to make pancakes with it by pouring the ingredients between the disks, but he never again became the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal." Served him right!

In George III's time the Great Seal was stolen from Lord Thurlow's house in 1784. The day before, Pitt had made up his mind to appeal to the country. A proclamation to dissolve Parliament has to bear the Great Seal, so the Whigs were accused of "burglary." Lord Eldon, the smuttiest and most pig-headed of Lord Chancellors, never went to bed without satisfying himself that the Great Seal was still in his possession. In 1812 his house caught fire. He saved the Great Seal. In fact, "he rushed into the garden with the Great Seal in his arms and buried it in a flowerbed."

In these more practical and less ceremonious times the custody of the symbol of sovereignty may be less important. Still, Sir F. E. Smith has stirred quite a tempest in the antiquarian teapot.

Striking Oil.

Before oil is struck it is often necessary to bore to a depth of over 1,000 feet. From many of the wells the oil has to be pumped; from others it gushes upwards through the iron piping with a force that sends it to a height that may be up to 600 feet or more. The latter form of well goes under the name of spouter. Obviously, when a well spouts, much oil would be waster if the flow comes into play. A workman, clad in an oil and gas-proof dress that resembles that of a diver and is fitted with the usual long air tube, approaches the well from which the oil is gushing and fixes a cap with a "gate valve" to the pipe, thus arresting the flow. Then a branch connection pipe is fitted for the conveyance of the oil to the reservoirs. The gas given off by spouters causes all silver within a radius of many miles to turn black.

Silent Joffre.

Frenchmen, as a rule, are loquacious and unrestrained, but Marshal Joffre is neither. Brevity and composure are among his most marked characteristics, and, shortly after his victory on the Marne, he gave an example to a party of war correspondents whom he had agreed to receive at his headquarters. They eagerly anticipated his speech. It contained sixty-five words.

When a Dollar Buys More than a Dollar's Worth

WHEN your dealer advises you to buy a pair of shoes which cost a dollar more, he probably knows what he is talking about. He knows that every shoe in his stock represents good value for the money, but he also knows that some represent better value per dollar than others. A dollar added to the cost of a shoe will sometimes buy much more than a dollar's worth of service.

If you will go to a reliable dealer and be guided by his advice, you will seldom fail to get value for your money. And if you will see that the manufacturer's trade mark is on the shoes you buy, you may feel doubly confident. For the manufacturer's business reputation is behind it.

Send for our booklet "How to Buy Shoes." You will find it helpful. It is sent with our compliments to any address in Canada upon request to our head office at Montreal.

China and Japan

WHAT does Japan want in China? Japan says she has only the most laudable desire to help a stumbling sister. China says Japan is trying to gobble her up, and opinion on this continent seems to sustain the Chinese view. The Ottawa Citizen states the position concisely as follows:

"The entrance to North China is through the Gulf of Chihli, which, in turn, is nearly closed by two pincers in the shape of peninsulas. The possession of these pincers means the possession of North China. As a result of the Japanese-Russian war the former now hold Port Arthur and Dalny on the northern arm of the pincers, and by the taking of Kiaochou on the southern arm, virtually control all the northern part of the vast empire, and would at any time be in position to transport troops into the heart of the country."

Meanwhile, China has appealed to the Peace Conference, and the Chicago Tribune says:

"China has got Japan's hand away from her mouth long enough to utter at least one shrill call for help to the Peace Conference and to the United States, challenging our self-advertised championship of oppressed nationalities."

China's appeal to the Peace Conference was in the nature of a threat to publish the secret treaties Japan forced her to enter into in May, 1915. Japan was immediately reported to have retorted with a threat of war, if the treaties were published, and this report was as quickly denied. But the Philadelphia Record observes:

"Japan is coercing China to deny that it is correct. The process cannot be concealed, and the more secrecy is maintained the more sinister the Japanese policy will be supposed to be. The wiser thing would be for Japan to open the door and disclose in full its relations with China. It is not likely that Europe and America will allow Japan to establish itself as the overlord of China, and the secrecy is a suspicious circumstance that must of itself arouse distrust of Japan. If a few millions of Poles and Slavs are to be endowed with power to control their own destinies, it is not likely that Europe and America will allow Japan to subject 400,000,000 Chinese to its own will."

The New Orleans Times-Picayune and the Portland Oregonian both think the Peace Conference will interfere to block Japanese designs.

The Oregonian called the Japan-China imbroglio the "first job for the league," and said further:

"The conduct of Japan toward China and the plea of the latter country to the Peace Conference suggest that one of the first duties of the five great powers may be to exert the authority of the League of Nations against one of themselves while the league is still in process of incubation. Japan shows contempt for several of the fourteen points. It prefers secret treaties to open covenants. It disregards self-determination of nations by attempting to hold the piece of China which it took from Germany. It tries to hold Shantung in defiance of its promise when it declared war on Germany to return it to China. Its claim is based on conquest, not on a mandate from the League of Nations."

The Chinese delegates to the Peace Conference charged that while their ship was lying in the harbor of Yokohama their baggage was rifled and their copies of the secret treaties that they were taking to Paris were stolen. This feature of the affair comes in for a good deal of attention. The Memphis Commercial Appeal writes:

"Speaking of card playing and diplomacy—for they have many psychological similarities — the heathen Chinee will have to surrender his laurels to his slant-eyed Japanese brother.

"The Chinese delegates to the Peace Conference left home with their grips filled with copies of malevolent secret treaties showing how the Flowery Kingdom had conspired against the land of Confucius. On their way to Paris they passed through Japan. When they arrived at Versailles they opened their baggage, to find that all of the telltale secret documents had been extracted. And subsequent proceedings interested them no more.

"The Japanese idea is that opportunity is now ripe for cushing China out of all her iron mines, railroads and other productive assets worth having. It seems to be a plain case of the big bully and the little boy, and it may be readily believed that the sympathies of the Allied powers are with China."

How to Keep Age-Lines and Wrinkles Away

Don't forget that the woman who smiles will have a skin more free from wrinkles than the woman who frowns. When wrinkles begin to appear it is a good plan to bathe the face once a day for awhile in a harmless solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel.

This is remarkably effective in erasing the hateful lines, not only because of its astringent action which tightens the skin and thus irons out the lines, but also because of a helpful tonic effect which improves capillary circulation and nerve tone. There is nothing better for flabby cheeks or chin. Be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered saxolite.

Rank extravagance.

It has been truly said that a man who earns his own money knows how to value it; and the same may be said of a woman who puts up her own preserves.

"Mercy me!" exclaimed Aunt Mary. "How can the President be so extravagant with other people's money?"

"Why what's the matter, Auntie?"

"Only think of keeping those pesky Indians on Government preserves!"—Lippincott's.

Two Viewpoints.

"Marriage, you know," she said archly, "is one grand sweet song."

"Rather say," the humorist retorted, "one grand sweet refrain—refrain from poker, refrain from tobacco and refrain from booze water."—New York Tribune.

The Obviously Proper Place.

"This picture," he said, stopping before one of his early efforts, "is one I painted to keep the wolf from the door."

"Indeed!" replied the woman. "Then why don't you hang it on the knob, where the wolf can see it?"—Houston Post.

IN THE SPRING

When Energy and Vitality are Lowest, then—Influenza!

(By S. C. BOWER, M. D.)

At this time of the year people feel weak, tired, listless, their blood is thin, they have lived indoors and perhaps expended all their mental and bodily energy and they want to know how to renew their energy and stamina, overcome headaches and backaches, have clear eyes, a smooth, ruddy skin and feel the exhilaration of real good health tingling thru their bodies. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against ills of all kinds. You are apt to suffer from an attack of Influenza if your health is run down.

Purify the blood and you can defy influenza. This is the time to clean house and freshen up a bit.

Drink hot water ½ half hour before meals, and for a vegetable tonic there's nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the old-fashioned herbal remedy, which has had such a fine reputation for fifty years. It contains no alcohol or narcotics and is made into tablets and liquid. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. for trial package.

STRATFORD, ONT.—"For many years I suffered with neuralgia. It would affect my head, extending down into my neck and shoulders. I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and was completely cured. I have also taken 'Pleasant Pellets' and found them an excellent remedy for constipation, bilious attacks, also stomach and liver troubles. They seem to regulate one's whole system. Ever since I can remember Dr. Pierce's medicines have been used in my family. I am always ready to recommend them."—W. J. Zaine, 321 Railway Avenue.

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE. CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfect health."

Monthly Income Insurance

Is your wife an experienced financier? If not, take your insurance on the income plan.

Is your wife better at saving than at spending? If not, take income insurance.

When a man dies there are three deaths:—

The death of a husband.
The death of a father.
The death of the income.

If your insurance is paid in one sum how long will it last?

For husband and wife who have no dependants the life income contract on the endowment form is the best policy. At the end of twenty years the income will begin. It will sustain them both as long as they live, and will provide a life income for the survivor if one should die.

A DUKE'S REVENGE

It Gave to Germany Her Most Distinguished Regiment.

THE DEATH'S HEAD HUSSARS.

Organized Originally by Frederick William of Brunswick, Napoleon's Deadly Foe, the Famous Body of Cavalry Fought Its Way to Renown.

The curt refusal of Napoleon I. to allow Frederick William, duke of Brunswick, to bury the body of his exiled father in his native land inspired the organization of the Death's Head hussars, the most famous regiment in the present German army.

Deeply moved by the ungracious act of the despotic Napoleon, Frederick William, after his first paroxysm of indignation and rage had subsided, vowed eternal vengeance against the French conqueror, and until the day of his death, which was June 16, 1815, on the field of Quatre Bras, he was Napoleon's most implacable foe in all the German states.

Brunswick being barred to him by the victories of the relentless French invader, Duke Frederick William repaired to Bohemia after his father's death. He was without funds, but through the efforts of his sister, then princess of Wales, English funds found their way to him, and he was enabled to set on foot the plans he had formed to revenge himself upon his enemy.

All Germany was then under Napoleon's feet. His armies had swept away all opposition. Prussia, Brunswick, Bavaria, Saxony, all the states were mere vassals of France. But though conquered or subjugated their hatred of the oppressor was intense, and underneath the surface a fire of hatred smoldered, which the duke helped to fan into the blaze that eventually sent Bonaparte to St. Helena.

The duke announced himself as Napoleon's foe. Men flocked to his standard. He organized and equipped 2,000 cavalrymen and, in memory of his father, clothed them in black. A silver skull and crossbones adorned their hussar headdress, and the silver lace slashings of the jackets were placed to resemble the ribs of a skeleton.

"The Black Brunswickers" they were called. With the gallant duke at their head they began a guerrilla warfare that was a continual worry to the French armies. Von Stein, Scharnhorst and others gave them secret encouragement.

Through Saxony, Hesse and Hanover the troopers gobbled up and put to the sword French detachments. Recruits flocked to them. At Berneck the duke gave battle to the French General Junot and whipped him. All Germany thrilled at the romantic accounts of the daring of the terrible "Black Hussars."

A Saxon army was whipped at Zittau and another force at Halberstadt. A regiment had grown into an army, the only one Napoleon's troops could not corner and whip. The duchy of Brunswick was invaded and the French garrison alarmed. Leipzig was surprised and captured.

Until the battle of Wagram the duke and his hussars rode over Germany at will. That victory gave Napoleon more time to devote to them, and the duke was forced to flee to England. But the "Black Hussars," with the death's head on their caps, continued the warfare in scattered bands. They were welded into a brigade in 1814 and, as a part of a division in the allied army commanded by the Duke of Brunswick, rode into Paris after Napoleon's downfall.

They fought again during the hundred days. The Duke of Brunswick did not live to see Napoleon's complete humiliation. He died on the field of battle while trying to rally some recruits who started a stampede at the first French fire.

The fame of the hussars had reached such a point that the organization was continued in the Prussian army. Today its colonel is the crown prince of Germany, and among its officers are princes of a dozen reigning German families.

The regiment presents a splendid appearance on parade, its picturesque uniform, of which the skull and crossbones on the headdress are the most striking attractions, imparting to the dashing cavalrymen a sinister and startling effect.—Kansas City Times.

The Walrus' Defenses.

A full grown walrus will weigh as much as 2,000 pounds, a mountainous mass of muscle and blubber. He is armed with tusks of ivory sometimes two feet in length, and when from his upreared bulk these formidable weapons are plunged downward upon an enemy they are as ruthless as the drop of a guillotine. Such a thick layer of blubber lies under the skin that he is practically clad in an armor impervious to teeth and claws alike. —St. Nicholas.

Flight of a Bullet.

The same projectile propelled by the same power will travel farther if projected vertically than if projected on a horizontal line four feet from the ground. Thus a bullet fired vertically with a velocity of, say, 100 feet per second, will ascend to a height of 153.3 feet, while if fired with same speed horizontally four feet from the ground will strike the earth at a distance of fifty feet.—New York American.

WE know that no woman will use a Sugar for any other reason than that supplied by its intrinsic merit. We realize that the "Made in Canada" claim counts for nothing unless backed up by real quality. Thousands of Canadian women are using Dominion Crystal Sugar—and insisting that their Grocers supply it in preference to any other; solely because they have found it to be a superior product.

These women, when they learn that this Sugar that they like so well—is made from Canadian Sugar Beets, are delighted to find that the Brand which gives them unfailing satisfaction—in the kitchen and on the table—is the Sugar that is "Canadian from the ground up."

You do not know how fine a Sugar can be until you have tried this brand.

Not all Dominion Crystal Sugar is made from Sugar Beets. We do import raw Cane Sugar, and we refine it in the same three refineries that produce our "Beet" Sugar. But our pride is in the product we make from Canadian Sugar Beets. There is none better.

Write for our beautiful book entitled: "Sugar from Beet to Bowl." It tells the interesting story of Dominion Crystal Sugar and how we make it in our modern and splendidly-equipped refineries. The book is free—write for it.

No Hindu Cousins.

All able-bodied members of the Hindu family must contribute their labor and earnings, whether of personal skill or agriculture and trade, to the common stock; weaker members, widows, orphans and destitute relations, all must be maintained and supported; sons, nephews, brothers, cousins, all must be treated equally, for any undue preference is apt to break up the family.

We have no word for cousins—they are either brothers or sisters—and we do not know what are cousins two degrees removed. The children of a first cousin are young nephews and nieces just the same as the children of your brothers or sisters. The family affections, the family ties, are always very strong, and therefore the maintenance of an equal standard among so many members is not so difficult as it may appear at first sight.

Moreover, life is very simple. Until recently shoes were not in general use at home, but sandals without any leather fastenings. I have known of a well-to-do middle class family of several brothers and cousins who had two or three pairs of leather shoes between them, these shoes being only used when they had occasion to go out, and the same practice is still followed in the case of the more expensive garments, like shawls, which last for generations, and with their age are treated with loving care, as having been used by ancestors of revered memory.

The joint family remains together sometimes for several generations until it becomes too unwieldly, when it breaks up into smaller families, and you thus see whole villages peopled by members of the same clan. —Bhupendranath Basu in Journal of the Royal Society of Arts.

Our Fire Losses.

Fire losses are greater in Canada than in any other part of the world, and greater in Ontario than in any other part of Canada. A recent report contains figures showing the various fire loss per capita in the different countries in the world in 1916. In Canada it amounted to 3.24, while in Ontario it was $4.61; in the United States, $2.26; Great Britain, 64 cents; Russia, 27 cents, and Germany, 28 cents.

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy, lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

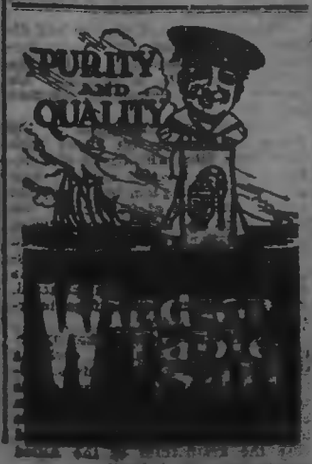
If a rich man tells you that the greatest happiness is found in poverty, remind his of what David said in his haste.



POWER OF PREJUDICE.

The Reason Why People "Don't Like" and "Can't Eat."

To a far greater extent than we admit, or possibly are aware of, man is governed by his prejudices. They cost him more than he knows, for a prejudice is an expensive proposition. In no other respect is this weakness so apparent as in the matter of food. During the reign of the food administration many people were persuaded or beguiled into eating things they had never eaten before and thought they "didn't like." "I'll try anything—once!" was regarded as a liberal-minded concession to the unfamiliar. Yet our likings are almost universally a matter of habit established by repetition. Few of us have taken kindly to caviare, avocado pears, or even olives, on first acquaintance.

When the use of whale meat was first urged upon the public, people laughed and quoted:

He baited his hook with tiger's bulk,
And sat on a rock and fished for whales.

Whale meat is purchasable in many parts of Canada, but where is the steward or chef brave enough to place it on a hotel menu? As a matter of fact, there is nothing in the slightest degree objectionable to eye, nose or palate in whale steak, as those unprejudiced may quickly learn. It resembles corned beef—possibly a little less so, and broiled and served with a sauce, either drawn butter or a lemon sauce, is tasty enough for a second helping, once we have overcome our dread of the untried. That this meat will eventually be recognized as a food adjunct is indicated by two large canneries doing a good business on the Pacific Coast and the concessions granted to the syndicate supplying them.

The flesh of the shark is said to resemble that of the sturgeon — the fish that "goes to the Caesar's dish," but it's cannibalistic reputation, firmly fixed in the popular mind, is against it. Man's dread of the gastronomically untried is only equalled by his curiosity, which after all gets the better of his fears. Truly, he was a brave man who first swallowed a raw oyster.

Prejudice plays a large part in our food purchases. Take the case of Butter versus Oleomargarine. Experts in the former have been known to fail in ability to distinguish the two, yet we are willing to pay 20 per cent. more for butter than for the substitute. The prejudice against goods from storage helps bolster the cost of living. Were it not for storage facilities butter and eggs to-day would be luxuries for the very rich only. The public was recently reliably informed that storage eggs had proved fresher than fresh eggs. The rabbit would furnish food as well as fur if our "don't like" did not stand in the way. As a matter of fact, our "can't eat" and "don't like" are mainly psychological states fixed in habit and prejudice.

Fifteen Planes for Canada.

At the Hendon Airdrome Sir Edward Kemp received from Lord Londonderry, representing the air ministry, fifteen airplanes, subscribed by Canadian and overseas British residents through the Overseas Club. Seven of these were presented by friends of the club living in Canada. The club during the war has given the Government a total of 172 machines.

Sir Edward Kemp, in accepting the machines, assured the donors that Canada could be depended upon to develop the air service, both commercially and in a military sense, to as great an extent as any other part of the Empire. He mentioned that the Imperial Air Service had received over 5,000 officers from Canada, 1,200 being selected from the Canadian forces, 4,280 recruited directly in Canada, and 3,000 privates transferred from the Canadian to the Imperial Air Force.

The speech making was occasionally drowned by the noise of planes overhead doing exhibition stunts. Several officers of the two Canadian squadrons now awaiting despatch to Canada as complete units flew from Oxford to Hendon for the ceremony.

Perfume.

When you use perfume and call it such, do you think how the name came about? It means in Latin, "from smoke," and the name proves that the first perfumes were only aromatic woods or gums that scented the air when burned.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Brought to a Decision

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

The telephone is a great institution, specially in the country, where they have a wire that conveys everybody's messages and everybody can hear everybody else's message. The way they distinguish between calls for different persons is by signal. For instance, Amos Tucker's call will be two long rings, the Widow Fowler's a long and a short call, and so on, like the Morse telegraphic alphabet.

But those owning telephones are apt to listen not only to their own but to their neighbors' calls. If the Andersons are called there is a number of clicks all along the line.

Now, it happened that Enoch Dawson, living in a region supplied by the Farmers' Telephone company, took up the receiver and called one of his two best girls, Edna Perkins, whose signal was a short, a long and a short ring. It happened that all at the Perkins farm were out milking or attending to some other farm duty, but Sarah Short, the other of Enoch's best girls, heard the ring and went to the telephone.

"Is that you, Edna?"

Miss Short recognized Enoch's voice. "Yes," she replied. "What is it, Enoch?"

"Oh, nothing much. I just called you up to have a little chin-chin. We got a calf this mornin'—the brindle one."

"You don't mean it! What was the matter?"

"Don't know. Tuk sick and died. Say, Ed, how would you like to go out with me Sunday afternoon in my buggy? I just had it painted."

"I dunno. But I reckon Sallie Short wouldn't like to have you take me out, if she should see me she might git mad."

"That doesn't make any difference to me. Let her git mad if she likes. Reckon I kin stand it."

"Where would I come in? But Short when she gits riled is terrible. She'd go round tellin' everybody that I butted in between you and her and tuk you away from her. No, sir-ee. I don't do anything underhanded. If you want me to go ridin' with you regular it's a go, but I don't intend to keep company with a feller as can't decide between two gals. Goodby."

There was a click, and Enoch was left talking to nothing; at least nobody answered him.

It so happened that Edna Perkins came in while this dialogue was in progress and, thinking to call up Enoch, took up the receiver. Hearing his voice she said nothing, but listened, hearing the principal part of the foregoing dialogue and recognizing, which Enoch did not, her rival's voice. When the conversation ceased Edna hung up the receiver, but later called Enoch.

"Well, who is it?" he asked.

"I'm Sallie. What you goin' to do Sunday afternoon, Enoch? Can't you come round about 4 o'clock and stay to supper?"

"I don't think I can. I've got an engagement."

("Oh!"

"Yes, I'll be occupied all the afternoon."

"Somepin goin' on between you and Edna Perkins, I reckon."

"Well, yes. I dunno. I asked her to go out for a ride with me, but I dunno if she's goin' to accept or not."

"H'm! Well, you may as well understand now as any time that if you want to keep company with Edna and me both at the same time you can't do it. You've got to stick to one or the other of us. You can accept my invitation for Sunday or let it alone, whichever you choose, but if you take Edna Perkins to drive on that day you needn't trouble yourself to come to see me any more."

There was a click, and once more Enoch was left to talk to nobody. But he heard a succession of giggles all along the line and a succession of clicks as a number of women, both young and elderly, hung up their receivers. The ears of the eavesdroppers were much sharper than Enoch's, and they knew that each of the rivals had said that if he didn't give her up the other would have nothing more to do with him.

The next Sunday afternoon the road between the Perkinses and the Shorts was lined with persons who had learned either from eavesdropping or from one another that Enoch Dawson would be forced to decide between two girls to whom he had been paying marked attention. Enoch's farm was connected by this road with the main road. At the junction were many persons watching to see which way he would turn on reaching the main road, whether he would turn to Edna's or Sarah's home. At 3 o'clock he was seen coming in his spick and span buggy. He noticed those waiting, but it did not occur to him that they were interested in his movements. When he reached the main road he pulled up and looked first in one direction, then in the opposite.

"Get up," he said at last, turning his horse's head toward the Perkins farm.

He was astonished at a shout from the loiterers: "Perkins has won!" "Built for Edna!" "Short isn't long enough!" and other such remarks.

Something was evidently wrong, and he colored, but drove on to the Perkins farm, where he found another party in waiting. They threw up their hats and cheered when they saw him coming.

Thanks to the telephone, his choice had been made.

Georgians of the Caucasus.

Though the Russians are the dominant race in the Caucasus, the aristocrats of the very mixed population of that region are the Georgians. A people of mysterious antecedents—their race, according to some ethnologists, being older even than the Egyptians—they stand upon a higher plane of civilisation and culture than any of their neighbors. Formerly Georgia was an independent kingdom, and its people, converted to Christianity in the fourth century, have never relapsed into the Mohammedanism of the surrounding tribes. Their golden age was the twelfth century, in the days of the great Queen Thamara. Now there are no more kings in Georgia, but an amazing number of princes. It is a Russian joke that every Georgian, whatever his occupation, boasts a title. It might be added, with more truth, that every Georgian is a poet.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Spirit of Sunlight

All over the land the sun calls forth beauty, cleanliness, health and the renewing of youth. So with Sunlight Soap in the home. It redeems everything washable from the thraldom of dirt. Renews beauty and brings out old colors. It cleanses with a sure, gentleness that only the purest of soaps could accomplish.

Sunlight Soap

Its mission—as thousands of homes know—is to wash clothes, from the finest to the coarsest, without rubbing or old-time labour and discomfort. Also to wash woodwork, linoleums, dishes, utensils, etc., spotlessly clean with only a little soap. All this because it is absolutely pure.

The spirit of Sunlight is purity and cleanliness.

THE SCALES OF JUSTICE.

How They Were Tipped in Favor of a Masculine Martyr.

The upright judge leaned forward and bestowed a look of supreme disgust upon the prisoner, a not unhandsome looking young man.

"The charge against you is that you have punctured the fair skin of this plaintiff with a needle. What have you to say for yourself?"

The prisoner, his face proud and haughty, drew himself up.

"It is true, your honor," he replied, "but I am not responsible."

"How so?"

"The facts are these. Not being able to afford an automobile, I am obliged, like a great many other American citizens, to travel in public conveyances. For many months now I have been continuously jabbed in the face, back, shoulders and arms by innumerable hatpins worn by total strangers. After enduring this thing for a long time the thought of revenge became settled in my mind. I lost my control and one day determined to take the defensive."

Here the prisoner broke down.

"Your honor," he sobbed, "it was wrong of me, but under this fearful ordeal my reason tottered."

The judge wiped away a tear.

"It is a sad case," he muttered as he noticed there was not a dry eye in the courtroom. "Send him to a sanitarium and let us hope that we may not share his fate."—Life.

What Could the Governor Say?

A local contributor cites a fresh example of the fashion in which the youth of today trips the unwary parent:

"Father," said the son home from college to his father, "I must have better rooms at college. Why, in the place I room now there isn't even hot water to shave with in the morning."

"Son, when I was your age I never had hot water to shave with. Did it when the weather wasn't too blooming cold, out in the front of the woodshed and made lather out of any old soap I could find."

"But, father," expostulated the son, "didn't you say you sent me to college that I might have the advantages you didn't have?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mothers should be very careful in buying a good rubber Nipple for the baby. A cheap Nipple will do a great amount of harm to the baby. The Nobility Nipple is transparent, and being packed each one in a box separately, is prefectly sanitary. The genuine Nobility Nipple has a red band around it. MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers —Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish, the eliminative tissue clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have sharp pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bed weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Finishing Touches

A mind may be brilliant, but if the personality is not pleasing it may never gain an opportunity to display itself.

And, what is true of the individual, is true of the material.

That is why we insist upon every product that leaves our factory being not only efficient in the things that are not seen, but in being perfect to the eye.

For this reason, we stimulate pride of craftsmanship right through our organization.

What's the result?

First, men stay with us. Second, they attract other good men to us. Third, they can earn better wages with us than they can anywhere else. Fourth, they enable us to maintain unequalled standards of production. Fifth, they are contented, yet progressive.

We tell you these things, because we want you to know the kind of an organization you are dealing with when you buy Dodge Transmission Equipment.

MORE CHANGES IN PEACE TREATY

Alterations are only minor: Summary May Be Published Thursday Morning.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

PARIS, May 6.—It has developed that changes were still being made in the peace treaty and that the changing process probably would be continued up to the last possible moment. It is understood that alterations are largely those of phraseology. Plans for making the treaty public textually are still vague, seemingly the only plan perfected with regard to publicity is the decision to give out ten thousand word digest of treaty for publication on Thursday morning.

What Dominion Friction Surfacing Means to Power Transmission

If you should measure the slippage of the ordinary transmission belting in your plant, you would find that the yearly power wastage is costing you a considerable sum of money in decreased production and increased cost.

Measure the slippage of Dominion Friction Surface Belting by the same method and you will find on comparing the results, that it has paid for itself in the saving of time and power.

Dominion Friction Surfacing is more than rubber waterproofing, it is a special friction compound that prevents practically all power wastage on the pulleys even under quick load changes.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting removes the cause of most transmission troubles, increases production—cuts upkeep costs and keeps employees contented.

At your convenience and without charge our engineers will show you how our better belts give the greatest service at smallest cost. Wire our nearest service branch and we will gladly prove our claims.

"DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR

Stop dandruff and double beauty of your hair for few cents.

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair appears soft, glossy and twice as thick and abundant. Try it!

CATTLE MARKET

Business was practically suspended at the Union Stock Yards yesterday as a result of the strike which took effect Monday. A few cattle left over from Monday, with seven cars of stock, including only 34 head of cattle, fresh arrivals, comprised yesterday's offerings. The cattle consisted of several mixed lots of butcher steers and heifers, which sold steady at the recent market prices, and a few loads of stockers and feeders, the latter selling at good firm prices a little in advance of last week.

There were no sheep and lambs offering.

Two or three decks of hogs were in the market offering at unchanged prices, but the packers were evidently not after hogs while the strike is on.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composee) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and 1-2 drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your scalp as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

Bolshevik Gunboats Bombard Allied Posts Before Ice Clears Away — Effect is Nil.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, May 6.—Advices from Archangel say that the activities of the Bolshevik gunboats are increasing, evidently with the object of making strong attacks on the Allied positions before the ice clears to permit the assistance to the Allies from British and American gunboats. All assaults so far have been defeated by Allies.

OLD BREAKFAST JOYS.

How dear to my heart are the fond recollections
Of breakfasts I ate as a boy—
The buckwheats, the syrup, the homely confections
That my childish taste would employ;
The coffee, with sugar and cream served so sweetly;
The rich flavored strawberry jam,
And the eggs, white and golden, all spread out so neatly
Alongside the freshly sliced ham!

No breakfasts have ever been quite like the old ones
I ate as a boy on the farm
A stranger, I've sat where the cakes have been cold ones,
The jam to be viewed with alarm
Were I a real poet I'd tune up my measures
To sing of those comforts long past,
To give rhythmic sway to the mem'ry of pleasures
Too dear and too perfect to last.

Yet why stir regret with so much of a chirrup
For pleasures we henceforth must lack?
Those buckwheats are vanished, the old maple syrup
Is sweetness that will not come back.
While the ham that of old was a morsel to cherish,
For which e'en a princeling might beg,
Would afford us a joy all too quickly to perish
Allied with the seven cent egg!

Shock Left Her Weak and Nervous

COULD NOT SLEEP

When the system receives a shock of any kind, the heart becomes weakened, the nerves unstrung, the appetite poor, faint and weak feelings come over you, you can't sleep at night, and you wonder if life is worth living.

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best remedy to tone up the entire system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. J. J. Bunyan, Pilot Butte, Sask., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills after having suffered from a terrible shock to my whole system. I was so utterly weak, and nervous I could not sleep at night, and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling all over.

I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on the second box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, I began to feel that they were doing me good, so I kept on until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a different person.

I am never without them in the house, and highly recommend them to all who suffer with their heart."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Attitude of Germans Was Intolerable Insult to Allied Delegates

Yesterday Was a Day of Humiliation for the Hun—Spokesman for German Delegation Did Not Stand While Making Address.

CONFERENCE NEWS

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 8.—After the conference at Versailles yesterday, Wm. M. Hughes, Premier of Australia, said, according to a Reuter despatch: "The attitude of Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau was an intolerable insult to the Conference, for while Premier Clemenceau spoke standing, the German spokesman did not rise while making his address. In spite of their intolerable arrogance this has been a day of humiliation for the Germans, which we could see had entered into their souls."

Wm. F. Massy, Premier of New Zealand, said: "The Germans were more impudent and aggressive than anything I have ever met."

After the conference, a despatch says, the fact that members of the Council of Four did not appear, made the crowd anxious, but it transpired they were holding a meeting and shortly after 4.30 o'clock they departed. M. Clemenceau's appearance was the signal for the first great wave of cheering of the day. Premier Orlando also received an ovation, but Premier Lloyd George, the last to leave, was given a more generous reception from the throng. President Wilson smilingly saluted the crowd as he went to his automobile. During the meeting Marshal Foch sat as though not heeding the proceedings, nursing his chin in his hand. He never looked toward the German delegates, his gaze apparently travelling through great windows to the beautiful country beyond.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON PRESS COMMENT

LONDON, May 8. — The Peace terms, while receiving considerable approval from London press, do not escape from sharp criticism on certain points. The objections centre mainly on the question of the financial compensation from Germany. Some of the newspapers are dissatisfied because they consider that the terms are too severe. Others think that they are not severe enough.

The morning Post finds it difficult to say whether the treaty is good or bad, and says Germany will certainly not accept it except under duress. The Post thinks that the indemnity conditions are unsatisfactory, and do not fulfill the election promises of the British government.

The Daily Mail fears that Great Britain will find the terms very far short of the pledges made by Premier Lloyd George.

On to Berlin.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 8.—A copy of the treaty is well on its way to Berlin. The German courier left at 9 o'clock last night bearing it, with Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau's first report on the negotiations.

PARIS, May 8.—Intimations reaching the peace conference from Versailles lead to the belief that two or three members of the German peace delegation will probably return to Germany to consult their government, the others remaining at Versailles. Germany has not yet submitted any communication with regard to the peace treaty. All exchanges between the delegation at Versailles and the home government are being kept secret.

The Austrian Treaty.

PARIS, May 8.—The Austrian treaty has begun to take form. Portions of it already have been drafted. It appears that instead of Germany being required to pay the entire indemnity demanded by the Allies, a considerable sum will be demanded of Austria, the estimate of this sum at present being five billion crowns (about one billion dollars). This indemnity provision and delimitation of frontiers of the new state will be the main features of the treaty now in the making. Provision is to be made for dividing Austria-Hungary's pre-war debt among the new states formed from territory formerly belonging to that Empire. The frontiers between German Austria and Italy and probably the Adriatic settlement will also figure in the Austrian treaty.

Washington Opinion.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 8.— The consensus of official gossip, public opinion and press comment in the United States is that although the terms of peace proposed to Germany are drastic and humiliating, they are not more so than the situation demands. It seems to be conceded on all sides that President Wilson has won one of his great arguments, by having the League of Nations agreement included in the treaty. Various opinions are expressed as to whether the Germans will sign the treaty or stick out for big modifications, but it is generally supposed that there is nothing to do but sign.

Hair Cutting in Peterboro

One Local Barber is of Opinion That Prices Will Not Advance

"A hair cut will cost only 35c", said a well-known barber this morning. The 50c price as outlined by the Barber's convention in Guelph is decidedly unpopular and I do not think that the price will go beyond the 35c stage. We were told" he continued, "when the price was advanced from 25c to 35c that a lot of hair cutting would be done at home but instead we have more business than we ever had."

Making Bid For Overseas Trade

Mr. Thomas Davies of Manchester, England, in City To-day.

'Business is picking up wonderfully,' stated Mr. Thomas Davies, who is registered at the Empress. Mr. Davies is a representative of the well-known Manchester firm of Rylands & Son Ltd., linen and cotton manufacturers. Mr. Davies, who is the first traveller of that firm in Canada since the war began, states that business is brisk in his country, the merchants showing a desire to get back to the English markets.

"Business is very brisk in England and we are making a big bid for the overseas trade," he continued. "The Canadian war tax of 5 per cent. is certainly irksome, he admitted, but in spite of that the Canadian dealer is willing to pay anything to get the genuine English product on his shelves again after four years of deprivation." Mr. Davies has travelled for the same firm for ten years in England and Wales and, although he did not state this himself, it is evident that the English companies are sending out their oldest and most experienced salesmen to this country in an effort to gain Canadian trade which Mr. Davies states can be better facilitated if the war tax is taken off British imports.

Mr. Davies came over on the Orduna and landed at New York, and this is his first visit on this side of the Atlantic. To-morrow he goes to Port Hope, and after working east again, will return to England. He intends to work Canada east regularly and will come on his second trip about the end of June or the first of July.

Special Prices To Continue

WE ARE STILL SACRIFICING WOOD IN ORDER TO CLEAR OUR YARD.

For the past two days our special prices in wood have created considerable new business with the result we have decided to continue these special prices all this week. We need the room in our yard when the sowing season opens in about two or three weeks' time. You can profit by our needs. With coal going to fourteen dollars a ton it stands to reason that wood will be dearer before it will be cheaper and the following prices which we quote for the remainder of the week should appeal to those in need of wood.

Slabs—Four dollars a load.
Mixed wood—Nine dollars a cord.
Hardwood—Ten dollars a cord.

ONE TIME TRAINER OF JOHN L. SULLIVAN DEAD

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., —F. A. Jackson, 67 years old, died at a hospital here on Friday. Jackson was a widely known athlete and acted as trainer for some of the best prize fighters of the ring. He trained and coached John L. Sullivan in many of his contests including his bout with "Paddy" Ryan, Ryan being a strong contender for the championship at the time.

WANT HYDRO RADIAL HERE

MEET AGAIN MAY 20

WHITBY, May 7.—By a resolution not on the minutes of the regular meeting the members of the conference of municipalities interested in the Toronto Eastern Railway, running from Bowmanville to Toronto, agreed at the close to have the secretary, F. Howard Annes, convene a meeting here next Tuesday week, May 20, with five delegates from each of the eight municipalities, to try and come to an agreement over the question whether the road should continue as a part of the Canadian National system or be turned over to the Hydro-Radial Commission of the province as part of the projected municipal railway from Toronto eastward to the St. Lawrence River district.

This action was the most tangible tribute paid to the Power Knight, Sir Adam Beck, by the thoroughly representative gathering here this afternoon under the auspices of the Hydro-Radial Association of Ontario.

Speaking for nearly two hours and in magnificient form, Sir Adam Beck carried completely with him 350 gatered from Peterboro, to Toronto, Markham, Stouffville, Port Perry and Whitby and intermediate places.

Vice-President A. F. Wilson of the association presided. Hydro Commissioner Geo. Wright and Controller Maguire, of Toronto, occupied seats on the platform, and the controller told in his forceful way how Toronto was deeply interested in this Eastern transportation problem.

There were many ladies present in addition to the delegates.

The only division taken was on the first motion, that a Hydro railway be constructed from Toronto, east to the St. Lawrence River region, and that the Government of Canada be requested to transfer on just terms the Toronto-Eastern to the Hydro Commission to form a portion of such Hydro-Electric municipal railway. Only ten and they wholly from Oshawa and Whitby, voted against. All others supported the motion, which was made by Mayor Duncan of Peterboro, seconded by Mayor Mitchell of Bowmanville.

A second resolution moved by Reeve Stonehouse of Port Perry, seconded by Reeve Ratcliffe of Stouffville, was that this meeting strongly petition the Dominion Government to co-operate with the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, so that municipalities, through commission, may acquire by lease, purchase or otherwise, such branch lines of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern Railway systems as will enable the municipalities to carry out the Hydro Radial scheme to the best advantage throughout the Province of Ontario.

This was adopted without division, as also were hearty votes of thanks to Sir Adam from two separate sets of movers.

More Improvement to Fair Grounds

Visitors Will Get as Pleasant a Surprise This Year as They Did Last Year.

The 1919 Board of the Peterborough Central Exhibition is making just as big an effort to do things to improve the grounds as has been done the two previous years.

Co-operation is one of the principles adopted by the Board to the greatest degree. During the past month the grounds to the East of the race track have all been plowed, harrowed and sown with grass seed.

As many as sixteen of the directors, representing the farmers section have been on hand at one time with their teams, plows, harrows, seeders, etc.

Work has been commenced on the new amusement stand and dressing rooms which will be a great improvement over the old will be in shape for the big May 24 demonstration to be held here by the Great War Veterans.

When the Exhibition opens on next September there will be just as many surprises in store for the crowd as there were last year.

President Denne and Mr. R. H. Turner have been interviewing merchants, manufacturers and others for subscriptions to the improvement fund and are extremely well pleased with the reception they are having.

Peterborough Fair is just about at the point when it is necessary to add another day in order that the crowds may be accommodated and the program run off. The citizens of Peterborough are now taking great pride in the Fair and the whole farming community are just as enthusiastic and doing everything in their power to make it the big Central Fair between Toronto and Ottawa.

Commission Visits City of Saskatoon

Few Men Out of Employment and No Strikes—Good Crop Prospects.

RAILWAY CENTRE

(By Main Johnson.)

SASKATOON, Sask., May 8:— Saskatchewan is the third province to be visited by the Industrial Relations Commission. The first glimpse here in Saskatoon, shows quieter conditions than in Alberta and much quieter than in British Columbia.

Saskatoon primarily is not an industrial centre. It is much more interested in the smiling, sunlit prairie where crop prospects are good, than any chimneys belching out black smoke.

The majority of employees in the city are engaged in railroad work, since this is a large railway centre. There is also a plant of the Quaker Oats Co., a few machine shops and, in addition, building and ordinary city trades. According to evidence presented to the Commission, there is less unemployed here than anywhere else visited so far. No official estimates were given, but outside guesses did not go beyond 250, compared with 700 in Edmonton, 1,000 in Calgary, 2,500 in Victoria and 10,000 in Vancouver. Even in proportion this gives Saskatoon a favourable position. There are no strikes here now and no cases of real antagonism were revealed.

Social Theories.

Official representatives of the Trades and Labour Council appeared and in moderate language told of their social theories rather than of specially bad conditions existing here at the present time. William Mill, President of the Trades Council, an electric worker was himself one of the unemployed, finding it difficult to get work again. He favoured production for use to be achieved by gradual process. Meanwhile if there was any attempt to reduce wages there would be serious trouble. Mr. Mill, and indeed none of the Labour witnesses were enthusiastic about the Whitley scheme. "I am grievously disappointed in it," said Mr. Mill. "It came in England with flourish, but it doesn't grant more than Labour has obtained [illegible] what we want until we use our own strength." J. J. McGrath, representative of the Plumbers, also had "not much faith" in the Whitley plan. It would not relieve the local cause of unrest. The discontent in working classes was due to increased education and thinking. Trade Unionists in Saskatoon used to look upon Socialism as "bunk," but since the war, workers were beginning to believe there was something in it that workers were getting only a small part of the wealth they produce. They felt that excessive profits were being taken out of the earnings of workers' labour.

The Mayor of the city, Mr. MacMillan, proprietor of a department store, commented on the fact that every witness was asked what they thought of the Whitley scheme. "It looks as if this scheme is under special consideration by the Commission," he thought. "We are merely inquiring," said Mr. Tom Moore, "it doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of the plan, or that we are going to recommend it in Canada."

Mayor MacMillan himself was not enthusiastic about the plan, although he had no particular objection to it.

SPIRITUALISM OF PAST AND PRESENT

The services at the Bethany Tabernacle on Sunday evening conducted by Rev. Mr. Doner, were well attended. The subject of ancient and modern Spiritualism was the theme. The preacher took for his foundation several passages from the old and new testament, showing God's displeasure at their evil practices of demon worship, combining the arts of magic, witchcraft, etc. He gave many illustrations showing how Satan and his demons tried to counterfeit the work and miracles of God, warning his hearers to avoid being deceived by those professing these doctrines. Good results will follow from these discourses and others that will follow on the Sunday evenings.

Frank McCullough Has Been Captured

Condemned Murderer Was Located in House on Bathurst Street, Toronto—Somebody Squealed.

EXCITING CAPTURE

TORONTO, Ont., May 8. — Frank McCullough, condemned murderer, who escaped from the Toronto jail three weeks ago, was captured to-day at House No. 78 Bathurst street, after an exciting encounter. A party of city detectives and constables surrounded the house in which McCullough was known to be. When it became known to McCullough that an attempt was to be made to take him, he jumped out of the window. As soon as he leaped Detective Cronin covered him with his revolver, and when McCullough reached the ground the revolvers of two other detectives were levelled at him.

Observing that escape was hopeless, McCullough threw up his hands, declared he had no weapons on him, and calmly allowed himself to be handcuffed, after which he was taken to the police station and later returned to the Toronto jail.

McCullough escaped on April 15 while awaiting the death sentence for the killing of Detective Williams. He was captured this morning at 10.45 by Detectives Bart Cronin, Tuft, Silverthorn and Armstrong at 78 Bathurst street.

A Last Effort.

The story of how the detectives captured their man reads well, in keeping with McCullough's previous amazing audacity. It appears McCullough has been in this house practically all the time since he escaped from jail. This morning the detectives, every one armed, as a fight had been anticipated, proceeded to the Bathurst street house. Detectives Cronin and Taft went in at the front door and were met by an elderly woman who was quite deaf and naturally did not hear the business of the detectives, Detectives Silverthorn and Armstrong went to the rear door so that McCullough would be covered in any rear exit. Going upstairs, Cronin and Tuft located McCullough, but on hearing the men coming upstairs [illegible] his last effort to escape. Running from his room down a short hall to a window in the rear of the house, he jumped from there to the ground, a distance of about twenty feet. As he fell, he was covered by Silverthorn and Armstrong with revolvers, who ordered him to throw up his hands. No struggle took place and McCullough was promptly handcuffed.

"I've got nothing on me," were McCullough's own words.

Appeared Happy.

A motor was waiting outside, McCullough was handcuffed, placed inside and rushed to detective headquarters at the City Hall. As he was taken from the car upstairs to Inspector of Detectives Guthrie's office, he was recognized by several of the police and the word spread throughout the hall in a few seconds that McCullough was captured.

Sitting in the detective office, McCullough appeared almost happy. He smiled considerably, but was very pale and appeared to have undergone considerable strain since his escape. He talked and joked with the detectives. He was wearing an old tweed cap, a red sweater coat, buttoned up close to his neck and an old pair of blue overalls. He wore an old pair of boots which had not been laced, either undone by detectives in event of a further race, or that he was taken by surprise at his home and did not have boots on. After he had been seen by Inspector Guthrie, he was taken to the rear of the detective office still handcuffed by Detective Cronin. Here he sat in the middle of the big room, Detective Cronin in front of him, and surrounded by quite a large crowd, who were later removed.

"Hello, Red."

One bracelet was undone by Detective Cronin while a small box lunch was brought in which McCullough handed over to a desk and commenced to devour almost ravenously. A glass of water was also brought in, and from the way McCullough ate the two saidwiches, banana and cake, it would appear that he had not had anything to eat for some time. As he ate, Detective Cronin talked to him and frustrated all attempts to hear what the murderer had to say.

"Hello Red," exclaimed McCullough as he recognized one of the Jeyiah interpreters of the police court. He greeted everyone with a smile and shook hands with one or two.

He appeared always weak from the lack of food and the room was consequently cleared while he finished his meagre lunch.

Cigarettes were given him, and he smoked and ate heartily.

Removed to Jail.

In the meantime, outside the detective office quite a crowd had gathered and were eagerly craning their necks in an effort to see McCullough, which was impossible. At eleven thirty he was re-handcuffed by Detective Cronin, and guarded by five and chained to Cronin he walked downstairs again to the side entrance of the hall. Here the new police car was awaiting, driven by one of the motor cycle police, and McCullough was placed in here, together with Detectives Cronin, Kos-

LOCAL DEPUTATION TO MILLBROOK

Cavan Council Favour Provincial Highway From Peterboro to Port Hope.

A deputation from the Good Roads Committee of the Automobile Association and the Board of Trade, composed of W. H. Bradburn, chairman, H. O. Fisk, secretary, and Captain Claude Rogers, waited upon the Cavan Township Council at Millbrook yesterday afternoon on behalf of the Port Hope to Peterborough Provincial Highway Scheme, and the Cavan Council unanimously passed a resolution petitioning the Ontario Government to take over this road as a Provincial Highway.

The committee feel very much encouraged with the Good Roads enthusiasm displayed at all points. Considerable road improvement is going on in Cavan and Hope townships at the present time; in fact, a log drag was noticed working in the streets of Millbrook, with splendid results.

Other Township Councils will be waited upon at the earliest opportunity with regard to this very important highway scheme.

Record of Former Peterboro Man

Among the old members of the 1st Canadian Machine Gun Battalion to welcome that unit on its arrival in Toronto on Monday last, was Capt. John A. Dewart, M.C., formerly of Peterboro County, and a son of Mrs. John Dewart, of Warsaw, Ont.

Captain Dewart was the principal of a public school at Niagara Falls, Ont., at the outbreak of the war and went overseas with the 86th M. G. Batt., of Hamilton. He served continuously for two years in France, and Belgium, and was awarded the Military Cross after the Battle of Paschendaele, in November, 1917. He was severely wounded at the Battle of Cambrai, when the 1st Canadian Division crossed the Canal de Nord, on September 27, 1918.

He returned home in January last, and now resides in Toronto, connected with the Imperial Oil Company.

Be On Hand To-night at the Benefit Concert

Frank Munden Deserves the Sympathy and Support of All Who Can Give It.

The fine concert to be given in the Victoria Hall to-night by well known local artists should draw a tremendous crowd just one of appreciation of the pluck shown by the young man for whom the affair has been arranged as well as for the merit of the entertainment itself. The whole proceeds are for the purpose of getting Mr. Munden an artifical foot as he has lost both his feet having had them amputated on account of rheumatism. He has always paid his way but has had more of the ill-luck in this life than usually comes to the average man and his friends and dozens of others who know him, are doing this for him. Try and be there or buy a ticket at Eddie Wright's Barber Shop or at the Examiner Office.

STRIKE ENDED YESTERDAY

Senator Robertson Meets Both Factions in Lengthy Conference —Board of Conciliation Will be Formed.

RETURN MONDAY

TORONTO, May 8. — The packing house strike ended yesterday. All the strikers have been reinstated and will return to work on Monday morning. This was the result of the conference between Senator Gideon Robertson, the employees and the packers, held in the King Edward Hotel yesterday.

Driving home, with argument upon argument his point that the packers could not consider the situation as a dispute between themselves and their workmen, but must adopt a national viewpoint in view of the general unrest throughout the world, Senator Robertson effected a settlement of the strike which has tied up the Toronto packing houses since Monday, and threatened the city food supply.

He brought out, according to one of the smaller packers, who claimed to have been held up by the "Big Five," many things which "they had never thought of." He was "the saviour of the day," said the packer.

Senator Robertson was assisted yesterday by Mr. E. N. Compton, the Fair-wage Officer of the Dominion Government, who had every detail of the situation from the standpoint of both parties in his possession.

The packers agreed to accept a Board of Conciliation, which will be formed immediately to adjust the dispute. They refused this board four weeks ago. When the negotiations opened they were willing to meet a committee of the union and negotiate but the men stood for a Board of Conciliation, since with a hundred per cent .organization it would mean recognition of the union if the packers refused to recognize the union when this point was brought up.

A REPATRIATION COMMITTEE.

As a result of the opinion reached by Mr. W. Jarvis, Field Secretary of the G.W.V.A., in regard to the unemployment situation here as it affects returned soldiers, to which reference is made elsewhere on this page, the local branch of the G.W.V.A. intend to ask the Peterborough Board of Trade to be responsible for the formation of a local Repatriation committee. This is a step that has been advocated on several occasions by the Examiner as a method that promised to facilitate the assimilation of the soldiers as they came back but up to the present, nothing has been accomplished and matters have been allowed to drift along until the situation here is described by the G.W.V.A. Field Secretary as the worst he has found in the province. There has been no committed effort to deal with the problem of finding employment for the men who fought, and with no main directing body naturally the results have not been as satisfactory as they should have been. A Repatriation committee such as the G.W.V.A. will ask the Board of Trade to form could be made a very useful and effective body if the proper men are selected and they take hold of the task in a manner fitting to the importance of the work they will have to undertake.

A SIGNIFICANT JOKE.

The "garden" which some inventive genius established in a hole in the pavement on Hunter Street the other day has provided many citizens with an opportunity to smile and that may satisfy the ambitions of the bright mind which planned the joke. It will not have served its full purpose, however, if it does not act as a jolt to the City Council and convince that body that it is high time that the particular hole in question and many others in the sidewalks and roads of Peterboro should be repaired. These gaps are unsightly and dangerous and they are increasing in number without any apparent intention of filling them. Neglected streets and sidewalks are a poor advertisement for any community and visitors who size up a place on its face value are not likely to take away a favorable impression of Peterboro if they are to judge by the conditions of the pavements. The Hall of Wisdom "Park," is a suggestive little bit of nonsense, the significance of which should not escape the attention of the City Fathers. There are many other holes in the city that might be decorated in a similar fashion and the result would be some rather dubious publicity for Peterboro.

CANADA'S NORTHLAND

It has been commonly assumed that of the 3,603,910 miles of Canada's land area, about half is uninhabitable wilderness, of no practical value except for the production of furs. This opinion is based partly on want of information about the northern half of this continental country of ours, and partly on lack of imagination. Vilhjalmer Stefansson, the Canadian Arctic explorer, says it is an erroneous idea. He is not only a man of imagination, but he has more intimate knowledge of northern Canada than any other living man.

This morning Mr Stefansson addressed an audience of senators and members of the House of Commons at Ottawa on the subject of northern Canada. The story he told and the suggestion he made for the utilization and development of this supposed wilderness is published in our news columns, and form one of the most stimulating utterances heard in this country for a long time. The explorer had already spoken to Hon. Arthur Meighen about the possibilities of our great north, and Mr. Meighen was so much impressed with what he heard that he wanted the members of parliament to hear it too, and arranged to have Mr. Stefansson address them to-day.

If the explorer's statements can be credited, there are a million square miles in Canada's Arctic and sub-Arctic region which can be utilized as pasturage ground for reindeer and musk-oxen. There are many, says Mr. Stefansson, who regard reindeer meat as the best in the world. As for the meat of the musk ox, it formed 90 per cent. of the food for his party, and it is not to be distinguished from beef. He proposes that herds of reindeer and musk oxen be located and developed at various points in the north. With care, their numbers would be doubled every two years. Growing in geometrical progression at this rate it would not take many years for comparatively small herds to multiply into millions. A hundred to a square mile would mean a hundred million of these valuable animals. Not only for their meat would they be valuable, but also for their hides and for the wool of the musk ox, possibly also for milk. Mr. Stefansson boldly declared that the northern half of Canada can be made one of the greatest food producing regions in the world. In addition he says that the region is rich in mineral deposits, and that the supply of fish in the lakes and rivers is practically inexhaustible.

The development of northern Canada is a work for the future, but it is not necessary to delay the beginning of that work. A start should be made at once, no matter if it be in only a small way. It is to be hoped that the revelations made by Mr. Stefansson will stimulate the government at Ottawa and the people's representatives into doing something practical towards the fulfillment of the explorer's dream.—Hamilton Herald.

GERMANY'S SENTENCE.

Germany has received her sentence. In the terms of the peace treaty handed to her representatives at Versailles yesterday, her people can realise the terrible results that the dream of world-power has brought them. It is reported that the German envoys were arrogant to the last, but a perusal of the terms will undoubtedly leave them in a different frame of mind. The wings of the German Eagle have been clipped for all time. Her army is to be reduced to 100,000 men, her navy is cut down to a size that renders her impotent on the seas, conscription is abolished, and no submarines may be retained by her. The military works at Heligoland are to be destroyed, all fortified works fifty miles east of the Rhine are to be dismantled, and the Kiel canal is to be opened to the world. Germany loses all her colonies, must return Alsace and Lorraine to France, hand over the rich Saar coal mines and Danzig is to be made a free city. Despite the full determination of the Allied claims, Germany must pay $5,600,000,000 as compensation. The ex-Kaiser is to be tried by an international tribunal and all persons accused of violation of the laws and customs of war are to be handed over to the Allies to be tried. Germany's punishment for the crimes that she has committed seems to be complete, and her power is to be permanently stamped out. The Germans have fifteen days in which to consider their decision, but there is only one answer looked for. The beaten Prussians will have to sign; there is no other course open.

WORK FOR VETERANS

The statement of Mr. W. Jarvis, the Field Secretary for Ontario of the Great War Veterans Advisory Committee to the Repatriation Committee of the Dominion Government, that the unemployment situation in Peterboro as regards the returned soldier is more serious than in other centres he has visited is scarcely one upon which the city can pride itself. Mr. Jarvis whose mission it is to investigate conditions among returned soldiers so that the Advisory Committee can intelligently report the facts to the Repatriation Board, has studied the situation in many of the cities and towns of the province and his findings in the place which he has officially visited as compared with his impression of the conditions here are scarcely be regarded as favorable to Peterboro. Mr. Jarvis points out that there is, of course, considerable unemployment everywhere in Ontario, but in other centres the returned soldiers are being given more preference than they are in this city and are being assimilated quicker. The first chance is given the man who has been overseas with the result that while the man who did not enlist may be having as much difficulty in securing a position elsewhere as they are here, the returned soldier is on the other hand being better looked after. This is the impression of the Great War Veterans official investigator and as gained from his inquiries on behalf of the Advisory Committee and Mr. Jarvis should be in a position to know whereof he speaks. The charge that the citizens of Peterboro, especially those who are employers, are not as sympathetic and kindly in their dealings with returned soldiers as are the people of other cities, coming from such a source as it does is not to be lightly passed over. Those who are in a position to remedy the conditions complained of should consider whether or not they are responsible for a situation that makes such a charge possible.

It is not creditable to a city which has had such a splendid record for furnishing men for Canada's army that the report should have to go out that the community failed in its task of repatriating the men who set that record.

Telegram Sent to Mr. J. H. Burnham

Local Hebrews Protest Against Proposed Immigration Bill.

The following is the text of a telegram sent to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., by the local Hebrews, containing a protest against the proposed Immigration Bill:

J. H. Burnham, Esq., M.P.,
House of Commons,
Ottawa, Ont.

Would ask you to consider or support following objections to Immigration Act amendments:

1st. Welfare of Canada depends on wholesome, healthy immigration to develop our country's natural resources and promote industries. Literacy test not most efficient method selecting immigrants. Energy, ambition and industry make best citizens, education follows opportunity.

2nd. An immigrant's attitude towards autocratic land of birth, no criterion of desirability for citizenship in free, enlightened country. Cruel conditions under which Jews live in Eastern Europe make strict application of amendment six a grave injustice; exacting Jew extremists, great mass of Jewry have always been powerful element behind moderate policies.

3rd. Jewish people number fourteen million, of which three quarters live in Allied countries and have contributed their proportion, in sacrifice to Allied cause. Recognized by England and Allies as a distinct people, special consideration should be made in amendment section 3, sub-section 8, for Jews.

4th. Canadian welfare opposes adoption of section 13, permitting exclusion of whole nationality, race religious sect, specified class or occupation. Parliament may if necessary legislate on matter and prevent danger of international complications.

5th. Loss of domicile after five years' absence considered undesirable.

6th. Section 3, sub-section 6 K. should be followed by schedule defining conditions and diseases intended.

7th. Paragraph 23 repugnant to spirit of British fair play, and would encourage espionage, bribery and clothe petty officials with powers subject to abuse.

(Signed) "N. Sukieff,"

Returned on a Visit to Peterboro

Capt. and Mrs. A.W.O. Stewart returned to the village on Tuesday from overseas. They were passengers on the "Metagama." Capt. Stewart left Lakefield in November 1914 and sailed for England almost directly afterwards. After some months spent in England he was transferred to the 1st Infantry Battalion where he served for the remainder of the war. Mrs. Stewart went overseas in the late autumn of 1915 in company with Mrs. F. W. Blakeman also of Lakefield. Capt. and Mrs. Stewart are renewing old acquaintances in Lakefield.

A HOLIDAY YOU WILL APPRECIATE

The Muskoka Lakes have won a commanding place among the summer playgrounds of this continent. They draw their devotees each season from every centre of importance in Canada and the United States. The Muskoka group is composed of three large lakes and some smaller ones. The principle lakes, often called "The Three Graces," are Rosseau, Joseph and Muskoka. When you consider that Muskoka resorts are within three and a half hours ride by the Grand Trunk from Toronto, and proportionately accessible from many other large centres, no more delightful trip can be planned. A pleasant journey by train; a delightful sail of from one to four hours through beautiful lake and island scenery; a sojourn at a well conducted hotel or boarding house; indulging in such recreations as golf, bathing, sailing and fishing. For full particulars and booklet regarding this territory apply to Grand Trunk Agent, or C. B. Horning, D. P. A., Toronto, Ont.

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.

Swallowing the Railways

(By B. F. GADSBY.)

A gulp or two—the Government had to choke the thing down with the closure—and the bill incorporating the Canadian National Railways Company passed the House. The bill having been rendered, so to speak, all Canada had to do now is to pay it. Our experiment in public ownership will cost us seventy million dollars this year in repairs and betterments, and there's more to follow.

No doubt the Government will give us a chance to invest in railway bonds from time to time and show how much we love our country at five per cent. or better. One of the speakers alluded to our latest acquisition as a half billion dollar elephant. An elephant like that eats a lot of hay, but nobody will complain if it does the work and shows results. It is quite true that its chief feeder—or what ought to be its chief feeder—that is to say the thing it rakes the hay together with—in other words, the Grand Trunk—is not an integral part of our elephant yet, but we have hopes.

The Act is wide enough to take in any elephant or any part of an elephant, and although our elephant's feet are hobbled to the extent that he is not allowed to underbid the C.P.R. on freight rates, the time may come—not yet nor very soon—when public ownership of railways will accomplish its real purpose, which is service, not dividends.

Meanwhile there will be fifteen directors on the board of the Canadian National Railways Company—not a labour man among them—and the one shareholder will be the Dominion of Canada to whom the directors will report via the Governor-in-Council. This means that the directors' meetings will be about as public as directors' meetings usually are. When admitting that the Dominion of Canada is the only shareholder—indeed, the Government made no attempt to deny it—Sir Thomas did not take the House into his confidence on the subject of the bondholders—the canny fellows, for example, who bought up C.N.R. bonds at forty cents on the dollar and now find them at par because Canada stands behind them. Naturally, the Act said nothing about these lucky dogs; it would have been an unkind Act if it had, and very cruel to some good friends of Union Government.

Perhaps it was a certain nervousness that the House might get round to this ticklish subject that suggested the closure to Mr. Meighen, who has the kind of disposition to which closures appeal. The House has been dawdling over all sorts of small stuff, wasting daylight and electric light worth a thousand dollars an hour to the ratepayers on any kind of piffle that would stave off the tariff until Premier Borden could get back with five cents on the dollar—or less—and becloud all the other issues. The Government has had all sorts of time to squander on knighthood debates and Sir Sam's little quarrels, but as soon as it got round to the Canadian National Railways Company it was in such a devil of a hurry that Mr. Meighen had to clap the closure on before the question was fairly opened. The closure has not been used since 1913, when it was employed to expedite Premier Borden's Dreadnoughts which never got near the water, having done all their fighting in the House of Commons.

The closure, as I remember it, is always trotted out when there is a Menace to be discussed. The menace in this case was not, I take it, public ownership, but the want-to-know spirit which makes sarcastic remarks about the nigger in the woodpile when the Government refuses to answer questions. Sir Thomas, it is true, carried the war into Africa when he hinted that the Opposition was in love with the C.P.R., whereas the Government doted on public ownership, but the words of the man who made the famous speech on Naboth's vineyard did not carry conviction. In short, there was considerable dissembling.

On the other hand, there is no doubt that the Government has a real affection for the C.N.R. Those who think that the National Railway Company's Act gets rid of Mackenzie and Mann have another guess coming. In some slight disguise or other, we have these two gallant gentlemen always with us. We can't lose them any more than we can Sir Joseph Flavelle or the high cost of living. There is no woodpile on Parliament Hill where these two blackbeards do not lurk. Last session we had them with us collecting the Last Ten Million, which was considerably easier to round up than Premier Borden's Last One Hundred Thousand which never got to the Front. This session they are still with us under various aliases and alibis. Not only are they with us, but their lawyers also and their lobbyists and the other friends of public ownership who drew nourishment from their pay-roll.

They are with us in the shape of Z. A. Lash, K.C., who drew up the Canadian National Railway Company Act with his own fair hands. Mr. Lash, as everybody knows, hates the Canadian Northern as a cat hates cream, and this Act of his is a masterpiece. There are clauses in it which enable the Government to do almost anything for the people or with them—to snuff out Sir Adam Beck, for instance, or to unload the Toronto Street Railway on the Dominion of Canada as a work of general utility. Much as they love public ownership, Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann are in no danger of losing money by it. What profits there were in promoting the C.N.R. they took. What profits there were in building the C.N.R. they took also. What profits there are in tinkering the cripple they will take too, and when nosey members of Parliament ask the Minister of Railways who the Northern Construction Company is that he buys ties from, he will reply that it is not in the public interest to answer such questions. Foolish question No. 149: Why should it be in the public interest when Mackenzie and Mann are working for their own?

The National Railway Company Act, as I see it, merely operates to embed Mackenzie and Mann more firmly in the Canadian constitution. They are, so to speak, amendments to the British North America Act and are now an integral part of the national edifice. They are not only part of the national edifice, but they will take any contracts in connection therewith that can show a profit. They are not stingy—they do not want everything—far from it. Any losses they have they will gladly hand over to the Government. The C.N.R. is their latest donation.

Not only have these generous men handed over their railway—at a price—to their beloved country—but they have handed over the whole executive of the C.N.R. which now by a simple twist of the wrist becomes the brains of the Canadian National Railway company with Mr. D. B. Hanna as Managing Director. Whoa Mr. Hanna's salary is asked after, Sir Thomas White feigns forgetfulness. The Minister of Railways whom I remember once to have overlooked a little matter of ten million dollars in his railway budget, also professes loss of memory. A messenger, being hastily despatched for the facts, comes back with the information that Mr. Hanna's salary is $25,000 a year whereat they are surprised and grieved because it is such a small award for Mr. Hanna's great talents. That's what's the matter with Hanna—he is not getting enough money for his big job.

On this chorus of praise impinges Euler of Waterloo who suggests that the C.N.R. directorate is probably entrusted with the greater task of running the national railways because it did so well with the smaller task of running the C.N.R. into a hole. Mr. Euler has a pretty wit. Some people might call it logic. At all events it sounds reasonable.

The forty-four charters become ours too. The fact that Mackenzie and Mann had forty-four disused charters in their clothes when they went under the ice only goes to show what a brisk pair of collectors they were. One of these charters I am informed was for a two hundred and fifty mile railway of which thirty five miles had been built. Of course the subsidy on the other two hundred and fifteen miles had been cashed, so Mackenzie and Mann were not out of pocket.

Public ownership is to have a run for our money, but just what the run on our money is going to be is hard to tell because the railways are to do their own bookkeeping. In a word, they will check out of the consolidated revenue fund—if there are deficits; but they will not check in—if there are profits. The only open checking the national railways aim to do is in the baggage room.

ANNUAL MEETING IN GEORGE STREET

Teachers and Officers of the Sunday School Report Progress

The Annual Meeting of the Teachers and Officers of George Street Methodist Sunday School was held on Friday last. Supper was served at 6.30 p.m., by the members of Rev. Crookshank's Class.

Rev. A. D. Thomas presided over a good attendance.

Reports for the various departments showed the school to be in an exceptionally good condition, and the Executive are to be very much congratulated on their work during the past year. The average attendance for the year showed an increase over the previous year and the Financial report showed a good credit balance. Three hundred and seventy dollars was raised by the school for missions. The Sunday School Building Fund have over three thousand dollars in hand which amount has been raised entirely by the school, and it was unanimously decided to increase this amount to ten thousand dollars within the next five years. It is expected that plans will shortly be prepared for the new Sunday School Hall and that the work will soon be under way.

Mr. C. C. Parsons, the Superintendent was re-elected, and he will be supported by the whole present staff of teachers and officers.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSES SEVERE HEADACHES

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels, and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont. writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

STAR FACTORY BURNED DOWN.

The Star Cheese Factory, on the Marmora Road, was totally destroyed by fire early on Saturday morning from some cause unknown. The factory, which was owned by Mr. Wm. McMullen, who lived just across the road, was to have commenced operations on Monday morning. The loss will be $1,500.00, with insurance of $1,350.00.

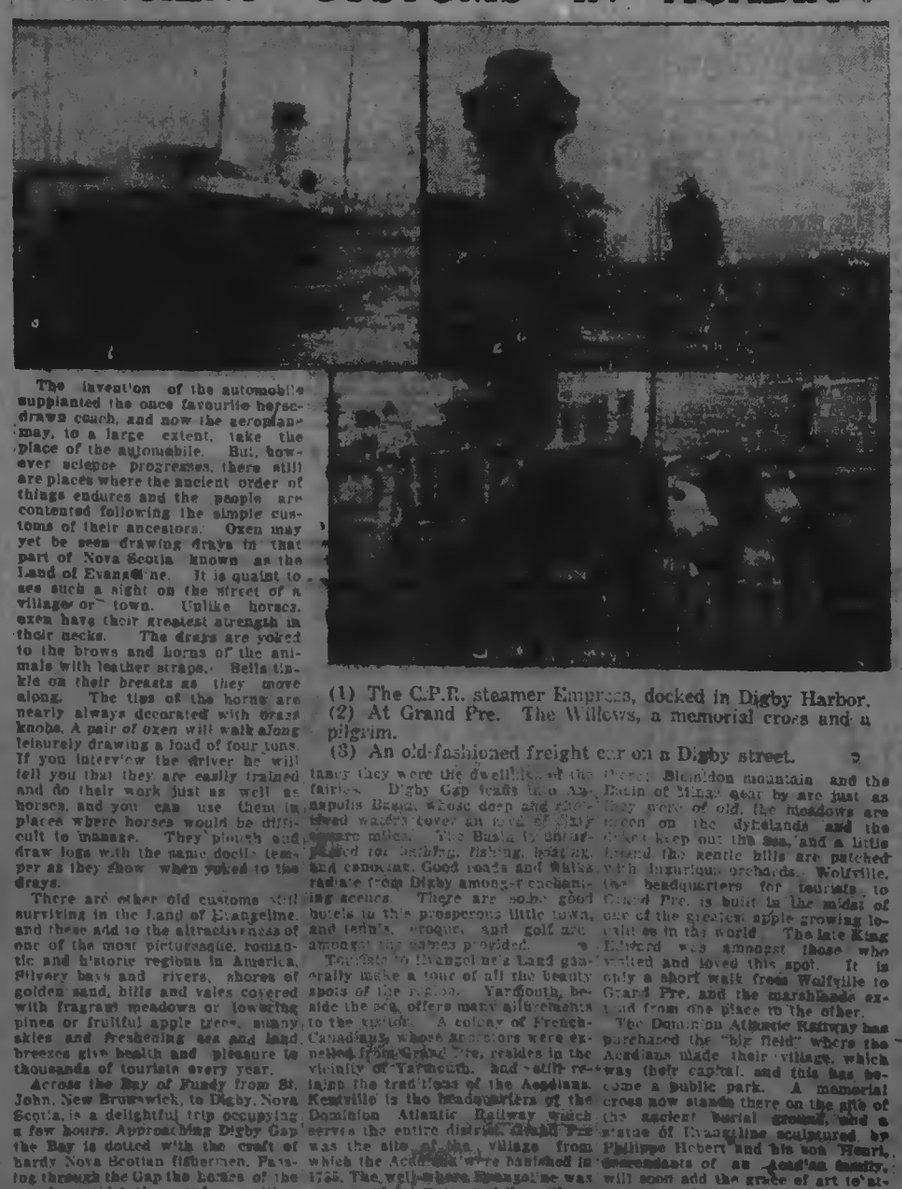
SPECIAL DISCOUNT TO RETURNED SOLDIERS

ANCIENT CUSTOMS IN ACADIA.



The invention of the automobile supplanted the once favourite horse-drawn couch, and now the aeroplane may, to a large extent, take the place of the automobile. But, however science progresses, there still are places where the ancient order of things endures and the people are contented following the simple customs of their ancestors. Oxen may yet be seen drawing drays in that part of Nova Scotia known as the Land of Evangeline. It is quaint to see such a sight on the street of a village or town. Unlike horses, oxen have their greatest strength in their necks. The drays are yoked to the brows and horns of the animals with leather straps. Bells tinkle on their breasts as they move along. The tips of the horns are nearly always decorated with brass knobs. A pair of oxen will walk along leisurely drawing a load of four tons. If you interview the driver he will tell you that they are easily trained and do their work just as well as horses, and you can use them in places where horses would be difficult to manage. They plough and draw logs with the same docile temper as they show when yoked to the drays.

There are other old customs still surviving in the Land of Evangeline, and these add to the attractiveness of one of the most picturesque, romantic and historic regions in America. Silvery bays and rivers, shores of golden sand, hills and vales covered with fragrant meadows or towering pines or fruitful apple trees, sunny skies and freshening sea and land breezes give health and pleasure to thousands of tourists every year.

Across the Bay of Fundy from St. John, New Brunswick, to Digby, Nova Scotia, is a delightful trip occupying a few hours. Approaching Digby Gap the Bay is dotted with the craft of hardy Nova Scotian fishermen. Passing through the Gap the homes of the people, amidst the woods on either side, look so pretty that one might fancy they were the dwellings of the fairies. Digby Gap leads into Annapolis Basin, whose deep and [illegible] waters cover an area of [illegible] square miles. The Basin is unsurpassed for bathing, fishing, boating and canoeing. Good roads and walks radiate from Digby among enchanting scenes. There are some good hotels in this prosperous little town, and tennis, croquet and golf are amongst the games provided.

Tourists to Evangeline's Land generally make a tour of all the beauty spots of the region. Yarmouth, beside the sea, offers many allurements to the visitor. A colony of French-Canadians, whose ancestors were expelled from Grand Pre, resides in the vicinity of Yarmouth, and still retains the traditions of the Acadians. Kentville is the headquarters of the Dominion Atlantic Railway which serves the entire district. Grand Pre was the site of the village from which the Acadians were banished in 1755. The well-where Evangeline was wont to go for water and the willows under which the rested are still [illegible] Blomidon mountain and the Basin of Minas gear by are just as they were of old, the meadows are [illegible] on the dykelands and the [illegible] keep out the sea, and a little inland the gentle hills are patched with luxurious orchards. Wolfville, the headquarters for tourists to Grand Pre, is built in the midst of one of the greatest apple growing localities in the world. The late King Edward was amongst those who visited and loved this spot. It is only a short walk from Wolfville to Grand Pre, and the marshlands extend from one place to the other.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway has purchased the "big field" where the Acadians made their village, which was their capital, and this has become a public park. A memorial cross now stands there on the site of the ancient burial ground, and a statue of Evangeline sculptured by Philippe Hebert and his son Henri, descendants of an Acadian family, will soon add the grace of art to attractions of a haunt where nature has lavished her rarest charms.

THE PROPOSED SCHOOL SITE

Mr. Editor:—Regarding the Chamberlen property that the School Board have suggested suitable for their purpose, let us look at this matter from a businessman's standpoint and also from the Chamberlen standpoint. Of course, the owners are not bound to sell to the School Board or any person else; but as they cannot take it with them it is natural to look at it and see what they can make of it if they put it in the market. First, the situation . it is good for some purposes, but it is not good for others. It will never be "nobby" property as the outlook is on factories, and the homes of factory workers.

It has stood there for 70 years and was not been in demand until the factories came, so that if put in the market the majority of the buyers will be factory hands.

It will require to take out between a fourth and one third for streets, which will leave only about eleven acres to be disposed of, and cut it as you will, the backs of the houses in Mipaughan Road will face the fronts of the back row of lots.

There will also require to be a cross street. Certainly one third of the land will be used up for streets, leaving less than 11⅓ acres for building lots or 92 lots of 1-8 acre each.

These at $200 each would come to $18,400. Surely a good sale! If the vendor holds them they may be held for 10 years or 15 years, eating up interest and taxes so that at the end of ten years they will have eaten up their value in interest and taxes.

On the other hand $18,400 at 6% will, if properly invested in Dominion Gold Bonds with accumulated interest, amount to more than $40,000. So the argument in favor of a sale is overwhelming.

Offer the Chamberlen Estate the use of the house for life of the survivor of the original family, and if they don't accept drop the land and buy somewhere else. You will find it easily. The people of Peterboro will never stand to pay more than $16,000 or $18,000 for that piece of land. They will still have a fine piece of land left. If the new school adds value to it, let the Chamberlens have the benefit of the increased value arrising out of the School Board's expenditure.

The School Board will not be in any distress, they will not be like the Michigan man who was running for Congress. He was stopping over night with a farmer and before retiring he went out to see how the land lay and as he held the door and looking to the good woman in the kitchen he said: "I suppose it's just out there?" "Yes," she replied, "just out there." So out he meandered but presently he stuck his head in the kitchen door and she remarked, looking at him, "Yes sir, its just out there," and she swept her hand in a half circle, having it bow to the north, but presently he came back again looking distressed, and said: "I declare to goodness I can't find it." "Why?" she replied, "yer can't find it? It's jest outside by the barn," and out he went. The husband came into kitchen and the wife, turning to him said: "Jonathan, that 'ere darned fool will never git into Congress. He can't find the place and he has the whole State of Michigan!

NEWTON WESLEY ROWELL IS PREPARING TO DODGE STORM

Occasion Came, Too, on Day of Announcement of Formation of Canadian "Embassy" at Washington—Who is to Fill It?

A TRIFLING AMOUNT

OTTAWA, May 6.—The mills of the gods grind slowly and presumably this Parliament is one of them. But there is nothing slow about it when it comes to grinding out boards' commissions, etc. Yesterday was a dulll day. Not only was it blue Monday, but the French members fresh from the province that flows with beer and wine looked disappointed and down-hearted. They had tried their much-lauded five per cent, and found it lacking the kick.

It will be seen that the house was doing business under adverse circumstances. Yet its output consisted of one board and a brand new embassy. It has often been said that the Union Government had a commission for everything on earth. That may be the reason that the latest board will work in the air. It will look after airplanes and air routes and investigate the different uses to which airplanes can be put. So far they are said to be useful for everything from finding fish in the sea to fires in the forest. And it was Dr. Beland who suggested in all seriousness than one be added to the personal equipment of each member of the Cabinet. Then," he said, "they could visit various parts of the country and carry on their work without congesting the railways with private cars."

A Trifling Amount

But the other creation was in the nature of clothes for his baby nation. It was announced in the sweetly solemn tones of N. Wesley Rowell that Canada is to have an embassador at Washington. Of course Mr. Rowell did not say "ambassador" exactly, but we are to have representation at the Yankee capital. And the head representative is to have diplomatic as well as trade powers attached to his person. If the matter dealt with is purely Canadian-American, our own ambassador will attend to the job. If it is Imperial, our diplomat will co-operate with the Imperial ambassador in an endeavor to keep the astute Yankee from putting anything over on us. Of course, the new outfit will cost something, $4,000 or $5,000 a month to particularize. But in these days of millions, surely nobody is going to quibble about a trifle like that.

Who Is It For?

Who is the job made for? you ask. And you naturally remember that Sir Robert Borden was mentioned for a much more pretentious position at Washington. But people here don't pick Sir Robert Borden for this. They think that with his Imperial connection he can pick a jucier plum. But some folks whisper: "There is a haven of rest for Rowell. He will soon need to get in out of the storm.

Others again think it something more than a coincidence that on the same night the new office was announced, Hon. N. W. Rowell paid a heartfelt tribute to his old playmate, Sir Joseph Flavelle. Cahill of Pontiac had asked him for the names of the Imperial Munitions Board, and the mention of Sir Joseph Flavelle brought some sneering, "Hear, hears," from the Opposition. Mr. Rowell fired up at once. It's a caution the way these Wesley's stick together. "When the history of this war comes to be written," he declared in a burst of originality, "and Canada's contribution is made up, no single man outside of the fighting troops will be found to have rendered more signal service than did the chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board."

Would He Like It?

Of course, there was no definite connection between the announcement and the tribute. But in the corridors the question was asked: "Wonder if Sir Joseph would like that Washington job?" And it was pointed out that a real baronet, who may yet be a peer of the realm, could forget the small bacon and learn the ways of other lords down where the diplomats gather wisdom, at the feet of the world's own, and only Woodrow.

Aside from the above mentioned incidents the day was far from exciting. Even Wesley Rowell and his Post Office estimates failed to rouse the House from the lethargy induced by weeks of partial stagnation. To be sure the woes of the rural mail carriers, as told by their representatives in Parliament, made the sufferings of soldiers in the trenches look tame and colorless. Those mail carriers must be mighty vote swingers in some localities. But for the most part the members just drowsed through the proceedings. A few of the Western Unionists were awakened, however, by the beginning of a fresh storm of telegrams from home. This time it is the returned soldiers. They are out for a bonus of $2,000 a head.

Reaches a Billion

But it is not finding favor in these parts. "$2,000 each for about 500,000 soldiers figures out to just about a billion," said one Westerner, with a wry smile. "Well, these are the days of big figures, but that sum is too big for me to swallow."

But though times continue dull, there is no lack of distinguished visitors to Ottawa. Alberta has a Cabinet contingent here. So has New Brunswisk and Quebec also. They all have business with the Union Government. Also they all appear to have time to spend in the Liberal quarters. It may just be a "last call for dinner in the dining car," or in other words, the Grit provincial Governments want all they can get from the Federal before the Grit convention in August cuts them off from all communication with the Unionists.

Back For Convention

Other visitors in our midst are Sir Clifford Sifton and Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King. The former is said to just be completing some arrangements to help along Canada's export trade. You know it will need expert guidance in connection with this Roumanian and other credits. And who is better able to furnish such guidance than Sir Clifford? But with Mackenzie King it is different. He is securing a passport and otherwise preparing to visit the battlefields—or is it the oil fields?—of Europe. It is stated that Mr. King will return in time for the Grit convention and that he still has hopes of being chosen leader. Some people are mean enough to say that he could have more materially helped his leadership chances if he had gone to Europe a trifle over four years ago. He was not yet forty years old when the war started and unmarried. If he preferred serving the Rockerfellers to serving his country in the time of crisis, there are those who think his country can still wiggle along without him.

By the way, the western free trade members called on Sir Thomas White yesterday to assure him that they were still hoping. Sir Thomas did most of the talking, and when he was through his audience for bunch from whom hope had fled.—Toronto Telegram.

Mrs. McClung On Domestic Problems

The "Globe" of Wednesday says: "The domestic problem", is so very urgent a topic nowadays that nobody can ignore it, and it occupies, alike, the powers of the conversationalist in the drawing-room and the lecturer on the platform. Mrs. Nellie McClung who is coming through Toronto shortly on her way back to her home in Edmonton from Philadelphia, says:

"Women have not been successful as employers of labor, because they have not realized the dignity of their work, and so have placed the domestic worker at the very lowest round of the ladder. This is a place where no one wishes to remain, and the result has been that the ambitious girl soon finds other employment, leaving the kitchen to the care of the inefficient and careless.

"All this has to be changed, and the women employers have to change their mental attitude toward the domestic helper."

One of the solutions Mrs. McClung offers for domestic problems, including the lowering of the marriage rate, is the communal kitchen.

Bad Breath IS CAUSED BY CATARRH

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On this account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the outset.

It isn't necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a far better method.

Doctors now treat Catarrh by sending a purifying, healing vapour through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed.

The only successful vapour treatment is CATARRHOZONE, which the patient breathes through a special inhaler to the real seat of the trouble. The rich, piney essences of Catarrhozone heal and soothe all inflamed surfaces. They effectively treat the nose, throat and lungs with a powerful antiseptic that destroys irritation at once.

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balmy air of the pine forest. It cures completely colds, coughs, catarrh, weak throat, and bronchitis.

Once tried, Catarrhozone is always used. Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently cure. Accept no substitute. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1.00; small size 50c.; sample trial size 25c.; at all dealers.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

The following report of the Finance Committee was submitted by Ald. Taylor to the Council on Monday night:—

We authorized the Chairman to sell the two local improvement debentures for $527.00 at 5½% and $484.20 at 6% on a basis of 5½% for the two.

We recommend that when the next debentures are to be sold the City Treasurer advertise that the debentures are for sale, at a price to be fixed later, in amounts of $100.00 and upwards, and in the advertisement give notice that if the block of debentures are not sold locally by a time fixed by the Chairman and Treasurer they will be sold in the usual way.

A SURE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I wish to state that I did not write the letter referred to by Mr. Charles Banks in last night's Examiner. I know nothing about it whatever, and some person has wrongfully used my name. May I state that I would not write a letter as Secretary of the Trades and Labour Council without the Council's authority, and as they have not met in three weeks it will be evident to everybody that it would be impossible for me to receive instructions to enquire into a matter that happened only a few days ago. I make this declaration in justice to myself and to the Trades and Labour Council of which I am honoured to be its Secretary.

WM. STEVENS.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

I am asking you to do me a favour by inserting this notice in your valuable paper, regarding the way that some of the City Councillors fulfil their sentiments to the working man. Some short time ago they attended one of our meetings in a body regarding the wages and hours concerning the Hunter Street Bridge and civic employment, and as the public has seen, we gave them a great reception fit for anybody and after some considerable debate on the subject, practically came to a conclusion that if we met them half way that would satisfy everybody. Well it did, with the exception of one man. Now, at the Council meeting Monday night when this question was brought up it was quickly seen where the yellow streak laid and voicing the opinion of the public at large that were there in attendance that with the exception of the Labour Aldermen, that the remainder of the Council are not the men they represent themselves to be to the public, and when they want to give a man under 40 cents per hour with the conditions of living away up, as they are at present, we think it is a scandalous shame to allow such men to be placed in the Council to look after the affairs of the public, and as one alderman remarked, the higher wage and shorter hours have got to come. I may say it is a question of vital importance now at the peace conference and as everybody knows that practically two-thirds of this great western continent are off on strike for better conditions for the working man, and believe me the whole world will be out on strike before long, as it is the only way the worker can have the right to live the way he should do. So now I don't want to take up too much space in your valuable paper, so we must thank you, Mr. Editor, and remain yours,

Local 437, A. E. Miller,
Corresponding Secretary

Peterborough, May 6, 1919.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir:—Noticing in Tuesday evening's paper your item stating that it is nine years ago today since King George V was crowned King of Great Britain, I beg to differ.

King George V was crowned King of Great Britain on the morning of June 22, 1911.

As the Peterborough contingent representing the 57th Peterborough Rangers never left Peterborough until about May 19, 1911, and spent several weeks training in Quebec and were in attendance on Coronation Day, it would surely be impossible for the crowning to have taken place on May 6th, as stated.

SEVERAL PETERBORO COTTAGERS LOST HEAVILY IN KAWARTHA PARK ROBBERIES

Many of the Cottages Were Stripped of Bed Clothing, Rugs and Other Equipment.

LAKEFIELD, May 8. -- What amounted to an organized campaign of burglary was carried out at Kawartha Park this spring. Occasionally a cottage has been broken into at Stoney Lake but this year it has become a serious affair in the lower part of the lake. In all twenty-seven cottages were opened and their contents rifled. Some of the cottagers had taken especial pains to provide extra comforts so they could go up early and remain late in the season. These cottages having this more valuable property were the heaviest losers. The boarding house of Mr. Cassidy was opened and his valuable collection of tools was stolen, as well as other things. The total amount of loss is estimated at about $1000. Mr. D. H. Charlton of Lakefield, who owns and operates the Kawartha Park store and post office was among the victims as not only the store was robbed but also his cottage which was adjacent.

Among the Losers.

Among the victims are Messrs. R. B. Rogers and Dr. Morrison of Peterboro, and Messrs. Cassidy, E. A. Tanner Robt. Neill, Stevens, King, Noble, Long, Blackmore, Rayson, Ellis, Dixon, Ivor Brock, Dr. Zimmerman, and Dr. Husband.

Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald of Lakefield, who has a cottage at Sandy Point, reports no damage as the miscreants confined their operations to the upper end of the park.

Provincial Inspector Boyd of the Dominion Police Force, is conducting an investigation into the matter and anticipates little difficulty in apprehending the culprits.

One of the heaviest losers was Mr. Ivor Brock of Toronto, and formerly of the Brinton Carpet Works, this city. Mr. Brock lost a considerable quantity of rugs, draperies and other household articles. It is believed that many of the thefts were carried out during the winter and the articles removed when the lake was frozen over. In all several tons of bedding and other equipment was carried away.

SGT. GEORGE WHITE INSTANTLY KILLED

A former 57th Bandsman and an Imperial Reservist was killed in one of the worst periods of war—refused help.

Word has just been received that Sergt. George White, who formerly resided in Peterboro, at 36 Lincoln avenue, and whose wife now resides in Manchester, England, was killed in February, 1918.

On the outbreak of war, Serg G. White was residing with his wife at Peterboro. Being on the reserve of the Cheshire Reg't., in which he was a bandsman, he was at once called to the British Army. Being a member of the Peterboro Band he was given a hearty send-off by his colleagues and the good wishes of all who knew him. When he arrrived in England he found the depots overwhelmed with recruits.

Bandsman White, as he then was, went to Birkenhead where a camp was hastily equipped in the best manner that the rush allowed in those strenuous days of 1914. Empty houses, schools and many other places that gave cover were utilized for sleeping purposes. Corridors and all other places were used for bedrooms for the continual growing number of men. Serg. White made no complaints, but took all hardships as they came. The cooking was most unsatisfactory in those early days. From Sunday to Saturday the dinner was the easiest that the shortage of utensils allowed: Stew, stew and stew again. They stirred the stew and poked the fire with the same thing. Serg. White expected to be rushed to France to relieve the suffering of the men of Mons, but being a crack shot he was snapped up as an instructor in musketry and was retained for that purpose until March, 1917. At this period of 1917, the fate of the British Army looked black indeed. Arriving in France at the end of the month, he was hastened up to the front with thousands of other troops and straight into the front line where he was attached to the 11th East Lancashire Reg't. The position of all these men was hopeless in the extreme when it is remembered that the British had knowledge that in this one sector alone, near Armentaires, the Germans had three divisions. On the 9th April, the British to their, dismay found they were overwhelmed by not less than sixteen divisions. In this hopeless disproportion the men fought day and night and all the men retreating as they were pressed on their flanks. In some cases they fought back to back until overwhelmed. On the 11th Serg. White knowing what he was in for gave instructions to a fellow N.C.O. in respect to, writing to Mrs. White should he not return. He did not return and all news of him was lost until July when a wounded man gave information to the Red Cross that Serg. White was wounded at Merris and refused assistance from his comrades and was presumed to have fallen into the hands of the enemy. This news raised hopes in the minds of his wife and relations, but time dragged on and still no news from Germany or the War Office. Hope still held until the energy of the Red Cross brought news in February that another private in hospital was with Sergt. White when he was wounded in the head. The men were hard pressed and did not like to leave him, but he told them to get away and they ran for their lives. Having omitted to destroy dump, they ultimately fought their way back when the private found the body of Serg. White, but was unable to remove it owing to the pressure of the enemy. The day following Sir. Douglas Haig issued the famous order that every post must be held to the last man. Several officers in their letters of sympathy to Mrs. White alluded to the courage and self-sacrifice of Serg. White. I am sure that all his friends in Peterboro will desire to have news of one who certainly had some pleasant times among them.

E. J. White.

Annual Meeting of Trinity Church Ladies' Aid Society

Trinity Church Ladies' Aid Society held their annual meeting Tuesday afternoon, when the reports for the year were given. The following ladies were returned to office by acclamation:

President—Mrs. Cruikshank.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. R. Neil.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Kidd.
Secretary—Mrs. Watts.
Treasurer—Miss Mathers.
Flower Convenor—Mrs. Walsh.
Visiting Committee—Mesdames Cruikshank, Laidly; McCoy, Dawe, Lane, Storey, Mann and Taylor.

Secretary's Report

The Ladies' Aid of Trinity Church has reached the end of another year in its history. During the year regular meetings were held each month with the exception of July and August, with an average attendance of 25 members. There are 107 names on the roll. Many new names have been added and to old and new members we wish a prosperous and busy new year in the work of the Aid.

During the past year we have had occasion for much rejoicing inasmuch as God has seen fit to end the cruel war and that peace again reigns, and while we rejoice with those who rejoice over the return of their loved ones, our hearts go out in loving sympathy and fervent prayer to those whose loved ones have been sacrificed and who return not.

Our ladies were busy during July preparing the parsonage for our pastor and his family, in which we found a great deal of pleasure mingled with the work.

The Thanksgiving canvass, supplemented by a sermon from our pastor, Rev. Mr. Malott, and energetic workers, showed the Aid that its work was appreciated.

A reception was held in November for our pastor and his family, and on the same evening the returns made from the $5.00 scheme, with the experience of how the ladies made their $5.00, which proved humourous and witty. Our Cafeteria Tea given in February proved successful and the Aid is much indebted to Mr. Malott for the beautiful illustrated travel talk on "Here and There in Old London."

Lonely hearts were cheered during the year by flowers sent, accompanied by a message of love and sympathy.

We bade farewell to Mrs. Voaden, an enthusiastic and willing worker, but we feel that our loss is gain to some other Aid.

Our Visiting Committees have been busy and have reported many calls made.

Much of the success of our meetings and work during the year is due to our president, who has been most energetic in making them such, and faithful in looking after the strangers.

The Silent Reaper has been among us and claimed two Golden Sheaves, Mrs. Hawley and Mrs. Austin.

"Weep not that their toil is o'er.
Weep not that their race is won;
God grant that we may rest as calmly
When our work, like theirs, is done."

Will Preach in St. Andrew's Church

Principal S. W. Dyde, of Queen's, Will Visit Peterboro.

St. Andrew's Church has been fortunate in securing for its preacher on the occasion of its 86th anniversary, the Rev. Principal S. Walters Dyde, M.A., D.D., of Queen's Theological College. Dr. Dyde graduated at Queen's the medallist in both classics and philosophy, taking his B.A. in 1883 and M.A. in 1884. He is an LL.D. of the University of New Brunswick and D.D. of Manitoba. He was Professor of Philosophy in the University of New Brunswick 1886-1889, and came to the Professorship of Mental Philosophy in Queen's in 1889, holding that position till 1911, when he was appointed principal of Robertson Theological College, Edmonton. He returned to Queen's as Principal of Queen's Theological College a year ago. He has published a translation of Hegel's Philosophy of Right, and Plato's Thaeatetus which have been used widely as text books. He has lectured with great acceptance on Shakespeare in many places, coming to this city a little over a month ago and giving a scholarly, instructive and delightful address to the members of the Ministerial Association and a company of invited guests on the Philosophy of Forgiveness found in Shakespeare's plays.

Dr. Dyde was a fellow-student of Professor Adam Shortt and it is much to the credit of Queen's that it should have produced two such fine scholars at about the same time, both of whom are widely known throughout Canada.

These anniversary services will afford the citizens of Peterboro an opportunity of hearing the new principal of Queen's.

PTE. THOS. CONNORS RETURNS HOME

Pte. Thomas J. Connors, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Connors, of Waupun, Wisconsin, and formerly superintendent of the Peterborough Cordage Works, has returned to his home in Waupin, after three years in service with the Canadian Army. He has been over the top seven times and was awarded a Military Medal for valor in the field.

Pte. Connors refused to accept a commission, preferring the life of a private. He said he had been awarded the medal "For getting out of England without a wife."

Pte. Connors enlisted in the Canadian army on Nov. 15, 1915, and saw thirty-one months' of active service in France with the Tenth Canadian Infantry. Pte. Connors did a large amount of scouting work, fought at Amiens and went through the Hindenburg drive, and fought on several other fronts, and was never wounded. He was gassed several times, but never seriously so. On Sept. 2, 1918, he was awarded a military medal for valor in the field. If he had been willing to wait two weeks, his medal would have been pinned on him by King George.

Pte Connors left France for England on March 21st, and left port at Southampton on board the Olympic and arrived at Halifax on April 24th. He visited relatives at Kingston.

Pte. Connors will go to Calgary, Alberta, Canada, after about two months, to resume his duties on the Canadian railroad.

A New Blood-Food Called Ferrozone Sure to Restore You Quickly.

"About three years ago," says Mr. Meehan, "I had the Grippe which left me in a very run-down condition that finally developed into Dyspepsia. I was unable to eat but a few things and had a craving for acid. I gave up treating with the doctors because they did not help me and on the advice of a friend used Ferrozone. It not only cured me of Dyspepsia and Biliousness, but has built up my strength to what it was before I had the Grippe. I can recommend Ferrozone as an ideal restorative."

Ferrozone gives you force, energy, vim.

Thousands use Ferrozone—they all feel better; try it yourself — sold in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, at all dealers or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

TWO PETITIONS FROM PETERBORO

The following letter has been received from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I have this day received two petitions, one from the employees of the De Laval Co., and the other from the employees of the Ackerman Co., requesting that as their representative, I will do all I can to prevent any change in our present Protective tariff and general fiscal system in order that Labour may be protected against cheap foreign labour and cheap foreign labour's products. Permit me to say that I will cheerfully do as they request. There may be a few minor changes required, but since prices in most things are about the same in Canada as they are where similar wages prevail in other countries, there could be no gain in throwing ourselves upon the mercy of foreign exporters who would break up our system of industry and then give us what they liked and at what price they liked.

I am in favour of a permanent tariff Commission, which, like our Railway Commission will regulate tariff matters between parliamentary sessions, and prevent absurdities which sometimes rise up like mushrooms, in a night. There are no free-traders now. But there are those who call themselves such and preach a selfish sectional policy likely to damage Canada as a whole.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Mr. Elliott Suggests That Farmers Be Chased Out of City if They Are Nuisance

Another Communication on Highway Improvement—Automobile Fees Should Be Returned to the County.

(By Ed. M. Elliott.)

Under the Act we have three systems of highway improvement, namely, Provincial Highway, Provincial County Highway and County Highway. Provincial highway costs from $20,000 to $30,000 per mile to build. Provincial county costs from $4,000 to $10,000 per mile to build. County highway costs from $1,500 to $3,000 per mile to build. Expenditures met as follows:

Provincial highway: Province 70 per cent., municipality 30 per cent.

Provincial county highway: Province 60 per cent., municipality 40 per cent.

County highway: Province 40 per cent., municipality 60 per cent.

Cities and towns separated such as the City of Peterborough, are not included in the above, but are called upon where a system of county roads are adopted to contribute one half mill on the dollar each year (and the Act limits such participation to one-half mill) to a suburban area of two miles to every $2,000,000 assessment of such city or town.

The counties that are carrying out a system of county highways find it necessary to raise from the counties 7 mills on the dollar to make the desired improvement consistent with the abnormal traffic attracted from the city and town autoist. Where Provincial county roads exist, although the percentage is 40 to the farmer, it costs him more, due to the more rigid regulations, providing double driveway, etc.

The same with regard to Provincial highways.

No Limit.

Theer is no statutory limit to what the farmer may have to pay, yet the province provides by statute that the percentage of the province ceases at $4,000 per mile, and the city is limited by statute to one-half mill on the dollar on suburban areas. If it becomes necessary for greater expenditure on suburban areas the farmer is rung in for the same, that is on suburban areas only. It is advanced by way of explanation why the province absorbs the fees collected from auto owners that it is a provincial revenue the same as the Dominion income tax is a dominion revenue.

The Dominion income tax is imposed to provide for war expenditure. The Province imposed a tax of one mill on the dollar for four years that more than provided for any war expenditure undertaken by the province. Auto fees are imposed for auto regulation and road improvement, it being recognized that they would be exceedingly hard on roads being traction driven. The Province collected $1,200,000 auto fees in 1918 and paid towards county roads $483,632. Where is the government assistance? From the County and City of Peterborough in the neighbourhood of $20,000 over and above cost of collection will be collected yearly. Why should the county ratepayers be compelled to raise $30,000 to get back their own $20,000, and it is claimed that the county ratepayers own 53 per cent. of the autos, consequently the county ratepayers would pay at least $10,000 as auto fees then as stated above, raise $3,000 more, making $40,000 paid by them.

A Finished Product.

25 per cent. of the county ratepayers would use the county roads regularly, 25 per cent. of them occasionally, and 50 per cent. would practically not have occasion to use them at all.

The farmers' output being a finished product, as a result of feeding everything on his farm, thereby retaining fertility for his soil, reduces his hauling to a minimum to his nearest station, generally from one to six miles from his farm.

The average expenditure over statute labour in the township of Smith has been one and one half mills on the dollar for all road purposes. By adopting county roads you would reduce that to less than three-quarters of a mill for all other roads other than the adopted county roads, but the county roads would necessitate the raising of 7 mills in order to cope with the attracted motor traffic from the cities and towns. All other roads would have to be kept up by statute labour or commutation by the township.

Farmers' time for pleasure driving in the summer is very limited, but almost every auto from the city would be pleasure driving on those county roads every afternoon and "daylight saving" affords them one hour more for the purpose. At the same time the wealthy autoist from the city is only taxed one half mill on the suburban area.

United persistency is necessary for the farmers, which is proven by Robert Cook, member for North Hastings, who happens to be a practical farmer, when he secured from the Provincial government $21,550 to be expended on the roads of his riding without any concessions from either county or city to be enjoyed by all alike.

Construction Costs.

If you are goin gto provide for, and attract auto traffic from the cities and towns, by expending $1,500 per mile the maintenance costs just as much more proportionately as by expending $3,000 for construction, the cost in twenty years would be less in the $3,000 per mile for construction. Oxford county that has had some experience in county road system finds that to please, all, thirty-two and three-quarter miles must be added to the system and a by-law to that effect has been passed estimating $58,400 for construction alone for the 32 3-4 miles added.

In cities and towns householders being in the majority, were not long in demanding water rates by way of frontage tax on vacant property where water mains passed such property, and to-day such frontage tax is paid. The majority paying up to 7 mills on the dollar to keep up main roads when their own roads are not costing the ratepayers on the main roads one mill on the dollar will not be long, once he realizes the same, in demanding a frontage tax to those living on such main roads. It has already been agitated and is being pressed.

"58 per cent. of the autos of the City and County of Peterborough is owned outside of the city, the same being an evidence of the wealth and prosperity of the farmers, and that the city was spending $4,000 per year cleaning the mud off the pavements brought on by the farmers' waggons."

Wealth of Farmers.

The wealth of the farmers, as referred to by that gentleman, is an evidence that the condition of the roads has not debarred them from becoming wealthy, and out of that wealth he should contribute liberally to provide pleasure roads for his poor brother from the city. With regard to the expense of cleaning streets after an invasion of the farmers, although for one farmer that comes to the city to sell, fifty come to buy, and if they neglect to sweep the mud off their horses they should be compelled to have all of their supplies shipped from the stores in Toronto their nearest station, thereby getting rid of the nuisance they cause by driving on the city pavements.

Once a by-law is passed in conformity with the Act you are in it to stay both for County highway and Provincial highway. Do not imagine for one minute that the government will "consider" an established Provincial road "not a proper road for such expenditure," neither will the "Great Automobile Associations" of the cities and towns who are behind the scheme, consent to such abandonment.

Provincial highways with 28 feet culverts and 24 feet driveway with 14 feet wide of solid stones built by the government, costing up to $10,000 per mile, then maintenance to follow costing the township through which it runs 40 per cent. of such expenditures with 100 autos from the cities and towns to one from the farmers driven over it. It is not possible for more than 15 per cent. of the farmers in a township to make any regular use of such Provincial County highway.

With the auto fees that belong to the people and a like sum expended by the county with 40 per cent. from the government added to the amount put up by the county on county roads, more rural residents would be equitably served. If the "Automobile Associations" of the cities and towns want elaborate Provincial highways other than county roads, it is up to the government to provide such.

Respectfully yours,
ED. M. ELLIOTT.

Labour Demonstration for the Next Meeting of City Council

Exasperated by Fixation of Wages Below Union Scales the Labour Council Will Present a Resolution Asking for the Eight Hour Day and Union Rates.

BOARD OF TRADE DEBATE

The Trades and Labour Council last night passed a resolution of censure upon the city council for fixing the wages of laborers and carpenters at 40c and 60c an hour and coupled with it a request that the city adopt Union rates and the eight-hour day. It was further decided that this petition be presented by the executive in a body at the next meeting of the City Council, when it is planned to make a demonstration to impress upon and display to the City Fathers the feelings and temper of organized Labour. According to the proposal sanctioned last night Union men will meet at the Labour Hall on June 2nd and march to the City Hall to demonstrate their strength and determination. If the plans carry, the Council Chamber will be crowded with only a section of the paraders, but it was suggested that the presence of the expected crowd outside could be significantly conveyed to the Council.

President Bolwell advised the promoters of this manifestation that every detail should be carried out in good order, that the resolution and any addresses should be confined to the period allotted for the reception of deputations, and that there should be no untimely or untoward incident that might invite a reproof from the Mayor.

Irritated by the Council.

It is understood of course that the four Labour Aldermen, including Ald. McIntyre, are excepted from the vote of censure. Last night's meeting did not reflect a serious agitation growing out of the unsettled conditions of industry. There was one intimation that the Trades Council should consider the possibility of a sympathetic strike throughout the city in support of the laborers, moulders and canoe builders, but nothing came of it. Delegates from the printers and bricklayers for example stated that they were restrained by their internationals from participating in a general strike, and beyond that the suggestion appeared to be premature and, it was hoped, unnecessary.

This subject in fact was introduced at the last moment, and at that hour, nearly 11 o'clock, the delegates had spent their eloquent indignation, and spare time, in blasting the City Council for setting the wages of laborers and carpenters below the union scale.

Ald. Turner was the storm centre, and at one stage it was seriously debated putting him on the unfair list, and posting the fact with every Trades Council in Canada. A motion to that effect was abandoned for several reasons. The unfair list some delegates declared was not so potent as was generally believed, for the reason that Labor did not exercise it fully; others pointed out that Ald. Turner was only one of the aldermen who had a hand in fixing the lower wages, and moreover it was admitted that the step would be unjust to the other members of his company.

Some one suggested Ald. Turner's resignation be demanded on the ground that he represented only 15 per cent. of the people approximately but this proposal was discarded when a delegate remarked that it would have as much effect as throwing a bucket of water out of the window.

Finally the vote of censure found general agreement and it was elaborated into a demonstration, which if it materializes should bring the two Councils into friendly and peaceful contact once more.

Board of Trade, Too.

Of the cordial criticism of Ald. Turner there was some to spare for the Board of Trade, of which he is president, but the Board was stoutly defended by Mr. J. J. Hartley, who declared that Ald. Turner spoke and acted for himself in the City Council, and not for the Board of Trade. There were probably some members of this organization who were not friendly to Labor, Mr. Hartley conceded, but he was confident that the great majority of them were sympathetic. At the meetings of the Board he had heard only one sentiment expressed toward Labor when it was mentioned, and that was a desire to help.

To some of the delegates the Board of Trade is a wooden horse filled with the myrmidons of capital, but Mr. Hartley found it a vehicle roomy enough for all the citizens who desired to further the interests of Peterboro. Among its objects was the securing of new industries, by which the city could fulfil its industrial destiny, providing employment for the people and attracting others, and realizing the dreams of the optimists.

A Question of Quality.

Referring to Mr. Hartley's exposition, a delegate stated that the Board was justified only by its object of building up Peterboro. "What better off would the working people be?" asked this member. "If anything they would be worse off. You find the greatest poverty in the greatest centres of population. There you find the greatest possible wealth in one section of the city, and extreme poverty in the other. There they are two distinct classes. There would be more factories, more people. The surplus labor would flow to the larger city, and instead of a few hundred unemployed as we have at this time, you would find a few thousand walking the streets. The professional classes would benefit, the lawyers and the doctors, so also the merchants, and the property owners would prosper. A house that rents in Peterboro for $15 would bring $30 in a city the size of Toronto."

Mr. Hartley spoke with vehemence for the Board of Trade. "You are accusing the Board of Trade because of the statements of one man. I am a member of the Board of Trade, and I don't want to be held responsible for anything he says in the council." He was elected by the citizens of Peterboro and not as a member of the Board of Trade. Would it be fair that the Labor Council should be blamed for the statements of one of its members? I have always been a Labor man and I always intend to be one. Last year when the bricklayers were paid 67c an hour I paid them them 75c. I have never skimped in paying men, and I want to see them all get a fair wage, but I object to statements about the Board of Trade that are not true. Since I have been a member there has not been one word said against Labour but on the contrary they have spoken in favor of Labor. I am the last member of the Board who will stand and hear anything said against Labor or Labor Unions."

When the debate trailed off to a tranquil ending, it was as peaceful as a lovefeast. That doubts had not been completely dispelled, and that there was still a lingering distrust, was conveyed in the "last word" of a recalcitrant delegate who said "If you can tell me that the Manufacturers' Association are working in the interests of the laboring man then I'll never say another word against them."

"Well, I hope you will take a broader view of the Board of Trade," replied Mr. Hartley. "We can all work together in the interests of Peterboro and we can do our share."

Two English inventors have patented an electric fan which resembles a hand fan and is waved by a motor in its base.

Yesterday's neglect causes two thirds of to-day's worries.

LABOUR NOTES

The Labourers' Union are circulating a petition in an effort to gain support for their demands for the wage rate of 45c an hour. This morning they began a canvass of the merchants and met with a response which they said was more than encouraging.

Carpenters Meet To-night.

An important meeting of the Carpenters' Union will be held to-night when the Council's suggestion for a reduction of the Union scale, followed by the fixing of the wage to be paid by the city at 60c, will be discussed.

Streets Kept Clean.

In the street cleaning department the Labourers were not 100 per cent. organized, and as a result the work has not been held up. The Labourers particularly demand that their Union be recognized by the city.

They as yit would have a helpful effect in the shops. But according to the resolution passed by the City Council on Monday night, there was a clause beautifully cloaked that declared the city should recognize no sect nor society, and the Unions are the only societies aimed at, according to the men's interpretation.

RECITAL AT THE CONSERVATORY

An unusually interesting violin and piano recital was given last evening in the Conservatory Music Hall by Misses Edwina Palmer and Agnes Logan, which attracted a large and enthusiastic audience. Miss Palmer is a distinguished pupil and former member of the teaching staff of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music.

In a varied programme, that gave her the opportunity of proving her versatility in rendering different styles of music and also of displaying her command of the finger board and skill in bowing, she won the enthusiastic plaudits of the large audience for every number. Two outstanding pieces, the "Legende," by Weiniawski and the "Gipsy Airs," by Sarasate, were brilliantly played and quite caught the fancy of the audience.

Miss Agnes Logan, in addition to playing the accompaniments for Miss Palmer, appeared as soloist, and played two groups in her usual brilliant style, and was recalled several times after each appearance.

The programme:

Violin waltzes .... Kreisler
(a) "The Joy of Love"
(b) "Love's Sorrow"
(c) "Beautiful Rosemary."
Piano Impromptu .... Schubert
Violin ....
(a) Canto Amoroso .... Elman
(b) Rondino .. Beethoven-Kreisler
(c) Legende .... Wieniawski
Piano ....
(a) Etude No. 7 .... Chopin
(b) Etude Mignonne .... Schutt
(c) Shepherd's Hey .... Grainger
Violin—"Gipsy Airs" .... Sarasate

Miss Palmer is leaving for England on Friday, where she will study with Edward Derw, a noted Belgian violin master.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

NEWS OF THE O.B.A. LEAGUE

Offer From Peterborough.

Looks as though Peterborough has its feelers out for good ball players. It is stated that Jack Stark has been offered a chance on the Porridge City line-up.—Lindsay Warder.

Port Hope Entry In.

Port Hope has officially entered the Central Ontario League by paying their entrance fee of $10. The guarantee bond will follow.

Belleville Has 21 Players.

Manager W. J. Thompson of the Belleville Club, has written for more certificates, having already signed up 13 men. He figures on signing 21 players.

Oshawa Bills Out.

Oshawa bills are out for the opening game in the Central League against Peterborough on the 24th of May. The Oshawa sports had only one work-out so far on account of poor weather.

Had a Work-Out.

Lindsay Warder: "Ab" Hill had a workout Monday night at Agricultural Park—the first of the season, and has signed up with the Lindsay Club. Hill is rated as a pitcher, a second baseman, or a fielder. In fact is the right kind of a player to get hold of, and Monday night warmed up in fine style, having all the appearances of a good player.

It is understood that Hill, who has been living in Lindsay all winter, and working for a time with his father-in-law as a scaler in the woods north, formerly played with the Gutta Percha Club in Toronto.

BASEBALL

A well-contested game of baseball was played on the grounds of Queen Mary School on Tuesday evening last between the King Edward and Queen Mary Senior Teams. King Edward won by a score of seven to five. The batteries were: King Edward—Evans, Green and Rye; and Queen Mary—Hill, Menzies and Davis. Mr. Jack Thirnbeck made an efficient umpire.

SOUTH CENTRAL SCHOOL DEFEATED QUEEN MARY

On Monday evening in the Junior Series of the Public School Baseball League on the the Queen Mary school grounds, the team representing the South Central School defeated the Queen Mary School team by the score of 18:2.

BATTERIES

Queen Mary—Lang and Mahood. South Central—Parrington and Pethick.

Mr. Bertram McGill made an efficient umpire.

There will be a practice of the Matthews-Blackwell City League team at Riverside Park at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A full attendance of players is requested.

The Orientals practised at Riverside Park last night and will be out again tonight at 6.30, the third workout this week for Manager Solomon's outfit.

The Great War Veterans' ball team will practise at Riverside Park tomorrow (Friday) night at 6.30 o'clock. Every player is asked to be out.

LAWN BOWLING.

Prospects Are Very Bright.

The opening of the lawn bowling season is now at hand, and prospects for the local club look exceptionally bright. A number of applications for membership have already been received, and the executive are now forming the rinks and drawing up a schedule of games for the season.

The greens are in splendid condition, and a few of the more enthusiastic members have already got off to a start. The opening, however, is to take place on Monday next, and a Doubles Tournament is being arranged to commence on that date.

Any persons wishing to join, and whose names have not already been handed in, are asked to advise the Schedule Committee, J. W. Maycord ('phone 155) or R. Elliot ('phone 433), who will arrange to have them placed on a rink.

DE LAVAL LOST TWO TO HIGH ROLLERS

In the Business Men's Ten Pin League last night at Water street Alleys the High Rollers took two from the De Laval winning the last game by 7 pins.

For the High Rollers Solomon hit the Maple for 595 Thompson next with 567 and high single of 225; Lashos also passed the 500 mark.

For the De Laval four of their men passed the 500 mark. Ruiter 543, Barrette 538, Carter 538, A. Fitzgerald 534. De Laval total of three games 2595. High Rollers 2586.

A solder for aluminum has been invented that can be applied by a gasoline torch without the use of a soldering iron.

LAWN BOWLERS WON TWO FROM THE SHAMROCKS

Last night at the Water Street Alleys in the Five Pin League. The Lawn Bowlers won two from the Shamrocks. For the Lawn Bowlers Craig had the high count of 594, Maynard next with 573 and high single of 251. For the Shamrocks King had the high count of the evening with 598. Coras 586, Sullivan 502.

MUTT AND JEFF COMING SATURDAY

An opportunity for universal rejoicing which invariably attends the announcement of a new Mutt and Jeff play will in all probability be enhanced by the fact that these two renowned personages of cartoon fame are to appear at the Grand, one day only, Saturday matinee and evening. On this occasion the locale of their latest exploits and frolics is the Golden West, which should open a valce for endless opportunities for some of the best fun the public has been able to witness in many a day. Critics all over the country have proclaimed the production one of the best that Manager Gus Hill has arranged since he took the pair of popular "Bud" Fisher comics and presented them upon the stage. For three acts they are permitted to run riot with the gamut, and the result of their antics and follery forms almost three hours of irresistable screams, mirth, and unadulterated laughter. From start to finish the auditor is thrown into the very pits of side-splitting machination. In fact, one is bound to laugh whether they wish to or not—quite an achievement in these days of fast-changing fashions and serious conditions.

The company is composed of a select cast. This includes a champion beauty chorus of the prettiest young women gathered in a single offering. The music comprises a dozen song hits, while there is an attractive array of inimitable specialties, surprise features and novelties.

American Flyers on Atlantic Flight

Planes Leave for Halifax on First Leg of Journey.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, May 8. — The first trans-atlantic flight was begun when three "N. C." Navy Curtiss, hydro-airplanes left the government air station at Rockaway Beach, at 10 a.m., to-day, on the first leg of their journey—Rockaway to Halifax, a distance of 540 miles.

The N. C. 3 with Commander John H. Towers, chief of the expedition, was the first plane to take the air; the N. C. 1, with Lieut. Commander P. N. L. Bellinger, and the N. C. 4, with Flight Commander A. C. Reid as commanding officers, were close behind.

The planes were escorted to sea by a squadron of navy scout planes.

Proceeding in a general direction north easterly, the trio of hydro seaplanes should reach Halifax before nightfall, barring mishaps, thence the route runs 460 miles to Trepassey, 1350 miles to the Azores, another 800 miles to Portugal, and on to Plymouth, England.

PASSED CHATHAM.

(Special to The Examiner.)

CHATHAM, Mass., May 8. — The three naval hydro-airplanes passed Chatham naval station on their flight to Halifax, N. S., at 1.23 p.m., taking their bearings from Chatham. They appeared to be pointing northeastward on the Cape Sable course.

FRANK M'CULLOUGH HAS BEEN CAPTURED

ter and Mulholland, and was taken direct to the jail.

"The beauty of the capture is that it was done without a shooting scrape," was Inspector George Guthrie's only remark. This morning a general feeling of happiness appeared in the detective department. Everyone seemed happy. Detective Cronin smiled and it looked as though the veteran detective knew that McCullough was within fifteen minutes of being captured. Much satisfaction is felt by the force.

The Reward.

"Who's to get the $1,000 reward offered by the Provincial authorities for McCullough's capture," The Examiner asked Inspector Guthrie.

"No one on the force is permitted to take a reward," was the answer.

"Is there any one who aided in the information that McCullough was at 78 Bathurst street?"

"I am not at liberty to say as to that yet," replied the Inspector.

While the police authorities and detectives who figured in the capture refuse to divulge anything relating to the apprehending of McCullough, it is believed that the information as to McCullough's whereabouts came from some one outside the detective department, and in this event the reward will probably go to that party.

Due For a Surprise.

McCullough will, it is believed, receive a surprise when he enters his death cell at the jail.

The window through which he escaped has been bricked over, at the discretion, it is understood, of the governor of the jail and the parks commissioner. There are still two other windows in the cell, but these McCullough will find, have been strongly strengthend by means of heavy wire netting placed on the outside. The window which was bricked, and through which McCullough escaped, was the only one of the three through which access could be had with some one from the outside on the wall.

Date of Hanging.

"This man shall be hanged on June 2nd," said Sheriff Mowatt to-day. He was to have been executed on May 2nd. The Justice Department postponed the execution for a month, which will expire June 2nd."

"But the justice reprieve allows him six weeks," stated the reporter.

"I am governed by instructions from Ottawa," replied the sheriff.

"But if you are restrained from carrying out hanging by reprieve what then?"

"As I have told you, under existing orders June 2nd will be the date on which he will pay the penalty."

"Unless you are restrained by proper authorities?" "Exactly so," replied the sheriff.

The Justice Department will recognize the reprieve of six weeks, of course," said E. C. Robinette, K.C., counsel for Murderer McCullough. There will be no difficulty. The Sheriff will be instructed by Ottawa in time.

Will Continue Fight.

"We have not given up the fight," said Robinette. "I shall go down to Ottawa. I shall go myself and with me probably will be McCullough's pastor. McCullough's escape was a bad thing for him. The commutation of his sentence was being considered at Ottawa. Petitions on his behalf were pouring in. It looked as if a life term would be substituted for the death sentence. Then he broke away. But there is no fear as far as I am concerned. The situation is unchanged. The arguments that applied when we were seeking to save his life before his escape are still true. I shall go on fighting for his life."

Bathurst Street House.

A reporter visited the home of Mrs. Kate Kinsella on Bathurst street, where McCullough was captured. She said McCullough had been a boarder with her for two weeks and a half. With Mrs. Kinsella lives her son, aged 40, an invalid from paralysis of the brain, and her daughter, and a woman boarder, none of whom the police connect with his hiding.

McCullough paid $3 a week for his room on the second floor, having a window facing a lane. The house is within a stone's throw of the scene of McCullough's crime, and 100 yards from the spot where a Toronto newsboy tripped him the night of the murder, which resulted in his arrest.

One hour after McCullough's arrest detectives removed his belongings in a suit case, only personal effects and a few dollars in money.

On the floor of the room was found part of a saw with which McCullough is supposed to have sawed the bars of the jail cell the night of his escape.

"Will you tell me please if that was really McCullough," asked Mrs. Kinsella of the detective. "It certainly was," they replied.

"My God," she exclaimed, putting her hands in an attitude of prayer.

Mrs. Kinsella said the first intimation she had of a new boarder was when a dark young woman called at her home two weeks ago Saturday and said she wanted room for herself and husband.

"What does your husband do," she was asked.

"He is a driver of a coal waggon," the visitor replied.

"Who for?"

"For Conger coal firm," was the reply.

Went Out at Night.

The room was rented to the young woman for herself and husband.

McCullough arrived at 9 o'clock the same evening. His face was covered with coal dust. MCullough apologised for his appearance and remarked that handling coal was a dirty job.

Mrs. Kinsella said the young woman stayed four days with her "husband" and never went out during that time. Then she left and wasn't seen again. McCulluogh never left his room in the day time, but went out almost every night for about two hours for a walk. During the day he read almost incessantly, Mrs. Kinsella stated.

He appeared to show little interest, Mrs. Kinsella stated, in reports in the papers of his escape, although he read the daily papers regularly. When arrested this morning there was found in his room yesterday evening's papers containing an account of the trial of Vera Lavelle for aiding him in his escape from jail.

TORONTO, May 8.—Prospects of an early resumption of work in local packing-houses resulted this morning in more transactions at the Union Stock Yards, but receipts were generally light, and trading not indicative of any particular trend in the prices.

H. WILLIAMSON HAS PURCHASED BUSINESS

Mr. Herbert Williamson has purchased the tobacco and billiard business carried on by John Andros. Mr. Yeotes, of Peterborough, was in town on Monday in connection with the deal. Mr. Williamson will take possession May 15th. At the council session he was granted a license for five pool and billiard tables.—Lindsay Post.

DEPUTATION FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY

A deputation from Haliburton, comprising Reeve Currie and Councillor Austin, was in town on its way to Ottawa ,to interview the Government regarding the construction of a new dam at Drag Lake, in order to conserve the water supply for the industries of the village. The present dam is unsafe, and will not last much longer..

PLANS SUBMITTED FOR A BAND STAND

Mr. Oliveh Smith presented to the Lindsay council a plan showing proposed improvements to the band stand on Victoria Park. The present stand is unsafe and unsightly, and it is out of harmony with the surrounding buildings, and if not repaired it will be a total loss this year.

After the estimates were considered, reference was made to the plan by Ald. Naylor, who remarked that the Horticultural Society would assist in defraying the cost of the structure by soliciting subscriptions.

Some of the Aldermen thought the present stand might be prepared for this year. No further action was taken.—Lindsay Post.

PETERBORO LODGE ENTERTAINED LADIES FROM LINDSAY

On Tuesday evening Peterboro Gold en Link Lodge I.O.O.F. entertained about 60 members of Kawartha Rebekah Lodge No. 75 Lindsay at supper after which in the Lodge room the Lindsay team conferred degrees on nine members and some fifteen candidates were initiated. At the conclusion of the degree and initiation work a very enjoyable banquet was served and the balance of the evening was spent in dancing. The Lindsay ladies retured to their home town at 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

GEORGE STREET SUNDAY SCHOOL BUSINESS MEETING

The members of Miss E. McKay's Sunday School class of George Street Sunday School, held a business meeting last evening to decide on methods of raising their contribution toward the new Sunday School building. After a thorough discussion of the subject, it was decided that the class will hold a rummage sale early in the Autumn, and the girls hope that members of the congregation having donations for such a sale will be good enough to hold them for donation to this class. The girls also decided to present a play and appointed a committee to arrange for same.

About $100 was taken in at the door.

ANNUAL MEETING HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association, which was announced for Friday evening of this week, has been postponed until Tuesday, May 13th. At this meeting annual reports of all departments of the Association work will be read, a short musical programme will be rendered, and a pageant play "The Wayside Piper", symbolizing the appeal of the Young Women's Christian Association to the hearts and minds of girls, will be presented by about twenty girls. The public are cordially invited to be present and become better acquainted with the work of the Y.W.C.A. No admission fee will be charged. Remember the date, Tuesday, May 13th, 8 p.m.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. Ingall of the Normal School staff, has taken Mr. Carey's summer cottage "Postre" at Eaglemont for July and August.

Miss Edwina Palmer, who gave a charming recital in the conservatory of Music last evening leaves with her mother early next week for England.

Mrs. B. Pitchford and children, Edinburgh street, left to-day for England, where she will visit her mother.

Mrs. Greenslades first year and junior second pupils will give a recital at the Green Music store tomorrow evening.

Mrs. J. B. McWilliams and Mrs. Miller returned to the city on Monday after spending the winter in Toronto.

The exasperation the Labour Council felt last night over the City Council's fixing of wages was given an extra twist by the references to the proposed graduated scale for old men who, it was understood, had grown old and inefficient in the employ of the city.

"It's a downright scandal that any man should talk like that," was one expression. "It would have been more becoming to Ald. Turner if he had moved that these old men be pensioned."

Another member said that some of the decrepit workers were taken on by the city to spare them the relief officer's dole of charity, but it was maintained that there were some employees of long service with the city who deserved a kindlier consideration and fate than was determined by the Council's discrimination.

Mr. John C. Inch has returned to Montreal after spending a month with his brother on Water street, for his health.

Mrs. Geo. A. Johnston and son of Regina, have arrived home after spending a few months with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrow, 302 Water street.

Mrs. H. B. Dean, Peterboro', Ontario, announces the engagement of her younger daughter, Lilian Elise Weller, to Mr. L. B. Kingston, Ottawa, Ontario. The marriage will take place the first week in June.

The many friends of Mr. John Holmes, 277 Stewart street, will regret to learn that he has suffered a paralytic stroke and his condition is serious. Mr. Holmes is over eighty years of age.

Word has been received that Lieutenant G. W. Birdsall is expected to sail for Canada on the 20th of next month. Lieut. Birdsall has served three years and a half at the front. He has been wounded three times.

Local Couple at Family Re-union

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Britton Participate in Ceremony.

Family Re-Union on 59th Anniversary of Wedding.

The following appeared in the Tulsa (Oklahoma) Daily World of a recent date:

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Britton, 1544 East Sixth Street, will be the scene of a family gathering to-day, the occasion being the 59th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Britton, residents of Tulsa for the past ten years.

There will be a dinner, at which members of the family and a few intimate friends, about 30 in all, will be guests, and the aged couple will be presented with a number of fine gifts from their children and friends.

Of the 11 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Britton, two are deceased, and the surviving members of the family will be in attendance as follows: B. H. Britton, well-known business man of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, and Mrs. Britton; J. S., W. L., C. O. Britton and Misses Sarah and Susan Britton, all of Tulsa. Owing to the frail condition of Mr. Britton, the affair will be very quiet.

The Brittons are Kentuckians, the family having removed from that state to Oklahoma a decade ago.

Mr. B. H. Britton and Mrs. Britton referred to above, will be remembered by many in Peterborough—Mr. Britton as manager of Heintzman Hall and Mrs. Britton as his secretary-treasurer. Both were summoned about a month ago to the home of Mr. Britton's aged father in Tulsa, on account of his serious illness at that time. It will be gratifying to friends here that a further lease of life has apparently been bestowed on Mr. Britton, sr.

HER GERMAN NAME OBJECTIONABLE

TORONTO, May 8. — Miss E. Weinke, whose relatives live in a German settlement near Pembroke, has at last been appointed by the Board of Education as an assistant in the Kindergarten Department of Hester Howe school, the Board's alarm over her German sounding name having vanished. At the meeting of the Board Dr. Caroline Brown, a leading woman member of the Board, vigorously took up the cudgels in favour of Miss Weinke.

"She is a natural born Canadian," Dr. Caroline Brown stated; "two brothers, one of them with D.S.M., have served gallantly overseas."

Following Dr. Brown's defence of the young lady the board at last passed upon her appointment, but not until after Dr. John Noble had tendered the advice, "Tell Miss Weinek to change her name as soon as she possibly can."

WEDDING BELLS

WELLS—CHRISTOE.

At the residence of Adjutant Bunton, 515 King Street, yesterday afternoon at 2.30, the wedding was quietly solemnised of May Christoe and Frank Wells, who recently returned from active service overseas.

They were attended by Miss Lillian Tuggie and Mr. Horace Naish.

Immediately after the ceremony, which was performed by Adjutant Bunton, Mr. and Mrs. Wells left by the 3.40 for Toronto, and on their return will reside at 586 Water Street.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. John Hughes, who passed away May 8th, 1918:

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again
Where parting is no more,
For my dear mother I loved so well
Has crossed to yonder shore.

God knows how much I miss her,
He counts the tears I shed,
He whispers "Hush, she only sleeps,
Your mother is not dead.

Some day, some time, my eyes shall see
The face I loved so well,
Some time some day her hand I'll clasp
To never say farewell.

—Father and Family.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad and loving memory of Pte. Nicholas Scott, who was killed in action May 8th, 1917:

Our parting it was oh so sad,
The end came all too soon,
To part with one we loved so dear,
But God's holy will be done.

With a cheerful smile he said goodbye
So manly and so brave,
And told us not to grieve for him
As a last fond kiss he gave.

Three miles from Lens, far o'er the seas
Our darling Nicholas sleeps,
The birds may sing above his grave
While his friends at home they weep.

Farewell, dear son, sweet be thy rest,
In heaven we hope to meet,
Where there will be no farewell tears
But there to dwell in peace.

There Is No Reason To Think that, because you have tried and found to be ineffective many kinds of remedies for Gastritis, Hyperacidity, or imperfect Digestion of Food accompanied by pain or gas after eating, that you cannot be relieved and be cured.

Moncur's Digestive Tonic

is slightly laxative and acts upon the liver as well. It is especially suited for those suffering from Bilious Indigestion. It corrects at once the formation of gas. It assists in the assimilation of food and protects the Inflamed Lining of the stomach in Gastritis.

It strengthens and relieves the whole Digestive Tract. This preparation used in connection with proper diet and nerve sedatives, gives the most satisfying results in Nervous Dyspepsia and Hyperacidity.

Even the old chronic cases show a decided improvement under treatment with this remedy.

What is the Board Of Trade?

It's what the enterprising men of the City make it. A competent Board of Trade is the certain index of civic ambition and progressiveness.

It is a City Federation of all interests: not a union of a class, section or sect. It's founded and fostered as a work-together league—for team-work.

The Peterboro Board is being equipped for action for and service to the agricultural, commercial, industrial and civic advancement of city and county.

It's chief function is to build up by using and applying the knowledge, skill and counsel of members who are especially fitted for committee work.

It aims to unite in co-operation the twenty or more business, mechanical and professional societies of Peterborough which are in fact interrelated.

Is stands for integrity and good faith among its members as well as for just and equitable principles in the business and professional life of the city.

The administration of the Board is vested in an elective council and a sub-executive committee under a form of government that calls for an accounting.

Seventeen committees are to have charge of management, civic and promotive work; five on organization, six on municipal affairs and six on manufactures, trade and agriculture.

Peterborough will grow under the inspiration and backing of a progressive Board of Trade. It must grow in proportion as it uses the elements and factors of growth.

Canada is certain to advance rapidly and the cities will lead that advance. Shall Peterborough lead—or follow? The answer is yours.

Send your application to-day to President J. J. Turner for election as a "Charter" member, on Friday Evening.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

Conrad glanced at the clock. It was five minutes to twelve. He stood as immobile as his duties would permit until the stroke of midnight, when he turned out the last reluctant patron, locked the door and followed the reporter down the still-illuminated street to a dark avenue in the residence quarter. Then the two fell into step.

"Now, what is it?" growled Conrad, who did not like to have his habits disturbed. "I get up—"

"That's all right. I won't keep you fifteen minutes. I want you to tell me all you know about the night of the Balfame murder."

He had taken the young German's arm and felt it stiffen. "I know nothing," was the reply.

"Oh, yes, you do. You took Frieda home and got there some little time before the shooting. You went in the side entrance to the back yard, but you could see the grove all right."

"It was a black-dark night. I could see nothing in the grove."

"Ah! You saw something else! You have been afraid to speak out, as there had been talk of your father having employed gun-men—"

"Such lies!" shrieked young Kraus. "Of course! I know that. So does the press. That was a wild dream of the police. But all the same you thought it wouldn't be a bad idea to keep clear of the whole business. That is true. Don't attempt to deny it. You saw something that would put the law on the right track. Now, what was it? There are five hundred dollars waiting for you if you will tell the truth. I don't want anything but the truth, mind you. I don't represent a paper that pays for lies, so your honour is quite safe. So also are you."

Conrad ruminated for a few moments. He was literally and honest and wanted to be quite positive that he was not asked to do something which would make him feel uncomfortable while investing those desirable five hundred dollars in West Elsinore town lots, and could reassure himself that the truth was always right whether commercially valuable or not. He balanced the pro's and con's so long that Bruce was about to break out impatiently just as he made up his mind.

"Yes, I saw something. But I wished to say nothing. They might say that I was in it, or that I lied to protect Frieda—"

"That's all right. There was no possible connection between her and Balfame—"

Conrad went on exactly as if the reporter had not interrupted. "I had seen Frieda through the back door. She was crying with the toothache, and I heard her run upstairs. I thought I would wait a few moments. The drops she said she had might not cure her and she might want me to go to a dentist's house with her. She had gone in the back-hall door. Suddenly I saw the kitchen door open, and as I was starting forward, I saw that it was not Frieda who came out. It was Mrs. Balfame. She closed the door behind her and then crept past me to the back of the kitchen yard. I watched her and saw her turn suddenly and walk toward the grove. She did not make a particle of noise—"

"How do you know it was not Frieda?"

"Frieda is five-feet-three, and this was a tall woman, taller than I, and I am five-eight. I have seen Mrs. Balfame many times, and though I couldn't see her face,—she had a dark veil or scarf round it,—I knew her height and walk. Of course I watched to see what she was up to. A few moments later I heard Balfame turn in from Dawbarn street, singing, like the fool he was, 'Tipperary,' and then I heard a shot. I guessed that Balfame had got what was coming to him, and I didn't wait to see. I tiptoed for a minute or two and then ran through the next four places at the back, and then out toward Balfame street, for the trolley. But Frieda heard Mrs. Balfame when she came in. She was all out of breath, and, when she heard a sound on the stairs, called out before she thought, I guess, and asked Frieda if she had heard anything. But Frieda is very cautious. She had heard the shot, but she froze stiff against the wall when she heard Mrs. Balfame's voice, and said nothing. We told her afterwards that she had better keep quiet for the present."

"And you think Mrs. Balfame did it?"

"Who else? I shall not be so sorry if she goes to the chair, for a woman should always be punished the limit for killing a man, even such a man as Balfame."

"No fear of that, but we'll have a dandy case. You tell that story to the Grand Jury to-morrow, and you get your five hundred before night. Now you must come and get me a word from Frieda. She won't look at me, and of course she is in bed anyhow. But I must tell her there are a couple of hundred in this for her if she comes through—"

"But she'll be arrested for perjury. She testified at the coroner's inquest that she knew nothing."

"An abscessed tooth will explain her reticence on any other subject."

"Perhaps I should tell you that she came to see us to-night—last night it is now, not?—and told my papa that Lawyer Rush had frightened her, told her that she might be accused of the killing, that she had better get out. But Papa advised her to go home and fear nothing, where there was nothing to fear. He knew that if she ran away he would be suspected again, the girl being intimate in the family; and of course the police would be hot on her trail at once. So, like the good sensible girl she is, she took the advice and went home."

"All right. Come along. I'm not on the morning paper, but I promised the story to the boys if I could get it in time."

He hired another automobile, and they left it at the corner of Dawbarn and Orchard Streets, entering the Balfame place by the tradesmen's gate on the left, and creeping to the rear of the house. The lane behind the four acres of the little estate was full of ruts and too far away from the house for adventuring on a dark night. They had been halted by the detective on watch, but when their errand was hastily explained, he joined forces with them and even climbed a lean-to in the endeavour to rouse Miss Appel from her young and virtuous slumbers. Their combined efforts covered three hours; and that explains why the tremendous news-story appeared in the early edition of the afternoon papers instead of whetting several million morning appetites.

The interview with Frieda, who became very wide awake when the unseemly intrusion was elucidated by the trustworthy Conrad, and bargained for five hundred dollars, explains why Mrs. Balfame spent Thursday night in the County Jail behind Dobton Courthouse.

CHAPTER XIX

When the Dobton sheriff and his deputies came to arrest Mrs. Balfame, the wife of their old comrade in arms, all they were able to tell her was that the District Attorney had applied for the warrant immediately after the testimony before the Grand Jury of Frieda Appel and of the Krauses, father and son. What that testimony had been they could not have told her if they would, but that it had been strong and corroborative enough to insure her indictment by the Grand Jury was as manifest as it was ominous.

They arrived just as Mrs. Balfame was about to leave the house to lunch with Mrs. Cummack; Frieda had left long before it was time to prepare the midday meal. Mr. Cramb, the sheriff, shut the door behind him and in the faces of the indignant women reporters, who, less ruthless but equally loyal to their journals, wanted a "human interest" story for the stimulated public. Mrs. Balfame and her friends retreated before the posse into the parlour. Mrs. Battle wept loudly; Alys Crumley, who had come in with her mother a few moments since, fell suddenly on a chair in the corner and pressed her hands against her mouth, her horrified eyes staring at Mrs. Balfame. The other women shed tears as the equally doleful sheriff explained his errand and read the warrant. Mrs. Balfame alone was calm. She exerted herself supremely and sent so peremptory a message along her quaking nerves that it benumbed them for a moment. She had only a faint sense of drama, but a very keen one of her own peculiar position in her little world, and she knew that in this grisly crisis of her destiny she was expected to behave as a brave and dignified women should— a woman of whom her friends could continue to exult as head and shoulders above the common mass. She rose to the occasion.

"Don't you worry—just!" said Mr. Cramb, patting her shoulder, although he never had had the temerity to offer his hand before, and had often "pitied Dave." "They lied, them Duytchers, for some reason or other, but they can't really have nothin' on you, and we'll find out what they're up to, double quick."

"I do not worry," said Mrs. Balfame coldly, "—although quite naturally I object to the humiliation of arrest, and of spending even a night in jail. Exactly what is the charge against me?"

The sheriff crumpled his features and cleared his throat. "Well, it's murder, I guess. It's an ugly word, but words don't mean nothin' when there's nothin' in them."

"In the first degree?" shrieked Mrs. Gifning.

Cramb nodded.

"And it don't admit of bail?" Mrs. Frew's eyes rolled wildly.

"Nothin' doin'."

Mrs. Balfame rose hurriedly. There was a horrid possibility of contagion in this room surcharged with emotion. She kissed each of her friends in turn. "It will be all right, of course," she reminded them gently. "Only men could be taken in by such a plot, and of course there are a lot of Germans on the Grand Jury—there are so many in this country. I shall have an excellent lawyer, Dave's friend, Mr. Rush. And I am sure that I shall be quite comfortable in the County Jail—it is so nice and new." But she shuddered at the vision, in spite of her fine self-control.

"You'll be treated like a queen," interposed the sheriff hastily. He was proud of her, and immensely relieved that he was not to escort an hysterical prisoner five miles to the County Seat. "You'll have the Warden's own suite, and I guess you'll be able to see your friends right along. Guess we'd better be gettin' on."

As Mrs. Balfame was leaving the room, her eyes met the horrified and puzzled gaze of Alys Crumley, and one of those obscure instincts that dart out of the sub-conscious mind like memories of old experiences released under high mental pressure, made her put out her hand impulsively and draw the girl to her.

"I can always be sure of your trust," she whispered. "Won't you come up and help me pack?"

Alys followed unresisting: the blow had been so sudden; she had believed so little in the power of the law to touch a women like Mrs. Balfame, and even less that she committed the crime; for the moment she forgot her jealous hostility, remembered only that the best friend of her mother and of her own childhood was in dire straits.

Mrs. Cummack had run up ahead and was carrying two suitcases from the large closet to the bed as they entered. Her face was burning and tear-stained, but she was one of thos highly efficient women of the home that rise automatically to every emergency and act while others consider. "Glad you've come too," she said to Alys. "Open those drawers in the bureau, and I'll pick out what's needed. Of course the ridiculous charge will be dismissed in a day or two—but still! Well, if they're all idiots down there at Dobton, we can come over here and pack a trunk later. To take it now would be nonsense, and Sam'll move heaven and earth to get them to accept bail. You just put on your best black, Enid, and wear your veil so they can't snapshot you."

While she was gasping on, Mrs. Balfame, whose brain had never worked more clearly, went into the bathroom and emptied the contents of an innocent looking medicine bottle into the drain of the washstand. She feared young Broderick more than she feared the district attorney, who, after all, had been her husband's friend—had, in fact, eaten all of his political crumbs out of that lavish but discriminating hand. She recalled that she had always been gracious to him (at her husband's request, for she regarded him as a mere worm) when he had dined at her table, and felt sure that he would favour her secretly, whatever his obvious duty. Moreover, he was of those that spat at the very mention of the powerful Kraus, and would gladly, especially since the outbreak of the war, have run him out of the community.

Mrs. Balfame, being a brilliant exponent of that type which enjoys the unwavering admiration and loyalty of its own sex, had a corresponding belief in her friends, and rarely if ever had used the word cat denotatively. She called out the best in women as they of a certainy called out the best in her. Therefore, it did not occur to her either to close the bathroom door or to glance behind her. Alys Crumley, standing before the bureau and happening to look into the mirror, saw her empty and rinse the bottle. The suspicions of Broderick regarding the glass of lemonade flashed into the young artist's mind; and from that moment she believed in the guilt of Mrs. Balfame.

Had Hacking Cough
Couldn't Sleep Nights
Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed conditions.
Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant tated and inflamed condition.
Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."
There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Mr. Treadwell's Vacation

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Elisha Treadwell about the 1st of April saw in a newspaper among advertisements for summer hotels and boarding houses one that arrested his attention. It was this:

A widow with several grown sons and daughters, owning a country home, would like a few boarders for July and August. A small auto, tennis grounds and other means of amusement will be at the disposal of guests; references required.

Mr. Treadwell inferred what was not stated in the advertisement—that a guest would be received as a member of the family. He was obliged if he went on a vacation to go alone. Consequently he had no desire to go, for he was much dependent upon associates. In this country place he fancied he would obviate this difficulty. The "sons and daughters," especially the latter, seemed inviting. He entered into correspondence with the advertiser with the result that he engaged a room for his vacation in July.

He arrived in the evening about 8 o'clock, which was shortly before dark. A negro butler announced that most of the family had gone on a picnic and he expected them home at any minute. Miss Clara was somewhere about, but he didn't know where. Treadwell said he would wait. He went into the living room and, seeing a lounge, on which some one had evidently been reclining, for there were an afghan and a pillow on it, he sat down for a rest.

The twilight deepened. There seemed to be no one about to light the lamps, and the young man soon found himself in the dark. Tired from traveling, he stretched himself on the lounge. The first thing he knew, or, rather, didn't know, he was asleep.

He was awakened by a hand laid on his forehead—a soft hand, which he felt sure was feminine.

"Feel better?" The voice of the speaker was a melodious soprano.

Now, there was something extremely pleasant about this petting, which was, of course, intended for another, and Treadwell was not minded to bring it to a termination, so he simply said "Um!" without opening his mouth.

"I've brought up some supper for you. Do you want it?"

"Um, uh," grunted Treadwell, giving a negative intonation.

Meanwhile the hand was removed from the forehead and slid down to one of Treadwell's. This was becoming a member of the widow's family with a vengeance. Treadwell was somewhat troubled about the result of his accepting these attentions, but both the hand and the voice were so soft that he thought only of how to avoid interrupting them.

"I wish they'd come," the lady continued. "Mother said they'd surely be back by 7 o'clock, and it must be 9. I'm going to light up."

"Uh, uh!" grunted Treadwell, as though his throat were out of order, still holding on to the hand.

"Rather lie in the dark, eh? That's the way with me when I'm sick. I wonder what's become of the man who was to arrive this evening. If he should come and find the house dark it would be a poor reception. He might turn around and go back to the city. I wonder what he's like."

Treadwell could hardly help saying, "He's a fine fellow, and when you see him you will have met your fate," but he refrained. He was thinking that he would excite suspicion by silence when there was the sound of an automobile and a babel of voices approaching. Withdrawing his hand from hers, he rubbed his eyes, started up and exclaimed:

"I must have fallen asleep."

There was a subdued shriek. The girl hustled about and struck a match. She saw a strange man looking at her as if just awakened from sleep.

"Beg pardon," he said. "I'm Mr. Treadwell. I was waiting for some one to come in when I dozed off, I suppose."

"Are you sure you've been asleep?"

She raised the chimney of a lamp and touched the match to the wick. At the same time a noisy party of picnickers came up the steps and poured into the room.

"Mother," said the girl who had been petting the guest, "this is the gentleman that was to arrive"—

"I'm Elisha Treadwell," said that gentleman.

"Am happy to see you, Mr. Treadwell. I'm sorry you've had such a doleful reception."

"Don't mention it."

"Ethel, why didn't you light the lamps?"

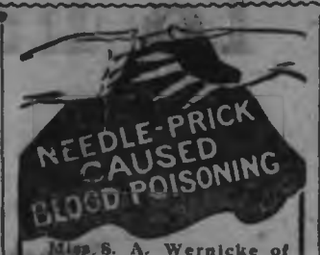
"Why, mother, Jim was in here on the lounge, or I thought he was, and I didn't think he wanted a light. He had gone up to his room."

"He didn't," said Treadwell—"I mean I didn't mind sitting in the dark at all."

Mr. Treadwell was taken into the dining room, where a hot supper was served—with plenty of light—and it was evident to him that he had struck just the place he needed for a vacation. Now and again he caught Ethel looking at him suspiciously, but he put on an expression of unconscious guilt—if that expresses what he was trying to do—and at last she seemed satisfied.

The month of July passed only too rapidly for Mr. Treadwell, who found the companionship of the family very pleasant.

There is nothing more to this story barring the commonplace, except that Treadwell went back to the city at the end of his vacation engaged to Ethel.



Miss S. A. Wernicke of Ilford, B.C., writes that she is convinced Zam-Buk saved her arm when blood-poisoning set in as a result of an injury. She says:

"I was sewing when the needle slipped and pepetrated my finger to the bone. Soon my finger and then my hand began to swell, and became so stiff that I could not use it. I became anxious and tried remedy after remedy. As each one failed I tried another, but my hand only got worse and the poison spread right up my arm. Large lumps appeared, and the pain was awful. Then a friend recommended Zam-Buk and I lost no time in trying it. It wasn't long before the pain grew less and less, the lumps disappeared and then the swelling was reduced. Zam-Buk drew out all the poison and then healing commenced. I continued using Zam-Buk until I was completely cured, and am convinced that if it hadn't been for this wonderful balm I should have lost my arm."

No matter how small the injury, it should have immediate attention if you would avoid serious consequences. Apply Zam-Buk at once and you will have nothing to fear. Zam-Buk is equally good for burns, scalds, cuts, eczema, ulcers, rashes, boils, and piles. All dealers, 50c. box.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Cold Extremities.

Cold feet and hands indicate that the circulation is poor, and those who suffer in this way should exercise every day in the open air and bathe their feet in cold water, rubbing them briskly with the palms of the hands. Following the cold bath in the morning a few simple exercises should be taken, notably the one of raising the body on the toes with arms aloft, then inclining it and trying to touch the floor with the finger tips without bending the knees. Tight stays, tight clothing and high tight collars should certainly be avoided.

"Oh, I Cannot Eat. There is Not a Thing that I Want"

"BUT you will never gain strength if you do not eat."

"No, I suppose not."

"What did the doctor say?"

"He blames it all on my nerves; says my nervous system is exhausted and that I have nervous indigestion."

"Does he think you will soon be better?"

"No; he says I will have to be patient and let my digestive system rest and my nerves gradually regain vigor."

"Well, I know what I would do."

"What is that?"

"I would start in right now with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have been nursing on so many cases just like yours and have seen so many cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I am sure it is just what you need to restore your nerves and make you well."

"I have heard lots of my friends tell about using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when they get run down, but it never occurred to me to try it myself."

"Well, I certainly would try it if I were you. I have never seen such results as a treatment for the nerves from any medicine that the doctors give."

"If you will go around to the drug store and get me a box I will start in right now. Goodness knows, I need something to build up the nervous system so that I can eat and sleep and get some strength."

"All right, I will do that, and I know you will thank me for suggesting it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

ENORMOUS LOSS ON U.S. RAILROADS

First Three Months of Year Showed $120,000,000 Deficit

WASHINGTON. — The Government's loss in operating the railroads for the first three months of this year was $130,000,000, according to earning figures of the so-called Class 1, or the larger roads, reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission and compiled by the Bureau of Railway Economics.

During the period the railroad earnings for the Government was $40,000,000, while the Government was obligated under the Railroad Control Act to pay the companies $170,000,000.

GUM TENDERNESS — A TOOTH-MENACE

It is true that four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-shrinkage, or Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). But many people even under thirty have Pyorrhea. Women, particularly after the baby comes, are peculiarly subject to Pyorrhea. At such time they cannot be too careful about their teeth.

Pyorrhea commences with tender gums, or with gum-bleeding, at tooth-brush time. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame and then shrink. The teeth become exposed to decay at the base and tiny openings in the gums become the breeding places of disease-germs which infect the joints—or tonsils—or cause other ailments.

Beware of that first gum tenderness! Try Forhan's for the gums. It positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No ordinary tooth paste will do this.

And Forhan's cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 30c and 60c tubes. All druggists.

Germans Given Fifteen Days to Sign Treaty or Present Reply

Meat Packers in Toronto Will Return to Work Monday—Powers Will Sign Treaty Agreeing to Defend France—German Foreign Minister's Statement—Wednesday Evening Bulletin.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Thursday morning bulletin:

VERSAILLES, May 8.—The meeting between the Allies and Germans ended at 3:51 yesterday afternoon and the Germans were given fifteen days to sign the treaty or prepare and present their reply.

TORONTO, May 8.—Meat packers and employees held a conference yesterday and the men will all return to work Monday.

Protect France

PARIS, May 8.—Wilson, Clemenceau and Lloyd George will to-day draft in final form the agreement between the three powers for the protection of France. This agreement will not be secret.

Known Germany is Defeated.

VERSAILLES, May 8.—Count Brockdorff-Rantzau in reply to Clemenceau said, "We declare we do not deny the extent of our defeat. We know the powers of the German army is broken." He would not admit Germany was solely culpable and demanded that the allies make peace according to President Wilson's points.

Prince Presents Colours

LONDON, May 8.—The Prince of Wales presented Colours to four Canadian battalions of the Second Division at Witley Camp yesterday.

Wednesday evening bulletin:

(Canadian Press Despatch)

PEKING, May 7.—The Chinese cabinet at a meeting to-day decided to instruct the Chinese delegates in Paris not to sign the peace treaty assigning German rights in Shangtung to the Japanese.

Occupy Leipsic

LONDON, May 7.—It is reported in Leipsic that a great force of Government troops have been concentrated in Saxony with intention of occupying Leipsic, workmen as a result decided on a general strike.

China vs. Japan.

TOKIO, May 7.—Japan has notified China that the anti-Japanese agitation in Peking is liable to cause misunderstanding. The Japanese Government notified China it would be well to prohibit the National disgrace meeting planned in Peking for to-day.

The Easiest Way To Invest

Canada, following the example of other Allied countries, has made it possible for wage earners—men and women—to invest in safe securities without effort.

These securities are called War Savings Stamps.

The cost now $4.04, but by compounding interest, the $4.04 you invest now will be worth $5.00 in 1924. There is no other security in which you can invest such a small amount that is as safe and that bears so high a rate of interest.

Or you can start with 25 cents, by buying a Thrift Stamp. When you have sixteen Thrift Stamps, you can exchange them for a War Savings Stamp.

In May W.S.S. Cost $4.04

In June W.S.S. Cost $4.05

You take no risks. The Government of Canada guarantees to pay you back your money—with interest—at any time during the five years, or to pay you in 1924 $5.00 for every $4.00 (and a fraction) you invest now.

BUY W.S.S. WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Ole Hanson Asks Mayors to Join in Crushing the Reds

He Says Smaller Officials Can Stamp Out Bolshevists and I.W.W.'s.

KANSAS CITY, Mo—"I wanted to clean 'em out, these cooties from the lodging houses. It would do my heart good if they'd come to Seattle," So Ole Hanson, Mayor of Seattle paid his respects to the I. W. W.'s and Bolshevists in general.

"You know, this country is so quiet and so nice and so beautiful that none of us realize we are walking around on a furnace. It's a question right now whether any government is going to survive. What I want to do is to put nerve into the smaller fellows—the Sheriffs and the Mayors and the rest of—those fellows could run the Bolshevists out by themselves.

"We got away with them in Seattle. Why, do you know in Tacoma even the Central Labor Council voted to oppose the Victory Loan; urged their members not to subscribe and circulated propaganda against it? They'd have done it in Seattle only they were afraid we'd hand 'em.'

Mayor Hanson wrote this proclamation "to the Mayors of all cities in the United States":—

"The events of the last few days, the sending of bombs to law-enforcing officials, the rioting and disorder in many cities in this country, has probably convinced the doubters of the menace of Bolshevism and I. W. Wism and that all teachers of force and violence should be suppressed and punished. In my sober judgment the Reds have a vast organization in every country in the world and expect to overthrow all governments, including ours.

"The red flag of anarchy cannot continue to wave on same planet with our emblem of liberty and freedom. Make no mistake about that. One or the other must fall. Surely the red flag has no place in our country.

"Then let us suppress it in every part of the land — in all sections. I note that press despatches state that an I.W.W. national convention is soon to be held. It seems unbelievable that our government will allow that outlaw organization to assemble in masses and plot destruction at such a time as this. However, as Mayors, we have our sworn duty to perform, and we must be true to our American citizenship, therefore.

"I request all Mayors in this great land of ours to close all I.W.W. Halls, throw the teachers of force and violence into jail, demand of the national authorities the deportation and punishment of all anarchists and the suppression of the red flag wherever it is found.

"If this brand of Americanism doesn't suit some persons, let them go back to the country from which they came.

"We don't want them in the United States."

With the I.W.W.'s cleared out, or in the way to that end, Mayor Hanson is now going to turn his attention to the proposal to furnish reclaimed land to returned soldiers and sailors.

REVIVAL AT CONSECON

Evangelist H. D. Kennedy of this city held a four weeks' revival campaign in Consecon Ont., during April. People drove into the meetings for miles around. The first Friday night thirty two persons came forward, seeking the Saviour, and after that great interest prevailed and nightly the house was crowded and the altar thronged with people seeking the forgiveness of their sins. The majority of the converts were grown people most of them being heads of families and many family altars were put up in their homes. No weekly prayer meetings had been held in the community for some years, but the Wednesday night after the revival closed a large crowd was out and over sixty took part in prayer and testimony. The good people of Consecon speak in the highest terms of the evangelist's work Mr. Kennedy went from there to Arden and in June is planning to open here in a big tent.

CLEMENCEAU THINKS IT IS "A GOOD PEACE"

"I Have Done My Best," He Tells Figaro Editor, Who Puts Hope in America and Great Britain

PARIS.—"I have done my best. I think it is a good peace."

This declaration was made to the editor of the Figaro by Premier Clemenceau. The editor adds that from the details he has been able to learn he is convinced that all France is weighing well the immense advantages she will gain from collaboration with Great Britain and the United States.

If it is a good peace, the editor continued, it is also a better one because it is an alliance with the two most powerful nations of the world.

Referring to the meeting of the French Cabinet yesterday, the editor says that after the peace terms were read by Captain Andre Tardieu a speech was made by Premier Clemenceau.

Premier Clemenceau expressed the hope that Italy in the end would return to the side of the Allies. The editor of the Figaro says that the Premier gave the Cabinet Council all the details of the efforts being made to bring the Italian delegates back to Paris.

Ishmael Haki Bey's Arrest Caused By Men He Deported

Eyewitness Tells How He Was Attacked by Armenian Mob—Was Marched Off to Prison.

The American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Reliefs has received an account by an eye witness of the arrest of Ismael Haki Bey, director of deported Armenian refugees, at Aleppo, under the young Turk government, and said to be responsible for the death of thousands of Christian men, women and children. After having escaped detection for months he was recognized at Afion-Kara-Hissar by some of the Armenians he had persecuted as they were returning from the Arabian desert, to which he had deported them.

"When the British forces entered Aleppo Ismael Bey found it convenient to leave," said the eye witness narrative. "It now appears that he had been living quietly in Afion-Kara-Hissar, shielded by his Turkish friends, and carefully avoiding the British soldiers. We arrrived in Afion-Kara-Hissar just in time to see him arrested.

"By a coincidence he sauntered past the station, nonchalantly smoking a cigarette, just after a train-load of Armenian refugees from Aleppo had pulled in. On that train were many who had good cause to remember Ismael Bey's features. He was recognized at once, and with a yell a hundred or more started after him. They caught him before he had gone far, and from their fury I thought they would tear him to pieces.

"Almost immediately however, a squad of British "Tommies" dived into the wild melee and brought out the late 'protector (?) of the Christians,' dishevelled, white and trembling and marched him off to the prison amid the howls of the refugees

"The regiment interpreter was standing nearby, and I asked what they were saying. One, he said was crying, 'Look at me, look at me, you have not forgotten me. I am the man who paid you, 650 pounds Sterling at Marakane. You promised me exemption, and then had me deported to the desert.'

"Another shouted 'You called yourself the Savior of the Armenians. You told us to pay and you would save us. We believed you. We paid you and then you sent 40,000 of us to the Desert where most of us died of disease and starvation.'

"One of the children screamed in a shrill voice: 'You sent 300 orphans from an orphanage to a train in cabs and when the train started you had had it set on fire. Almost all the children perished. You thought you would leave no witnesses, so you had the cab drivers all killed and gave the horses to your Turkish friends, but I crawled out and escaped that I might call you the murderer of children."

Trouble seems to be a patriotic affliction. It makes the eyes red, the hair white, and the feelings blue.

A coloured veteran just back from the other side, when questioned about an iron cross he was wearing, explained: "Boss, it was a extra decoration. De Kaiser hisself sent it to me by a special messenger what dropt daid jus' befo' he give it to me."

BURNS

LISTEN TO THIS

Some time ago my daughter was severely scalded about the legs with boiling water. Immediately following the accident we plastered the wounds with "Mecca," keeping this up every day and the result was the child suffered but little.

In a few months there was not a sign of a scar to be seen, although several of the parts scalded were very severe and scars would naturally be expected.

We have since considered "Mecca" an indispensable household remedy, and with pleasure give to it our hearty recommendation.

Yours truly,
Mrs. H. D. Treasidder,

CATTLE MARKET

Business is still held up at the Union Stock Yards by the strike, with the exception of a few cattle left over from Monday's receipts, and four or five cars which have come dribbling into the market since then. These have gradually been cleared up by one or two of the packing houses, and local wholesale butchers, at prices about steady with those quoted the first of the week. The yards yesterday were practically cleaned up of all stock, and little, if anything, more is expected this week, shippers and drovers realising that it will be safer to hold back their stock, while the present trouble is pending. With the exception of a few employes of the Stock Yards Company, the yards are practically deserted, while the commission men and salesmen are kicking their heels or lounging around their offices, discussing the later phases of the labour problem.

FANNY WARD in "COMMON CLAY" at the Grand, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

MANY PETERBORO COTTAGERS WENT TO STONEY AND CLEAR LAKES YESTERDAY.

Some Were Pleasantly Surprised to Find That the Burglaries Had Not Extended to the Upper Part of the Lake.

As far as could be learned from the anxious trainload of Peterboro cottagers from the Upper part of Clear and Stoney Lake, who went up by the first boat of the season yesterday to investigate the recent robberies, the thieves confined their activities to Kawartha Park and Big Island. All who came down last night from Stoney Lake told the same tale, that their cottages had not been touched. From cottagers at Kawartha Park where 27 cottages were systematically ransacked and more or less robbed, it was learned that the thieves had evidently studied the habits of the cottagers regarding intermittent visits, at the Park out of season as the four cottages, two belonging to Ex-Reeve H. G. Fitzgerald of Lakefield, Mrs. Williamson's and Mr. Edmingon's (Toronto), were untouched, the thieves evidently afraid of the customary chance visit of the owners.

Discovered Theft

Jack Ayott, who is left in charge of some of the cottages along the shore and who attends to the putting in of the season's ice, told the Examiner yesterday, that he walked along the shore of Clear Lake on February, the 14th and noticed the doors and windows of many of the cottages in the North end of the Park had been broken in. He tracked the footsteps of the thieves down the shore and found that they had deliberately passed by the cottages named. He notified the owners of the cottages and upon their arrival the actual amount of theft was discovered and from Ivor Brock's (Toronto), blankets and sheets had been stolen and from Ivan Brock's (Toronto), the steamer rugs, curtains, and practically everything it was possible to carry away was taken. John Cassidy a workman on the shore lost practically all his carpentering tools which were valued at about $30. In some of the cottages the thieves had gone so far as to steal even the table napkins and knives and forks. Mr. Noble of Toronto, whose cottage is fitted up as elabrately as a city house has not investigated the thefts yet but it was learned yesterday that it had shared the same fate as the rest.

Second Robbery.

The robbery is no new experience for Mr. Brock of Toronto, or Miss Dickson as both cottages were ransacked last year. At the first robbery Mr. Brock lost a considerable amount of steamer rugs and curtains and Miss Dickson fared likewise.

Opened Cottages

The cottagers who visited the lake yesterday included, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McBain, Mr and Mrs. Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Hilford and Mr. and Mrs. Walters of Montreal, the latter two families have opened their cottages for the season. It is expected that May the 24 will bring a revelation as to the exact amount of theft that has been done as practically all the Kawartha Park people intend to make an inventory of what has been taken at that time.

Fine Welcome to Jamaican Heroes

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 7—The first batch of soldiers from the Front returned on Friday night, and received a demonstrative welcome on Saturday. The streets were decorated and refreshments were provided by Government and by public subscriptions. Addresses were made by the Governor and others.

The Governor-General informed the men that public works would be carried out in each parish to provide them with employment. Those desirous of purchasing land would be assisted by the Government to do so, and those preferring a free grant of land could obtain it by making application for a plot of Crown land in the parish where the Government is making a model land settlement.

The newspapers urge employers to give preference to returned soldiers as far as possible. Thanksgiving services were held in Kingston Public Garden, where the soldiers were addressed by the Mayor of Kingston and other prominent persons.

Playing cards have been designed on which Uncle Sam, Columbus and American soldiers take the places of the kings, queens and jacks.

PASS UNDER THE ROD.

I saw a young bride in her beauty and pride,
Bedecked in her snowy array,
And the bright flush of joy mantled high on her cheek,
And the future looked blooming and gay.
And with woman's devotion she laid her fond heart
At the throne of idolatrous love,
And she anchored her hopes to this parishing earth
By the chain which her tenderness wove
But I saw when these heart strings were bleeding and torn
And the chain had been severed in two,
She had changed her white robes for the sables of grief
And her bloom for the paleness of woe.
But the healer was there pouring balm on her heart
And wiping the tears from her eyes,
He straightened the chain he had broken in twain, and fastened it firm to the skies.

There had whispered a voice, 'twas the voice of her God,
I love thee, I love thee, pass under the rod.
I saw the young mother in tenderness bend o'er the couch of her slumbering boy,
And she kissed the soft lips as they murmured her name,
While the dreamer lay smiling in joy, oh sweet as the rosebud encircled with dew,
When the fragrance is flung on the air, so fresh and so bright to that mother he seemed
As he lay in his innocence there.
But I saw when she gazed on that same lovely form, pale as marble and silent and cold
But paler and colder her beautiful boy, and the tale of her sorrow was told.
But the healer was there who had stricken her heart and taken her treasure away,
To allure her to heaven he has placed it on high, and the mourner will gently obey,
There had whispered a voice, 'twas the voice of her God,
I love thee, I love thee, pass under the rod.

I saw a father and mother who leaned on the arms of a dear gifted son,
And the star in the future grew bright to their gaze, as they saw the proud place he had won.
And the fast coming evening of life promised fair, and its pathway grew smooth to their feet,
And the starlights of love glimmered bright at the end, and the whisper of home grew sweet
And I saw them again bending low o'er the grave, where their heart's dearest hope had been laid,
And the star had gone down in the darkness of night, and the joy from the bosom had fled,
But the healer was there, and his arms were around, as he led them with tenderest care,
And he showed them a star in the bright upper world, 'twas their star shining brilliantly there,
They had each heard a voice, 'twas the voice of their God,
I love thee, I love thee, pass under the rod.

Narrow Escapes of Famous Bohemian

ONE more foreign name doesn't matter, so we have little compunction in presenting to our readers Dr. Karel Kramarsh. He is a great man in his own country, and now as chief representative of the Czecho-Slovaks at Paris may be destined to play an important role in the disposition of some of the most acute of the problems to be settled there, and particularly the dispute with Italy. The doctor is aPrime Minister of the Czecho-Slovak republic, and has had a long and adventurous career in Austrian politics. Twice since the war began he has narrowly escaped death, once by sentence of a court-martial, and again from an assassin. The correspondent of the London Times who previously represented his paper at Vienna recently met the Prime Minister in Paris and heard the story of his adventures. In days before the war the two men were well acquainted, and the correspondent says that the speeches Dr. Kramarsh used to deliver in the Austrian Parliament were probably the best heard there for years. In those days the Czecho-Slavs' Parliamentary delegation roughly corresponded to the Nationalists in the British House, and provided most of the excitement.

Dr. Kramarsh was working for the re-establishment of the Austrian empire on a federal basis. He wanted the various nationalities to be self-governing and to be united with Austria and Hungary through the crown. For the Hapsburgs he had considerable regard, and especially for the old emperor. He and his associates, however, were opponents of the Triple Alliance, for they saw that it was making the Hapsburgs subservient to the Hohenzollerns, and for the Prussian royal family they had the utmost fear and hatred. When the war broke out, however, he and his associates realised that the liberation of the peoples in the empire could only be achieved by the overthrow of the Hapsburgs along with the Hohenzollerns, and therefore as patriots they felt it their duty to work secretly at first and openly when they dared for the downfall of the Central powers. The doctor never was a wild revolutionary, but a seasoned and sagacious student of European affairs, and it is said that Clemenceau, in particular attaches great weight to his views. His opinion of Germany is interesting, for he says that it is by no means certain that a middle-class or even moderate Socialist Government there will be less militarist than the old regime.

When the war broke out, Dr. Kramarsh left Vienna, but where he went is not divulged, or whether he engaged immediately in a movement to overthrow the Hapsburgs. At any rate, he was found and arrested. As one of the most prominent of the Bohemian representatives and a known friend of their independence he had incurred the bitter hatred of the Austrian junker class, and great pains were taken to ensure his conviction by court-martial. Nevertheless he had powerful friends, among whom was the old Emperor himself. He knew that Francis Joseph would never sign his death warrant, but the aged monarch fell ill at a critical time for the prisoner, and his prospects of escape seemed slim. Count Stuergkh, the Austrian Prime Minister, was another personal friend who worked hard to save him, but he was assassinated just half an hour before he could have taken a step that would likely have ended in the doctor being set at liberty. The military party thereupon hurried on the trial in the hope that the aged Emperor, whose faculties were failing him, would sign the death warrant.

Finally, in order to make it appear that the guilt of the prisoner was decided on by his own countrymen, a number of renegade Czechs were appointed to the court-martial. One too many was appointed, it appears, for in the court there was one Czech whose conscience or whose patriotism pricked him, and believing that the prisoner was being persecuted, he refused to concur with the majority report of guilty. By Austrian law this made necessary a review of the evidence by a high court, and before this court could report the old Emperor died, the young Emperor ascended the throne and refused to sign the death warrant.

After the Austrian collapse and the rise of various movements of the subject nationalities to secure their independence, Dr. Kramarsh became suddenly one of the most important men in Austro-Hungary. He was working night and day, receiving deputations, interviewing representatives of various interests, corresponding with allied statesmen and otherwise trying to get his country established as a political entity. After one particularly wearing day he glanced into his ante-room and saw a young man waiting, apparently for an interview. But the doctor was so tired that he immediately closed the door and returned to his own room. There he put on his overcoat, and walked out again through the ante-room, paying no attention to the visitor. As he passed him, the young man drew a revolver from his pocket and fired. The bullet passed through the heavy overcoat, through a pocket-book, and finally was stopped by a suspender buckle. Had it not been for the protection afforded by the overcoat, the great Bohemian would undoubtedly have been killed. The assassin fired a second time, but the bullet refused to explode, and he was overpowered before he could complete the murder so auspiciously begun.

American Slang.

A book about America, by an Englishman, would not be complete if it did not have some reference to American slang! So we are not surprised to find on page 14 of Frank Dilnot's the New America—a bright and vivacious little volume written by a newspaper correspondent—a list of typical American slang phrases with their English equivalents. Here it is, and doubtless many Canadian readers will be quite as much amazed by the staid English expressions as English readers will be at the wholly unaccountable American phrases.

AMERICAN.

"Don't be fresh."
"Rubber neck."
"Fizzy stuff."
"Get wise to it."
"To jolly you along."
"Take a Brodie."
"Knock me for a blond."
"Cut it out."
"The limit have a bunch on me."
"Turn over; you've said a pageful."
"He's a bird and you want to watch him fly."

ENGLISH.

"Don't be cheeky."
"Slight seep."
"A sly person."
"Ascertain the facts."
"To chaff you."
"Take a chance." (From Steve Brodie, who dived from Brooklyn Bridge.)
"Left me for another."
"Stop that nonsense; get to business."
"Evil spirits haunt me."
"You've talked enough and too much."
"He's smart, keep your eye on him."

Its Profits.

"I see where they are going to have a cat show in New York for the soldiers and sailors."

"Well, the profits ought, of a show like that, amount to a considerable sum."

WAITING FOR ZERO

Tense Minutes Before Argonne Battle Opened.

English Officer Describes the Behavior of American Soldiers in That Fight as Wonderful—"Will Forever Honor Them."

"It was the zero hour in the Argonne," remarked Maj. H. T. Hayden, an English officer, now in this country, "when I was first impressed with the greatness of America. I happened to be detailed to an American unit. There were French and American and English soldiers there, but I was with an American command. It doesn't matter what the occasion. When the battle of the Argonne began I was in a dugout when an American officer commanding a regiment of artillery stood with his watch in his hand, counting the seconds. He had been ordered to begin firing at 5:30 in the morning. All along that line of many miles the officers of the groupings had their orders. The zero hour was 5:30. This particular officer stood waiting, waiting. I lived an age in five minutes. The seconds seemed to drag an awful length. One, two, three, four I counted.

"But finally zero came. This officer turned to his aid. It was not necessary. This aid, a captain, had anticipated his commander. It was a shock, the greatest and the grandest shock I ever had. Waiting, waiting for the time, I was taken out my pins when it came by the thunder of the artillery. For miles and miles and miles the guns roared. It comes only once in a lifetime, and few lifetimes, at that, to be present on such an occasion. It seemed that hell had broken loose.

"I don't know how any human being can live through such a thing, but we did. For six hours the guns spoke, and then for a brief period there was a cessation. Once more they started, and it was not until after noon that they stopped. Meantime the infantry was preparing to make its charge. I rode along the front lines of artillery in the early morning. Below I saw the American boys getting ready to make their drive. It was the most wonderful, the sublimest sight I ever saw or ever expect to see. I shall never forget, because it is stamped indelibly in my brain, the enthusiasm and the exuberance of the American gunners. They may have had no previous training, but I shall forever honor the American artillerist, and I shall never forget the opening of the battle of the Argonne."

Babylonians Feared Ghosts.

In a lecture on "Burial Customs in Mesopotamia and Egypt" Dr. L. W. King, F. S. A., said the spirit which animated the Egyptians in their varied and changing practices toward the dead was based on affection and reverence, but the Babylonian, in the main, was prompted by fear. The Babylonians were probably more spook ridden than any other nation of antiquity, and their magical texts made it clear that the most terrible class of spirits were the ghosts of the dead, who for some reason had been unable to enter the underworld. Driven by hunger and thirst, such a ghost might roam about and fasten on any one with whom it had had relations in this life, and it would plague him until he performed the rites that could give it peace. It was mainly to lay the ghost and prevent it from "haunting" that the Babylonians were scrupulous in performing the due burial rites.—London Times.

THOUGHT IT WAS A BOIL

Doctor Said Abscess

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft, N.B., under date of Feb. 9th, 1918, writes us as follows: "About five months ago, a lump came on my jawbone. I thought it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbour advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh. So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps, a sore full of pus.

He Saw the Battle.

There were no war correspondents in Wellington's time, but that his attitude toward such would have been friendly may be judged by a story told by Lady Dorothy Nevill.

At Waterloo the duke noticed a little man in plain clothes, mounted on a sturdy cob, who rode hither and thither in the thick of the fight. He had him brought to him to demand his business—whereupon the man explained that he was traveling for a Birmingham button maker and, chancing to be in Brussels and never having seen a battle, he was taking the opportunity of seeing this one. Wellington not only allowed him to continue his observations, but presently treated him with a dispatch for one of his generals in the firing line. The safe delivery of the message was rewarded, in more peaceful times by a comfortable government appointment. —London Opinion

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—"For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good, I heard so much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, I tried it and was cured. I am no longer nervous, am regular, and in excellent health. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble."—Mrs. ALICE HELLER, Christopher, Ill.

Nervousness is often a symptom of weakness or some functional derangement, which may be overcome by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of women have found by experience.

Were Cautious.

There has been some grumbling, both among newspapers and business men, about the slow transmission of cablegrams in war time. We judge that there was similar complaint in the Spanish-American war. At least there was cause for it if an account given in "The Story of the Sun" is true. W. J. Chamberlin, one of the New York sun's correspondents, reached Jamaica with an exclusive story. This is what happened to him: The women clerks in the telegraph office took his despatch and counted the words three times before they would start sending it. They told Chamberlin the cost, about a hundred dollars, for which he promptly paid in cash. Three or four days later he went back to Port Antonio with another important despatch. The cable clerk told him that on his previous visit their count had been one word short. "That's all right," said Chamberlin, and he threw down a shilling to pay for the one word. "Thank you," said the lady, "now we can send the message."

Ran a Risk.

"I am the servant of the people," exclaimed the orator. "Don't say vants are terribly the friend. "Servants are terribly dictatorial these days. "People may think you are trying to be a boss."

Discouraging.

Nowadays it is singularly discouraging to look at a dollar and realize it is only a half.

FIRE AS WEAPON.

Civilized Nations Have Made It Dangerous.

A picture by a Chinese artist, dated perhaps 1000 A.D., shows that inflammable materials were frequently made up in tubes of bamboo, which were cast at the foe. Tubes of this sort were at times thrown by engines of war having bows or springboards after the fashion of the artillery employed by Roman armies in ancient times.

The greatest development of liquid fire, writes H. M. Manchester in the American Machinist, took place in the Middle Ages. The Emperor Constantine VII, in his directions for the administration of the Empire, written for his son, has the following account of its introduction. "Know that during the reign of Constantine Pogonatus (668-685 A.D.) one Kallinikos, who fled from Heliopolis to the Romans, (the Constantinople) made a wet fire to be discharged from siphons" (probably a form of syringe —Editor) "by means of which the Romans burned the fleet of the Saracens at Kuzikos and gained the victory."

This battle took place during the first siege of Constantinople by the Moslems. The records state that the Saracens came down upon the city in 1,800 ships, most of which must have been small. Constantine removed the chain guarding the narrows, and when the ships were crowded into a small space, he sent boats carrying Greek fire against them.

The tremendous psychological effect of such fire, as well as some of the methods of using it, is brought out in de Joinville's memoirs of St. Louis IX in his crusade, 1249 A.D. Near Damietta in Egypt the Turks brought up against the camp an engine called la perriere, "from which the Turks flung such great quantities of Greek fire that it was the most horrible sight ever witnessed. Sir Walter cried out, Whenever they throw any of this Greek fire, cast yourself on your knees and cry to our Lord for mercy. This Greek fire in appearance was like a long spear; the noise which it made was like thunder, and it seemed a great dragon, so great a light with its flames that we saw our camp as clearly as in broad day. Thrice this night did they throw the fire from la perriere and four times from crossbows. Each time that our good king, Saint Louis, heard them discharge the fire, he cast himself on the ground and prayed." Twice the Saracens with this fire burned the castles protecting the camp.

THE GAZABO.

They Enabled Builders to Gasp About.

No name, writes J. Tavenor Perry in the Architect (England), could be more descriptive than gazebo for a building, whether it assume the form of a tower or balcony, which was erected for the purpose of enabling anyone to gaze about; and there is no need to hunt through the pages of a dictionary for the origin of so obvious a term. Curiosity is common to the race, and contrivances of all kinds have been called for throughout the ages, and will continue to be, to enable people to put into their neighbors' affairs; and architectural solutions of the problem must always be as interesting as they have frequently proved most picturesque.

Doubtless in the remotest antiquity such means of prying were in vogue, and the Hanging Gardens of Babylon may have presented replicas of the towers of Kent or Chambers; but we will go no further back for examples than Pliny's villa at Laurentium. The villas, as we know, were of a very inspiring turn of mind, and are most appropriately commemorated at Como, their supposed birthplace, on the west front of the cathedral, by a sculptured representation of each engaged in looking out of a window. Thus it was that when Pliny the Younger built his celebrated villa he gave it two towers, and as they could be used neither for defence in such a place nor for smoking rooms at such a period, we can only suppose them to have been erected to serve as gazebos where he could look into the grounds of his neighbors and watch their incomings and outgoings.

The formal gardens of the Renaissance period, as depicted on the engraved drawings of Kip, Knyff, and others, had their mounds and lofty summer houses whence the surrounding country could be surveyed; but towers became a very marked feature in the later English gardens designed by Kent and his followers, who, as the Quarterly Reviewer says, in dealing with their work destroyed the terraces and ejected the statues of their forerunners, but "had temples, obelisks, and gazebas of every description" stuck about in the parks.

And it was not only in England that these towers were found, for most people may remember the one standing in Marie Antoinette's Swiss farm at the Little Trianon. This tower has been built in a sort of Moorish style, and may bear some fancied likeness to that from which "Sister Anne" watched for the coming of Bluebeard.

During the Middle Ages gazabos were a very important consideration in military architecture, and their variety in form and arrangement was infinite.

But these military examples are all more or less of a utilitarian character, and are much less interesting than those erected merely to satisfy pure curiosity; and of the transference of the military forms to domestic use, we have numerous and picturesque examples in the cities of Northern France. A gazebo at Orleans, for example, is an adaptation of an older tower which has had dormer windows corbelled out from its roof on three sides, which gives good views down main streets.

In these days, when the laying out of gardens and garden cities is occupying so much attention, the picturesque gazebo may be again used, as well as summer houses, pergolas, and other adjuncts of the terraced garden. Many suggestions may be found in seventeenth and eighteenth century work for the successful treatment of this feature, but there are two modes, which once had a great vogue, to be avoided; neither by sham ruins nor by Chinese pagodas lies the way to success.

Militarism in Germany.

Most of the old leaders of military Germany are out, but they are not "down and out." They are still hopeful that the tide may turn in their favor and carry them again into power. And there is the possibility that such may be the case. Holland has given the ex-Kaiser an asylum as a private citizen and has interned the ex-Crown Prince. Ludendorff, the virtual dictator of Germany during the latter part of the war, has resigned from the army and left the country, but Hindenburg is still the head of the army, and from all reports the most popular idol of the German people. Thus the rise of a military government is within the range of possibility.

If the fighting had continued for three weeks longer, the armies of Germany would have been completely annihilated or captured. It may be that a mistake was made in not carrying on the fighting for a few weeks longer. If the occupation of territory, the surrender of guns, airplanes, rolling stock and the greater part of her navy have not convinced Germany that she is a defeated power, the levy of indemnities may have the effect. Lloyd George announces the war bill of the Allies to be $120,000,000,000 and that the purpose is to make Germany pay "to the utmost limit of her capacity."

Some very much fear a Bismarckian peace will be imposed upon Germany, that she will grit her teeth and bide the time for revenge; but there is nothing Bismarckian or punitive in demanding that Germany shall pay to the "limit of her capacity" the cost of the war she herself made.

Branched Them.

Harold's mother was giving a party. She told the little fellow that whenever he passed in front of anyone he must say: "Excuse me!" Harold made many trips back and forth, and got tired of repeating the same phrase over and over, so he finally said: "Ladies and gentlemen, please excuse me for the whole evening."

A Paradox.

The voracious reader can find almost anything in modern fiction. Here is a sentimental paradox from a short story: Each hour that they spent apart only brought them closer together.

Placing the Deformities.

A legal journal says that a suit brought by a portly dame against a little man with a hacking cough had gone to the jury, at which time it appeared from the evidence and the instructions of the court that the big man had won the case. After half an hour the jury was called and asked if a verdict had been reached.

"No, your honor," replied the foreman. "We only want to know which is the defendant and which is the plaintiff."

"The large man sitting over there is the plaintiff, and the small gentleman here is the defendant," replied the judge.

The jury filed back to the jury room. In a few minutes they signaled that they had reached a verdict. The judge received it and read:

"We, the jury, find for the man with the consumption."

Early Hand Guns.

When Edward IV. returned to England in 1471, ten years after he succeeded to the throne, he obtained some forces from his brother-in-law, the Duke of Burgundy, including 100 Flemings armed with hand guns, this being the first to introduce these weapons into England. Afterward they became common. At first they were fired by the application of a lighted match to the touchhole by the hand. The match was a wick lighted and pressed against the powder in the pan. The invention of a lock to fire the powder in place of the hand was suggested by the trigger of the crossbow. The matchlock fired the arquebus, or harquebus, used by the soldiers of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, in projecting a ball which weighed nearly two ounces.—London Telegraph.

How To Kill Dandruff So It Won't Return

By A Specialist

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact. We appreciate therefore the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. For this reason it is a pleasure to give herewith the prescription which a famous scalp specialist states he has found after repeated tests will completely destroy the dandruff germs in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and in like manner in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of partial baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you. 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger tips. If you wish it perfumed, add 1 drachm of any favourite perfume. While this preparation is not a dye it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original colour.

ROADS THAT ARE STREWN WITH FLOWERS

There are many who believe that all big corporations and industrial concerns only look to the material side of things and work machine-like for the production of wealth, regardless of the winter's snow and unheeding of the summer's bloom. This is often an erroneous idea, for it is generally realized that man does not altogether live by offices and pens and papers and engines and other accoutrements of labor—he requires trees and shrubs and flowers and the loveliness of nature.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has always paid considerable attention to the development of flower plots along its lines. It is just thirty years ago since a C.P.R. employee raised a few varieties of flower seed in his own garden, and distributed them amongst his friends in the service of the company, with the object of promoting flower gardening at the various station plots of the railway. A vast advance has been made since then; and now the company possesses a Floral Department with headquarters at Windsor Street Station, Montreal, and a Floral Committee which embraces members from the Eastern and Western lines. It is under the guidance of this department that the various station plots and other properties of the company are cleared up and beautified. Thousands of packages of flower seeds, bulbs, trees, and shrubs and large quantities of grass seeds and fertilizers have been distributed during the last few years to station agents, section foremen, caretakers, of round houses, and all employees living on the property of the company. Travellers on the line observe the happy results achieved. The cultivation work is done in all cases by the employees themselves, who in most cases acquired the art of amateur gardening by taking their lessons from leaflets issued by the Floral Department. The best material is always provided. Amongst the varieties of trees supplied are: maple, elm, beech, poplar and catalpa. Some of the shrubs are: weigelia, berberries, laurel leaf willow and sumac. Perennials distributed are: Oriental poppies, Iris, phlox, veronica, gaillardia, lark spur, columbine, sweet william, and pinks. Bedding plants used include: geraniums, coleus, cannas, pansies, asters, verbenas, petunias, and castor oil plants. Standard seed packets sent out contains Nasturtiums, alyssum, mignonette, sweet peas, pinks and dahlia. Ferns and house plants are given to the large stations. The establishment and maintenance of the gardens and selection of the seeds, bulbs, and plants are supervised by Mr. E. M. Winnacar, forester of the company.

The encouraging influence of flower growing on the C.P.R. during the last thirty years has in a large measure assisted in the inauguration of floral societies all over the country. There are hundreds of C.P.R. officials connected with these societies, and most of them received their first lesson in flower culture at the C.P.R. flower beds. Flowers have improved the railway stations, and inspired by the beauty of the stations, residents of the towns have planted flowers and improved the appearances of their homes. In every division of the C.P.R. prizes are given every year for the best displays, and many of these amateur railway gardeners have tried their prowess with success against all comers at the big Canadian and American flower exhibitions.

HOW MANCHESTERS FOUGHT

March 21st was the anniversary of one of the most heroic fights in the great war, a fight which Manchester especially ought ever to remember with pride and gratitude. It was on March 21, 1918 ,that the first of Manchester's city or pals' battalions, later known as the 16th Battalion, 1st City, Manchester Regiment, fought to the last gasp in defence of Manchester Hill redoubt, a slight eminence south-west of and commanding St. Quentin. The redoubt got its name from the fact that it was captured by a "Pals" battalion in 1916.

The post was one of honour, one greatly envied by the enemy in his last gigantic effort to overwhelm the British. That "something" was contemplated was manifest, and on March 20 preparations were made to meet the expected onslaught. Two companies held the forward position at the foot of the hill. This position had a frontage of about 2,000 yards, and was a thousand yards or so from the German line. As night swallowed a day of feverish anxiety ,an uncanny stillness fell on the scene. All ranks were alert, but nothing, not even a stray rifle shot, disturbed the silence And so March 21 opened, and the first few hours of the morning saw no change in the tense quietness. But at 4:30 a.m. the German guns began to roar with a violence surpassing anything previously experienced in the war. An officer who was present has likened the roar to "the perpetual magnified roll of a kettledrum." Awful flashes lit up the sky, and the hill was like the centre of an inferno. Hour after hour the roar of the artillery continued.

About eight o'clock the whole region became enveloped by dense fog, under cover of which swarms of the enemy crept steadily forward. Soon began a battle of appalling ferocity. The Manchesters—lads from warehouse, shop, factory and office—fought hand to hand, bayonet, with an apparently endless army of German storm-troops. Little groups of machine-gunners mowed down the grey masses, but still the enemy waves came on. It was a fight to the death. No quarter was asked; none was given. Colonel Elstob, commanding officer of the battalion, fighting with revolver, with rifle, with bayonet, was everywhere, inspiring his men to heroic endurance. "We've driven them back four times, we must do it again, boys." With these and similar words he conducted the unequal combat. Every officer and every man was a hero. An underground cable connected the post with the brigadier's headquarters, and the messages which Colonel Elstob sent through told in brief the story of the fight—"The Manchester Regiment will defend Manchester Hill to the last," "I am slightly wounded," "Practically all my men have been hit," "I cannot hold out much longer."

The Germans brought up field guns and fired them at our men from sixty yards range. The ceaseless flow of enemy troops, though driven back time and time again, at last had its effect. Cut off surrounded ,with dead dying, or sorely wounded comrades all around them, the remnant which held the redoubt, two officers and fifteen men, taken in the rear, was captured. Colonel Estob had fallen, killed by a bullet which pierced his brain, "If I die," he had said, "you must not grieve for me, for it is with the 16th that I would gladly lay down my life." All through the morning and into the afternoon the battle had raged. Though numbers had prevailed over heroism, those lads of the 16th Battalion had not sacrificed themselves in vain, for it has been truly written that they "saved the British line on the 21st of March."

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances had effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength.) Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until disolved. Take one tablespoon four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflamation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air presure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form or distressing, resembling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

FIENDISH MURDER

Nineteen-Year-Old Teacher is Victim of Horrible Crime

GREENSBURG, Pa., May 8.—The state police and County Detective P. L. Feightner arrested the principals in the Austraw murder case, and before to-night hope to have fully solved the most fiendish murder ever committed in the annals of this country.

Yesterday afternoon James Crawford, a mental derelict, the farm hand who insisted that he had seen the teacher enter an automobile at her school house last Monday evening, confessed to the state police that he and an intimate companion who for the present is called "Joe Doe", had lured the pretty nineteen-year-old girl to the abandoned log house on the Ardary Farm, half mile from her school, and when she defended her honor, Doe struck her with a club and then tied her hands, carried her to the vault and stuffed her body into it. Fearing the teacher would regain consciousness, Crawford's confession declares, Doe placed his revolver behind Miss Austraw's left ear, and sent a bullet into her brain.

Music for the Returned Boys and Those Coming Soon

It will take months, and in some cases years, to banish the memory of the roar of battle from our returned heroes. Nothing will help so much to soothe shaken nerves and provide entertainment that has been lacking for years, like music.

The NEW EDISON

is more than a musical instrument. It is all instruments in one. The flute, the violin, the cornet, the harp, the piano, the clarinet, accordion, everything alone or massed in grand orchestra, all are yours, perfectly re-created, when you have an Edison in the home.

Nor it is only instrumental music it provides. The world's star singers it would be impossible to bring to your home, yet you sit and listen to their marvellous voices just the same as if they were in the room with you. All this you get with the new Edison. Is there any reason why you should get along without one any longer? Think of the Boy Heroes. We'll help you buy it, by making easy terms of payment.

Fricke Acquitted of Charge of Bomb and Spy Plotting

Federal Jury Commended by Judge Mayer for Giving Naturalised Man Fair Trial.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Albert Paul Fricke, naturalised citizen, of German birth, and local manager for Richeter Co., a German-owned exporting firm; was acquitted by a jury in the Federal Court on an indictment charging treason in connection with alleged German spy and bomb plots in America after the United States declared war on Germany. The jury had the case under advisement for five hours, and after the foreman announced the verdict Fricke and his wife shook the hand of each juror.

When the original indictment was returned against Fricke by the Federal Grand Jury it contained two counts, one charging him with adhering and giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and the second with adhering to Hermann Wessels alias Lieutenant-Commander Karl Rodiger, of the late Imperial German Navy, now under indictment and awaiting trial on like charges.

When the Government closed its case several days ago, Judge Mayer quashed the first count and eliminated many of the charges of overacts in the second.

In his charge to the jury yesterday, Judge Mayer stated it was for them to determine whether Fricke believed he was giving aid to Wessels as an enemy of th United States. Nothing had been produced during the trial, he said, to prove Wessels had committed any offence against the United States since we declared war on Germany on 6th April, 1917.

In thanking the jurors, Judge Mayer said: "This case has demonstrated that a man may have a fair and impratial trial in our country."

Two remaining indictments charging conspiracy to commit treason and violating the espionage law then were brought to the attention of Judge Mayer by Thomas J. O'Neill, counsel for the defendant. He pleaded that Fricke should now be released on bail in connection with the other indictments, inasmuch as Jeremiah A. O'Leary and Emil Kipper had been released from custody in $10,000 each.

Judge Mayer consented to parole Fricke in Mr. O'Neill's custody until next Monday, when he must furnish $5,000 bail.

FORTY-FIVE years ago Frank Woolworth, a poor farmer's boy of nineteen years, came to town with his father on a load of potatoes, struck a job in a store in Watertown, N.Y., where he worked for three months at $3.50 per week. At the end of two and one-half years he was earning $6.50 per week, and felt that with that income he was in a position to marry Jennie Creighton of Picton, Ontario, Canada.

Two years later, with a wife and baby on his hands, he was able to save money on a salary of $10.00 per week, and to open his first five-cent store in Utica, N.Y., in the Spring of 1879, just forty years ago this month.

From that beginning, after wrestling with a thousand difficulties that might have sent back to the farm one less determined, he worked up to the modern Woolworth Store as you know it to-day. His business has grown in forty years to a total of 1053 Woolworth Stores, incidentally also the Woolworth Building, the largest and tallest building in the world, with 57 floors for offices; costing 14 million dollars.

The hundreds of men who compose the present organization of F. W. Woolworth Co., all entered the service as boys at a salary of $10.00 and less per week. This, to-day, comprises the largest and strongest retail organization in the world.

The 94 stores in Canada and 77 stores in England are benefiting by the wonderful purchasing power of over one thousand stores, which enables them to offer values unequalled by any mercantile firm in the world.

THIN, FRAIL FOLKS NEED PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most all druggists under a guarantee of entire satisfaction or your money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weigh also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

An Irishman was brought up before a magistrate in England on a charge of vagrancy, and was thus questioned: "What trade are you in?" "Your Honour, a sailor." "You in the seafaring line? I question whether you have ever been to sea in your life." "Shure, now, and does Your Honour think I came over from Ireland in a waggin?" Committed for 21 days.

Lindsay Wants a New Town Clock

Clock, Like Many Other Things in Scugogville, Is Showing Signs of Senile Decay.

Fire Chief Beadle told Ald. Wilkinson, Chairman of the Lindsay Property Committee that the town clock had been showing symptoms of senile decay, and was acting so erratic lately that it had failed to perform its functoins satisfactorily and accurately. He believed that it would no longer serve as a recorder of time.

The clock, according to Fire Chief Beadle, is 61 years old, as a date plate testifies.

Ald. Chambers gave the Lindsay Post a few facts concerning the history of the clock. In 1873 a Bible Christian minister named Ayers, came to Lindsay from Bowmanville, when the Bible Christian Church, (now the Baptist Church) was erected. He secured a clock in Bowmanville and placed it in the tower. When the Baptists secured the church the clock was purchased by Mr. Peter Fisher, who presented it to the town. Ald. Chambers did not think the clock was worn out, as it would do service for a long time yet.

Sin and its Consequences — (May be used with Temperance Application.) Genesis 3:1-24; Romans 1: 18-23; James 1:13.)

Golden Text: The Wages of Sin is death but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. —Rom. 6:23.

1. Verse 1. What was the intention of the serpent in making God's commandments appear to be unreasonable?

2. Verses 2, 3. Lying and stealing, and some other sins often look to be advantageous, why then does God forbid them?

3. Would you say or not and why that God forbids some things to some people while he permits others to do them?

4. Verses 4, 5. What is the difference if any in the culpability of the sin of tempting a person to do wrong by telling the truth or to do so by telling a falsehood?

5. How much of the serpent's statements in verses 4 and 5 is true and how much false?

6. Verses 6, 7. What is the ultimate test whether a thing is right or wrong?

7. Verses 6, 7. If a thing is pleasurable to our sensations adds to our knowledge, and does not injure any person, is it always right to do, or not, and why?

8. Verses 8-12. Why do sinners shut God out of their sight all they can?

9. Which has God made the stronger to resist temptation, the man or the woman and which is more to blame in yielding?

10. Verse 13. From the fact that God first chides Eve for her sin, would you say or not, and why, that he blamed her more than he did Adam?

11. How much did it extenuate the sin of Eve, from the fact that the serpent had tempted her?

12. Verses 14-24. To what extent had it been true that the seed of the woman has bruised the serpent's head? (The serpent may stand for the devil, sin and ignorance.)

13. Verses 14-24. How much has the "serpent" injured mankind? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

14. Romans 1:18. What is the meaning of "the wrath of God," and how is it revealed from heaven?

15. What is the difference in the degree of badness in an ignorant, wicked man, and an educated wicked man?

16. Verses 19-21. Why would you say that God has shown to every sinner his sin and that he is conscious of his guilt?

17. Verses 22, 23. Why is it that intelligent men forsake God, who they know can help and save them, and put their trust in things which they know hurt and cannot save them?

18. James 1:15. Lust is the seed of sin and sin's child, when grown, is death. How many and what kinds of death, are born to sin?

Lesson for Sunday, May 18. The grace of God. Genesis 6:8; Exodus 34, 6, 7; II Cor. 12:9; Eph. 2:4-10; Titus 2:11-14.

What Italy Fought For

"A GREAT deal has been said these days about the so-called Treaty of London or agreement of London," says an authority on Italian problems. "Let me make it clear: As I understand Italy, Italy wants no land, but Italy wants the liberation of those poor oppressed people who have been suffering for centuries. Of course, it was necessary at that time when the treaty was made to stipulate exactly what would become of those people, because in the early part of 1915 one of the Allies was Russia, under the dominion of the Czar. Russia had scheming ambitions to gain cognizance and dominance of the Balkans, and the people of Italy who were fighting to liberate those people did not desire to sacrifie her sons, to liberate them from the Hapsburgs and put them under the Romanoffs. That was the purpose of the agreement of London. Now, let us see what that agreement provides: That Trentino should be returned to Italy—and nobody disputes it. They are Italians by race, instincts, spirit, education, history and everything that goes to make a race. Trieste—of course Trieste is Italian—Istria and part of Dalmatia.

"A great deal has been said these days about the claims of Italy to Dalmatia. It is only a small strip around the city of Zara, and Zara, from the time that history records the fact, up to 1814, was either Roman or Venetian. And Zara was captured in 1814 by the Austrians, after a blockade by land and sea, which lasted five years, from 1809 to 1814.

"We, perhaps, in our busy lives in this country, get confused with the conflicting claims of the people of the Balkans. A good many of my friends and my colleagues find it difficult to distinguish between the Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs. There is this great difference: that the Czecho-Slovaks fought with us and the Jugo-Slavs against us.

"And let us look at the history of Croatia. In 1848, when Hungary put up a gallant fight to liberate herself from the oppression of Austria and Austria was licked, it was the Russian and the Croatian who went to the aid of the Hapsburgs and subdued Hungary. In 1876, when Russia compromised with Austria-Hungary and called upon the Croatians to stand by, Croatia then again lined up with the Hapsburgs. And isn't it significant, and isn't it typical that now, when the claims of Italy have not yet been published, when there seems to be no real conflict of claims, we hear a cry come—from where? From the Croatians and Dalmatians that Italy wants to suppress them! My friends, it is nothing but the Hapsburg politics at work again.

"But I want to make this clear: That Italy is desirous of befriending and helping the newly-organized Jugo-Slav confederation. Why, it was Italy that received them in Rome in 1918. It was Italy that first recognized the aspirations of the Jugo-Slavs. At that conference, which was addressed by Orlando, the Prime Minister, there were representatives from Roumania, Serbia, Montenegro and Croatia, and Dalmatia. But those few men who were there from Dalmatia represented the progressive party of Croatia, Slavonia and Dalmatia, the men who have been fighting an uphill fight for years and for centuries against the Hapsburg tribe."

MAKE HIM TASTE WAR.

French Pollus Suggest Punishment for ex-Kaiser.

A little French weekly, the Cri de Paris, lately received from a group of French soldiers the following letter on the subject of the ex-Kaiser's punishment:

This is how we think the Kaiser ought to be punished:

William II shall wage war until death ensues.

Every day he shall march 15 miles with full pack and equipment, carrying a quick-firing rifle and a load of hand-grenades. He shall wear a trench helmet and never be allowed to take it off.

At the end of his 15-mile march he shall be made to cross marshy ground with water up to his waist.

He shall be made to walk down sodden communication trenches in which telephone wires shall have been artfully arranged so as to entangle him.

He shall spend every night in a narrow trench, in which a few dozen rats shall be kept, and near which there will lie some decaying carcases.

As soon as he begins to doze off a few hand-grenades shall be exploded, as well as a mine, which should throw him bodily some ten yards away.

Every night he shall be made to walk for two hours in the dark across broken ground, and to cross several wire entanglements while carrying cases of hand-grenades.

As for hygiene and comfort, he shall change his underclothes only on the first of each month, so as to become a prey to vermin; he shall be allowed to wash on that day only.

For rations, he shall be entitled to one tin of bully-beef per days, with a quarter of a loaf of bread, and, as an appetiser, some sardines in oil; he shall drink either water or sour wine, half a pint for each meal.

This shall last for 365 days in the year. During the meal hours one might improve his mind by reading aloud to him selected passages from Boche philosophers, in lieu of the customary reading of the communique.

Thus perhaps he might be made to realize the sufferings endured by millions of men who, through his fault, were sent to the slaughter.

JAWS AND CHINS.

It Is the Latter Which Express Character.

On seeing a photograph of Gen. Haig one is instantly struck by one feature of his face—the jaw, large and massive. It is a typical "fighting jaw."

Such a jaw means something. It signifies among other things will power and decision of character.

Beyond question the jaw of any human individual is to some extent an index of character. It has a psychological significance. The man with a "weak chin" is not of the type that "gets there" and "does things." Look at Haig's chin, and Foch's and note how well developed is that feature.

The heavy jaw (often observed in prize fighters) has been held to connote brutality. It is a mistaken idea. In reality it is not the jaw but the chin that counts as an index of character. When a man is a big man, massively built, with heavy bones, his jaw is heavy; but it is his chin that dominates and expresses his character.

This distinction may be best illustrated by referring to the primitive human beings, rather apelike, whose skulls and other bones have been dug up in the various parts of Europe—such, for instance, as the so-called "Neanderthal man" and the "man of Spy," these designations referring to the places where their remains were found.

Nobody knows just how long ago these men lived, but it was certainly several hundred thousand years back. They were rather short of stature and heavily built, somewhat gorilla-like, and presumably covered with long hair. But their most remarkable feature was their huge "prognathous" jaws, provided with teeth much larger than ours.

Yet they had no chins worth mentioning. It was a feature left apparently for later development, and which would therefore seem to have a relation to an evolution distinctively psychic.

The only primeval woman known to this date made her home in a hole in an almost vertical cliff that overlooked a brawling stream which flowed over a pebbly bottom in a valley of France, a few miles northeast of the modern city of Boreaux. She lived, it is reckoned, at least 300,000 years ago. Her age when she died, was about forty-five years, and her huge jaws (as found) contained fourteen great teeth, much worn, presumably by gnawing bones. Among the bones dug out of the little cave with her skeleton were those of the mammoth and the reindeer.

Like all the people of her period, she had little forehead and no chin. Absence of chin and lack of mental development went together, seemingly. Above the eyes were heavy bony prominences, like those observed in the skull of the gorilla, which to-day is recognized by science as our nearest relative on the earth.

Which does not, of course, imply that we are descended from gorillas, but merely that those ferocious manlike apes are distant cousins of ours.

We know rather remarkably much about those primeval folk, considering how long ago they lived. Thanks to their disinterred bones, we can tell pretty well what they looked like. We have located some of the caves they dwelt in, and, helped by the weapons and utensils they left behind, with accompanying bones of the animals they ate, we are able to reconstruct with reasonable definiteness the conditions under which they pursued existence.

Their great jaws and huge teeth were for gnawing bones, and quite possibly for biting—the teeth being doubtless used as the most available weapon in close combat. For those were days when the term "friend" had not been invented. Each male head of a family was always at war with his near neighbors.

But what has all this to do with the Allied general mentioned.

Simply to express the idea that it is not really the jaw but the chin that offers an index to the character that has made them so efficient and formidable in the war now happily ended.

Pill-making Crabs.

These tiny creatures, most of which are about the size of a pea, are in abundance on the shores of the Malay Peninsula. They are usually first noticed on the beaches after the going out of the tide, when they make the beach look covered with loose, powdery sand and holes of various sizes. Upon looking more closely it is seen that little paths converge in the sand to each hole and that the sand itself is in minute balls.

At the approach of an observer there immediately becomes apparent a peculiar twinkle—the simultaneous and rapid retreat of a myriad of the tiny crabs into their holes.

Should the watcher take up his position by one of the holes and remain perfectly motionless, they will in time come out, when he can see them at work.

Coming cautiously to the mouth of the hole the crab will reconnoitre. Satisfied that no enemy is near, it will venture about its own length from its lurking place. Then, rapidly taking up particles of sand in its claws, it deposits them in a groove beneath its thorax.

As it does so a little ball of sand is rapidly projected through its mouth. This one put aside, the process being repeated until the smooth beach is covered with little pellets or pills. This is evidently the crab's method of extracting particles of food from the sand.

VINOLIA HOUSEKEEPER

Tells of Remedy for Chronic Coughs.

Crockett, Va.— "I had a chronic cough, was run-down, overworked and hardly able to keep about and do my housework, when my druggist asked me to try Vinol. I quickly improved by its use, my cough has disappeared and it has built me up in every way." Mrs. H. Honnabell.

The reason we guarantee Vinol is because it is a constitutional remedy containing beef and cod liver peptones, it builds up the entire system and removes the cause of coughs and colds.

A Wonderful Fishing Region

Landlocked salmon caught in Premier Lake, British Columbia, on May 15th, 1913.

THE rivers and lakes in the vicinity of Cranbrook, British Columbia, on the Crow's Nest line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, are happy and prolific haunts for lovers of fishing. All these waters are well stocked with mountain or cut throat trout, rainbow trout, Dolly Varden trout, bull trout, landlocked salmon or Kamloops trout. Excellent catches are made in the fishing season. Foremost amongst the fishing waters of this region are: St. Mary's Lake and river, Kootenay River, Moyie Lake and river, Gold Creek, Cherry Creek, Perry Creek Lake, Doyle's Lake, and Premier Lake. Perhaps the favorite rendezvous is Premier Lake. This lake is situated about thirty-eight miles from Cranbrook. It is three and a half miles long and one mile wide. Mountains surround it on every side, and it is very deep. There is no visible outlet for the waters. Springs that rise adjacent to the lake and streams from the mountain sides gush to rest in its placid bed.

On August 12th, 1915, the Game Conservation Board of the Eastern District of British Columbia furnished Premier Lake, along the Kootenay Central Railway, a branch of the C. P. R., with 10,000 Kamloops trout fry, each one then being about three-quarters of an inch long. A prophecy was made that the fry within four years would develop into fish weighing between twelve and thirty pounds. The accompanying illustration shows some of the fish caught when three years old.

Realizing the sporting possibilities of the Cranbrook region some of the residents met in Cranbrook on November 7th, 1917, and formed the Cranbrook District Rod and Gun Club. A hatchery was started in Cranbrook; 200,000 eggs were brought in and incubated. The enterprise was a huge success, and fry were distributed: 75,000 in St. Mary's Lake, 12,000 in Rock Lake, 25,000 in Premier Lake, 50,000 in Moyie Lake, 2,000 in Doyle's Lake, about 4,000 in Perry Creek Lake. These fish will spawn at the age of four years, and when they begin to multiply in the natural way it is certain that Cranbrook will be one of the finest fishing districts in the world.

The best season for fishing these waters is from May 1st to June 15th and from August 1st to September 30th. The fly is used generally with success. Trolling will bring good results in St. Mary's, Moyie and Premier lakes.

Distances from Cranbrook to the different fishing waters vary, but some of the lakes and rivers is difficult of access. Good automobile roads radiate in all directions.

The scenery of the Cranbrook fishing district is beautiful, and in addition to a creel laden with splendid trout, the fisherman will bring home with him memories of a landscape as fair as the eye can anywhere behold.

Mexican Indians.

There were roughly three settled national civilizations prior to the Conquest (with a minor fourth, the Tarascan on the middle west coast, Michoacan). The Aztecs were a nation of bloody sacrifices, who had come down from the north some centuries before, and treated the far higher and more peaceful civilizations of southern Mexico about as did the Goths in Rome, or the Manchu Tartars in China. Their civilization was about on the level with that of contemporary Europe in organization, and much beyond that in education; though they destroyed and never learned the best of what existed before them. But they were, and still are, a warlike and "Tartar" race. Oaxaca, the California of Mexico, was the seat of a great civilization, of the Zapotecs and Mixtecs, conquered in battle by the Aztecs but a short time before the Spaniards came. The Mayas of Yucatan are wholly different in race and character; but they are sturdy, laborious and tenacious of their nationality. The Aztecs were in course of conquering them when the Spaniards came. And the racial antagonism of Mayas for all Mexicans is extreme; they do not want them; Mexicans call treasonable the "separatism" of Yucatan; but Yucatecans are not Mexicans, had never have been.—Wm. Gates in World's Work

A Great Risk.

"They say it will cost fifty dollars a month to get a competent nurse to take care of the baby, and they are therefore considering having the baby's mother do it," said one business man to another. "Bet ought they to run that risk for fifty dollars a month?"

What Women in Their "Forties" Need

BY A SPECIALIST

Many women approach the critical changing period of their lives that comes between the ages of forty and fifty, unmindful of its tremendous importance to their future health and happiness. Not understanding the functional changes taking place in their bodies, they work beyond their strength, often break down, become nervous wrecks, their bodies suffering with fatigue and their weakened nerves trembling at every step. Often in their weakened condition capillary hemorrhage becomes excessive, this added drain compelling them to take to their beds from nervous exhaustion.

What these women need is something that will instantly relieve the pressure on the overworked nerve centres and give them the vitality to stand up under the grueling strain. Wonderfully effective results are often given in such conditions by the simple use of Ferro-Peptine, a skillful combination of six of the best nerve vitalizing elements known to modern chemistry. These little tablets contain no dangerous habit-forming drugs and are entirely harmless in their action.

Thousands of women can testify that Ferro-Peptine strengthens the jaded nerves, revives the tired brain and puts the energy and courage into the body that enables one to stand up under the unusual strain of the changing period. Ferro-Peptine has to do these things or it costs nothing, as all leading druggists sell it on a positive guarantee of relief or money back.

CARD OF THANKS

Having sold my Butcher Business in Ashburnham to Mr. Stanley E. Mahood, I desire to thank all my old customers for their patronage and bespeak for my successor a very liberal patronage.

I will be in the shop all this week, and I would ask that all accounts due me be paid before the 12th of May.

I am going into the wholesale butcher business and with my experience in the retail business believe I can serve the trade in a very satisfactory manner.

Yours very truly,

H. WHEELER

BUTCHER BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS

Stanley E. Mahood, River Road, Otonabee, has purchased the butcher business of Mr. H. Wheeler, Ashburnham, where he will be pleased to supply the old as well as new customers of this business on and after May 12th, 1919.

I have had considerable experience in the buying and killing of cattle and hogs and should be able to supply the most exacting with the best the market affords.

Give me a trial—you will not regret it. Shop will be open all day.

VON JAGOW SAYS THAT AUSTRIA HUSTLED HUNS INTO THE WAR

Former German Foreign Secretary Makes Effort at Whitewashing—Ex-Minister Even Says That Berlin Was Hoodwinked by Austria.

BLAMING THE DEAD

THE HAGUE, May 9.—The following extracts from the book of Gottlieb von Jagow, the former German Foreign Secretary, which has now appeared in Berlin and is telegraphed here, and sketches the events after the murder of Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria at Sarajevo in 1914:

"The report of the murder reached me on my wedding trip. It caused me grave presentiments, and I telegraphed to Berlin asking whether my immediate return was desired. The Under-Secretary replied that there was no occasion for my premature return.

"On 6th July, after the expiration of my leave, I again arrived in Berne. On the previous day Count Berchtold, Secretary of the Cabinet, and Count Hoyos had been there to bring a photograph and letter from Emperor Francis Joseph addressed to the Kaiser. It was accompanied by a document. In the document reference was made to the murder and the results of the inquiry.

Blaming the Dead.

"Almost all of the Balkan problems especially the Roumanian attitude, which was much complained of, were touched upon, and it was set forth that Austria could not longer accept perpetual Serbian and Russian agitating, which menaced her domestic peace and the safety of her southern frontier. All conciliatoriness shown by Vienna has been in vain. The antagonism with Serbia has only been continually more acute.

"The peace of all European monarchs was menaced so long as Belgrade continued to force agitation. The possibility with Russia was not mentioned in the document.

"Instructions sent to our Ambassador in Vienna upon this contained the statement we could not close our eyes to the danger that threatened Austria-Hungary, and thereby also the Triple Alliance by the agitation conducted by Russians and Slavs. In agreement with our treaty obligations we should stand faithfully by Austria's side.

"Matters stood thus when I returned to Berlin. Like other competent authorities, I regarded the situation as serious. Every occurrence in the Balkans included, owing to the conflicting interests, the possibility of conflict. The present occurrence was so much the more serious because the murder committed upon the heir of the dual monarchy constituted a direct attack upon that monarch. For precisely this reason, however, I hoped the Austro-Serbian conflict might be localised. The Powers must recognise with a little good will that Austria's demand for satisfaction was an act of just defence, therefore the monarchy must be allowed to settle its conflict with Serbia alone.

Meant Manufacture It?

"We therefore advised Vienna to collect incriminating material against Serbia in order to convince Europe of Serbia's guilt.

"Although we could take no position in advance concerning the step which we should follow at Belgrade, we still wished to know whither the journey went. I repeatedly told the Austrian Ambassador that we wished to be advised in advance of the steps on which Vienna should resolve. There can, therefore, be no question of carte blanche as is insinuated. On the evening of 22nd July, between 6 and 8, Count Szegyny came to me and communicated his well-known ultimatum. As Count Tisza, in one of his last speeches in the Hungarian Parliament stated, this was decided upon at Vienna on the nineteenth in ministerial council and laid before the Austrian Kaiser for his approval.

"Count Tisza was expressly confirmed that on this occasion we had not collaborated in settling it. After having taken cognisance of the long text, I immediately informed the Ambassador of my opinion that the contents appeared to me very sharp and went beyond the mark.

"Count Szegyny replied that nothing now could be done as the ultimatum already despatched to Belgrade would be presented there the following morning and simultaneously published by the official Vienna telegraph office. I expressed to the Ambassador my surprise that the decision of his government was communicated to us so late that the possibility of adopting a position in the matter of this ultimatum was thereby cut off from us. The Chancellor, to whom I immediately submitted the text of the ultimatum, was of the opinion that it was too sharp. After Count Szegyny's visit the announcement of the ultimatum, which had meanwhile arrived from our Ambassador in Vienna, was submitted."

Turned Tables on Turk.

Among the prisoners captured at Amara was the "mutessarif," the sub-governor. The British intelligence department was anxious to find out what were the prospects of an exchange of these prisoners for the nine British women who had been detained in Bagdad after their husbands had been deported, and I was asked to sound this particular "mutessarif" on the subject, writes John Van Ess in Asia. So the smoking saloon of the prison ship was placed at my disposal; I was given fancy cigarettes and a tea-service with which to play host, and His Excellency was ushered in. In the past years I had spent many weary hours on the edge of a chair in the presence of Turkish officials with hands meekly folded across my stomach, coat buttoned, knees and feet together, and head respectfully inclined forward as etiquette demanded. But now that the tables were turned I honestly did not intend to take advantage of the situation. When he entered I arose and held out my hand and asked him kindly to be seated, gave him a cigarette and poured him some tea. But despite my assurance that I was a neutral and meant only kindness he refused to be put at ease.

The perspiration rolled from his forehead, his knees quaked, in his abject terror he could scarcely talk. Finally I confess I obeyed an unworthy impulse. I said in my heart, "For twelve years I have sat with bowed head before your breed. I will call it square for thirty minutes of the process reversed." When the boy finally backed away and out, all rancor against the Turks on the score had left my soul. But I think I would not have done it if this particular boy had not been such a shrimp. In the old days "mutessarifs" were loud mouthed, carried a cudgel, frothed and stormed, but they gave you a chance to stand up to them and they commanded your respect at least, for their positiveness. This particular individual was a fair sample of the many who followed in the train of Mon Ever. He looked as if he might have poisoned a far worthier Turk than himself, or done some despicable pussyfoot rascality for the Constantinople clique, for which he had been rewarded with his present office in which he rattled around like a dried nut.

An Enemy to Prussia.

Remarkable in many ways was Elizabeth Petrovna, Empress of Russia and daughter of Peter the Great. She died 157 years ago, after a reign of twenty years. While history knows her chiefly for her immorality, she left behind her as monuments to her better nature the University of Moscow and the Academy of Fine Arts in Petrograd. Empress Elizabeth's mother was the Empress Catherine, who had been the wife of a Swedish dragoon, and became the mistress of several men before Peter the Great married her. Her daughter, Elizabeth Petrovna, when she ruled Russia, once became so mortified by one of the jests of Frederick the Great that she made war on the witty Prussian King, and until her death Russia was one of his most dangerous enemies.

Misplaced Formula.

The floor-walker smiled courteously as the package-laden woman was about to depart. "Come again," he said, bowing politely.

"Yes," replied the woman over her shoulder, "and you must come and see us."

25,000 CASES OF EGGS PUT IN COLD STORAGE IN APRIL

Montrealers Paying Dearly While Thousands of Eggs Were Stored Away—Twice as Much Now Held by Montreal Firms as Last Year.

MONTREAL, May 9.—A survey made by the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association of the stocks of butter, cheese and eggs held by the various firms in Montreal at the end of April gives some interesting figures, and show that while the citizens were paying high prices for eggs the local dealers were piling up their supplies in cold storage.

The most outstanding comparison in the table is that on 30th March last there were held in Montreal only 405 cases of cold storage eggs. During the month of April these stocks mounted until on 30th April the survey shows the amazing total of cold storage eggs held by Montreal firms of 25,383 cases. A case holds twelve dozen eggs.

This total on 30th April exceeds by a wide margin the total held on the corresponding date in 1918 when there were but 18,622 on hand.

With regard to fresh eggs there has been a big jump in stocks during the thirty days of April. On 30th March of this year there were 3,658 cases held in Montreal, while on 30th April there were 9,703 cases. This latter total is not so great as that of the corresponding period last year, when there were 10,205 cases of fresh eggs held in Montreal.

Although the stocks of creamery butter held show a decrease during April of this year, the total being 5,493 packages as compared with 5627 packages on 30th March, 1919, the total last month is considerably in excess of the total during the corresponding period last year, when it is recorded that on 30th April, 1918, there were but 3,344 packages of creamery butter held in Montreal.

During March and April there has been a steady decrease in stocks of dairy butter. On 30th March of this year there were 153 packages in stock and on 30th April last year there were but 135 on hand. On 30th April, 1918, there were no fewer than 1,420 packages of creamery butter held by Montreal concerns.

Cheese stocks have also shown a decline. As shown by the following table, on 30th April last there were 5,847 boxes of cheese held as compared with 7,800 boxes on 30th March last, while on 30th April last year there were 13,676 boxes of cheese held in Montreal. The table is as follows:

	Apl. 1918	Mar. 1919	Apl. 1919
Butter, pkgs. creary.	3324	5627	5493
Dairy	1420	153	135
Cheese, boxes	13676	7800	5847
Eggs, case, Fresh	10205	3658	9703
Cold storage	18622	405	25383

A LOST CIVILIZATION.

Evidences Found in Africa of Extinct People.

Evidences are multiplying that Africa contains the secrets of a great civilization. At present it is partially a savage land, given over to savage animals and equally savage men, and it is difficult to conceive that in the mists of antiquity this continent was peopled by intelligent communities.

In the last century a great deal was learned about this dark continent, and the South African company did much to add to the store of knowledge.

The expedition of this company into Mashonaland, in search of gold, passed the wonderful ruins of Zimbaye, nearly 200 miles due west of Sofala, on the Indian Ocean.

They have been attributed to the Moors, the Phoenicians and the Persians, and it is said by the old chroniclers that there were inscriptions, which modern archeologists have set out to decipher.

These structures were reared of granite, hewn into small blocks, a little larger than a brick, and put together with mortar. In all the walls are seen two or three courses of masonry, where the granite blocks are inserted in zigzag fashion.

There seems to be no doubt that they were erected as places of defence, and also for the smelting, storing and protecting of gold, copper, and other metals.

On removing a quantity of the surface rubbish inside there were found what was evidently three large circular roasting floors, formed of burnt fireclay and slightly concave. There were also remains of slag and other evidences that the place had been used for smelting metals.

It is certain that the last thing civilized men would expect to find in this region, where the natives belong to the lower stages of human development, are these great rock structures betokening the existence of a former civilization amid these wilds.

The natives have not even any tradition as to the origin of the ruins. There are many facts praying their great antiquity, and among them the circumstances that at one of the great ruins at Zambaye an ironwood tree, which was undoubtedly hundreds of years old, had risen through the wall and split it.

He Was Right.

Senor Costa, the Portuguese Prime Minister, in excusing himself from making a speech on the ground that he was no orator, told an amusing anecdote at a luncheon party given in his honor during his recent visit to London. It appears that when first put up for the Portuguese National Council he prefaced his opening address to the electors by alluding frankly to his lack of oratorical gifts. After he had finished a man pushed forward, grasped his hand warmly, and said: "Senor, I've been a lifelong opponent of yours, but at the coming election I shall vote for you." "Thank you," replied Costa, much gratified. "May I ask the particular reason for your change of views?" "Because you are the first speaker on either side that I have heard tell the truth," was the reply. "You said when you began that you couldn't make much of a speech, and by heavens, senor, you can't."

Stamps In Holy Land.

The Holy Land has become a stamp-issuing country. For use by persons employing the mail system which the British, represented by the Egyptian expeditionary force, has established, a franking label of special design has been put forth. The letters "E. T. F." appear at the top and at the bottom; the words "one piaster" are at the left, in English, and at the right in Arabic; in the centre appear the words "postage paid," once in each language, and the figure 1 is in each corner, either in English or Arabic. The stamp has appeared in ultramarine and in dark blue and has been surcharged with a new value, five millieme, which is half of one piaster. Thus three varieties already have appeared, and others may be expected.

Indeed!

British prisoners who have recently returned to England bear witness to the fact that countless Germans propose settling in Britain after peace if they are allowed. Among the many prison officials who made no secret of their intentions in this respect was a brother of Michaelis, practising in

LITTLE GIRL NOW A PICTURE OF HEALTH

Suffered Day and Night for Years—After Taking Tanlac Looks Like Different Child.

"My little daughter Jean has gained ten pounds on Tanlac, and now she's the very picture of health," said Jim Snell, a well known poultry and truck farmer of Raleigh, Tenn.

"When Jean was only seven years old," continued Mr. Snell, "she was taken with something like nervous stomach trouble, and there wasn't a day or night she didn't suffer, until we got Tanlac for her, and she's now fifteen years old. Her stomach was in such a bad condition she had to live on toast and eggs and milk, and she couldn't eat any kinds of meats or vegetables. She complained of pains in her stomach all the time and would spit up half digested food. She was nervous and would toss and roll all night, for she couldn't sleep well at all. She was bilious and her complexion was bad, and she looked pale and sickly all the time. We gave her most every kind of medicine we could think of, but nothing helped her.

"After hearing of some of the good work Tanlac was doing, we got some for Jean, and it has done wonders for her. She actually looks and acts like a different child, and she's taken only two bottles of the medicine. She commenced picking up as soon as she started Tanlac, and she has gained ten pounds. She never has indigestion now, and eats just anything she wants—even such things as beans and other vegetables, and meats of all kinds. Why, she ate corn for dinner yesterday, and it was the first time in eight years she dared taste corn, and she eats boiled bacon that's cooked with vegetables. She's not nervous nor bilious now, and sleeps like a baby, and we never hear anything out of her from the time she goes to bed until she gets up in the mornings. Her skin has cleared up and her cheeks look fresh and rosy. You can just look at her and tell she's enjoying good health."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringe & Son.

GRAIN MARKET

Grain markets were strong, both cash and options. Bad weather conditions have again set back deliveries and there is a very strong demand for all cash offerings. In the local cash market Manitoba oats and barley are each quoted 2c. higher. Ontario barley 3c. higher. The options fluctuated over a wide range, but came up very strong at the finish. After the close of the market the Government crop report came out, showing a winter wheat condition of 100.50 per cent. as against 99.8 for the April report. This was an unexpected showing and was regarded as a bearish report.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William; No 1 Northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 Northern, $2.20 1-2; No. 3 Northern, $2.17 1-2; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

Raid on Card Club By Police Squad To Be Contested

Robert M. Moore Has Self Arrested to End Action of Detectives.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Robert M. Moore, well-known criminal lawyer, whose home is at 137 West Ninety-seventh Street, with five other men, was arrested while playing cards in a club in West Thirty-first Street. The six men were arrested by a squad of detectives from the staff of Inspector James S. Bolan, of the old Tenderloin district, and after they were arraigned before a lieutenant in the West Thirtieth Street Police Station, each was released on $500 bail for arraignment before Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court.

According to statments made by Mr. Moore and his companions at the station house, the six men were engaged in a game of poker when Detective Kennealy and three other men of Detective Bolan's staff suddenly burst open the door of the club on the second floor.

The detectives have been in the habit of descending on the club several times every day, and when they appeared Mr. Moore demanded to know if they had a search warrant or any other kind of a warrant which justified them in entering the premises without the consent of the lessors.

The detectives announced, it was declared by members of the party later, they didn't have a warrant of any kind, but that they were convinced the men were gambling, and they had come to arrest three of the men present.

"Am I one of the three?" asked Mr. Moore.

"No, we don't want you," the detectives are alleged to have replied.

"But I am playing in this game," insisted Mr. Moore, "and if anybody is guilty of gambling, I am equally guilty. I therefore demand that you arrest me, if you arrest anybody else here."

Detective Kennealy thereupon announced he would place all six men under arrest, and turning to the other detectives he said: "Get the patrol waggon, and take that table and those chairs to the station house as evidence."

On the arrival of the patrol waggon Mr. Moore and the other five men were taken to the West Thirtieth Street Station, where the others identified themselves as Adam Blake, Gus Haskell, Henry Samson, William Wade, and Edward Marks.

After the men had been bailed out, Mr. Moore declared the arrest of himself and the other men an outrage, and contrary to repeated rulings of the Supreme Court. Magistrate Corrigan, and Edward Swann, District Attorney, that persons engaging in card games for amusement do not violate the law as long as none of them runs the game as a business. He stated that the police repeatedly violate the constitution of the United States in invading premises without a warrant of any kind. None of the detectives who participated in the arrest, he declared, had any evidence upon which to base the charge of keeping and aiding and abetting in the maintenance of a gambling house.

It is understood Mr. Moore participated in the game to test the right of the police to raid friendly games of chance without evidence they are being run by professionals.

City's Hopes for Radial Lines Get New Inspiration

Conventions Held on Wednesday and Thursday Assume at Least a Branch Electric Line From Lake Front to This City.

SCHEME NOT A NEW ONE

Peterborough's interests in the conventions at Whitby and Belleville this week, sponsored by the Ontario Radial Railway Association, are directed toward the prospect of the early fulfillment of promises first entertained in Mayor Buller's term. The scheme as then broached proposed radial railways leading from this city, together with an electric distribution system for the benefit of farmers and nearby villages.

Deputations from the City Council have been bringing home from Toronto meetings of the Radial Railway Association annual assurances that the demands and the needs of this district and of Eastern Ontario as a whole would soon be provided for, and in the present activity there are encouraging evidences of an early undertaking of the plans that have at least had ample time for complete consideration and preparation.

Peterborough Has Its Own Plans

For a long time Peterborough has retained the hope of realising a system of electric railways radiating from this city and reaching into the nearby townships and counties that are connected by the present lines. There is a local feeling of confidence that certain electric lines would not only prove a benefit to the rural communities, but would also be a decided advantage to the city.

The discussions at Whitby contemplate a line from that town running easterly to Peterborough and continuing to Ottawa. There is an indefiniteness about this phase of the scheme that invites explicitness of [illegible], but in all the address there has been, at any rate, assurances of a through line to this city, which would probably form the nucleus of the broader scheme which has been in the minds of the Board of Trade and City Council for some years.

The Toronto and Eastern Railway, only a section of which was built at Whitby and Bowmanville, was taken over by the Government, but instead of proceeding with its extension there is a strong preference among the municipalities for the electrification of the C. N. R. from Napanee west, and from this road it is intended to construct feeder lines from Peterborough and other points.

Belleville Resolution.

A resolution at the Belleville meeting yesterday was unanimously carried recommending that a Hydro-Electric municipal railway to constructed east from Toronto to the St. Lawrence River district, serving the lake townships, with branches to Peterborough and other municipalities desiring connection, and that the Government of Canada be requested to transfer on just terms the Toronto and Eastern Railway to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission so as to form a portion of such Hydro-Electric municipal radial railway.

Sixty-Two Radial By-Laws.

The meeting also passed a resolution urging the Provincial Government to grant the necessary order-in-Council so that construction may be commenced on radial railways as speedily as possible, for which sixty-two municipalities have carried by-laws. A further resolution was adopted petitioning the Dominion Government to co-operate with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission so that municipalities through the Commission may acquire by lease or purchase such branch lines of the Grand Trunk Railway and the Canadian National Railways systems as will enable the municipalities to carry out the Hydro-Electric scheme to the best advantage through the Province of Ontario.

Special Prices To Continue

WE ARE STILL SACRIFICING WOOD IN ORDER TO CLEAR OUR YARD.

For the past two days our special prices in wood have created considerable new business with the result we have decided to continue these special prices all this week. We need the room in our yard when the sowing season opens in about two or three weeks' time. You can profit by our needs. With coal going to fourteen dollars a ton it stands to reason that wood will be dearer before it will be cheaper and the following prices which we quote for the remainder of the week should appeal to those in need of wood.

Slabs—Four dollars a load.
Mixed wood—Nine dollars a cord.
Hardwood—Ten dollars a cord.

This wood is of good quality and is cut in stove lengths already for use.

REPRIEVE HAS BEEN EXTENDED

McCullough Had a Good Night—Extra Precautions Taken.

TORONTO, May 9.—There was little conversation in the death cell last night between Murderer McCullough and his guard, R. F. Eyre, of 24 Beaver avenue, formerly a sergeant in the C.E.F., who was appointed to the death watch by the Sheriff yesterday afternoon, and was on duty for the first time last night. Mr. Eyre reports that the prisoner slept from 11 o'clock last night until he was relieved at 6.30 this morning.

"He told me he would be glad when it was all over," said the guard.

"The suspense seemed to be trying him. He told me that he heard the officers coming up the stairs in the house where he was arrested. He had his boots off at the time, and he grabbed them up before jumping from the window. He thought the jump would break his back.

"When I got up," he said, "there was nothing to do but to put up my hands, as they were pointing their revolvers at me."

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 9.—Official notification from the Attorney-General's department was received to-day by Sheriff Fred Mowat authorising the reprieve in the execution of Frank McCullough to be extended until June 13. This last notice has been issued at the instigation of Judge Rose, who passed sentence on McCullough and now decides the uncertainty which has existed as to whether the date would be June 2nd or 13th. The report at the jail this morning on McCullough's welfare was favourable. "He is in good health," said Turnkey Addey when asked as to the condemned man's condition. "He appeared rather fatigued and tired out when he was brought in and was very hungry. Consequently he has slept considerably and has a good appetite. He has talked very little since his return, but seems in fair spirits. He seems to have had nothing substantial to eat for many days."

Asked as what precautions were being taken to prevent the murderer again effecting or attempting an escape, Turnkey Addey replied that every possible precaution was now in force at the jail. The turnkey refused to comment on what system of guarding was in force during the night, but it is understood that one night watchman, a returned soldier, has been taken on as night watch and will go into the cell with McCullough from ten o'clock at night until eight o'clock in the morning. During the day, it is understood the guards at the jail will watch and guard McCullough.

"Are there any precautions to prevent him killing himself with some article with which he eats or by any means?"

"Every precaution that is possible is in force."

Three Death Watchmen.

The matter of appointing three death watchmen to guard McCullough as formerly, is considered a difficult one by Sheriff Mowat, under whose jurisdiction this matter falls. To-day the Sheriff stated that until this matter had been completely cleared up, and that he was able to secure three men who were willing to take on the work, the guarding would be done by the guards at the jail, and during the night by the one night watch now appointed. The Sheriff considers that this system of guarding the prisoner will be found adequate enough to prevent him duplicating his escape.

"My relations with McCullough terminated when he went away," said Rev. R. H. Nelles, former spiritual adviser to McCullough, who visited

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

It Will Be Twenty-five or Thirty Days Before the Pact is Signed The Austrian Treaty.

CRITICIZES TERMS

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 9.—Both the Council of Four and Council of Foreign Ministers resumed sessions this morning. The former is giving special attention to impending negotiations between the Allies and the latter is discussing reports on boundaries of former Austro-Hungarian territories.

It is generally believed that the Germans will answer the delivery of the treaty of peace by proposals relative to certain phases of the document. A competent commission will examine the German answer and if modifications are necessary the Germans will be notified. It is expected that in this rejoinder the enemy will be allowed four or five days to agree definitely to the whole treaty. It is therefore probable that from twenty-five to thirty days will elapse before the pact is finally signed.

Criticizes Conditions.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 9.—The Socialist press criticises the peace conditions severely, one newspaper, for example, under caption of "A Peace of Oppression and Injustice," says: "The Capitalist and Imperialist world as it exists could only produce Capitalist and Imperialist peace, which prepares the way for another war. Between President Wilson's fourteen points and certain stipulations communicated to Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau there are [illegible] and contrasts which are too striking."

Evidence of Compromise.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 9.—After moving to consider terms of peace imposed upon Germany by the Allied and Associated nations, the National Executive committee of the British Labour party issued a manifesto declaring the treaty in some essentials particularly opposed to the declarations of President Wilson of the Inter-Allied Labour conference and the Berne conference, and very defective from the standpoint of world peace. "It bears evidence of a compromise by Capitalism and Imperialism which still dominate European States," the manifesto declared. "Any permanent denial of Germany of an opportunity to become a mandatory under the League of Nations must cause jealousy and unrest, leading to further international disputes." Other points criticized were the failure to give Germany representation on the Reparations Commission and the omission of provisions for a progressive limitation of armaments by the other signatories to the treaty. The manifesto protested against the permanent separation of the Saar basin from Germany and advocated a plebiscite in Malmedy and other contested territories between Belgium and Germany.

DELEGATES DIVIDED.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 8. — The German delegates to the peace congress are considerably divided among themselves in their views on the peace terms submitted by the allied and associated powers it was intimated to-day by high British authority, a Reuter statement says.

ONE SOLUTION.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 9.—The naval terms of the treaty to be presented to Austria, as they have been completed, entirely wipes out the Austrian navy. All the ships of that navy, large and small, are to be surrendered. Their disposition among the Allies is to be adjusted later.

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, May 9.—"There is only one immediate solution, peace with Russia and the use of Bolshevik troops for Germany," Herr Geisberts, one of the German delegates at Versailles, is quoted by the Neue Zeitung as declaring with reference to the peace terms submitted.

WANTED

Active Young Man With a New Vision of Things.

(Special to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 9.—Wanted, a young man, active, who has a new vision of things, who would transfer the Department of Trade and Commerce into a Business Department.

These were the exact words used by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux in the House last night in again insisting that Sir George Foster be "Promoted."

"I do not believe Sir George Foster is in the right place," insisted the member for Maisonneuve.

He suggested that Hon. C. C. Ballantyne be made Sir George Foster's successor.

BRANCHES RUNNING TO PETERBORO AND LAKE TOWNSHIPS

Peterboro Was Represented at Conference Held Yesterday in Belleville.

(Special to the Examiner.)

BELLEVILLE, May 9. — Enthusiasm for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commissions Radial Plans was displayed here yesterday, when over one hundred delegates from the municipalities of Peterboro, Belleville, Campbellford, Percy, Seymour, Trenton and other eastern Ontario centres, gathered in the Council Chamber to hear Sir Adam Beck outline the radial scheme, and incidentally refer to the announcement of Mr. D. B. Hanna, that the Toronto and Eastern would be built and operated by the Dominion Government.

"We will go ahead" and organize the entire district on behalf of the Hydro Radials," said Col. Ponton, at the conclusion of Sir Adam's address.

Drawing a distinction between public ownership by the municipalities and the Government's, whether federal or provincial, Sir Adam said:

"Public ownership by the municipalities is much safer. If is more efficient, more lasting and more business like. It is much less liable to political patronage and indifference by politicians, which in government ownership is inimical to the best efficiency. Conditions within twenty-five miles of Toronto were similar to those around Belleville.

Transportation Needs.

Mayors, Reeves and Councillors, who spoke prior to Sir Adam, all emphasized the need of radial transportation in the district, not only to develop urban and rural centres, but to develop the great industrial, lumbering and mining industries of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

"I am sure Sir Adam Beck will not ask us to antagonize in any way the Dominion government," said Col. Ponton. "More can be obtained by diplomacy than antagonism, even from the Department of Railways, which leaves itself open to attack more than others."

Resolutions asking the Dominion government to cooperate with the Hydro-Electric Commission so that branch lines of the G.T.R. and C.N.R., may be acquired by the municipalities to carry out the Hydro radial scheme to the best advantage of the province, urging the provincial government to pass the order in council permitting the construction of the radials, and recommending the construction of a hydro radial from Toronto east to the St. Lawrence river, serving the lake townships, with branches to Peterboro and other municipalities, were passed by the meeting.

City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, of Peterboro, was present at the meeting.

THE WEATHER

One of the surest signs of the advance of the spring season is the leafing of the trees. For many years I have taken particular note of the date the maples began to bud, when they appeared in half-leaf, and the date of full foliage. These dates naturally vary considerably. Last spring the street maples began to leaf on May 8th, leaves were half formed on May 15th, and trees in full dress on May 21st. The year previous they began to don their summer apparel on May 10th, were in half dress on May 22nd, and not in full leaf until June 1st. This was unusually late. This year they are backward in leafing and it is doubtful if they will be in full foliage by May 24th, though the average date is about May 22nd. —W. P.

NEWSPRINT INVESTIGATION

One Reason Given for Increased Cost of Paper Manufacture—Varying Costs.

MILL REFUSE

OTTAWA, May 9. —Mr. Thomas L. Phillips, for the Fort Francis Mills, which are accused of diverting power generated in Canada, to the United States to a greater extent than the law allows, thereby increasing the cost of paper manufacture on the Canadian side, put Engineer O. S. Zelner of that company into the box at the news print inquiry by Commissioner Pringle to prove that in 1918 an average of slightly more than four thousand horse power was retained for use in Canada. Mr. Phillips produced an agreement between the company and the Crown to the effect that four thousand should be thus retained, but Mr. W. N. Tilley, for the publishers, contended that other statues provided that there shall be a fifty-fifty division with a surplus of one thousand kept on the Canadian side. "We admit that more than half the power went to the States. There will be no dispute about that," said Mr. Phillips.

Commissioner Pringle remarked that the Fort Frances mill, according to Auditor Clarkson's figures, had made a profit of $15.61 per ton on newsprint in the July to November period without allowing for cost deductions claimed by the publishers and had made an average of $8.72 from March 1917, to the end of November, 1918 When Mr. Dahlberg still contended that the price allowed Fort Frances is too low, the Commissioner remarked: "Well, it's a good thing you have got the Appellate tribunal to go to then."

Government Auditor.

Government Auditor G. T. Clarkson has figures which show that the diversion of Canadian power to the United States mills increased the cost of manufacture at Fort Frances from $6.07 to $6.69 per ton of newsprint. Mr. Dahlberg, however, would only admit that the cost had been increased by $2.01, his claim being that the increase totalled $79,859 on 36,102 tons in eleven months of 1918.

Mr. Dahlberg pointed out that sulphite is not manufactured in the Canadian mills but imported from the mill across the boundary. If the mills were to be considered as separate units this sulphite should be charged into Canada costs at market price and not at a cost as has been the case, and such a method, he contended, would offset the decrease in costs which could have been obtained by using 80 per cent. of the power in Canada.

The witness said that his company gets as much as one hundred dollars per ton for insulite, which is made of screenings and, "any refuse about the mill." "It is worth it too," he added. Surplus sulphite not used in the mills and sold elsewhere, brought $95 per ton in 1918, and cost only $51, but there is now no market for it.

THE WAR VETERANS BIG DRIVE COMING

People of Peterboro to be Asked to Subscribe $15,000 for Soldiers Object.

The drive on behalf of the Great War Veterans will be launched a week from Monday and it is hoped that by Saturday, Victoria Day, the objective of $15,000 will have been triumphantly reached. The week will be a returned soldiers' week, commencing with the formal opening of the new club rooms on Monday night and winding up with a big celebration at the exhibition ground on the holiday. During the week a house to house canvass will be conducted in a systematic effort to raise the money necessary to complete the alterations to the new headquarters.

The citizens of Peterboro have in this campaign their first opportunity to show their appreciation of what the soldiers of this city have done. The sum aimed at is not large if every one will do his or her part to assist in the drive and responds as readily as did the men who were called upon to serve. The campaign is for a splendid object and should be enthusiastically endorsed by the citizens generally.

Sir Edward Kemp Describes How He Put His Hand on Their Shoulder and Told Them to Hang On—Interview With the Overseas Minister.

HALIFAX, May 9. — For the purpose of giving the people of Canada "the facts regarding the conduct of the war and the handling of the Canadian troops overseas," Sir Edward Kemp, the Overseas Minister of Militia arrived here this morning from England, on board the steamer Mauretania, and left for Ottawa on the afternoon train.

"I don't know of any charges that have been made against the overseas administration," he told the Examiner representative.

"As far as I am concerned I will take my seat in the House and present the whole case to the people. I have the absolute facts and the people will get them."

Sir Edward's first declaration on his arrival was regarding the return of the Canadian fighting men. "The Canadian soldiers, including the short service men," he asserted, "will all be home by the end of July. With good luck, and tracing back the luck in connection with the return of the men, it is shown that the one great difficulty has been strikes in the shipping industry. There has been one strike after another in the various branches of the work and a strike in one branch is as effective as a strike in half a dozen so far as the holding up of vessels is concerned.

Chief Excuse.

"I anticipate that this will be the chief excuse offered by the Minister of Shipping regarding deviations from the original programme, laid down after the armistice was signed, for the return of the Canadian troops. So far as the overseas administration is concerned there has been no hitch in the plans for sending the men back to Canada at the earliest date. The only handicap has been to obtain sufficient ships, and from now on the machinery set in motion to bring the men back, will have even greater impetus. With the realization that summer is at hand there comes also the feeling that there must be even more speed. For this reason the last thing I did before leaving England was to persuade the ministry to turn over the Aquitania to the service of the Canadian government. It was a hard fight but I got the promise on the morning that I left for Canada. This means that we now have in the employ of the Canadian government every big ship plying the North Atlantic.

"When the armistice was signed there were 270,000 Canadian soldiers in France and England, and since that time more than 140,000 have been brought back to Canada. In the same time only fifty thousand Australians have been taken home."

"But," interjeted the reporter, 'Lt.-Col. Pratt recently stated that the Australian government haves taken home ninety-five thousand men by the first of March?"

Wanted the News.

"That is not so," replied Sir Edward heatedly. "It is a positive fact that only fifty thousand have been sent to Australia to date. Everything that such men have spilled on their return to Canada is on a par with the statement regarding the ninety-five thousand Australians."

Sir Edward's first act on receiving the Examiner, was to do some interviewing himself. "What is the news in Canada?" he asked. "What is the feeling of the people—how is everything going?"

"Well," the reporter replied thinking to bring up the question of Argyle House. "Criticism is made against its staff and methods. Col. Pratt is back."

"Who is Col. Pratt?" Sir Edward asked.

"And General Smart also is home—and so is Major Ewing, and so is Col. Frank Reid," the newspaperman added.

Unknown Factors.

"Who are these men?" the minister asked, and then he went on to tell of the glorious impression created by the Canadians on their recent march through London. "It was the finest thing I ever saw," he said. "The Imperial Guards had a march past a little while before but there has never been anything to touch the Canadian troops. They were the most splendid looking and finest dressed body of men I have ever seen on parade."

Argle House Martyrs.

In answer to repeated questions regarding Argle House, Sir Edward said —"We have in England to-day as fine a band of soldier-civilians as was ever got together. Many of them gave up professions and lucrative positions in Canada and every day they spend over there is imperilling their chances of further success in this country. They realize this, and many of them have come to me to tell me that they want to come back to Canada; and they have just as much right to get back as the fighting men. But I put my hand on their shoulder and told them to stick to it for Canada's sake and they are sticking to it, and doing the finest bit for Canada that has been done since the war started; and furthermore they are doing it just for Canada, for they are doing it at considerable sacrifice."

Sir Edward Kemp said that out of the thousand officers who had been attached to the Canadian Expeditionary Force, he did not believe a dozen could be found who would say anything derogatory of the work done at Argyle House. The facts of the matter were that the staff at Argyle House had accomplished a stupendous work under exceptionally severe difficulties. It was only a question of time before the problems, precipitated principally by the anxiety of the men to get home, would work out their own solution. It was this anxiety to get home more quickly than ships could be found to get them home which was responsible for the Kinmel Park riots. Lieut.-Col. W. E. Prowse, D.S.O., of Charlottetown, is in command of No. 1 Artillery Brigade returning on the Mauretania. Lieut.-Col. Magee, of St. John, is in command of the Second Brigade.

"MUTT AND JEFF IN THE WOOLY WEST"

Simon-pure comedy of the kind that insinuates itself into our very marrow and makes life one long, blissful song, is promised in the latest Mutt and Jeff series which is underlined as the next attraction at the Grand to-morrow, matinee and evening." Those who have had the good fortune to already have witnessed this piece of genuine tomfoolery and fun, pronounce it as the final word in up-to-date stage entertainment and modern producing. It is in three rollicking acts, and is entitled, "Mutt and Jeff in the Woolly West." The plot naturally permits those two wonderfully humorous cartoon personages ample opportunity to display their talents for arousing mirth, which has been their quota ever since their gifted creator, "Bud" Fisher, first brought them into the light of fame and happiness.

As on former occasions, Manager Gus Hill, who again pilots the destinies of the inseparable twain of gloom dispellers, has mustered a capable cast, which includes twenty dashing, fascinating, and captivatingly pretty girls, who will assist in dispensing and disporting themselves in a galaxy of tuneful songs and dances; unique features, inimitable surprises, novelties, and a gorgeous display of gowns and scenic investiture are also promised.

A PEACE CELEBRATION

The city authorities would be not acting too prematurely if arrangements were made at once for Peterborough's celebration of the signing of peace. The Germans are now in possession of the peace terms and hard as they undoubtedly find them, there does not seem any alternative for the enemy but to accept the conditions. They have a time limit of fifteen days to sign the treaty or to frame a reply, so that the last act in the world war cannot be far away. The event should be enthusiastically and properly celebrated in Peterborough and the details should not be left until the last minute, when it will be too late to arrange anything but an impromptu celebration. A number of cities have their arrangements already in hand and committees are at work planning a wholehearted and fitting demonstration. The same course should be followed in Peterborough and a programme mapped out and made ready for the great day that is soon to come.

THE McCULLOUGH CASE

The expressions of regret uttered by many Peterborough citizens when they heard that Frank McCullough had been arrested in Toronto, furnish a striking commentary upon the vagaries of the human mind. Here is a man condemned to death for the murder of a policeman, a man who had been following the life of a criminal and who, when the officers of the law closed in on him, apparently deliberately killed an official who was protecting the interests of the state. And because by the assistance of accomplices, he was clever enough to make his escape from jail, we find in all parts of the country people applauding his exploit, rejoicing at his escape and then regretting his capture. If McCullough was guilty of the dastardly crime of which he was convicted by a jury of twelve of his peers, then any sympathy beyond that which tender hearts will always feel towards a man condemned to death, is wasted. It is to be wondered whether the people who are lamenting over the fact that McCullough is again in the toils, ever stop to consider the relatives of the dead policeman.

A SPLENDID CAUSE

The report of the official investigator for the Great War Veterans' Association in the province of Ontario that returned soldiers in this city are not being given the same opportunities for employment as their comrades in other cities, should not only create a desire on the part of the people of Peterborough to remedy this condition of affairs, but should also convince our citizens of the necessity of making the War Veterans' drive the week after next a complete and triumphal success. The campaign is for $25,000, which is the amount needed to complete the re-altering and furnishing of the new G.W.V.A. headquarters on Murray street. If the people respond as readily as did the veterans when they were called to offer all they had in the crucible of war, the returned men of Peterborough will find themselves in permanent possession of one of the finest club houses in the province, a building in which the men who have done their part in the war, can meet to talk over the great days of the war, to indulge in social recreation and to carry on the splendid objects for which the Great War Veterans' Association have been formed. No further aid from the people will be necessary for the Veterans' Association will be self-sustaining, with a building free of debt and with a membership of earnest spirits who will continue the policy that has so far been successfully carried out in this city.

This is the first opportunity that Peterborough has had as a community, of showing her appreciation of the work our citizen-soldiers have done overseas. $25,000 the objective aimed at, represents a very small per capita tax upon the people of this city and the money will be readily forthcoming if the spirit of the cause is realized. The Veterans are being assisted in their campaign by a committee of representative citizens who realize that Peterborough owes a deep debt of gratitude and who propose to see that it is liquidated in the coming drive.

ENORMOUS INCREASES COMING IN SHOE PRICES!

Many people think that the price of footwear is going to decline in the near future, but these people are greatly mistaken. Shoes are going up in price steadily and will continue to go up for a long time to come. The reason for this is because Canadian manufacturers are now taking large orders for boots from France, Belgium, Roumania and many other countries. These countries pay a higher price for their footwear than Canadians, so as a result many Canadian manufacturers refuse to take orders from their Canadian customers. This is the factor that will make boots go up $1.00 to $3.00 a pair during the next three months. We anticipated this condition and have bought huge stocks of footwear at prices about 25% less than present values. In order to give you an opportunity to profit by our foresight and to make room for more stock, we have inaugurated an

THE PRICE OF FOOD

The United States Government is taking action to reduce the price of food; the Canadian Government must do the same. Matters cannot go on much longer under the present conditions without probably very serious troubles arising as the necessaries of life will be come beyond the reach of the poorer classes. Butter at 70 cents a pound is an outrage, and most people believe that the prices of other foods are altogether wrong, unnecessary and oppressive.

All kinds of reasons are advanced for these high prices; but the principal one seems to be "high prices in other markets," which means the European market, or probably in other words that the Huns are setting the price of food in Canada. That is the interpretation which can be put on this statement, and it is the duty of the Government to deny it, if possible. What can the Government do to reduce the cost of living? The Toronto Globe says:

"The high cost of living is a sufficient source of uneasiness at present, and it will be aggravated if unlimited exports of food are permitted to Europe. Dr. McFall proposed two months ago that the Government should restrict the export of butter in order to keep the price within moderate bounds, but nothing was done. The Government should limit, not necessarily prevent, the exports of all food products which are unduly high in price, so as to enable our own people to supply their needs."

The Hamilton Spectator says:

"We are living in an age of universal graft. The easy money of the war has demoralized all classes, and it is hard to get back to the sane days of moderation and peace. The race's process cannot go on indefinitely, however; but who is going to undertake to reform the rake? It is quite time the governments of the world took a strong hand in the matter."

Exactly so: a strong hand at Ottawa is required to stop this game of grab. Canadians are willing to help the Entente Allies, but before they feed the Huns they want to be fed themselves at reasonable prices, when that has been done, then let the Huns have the surplus, and at such prices as the dealers choose to fix.—Kingston Standard.

BENEFIT CONCERT WAS BIG SUCCESS

Proceeds Amounted to $350—War Veterans Made a Donation.

Seldom, if at any time in the past, has any philanthropic effort been such a degree of success as resulted from the benefit concert given by the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, in Victoria Hall last night, in aid of a Peterboro boy, Mr. Frank Munden. It is true, of course, that no more deserving case has presented itself for some time.

Mr. Munden, though young in life has been so afflicted with the rheumatism that it has been found necessary to amputate both feet, and, from the fact that he has a wife and family, it, on the whole, represents a very pathetic case, and the way in which the citizens have co-operated with the committee in charge of this concert is a matter that has been most pleasing to the committee and a credit to the entire city.

What was accomplished last night shows beyond doubt that when the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company organize themselves and set out to attain certain results, that in itself is its guarantee of success. The employees of this factory have attained a wonderful degree of harmony, and have more than once demonstrated their ability to care for and alleviate any cases of distress which may appear in their midst.

The public feels that it is only justice to these employees to say that they are a big hearted bunch, and in the factory it is recognized that when a punch is necessary, the Punch Press Department can deliver the goods. This is the Department in which Mr Munden was employed, and indicates that Mr. Munden has made himself agreeable and has commanded the respect of is immediate employees.

The Proceeds.

To say that the effort was eminently successful is supported by the fact that the proceeds have amounted to $350.00, and while the programme was in session last evening, the Rev Canon Davidson, on behalf of the Great War Veterans, entered the hall and approached the chairman, asking the privilege of donating what they had secured in the G.W.V.A. Rooms from a "pass-the-hat-movement", and $18.00 was handed in, resulting from this. The chairman expressed the thanks of the Committee and the employees, and informed the Great War Veterans Association that it was well known to the public that their heart was in the right place.

The Committee in charge of this benefit concert were, Mr. W. S. Campbell, chairman, Mr. W. J. Nelson, Mr. C. E. Sisson, Mr. W. Hughes, Mr. H. T. McFadden, Mr. Alf Day, and Mr. N. Neary, and the committee wish to publicly express their appreciation to the Trustees of Victoria Hall, who gave the services of the hall free of charge, including the lighting; the Ontario Government who kindly granted exemption from war tax; Heintzman & Company who loaned the piano, paid the cartage on it, and asked for the privilege of buying tickets; The Peterboro Bread Company, for donating the programmes; and the Assembly Hall for the loan of chairs.

The Contributing Artists

The Committee desire in particular to express their public thanks to the several artists who took part in the programme. All when approached were ready and willing to render their services for the good of humanity. The audience was delighted with the programme, of which they gave plenty of evidence during the evening. Those taking part were, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Park, Mr. and Mrs. Ward, Mr. Douglas Cadyaks, Miss Hinchcliffe, Miss Penrose, Miss Lora Logan, Miss Palmer, Mrs. Logan, Mr. Bartley, Mr. Geo. Lynch Mr. Joseph Parkins and his son, J. A. Parkins, and Miss Flowers, assisted by the G.W.V.A. Band about forty strong. The chair was most acceptably filled by Mr. W. S. Campbell of the Canadian General Electric staff.

When summing it up, it goes without saying that when the Canadian General Electric Company's employees put themselves on record as being interested in any particular movement, the public may rely upon it that they will get value for their money, and that the object to be attained is assured of is success from the very beginning—Contributed.

Cyril Maude in the "Saving Grace"

Peterborough is One of the Two One Night Stands

Cyril Maude, in C. Haddon Chambers' new comedy, "The Saving Grace," comes to the Grand Opera House on Thursday, May 22nd. The distinguished English star, whose delightful performances in 'Grumpy' are well remembered here, is now under the management of the Charles Frohman Company, which firm has surrounded him with an oragnization of the first importance. Among the players are Laura Hope Crews, Betty Marray, Annie Hughes, Charlotte Granville, Edward Douglas and Stanley Harrison. "The Saving Grace" had a run of two hundred nights in London, and Mr. Maude and his company appeared in it with great success at the Empire Theatre, New York, for a period of fourteen weeks this season. Peterboro and Kingston are the only one night stands Mr. Maude and his company play, this season.

The child of to-day is the critic of to-morrow, but unfortunately parents never realise the fact until to-morrow.

P. Black's Reduced Scale of Prices

Shoppers who appreciate good seasonable merchandise at substantial savings are invited by Mr. P. Black to visit his store, and become acquainted with his easy prices for millinery, dresses, suits, coats, skirts, raincoats and general staple dry goods. Mr. Black's millinery has many admirers, judging by his own personal statement that nearly 500 hat sales have already been made this season and that prices and styles have proved very satisfactory to all. For instance, white Panamas and large black Sailors are selling at 98c. each. Turbans at 98c. $1.25 and $1.49. Dress Hats at $1.98 to $2.48. This seems remarkably low prices for millinery. Silk Poplin Dresses are marked at $6.95, some others at $8.50. Spring coats in various shades, $10.95 and $11.95, and Ladies' Suits at $15.95 and Wool Serge Suits at $19.50. Many other lines at equally moderate prices.

One would hardly think that there was much chance for a man to make a decent living with such prices as these. But Mr. Black's store has no large expenses to meet, and his profits can consequently be on a reduced scale.

The man who lives up to his opportunities is usually too busy to live up to his income.

WAS UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF SESSION

Mr. Martin Chenhall Decides to Remain in Cobourg.

Mr. Martin B. Chenhall A. R. C.O. who presides at the organ in St. Paul's Church at both services on Sunday last was the unanimous choice of the session for the vacancy left by the resignation of Mr. John Allan as organist of the church but declined the position on account of the remuneration which he considered to be insufficient. Mr. Frank Tattersall was warmly spoken of by members of the session who appreciated his genius but many considered him to possess more ability as a pianist than as an organist.

Young Men's Suits

Especially Attractive

Picture here is a waist line model—2 buttons—that is pretty much the thing this spring. It is snappy from the word go. Several nifty colorings in the season's best weaves. Not more than two suits of the same kind. But they have the kick young men want in their clothes.

Young Men's Suits

Especially Attractive

Picture here is a one-button Coat. A very natty style, and much admired by the good dressers. Note the way it fits around the collar. It is a clean cut model—and breathes confidence and power and good judgment to the wearer. They have the athletic vest and trouser styles that appeal to the young men.

MANY MODELS TO CHOOSE FROM

Besides the waist line and one-button model as described, we are showing the 2-button Double-Breasted, 3-Button Peak Lapel with Belt, a two-Button Patch Pockets, a one-Button Waist Line Double-Breasted, a two-Button Peak Lapel Close Form Fitting. These are all nifty models, choice patterns of cloths, with best of workmanship and linings Guaranteed to keep their shape and with character in every line.

A CONSERVATIVE SUIT—QUITE DRESSER

Has not been forgotten. He is particular to degrees we have not overlooked. Radical changes in styles do not appeal to him, yet he insists on little variations. His coat and vest must be correct length and lapels of becoming width and depth, and the trousers neither too wide nor too narrow, but just right. There is a nice showing in many shades of Greys, Browns, and assortment of neat mixtures that will appeal to the quiet man.

ABOUT THE PRICES

PRICES WILL RANGE FROM $22.00 TO $40.00. THE PRICES ARE ORDINARY BUT THE VALUES ARE EXTRAORDINARY.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Industrial Relations Commission Arrived in Regina Yesterday

Found Some of the Workers Very Hostile—Only One Strike in Progress.

DISTRIBUTING CENTRE

(By Main Johnson.)

REGINA, May 9.—Although Regina is a distribution centre rather than an industrial centre, these workers who are here, to judge from evidence submitted to the Industrial Relations Commission are radical in their views. They showed hostility towards co-operation with capital as strong, if not stronger, than in Calgary, and different from the average attitude in Edmonton and Saskatchewan. Theoretically, the view at least resembled those expressed at the coast, although, in fact, conditions here are infinitely better.

They also rather suspected ulterior motives in the inquiry, wondering if there was an attempt "to make a more patient and contented work animal out of live human being.

Will Visit Sarnia.

Probably because it is not the head office of the company, neither employers nor employees were present to speak for the Imperial Oil Co., Regina's largest plant, employing five hundred. The company is inaugurating locally its plan of co-operation and benefits as it is doing in the east. The Commission will be visiting Sarnia later and it is presumed that an official inquiry into the working of the Imperial Oil Company's plant will be held there.

Apart from the oil plant, the industries of Regina include machine shops, sash and door factories and building trades as for diatribution. Both Eaton's and Simpson's have large establishments and this is also one of the chief centres for implement houses.

One Strike On.

There is one strike in progress now, that of the carpenters. They are asking for eighty cents an hour and an eight hour day. The Builders' Exchange have offered 75 cents an hour for a nine hour day, but the counter proposal has been refused. A vote will now be taken by the Trades and Labour Council on a general sympathetic strike. At a meeting held last week the Trades and Labour Council by an overwhelming majority, decided in favour of the one big union, contrasted with the present International craft system. The referendum in individual unions is now being taken.

Little Unemployment.

Except for the striking carpenters, there seems to be little unemployment; less than anywhere else visited by the Commission to date.

T. M. Molloy, Provincial Labour Commissioner for Saskatchewan, gave figures for the whole province, showing that at the end of April one thousand people who had no employment were registered at his office. These, he said, were people who wanted particular kind of work. In other classes of employment there was room for about 1,500 workers.

Regina yesterday appeared more cheerful than any other western city. Its people are well dressed, and there was abroad an air of light-heartedness. The huge crowd, headed by a long auto procession, were proceeding to the park to see the opening of the Western Alberta Baseball League, and as the notices said, to "chase away the cobwebs of the last four years."

Yesterday morning a detachment of Regina men reached the city from Siberia and were given a warm welcome as in their heavy, brown striped woolen jackets they marched through the sunny streets to the sound of music.

The official leader, however, in its delegation before the Commission, did not reflect this optimism of the streets.

INTERFERENCE OF THE GOVERNMENT

Sir Adam Beck Expresses His Opinion of Railway Committee.

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 9.—"It is another instance of the Federal Government interfering with Provincial and Municipal rights," said Sir Adam Beck, when asked his opinion on the action of the Railway Committee of the Federal House, which proposes to give the Railway Board power to override agreements regarding rates existing between municipalities and railway companies holding Dominion charters.

"This will nullify all agreements as to rates existing between municipalities and such companies as the Burlington Radial Company. What right has the Dominion Government to interfere in this matter? It is another example of what they are doing continually. What concern of the people of Canada as a whole is an agreement between a railway and a municipality regarding rates? With the sanction of the Railway Board they can now raise the rates as high as they like. It is unjustifible."

Sir Adm pointed out that this proposed change would not affect agreements with companies holding only Provincial charters, such as the Toronto Street Railway.

TO COMMANDEER COAL.

Australia Takes Step When Mine Owners Balk.

MELBOURNE, May 2.—Owing to interference of New South Wales by appointing a Royal Commission to inquire into the coal trade, the colliery proprietors have refused to sign an agreement increasing the miners' wages. The Government has decided to take power to commandeer all coal.

Presentation to North Ops Residents

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dark of North Ops, when their neighbors and friends gathered to express their regret at their departure from the neighbourhood they had lived in so long and to wish them health and prosperity in their new home in Lindsay.

They were presented with a handsome oak buffet.

Solomon said it all, there is nothing left for us but a little remodeling.

DEAD DEER FOUND BESIDE THE TRACK

A small clerk on the Haliburton train discovered a dead deer alongside the track, one mile north of Haliburton Junction on Monday. The sectionmen report that shooting was heard in that vicinity on Monday and the deer was undoubtedly killed by those doing the shooting. On effort will be made to find the names of the guilty ones.

With His Foot Strapped to a Board Munden Stayed on Job

First One Foot Was Amputated, Then the Other—A Story of Untold Suffering.

WORKED IN C.G.E.

Last evening in Victoria Hall, for Frank Munden, 4 Dunlop Street, a benefit concert was held which revealed the case of an obscure martyr in the person of the man for whom the entertainment was given. His is the story of years of striving to keep up in the face of adverse circumstances such as most men would have succumbed to long ago. He was brought up like many other little boys have been, and allowed to roam around in his bare feet, which is perhaps the reason of his later sufferings, as with later years he developed chronic rheumatism in his feet to such an extent that he became a martyr to the malady.

When the war came, though married and the father of a little family, he was one of the first to offer his services to the country, but the medican authorities could not pass him on account of his predisposition to rheumatism; so he contineud his work as machinist in the Canadian General Electric works.

One Foot Amputated.

Four years ago his suffering became so severe that, finding there was no remedy to relieve him, he was compelled to have his foot amputated at the ankle. With the aid of a crutch he managed to go to his work which meant a long walk over the Smith Street Bridge before he could catch the car, and this in winter weather entailed no small degree of hardship. As the months wore on, his other foot became infected to such a degree that when the suffering became intolerable he was frequently compelled to return to his home for the balance of the day.

Night after night, to save his foot from becoming misshapen and to perhaps relieve the agony, he bound it to a board and still carried on at his work at the C.G.E. Later, however, matters became worse, and he was compelled to give up the work that meant his livelihood, and which he had carried on always in agony, and upon the advice of his physician, Dr. Moir, he had the second foot removed in Nicholls Hospital three weeks ago.

His wife, with the same soldierly spirit as her husband, filled in the gap at home by taking a position at the Auburn Mills, leaving a tiny baby to the care of Mr. Munden's mother.

Mr. Munden expects to resume his work in July.

At the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Marshall Neilan, who directed the big Harry Carson, production, "The Unpardonable Sin," which is to be shown at the Grand theatre, beginning Thursday, May 15th is conceded to be one of the ablest directors in the motion picture industry. Although comparatively young, Mr. Neilan has already turned out a number of productions which show his complete mastery of the line of work which he has chosen and there is every indication that he will be the leader in his profession before many more years have passed. It is a high compliment to Mr. Neilan's ability that "The Unpardonable Sin" has already been described as the "best directed" photoplay production which has ever been made.

REPRIEVE HAS BEEN EXTENDED

McCullough many times prior to his escape on April 16th. "The appointment was made by the Sheriff following the request of the prisoner, who asked that I be appointed, and consequently I accepted."

"If McCullough asks for your spiritual advice again will you accept?" asked the Examiner. "That I cannot say as yet," replied Mr. Nelles. "There are a number of considerations connected with the work and until I have fully taken the matter under my consideration I should not care to say. Eventually I may have something to say."

"McCullough, in some of his previous letters, professed to have been converted, but he then made endeavours to evade his sentence?" he was asked.

"I think almost any man would make an effort for his freedom," concluded Mr. Nelles.

According to Inspector of Detectives Guthrie, the police have no knowledge of McCullough's whereabouts during the four days which elapsed between the time he escaped from jail and taking up of a room on Bathurst street, where he was captured. They do not show the same attitude towards the woman who, under the name of Vera Knight, rented the room which harboured the escaped murderer for two weeks and a half. They are making no search for this "woman of mystery," whom they think was none other than Vera De Lavelle, now on trial on a charge of aiding McCullough to escape. The police say they are conversant with all the movements of Miss Lavelle and that they do not coincide with the interview she gave out before her trial or the story she told the detectives before McCullough's recapture.

They attach significance to the fact that it was the day following the De Lavelle girl's arrest that McCullough's girl companion was missed from the Bathurst street house. Miss De Lavelle's statement to the police was that she was sleeping in vacant houses for nights previous to her arrest, but the woman who stayed with McCullough slept in Bathurst street house until the day of Miss De Lavelle's arrest.

The police state that the information which led to the discovery of McCullough's hiding place did not come from Miss De Lavelle or any woman at present under sentence in their custody. Asked if Miss De Lavelle would be charged with perjury or whether there would be a new trial because of new evidence available through McCullough's recapture, Inspector Guthrie replied in the negative, stating this would necessitate the calling as witnesses of individuals whom the police did not want to call at the present time. The police also deny to-day that they received intimation of McCullough's hiding place through a 'phone message.

Local Delegate at Toronto Meeting

Reports on School Clubs—Interesting Discussions.

As president of the Parents' Circle of Queen Mary School, Mrs. S. T. Medd was invited to be present at the annual meeting of the Toronto Home and School Council, which was held in the Social Service Building in Queen's Park on the evening of 4th May. At this meeting, reports of the work accomplished during the past year in twenty-two Home and School Clubs connected with as many of the Toronto schools, were presented by presidents of the clubs or by principals of the schools. The reports proved beyond question that Home and School Societies have passed the experimental stage and have become an important factor in education in the city of Toronto. The Home and School Council have been largely instrumental in having the Truancy Act changed to the Attendance Act, and the consequent changes in the administration of the Act, by the Department of Education of Ontario and the Ontario Educational Association have recognised the work of these societies to the extent that it has granted a section of the O. E. A. to Home and School work.

A Luncheon.

On the day following a luncheon was held at the Selby by the old and new executives of the Toronto Home and School Council, with Professor McCready, of the Agricultural Department of Ontario, Mrs. Carson of London, Ontario, and Mrs. Medd as guests.

After lunch, a discussion took place as to how this work might best be promoted throughout the province, resulting in a Provincial Committee being appointed to draw up a Provincial constitution for a Provincial Home and School Council to be organised at the next annual meeting of the O. E. A. This committee is composed of Professor McCready as chairman, Professor Sandiford of the Faculty of Education of the University of Toronto, Mr. J. W. Bengough, Mrs. A. C. Courtice (President Toronto Home and School Council), Mrs. McGregor as secretary, Dr. Caroline Brown (Hon. Vice-President Toronto Home and School Council), Mrs. McTavish, Mrs. Kantel, Mrs. Seigel, Mrs. Johnston, all of Toronto, Mrs. Carson of London, and Mrs. Medd of Peterborough.

In the meantime this committee will assist as much as possible in the organisation of Home and School Clubs in city, town, and rural schools where societies of this nature do not already exist. The clubs will later be affiliated with the Provincial Home and School Council.

1800 PIECES of GRANITEWARE

At Less, Away Less, Than Half Price!

FOR FOUR DAY RUSH SALE, COMMENCING SATURDAY

They are "Seconds," "Good Seconds," so good in fact that many of them would pass for Firsts were it not the policy of this factory that every piece showing the slightest indication of a flaw must be thrown out and sold as a Second. In no case will the flaw or imperfection of these interfere with the wear, or make them less serviceable.

The quantity is large, over 1,800 pieces in all, but we had to take all or none. To make the selling sure in the four days, we have made prices so low they should be gone to the last piece when the four-day selling is over.

Get all you will want for months and months ahead, for only once in a long time can you get a chance like this.

They will be sold in the Economy Basement, and for easy selling we have arranged for extra sales people, and divided the 1,800 pieces into 5 lots.

Remarkable Sale of Trimmed Millinery For Saturday

50 Trimmed Hats Regular $6.00 to $8.50 Your Choice $3.95

This price is only made possible because of our big purchase of untrimmed shapes from an overstocked wholesaler a couple of weeks ago. From this lot we picked fifty splendid shapes, sent them to our work room, where they have been trimmed specially for this occasion. There are styls suitable for young and elderly ladies.

These shapes are developed in tagal, lisiere, and pine-apple straws, and can be had in the season's most popular colorings, such as brown, navy, sand, victory red, and black. The trimmings used are ribbons, flowers, mounts, wings and quills.

Undoubtedly the Millinery Bargain of the season. Just 50 to sell, beginning Saturday morning at each $3.95

In our showing, smart dressers will find smart Hats, tastefully trimmed with flowers, mounts and ribbon, which are wonderfully combined. The new shades of orchid and leek are shown amongst the summer styles, and promise to meet with favor. In fact, we have anticipated your every requirement in Summer Millinery, both from a style and a price point.

Be sure and see the new summer styles in all the new shades, which will be shown on Friday and Saturday.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH HONOURS MEMORY OF MRS. CHARLOTTE NICHOLLS

Gave Substantial Gifts to Charitable, Religious and Educational Institutions.

MANY GOOD DEEDS

In looking back over the history of St. Andrew's Church, which celebrates its 86th anniversary next Sunday, one sees the names of a number of women who, by their good deeds, have been an integral part of the church's life. Out of the goodly company there was one who was worthy to stand as a representative of the chaste and beautiful Christian womanhood of our church—Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls. A tree is known by its fruits, and a church is known by the beautiful lives that have been developed within its fold. St. Andrew's honours itself in honouring the memory of Mrs. Nicholls. We are grateful for her good example and for her bountiful benefactions.

Gave Liberally.

In addition to her gifts to St. Andrew's Church her benefactions, made in a public way, to the town and to the city exceed all others from which the municipality has in any way benefitted. She gave large benefactions to the Presbyterian churches of the city, and further gave liberally by bequests in her will to all the Protestant churches of the city. She gave a very substantial sum to the building fund of the local Young Men's Christian Association. Her noblest benefaction was the gift of the magnificent Nicholls Hospital, furnishing the means for erection and equipment of the building, and also an endowment fund of $85,000.00. To this endowment her trustees, after her death, materially added. To the town and city her gifts in the manner of grants to charitable, religious, and educational institutions amounted to over $176,000.00.

Her gifts of park lands and sums of money set aside for upkeep were very large in amount, and in addition she gave $35,000.00 to Presbyterian missions, $40,000.00 to the Aged Ministers' Fund, and $42,000.00 to Presbyterian colleges. Her death took place on 16th May, 1890, nineteen years ago.

THE SEMI-READY NEW PROPRIETORS

Personnel of the New Members of the Firm.

Messrs. Harry and Peter Thornton, who have bought the business of Frank L. Jenne, known as the Semi-ready Store, took possession of the business over a week ago. They are very much pleased with the prospects. Both are young and energetic men with a thorough business training.

Harry Thornton, the younger brother, is well-known in this city, as he was manager and chief clerk of the Semi-ready Store during the first year of Mr. Jenne's ownership. Though a young man, Harry Thornton has been eight years in the men's wear trade and spent six of these with Andrew Weatherwax, of Orillia, who is looked upon as a past master in the men's furnishing trade.

Peter Thornton was one of the first to volunteer for service in the Great War and was 3 years and 8 months overseas. He played with the Orillia hockey team for three years, when they won the O.H.A. championship. His war service was with the 58th and the 9th Brigade Machine Gun Co.

"We are going to make this store renowned for service, for prompt and careful attention to the wants of our customers," said Harry Thornton. "We have at our call the best manufacturers in Canada, and if we have not just what our patrons want, we will get it by telegraphic despatch, no matter what it costs.

"A lot of our stock we are still selling at pre-war prices—and we are never too busy to attend to the smallest detail."

Frank Jenne has returned to his home in Quebec, the Eastern Townships. His sale of the business was decided upon because he had been appointed manager of his father's estate and a manufacturing concern in Sutton.

Millions of Followers

It is estimated that "Common Clay," the Harvard prize play by Cleves Kinkead, in which Jane Cowl achieved one of her most notable successes, has been witnessed by more than five million persons. Under the direction of A. H. Woods, it ran for a full year as a Broadway attraction, playing to the capacity of the house. During the three years following it was interpreted by six companies throughout the United States and Canada and everywhere attracted large audiences. Now that A. H. Wood has produced a screen version of this American masterpiece, it is figured roughly that, in all, about ten or twelve million persons will watch it on the silver screen.

The estimate includes a large percentage of those who witnessed the stage presentation and naturally will be curious to see how more fully it may be done on the screen, and the millions of moving picture lovers who are alert for the coming of a really imposing feature. "Common Clay" is one of these and care was taken to surround Miss Ward by a most capable cast of specially selected players.

The star and her support under the skilled direction of George Fitzmaurice combined in making a perfect performance, rich in faithful character study, human feeling and human failing and compelling emotional appeal.

The general concensus is that this screen version of the American masterpiece, which will be shown at the Grand Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday is a gripping, absorbing sensational play.

Fire Destroys the Life Saving Station

Old Familiar Building on Toronto Lakefront Disappears.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 9.—At nine o'clock this morning flames burst through the roof of the life-saving station at the eastern gap. Fifteen minutes later the whole building was in a mass of flames, the fire belching forth through the roof, doors and windows. There seemed to be little chance of anything being saved. As soon as the fire was discerned the Marie and Henrietta, tugs of the Canada Stewart Co., moored at wharves a short distance away from the fire, sailed over to the scene, and the crews tried to stem the fire.

The building is likely to be a total loss and for a time at least the old familiar building which was the first to be seen by those coming across the lake, has disappeared. The loss will reach many thousands of dollars. Much valuable equipment was inside the building.

O.B.A.A. UPHOLD RESIDENCE RULE

Hamilton City League Question Legality of New Ruling.

True to expectations, the O.B.A.A. meeting held Wednesday night at 22 College street proved an interesting affair. The Hamilton City League sent in a communication regarding the residence rule, which they questioned the legality of, and after a long discussion it was clearly proven that the motion covering this year's residence rule was not intended to be placed in the constitution, but was a special ruling relating to this season only. The residence rule will become operative next year, and will be thus embodied in the constitution. In view of this, it was found that the majority vote taken at the annual meeting was legal.

The Brantford delegates agreed to publish a statement in the Brantford papers to the effect that they had not made any nominations at the annual meeting, and therefore the statements made that nominations had been suppressed at the annual meeting were false. Mr. G. Walker, Secretary-Treasurer of the O.B.A.A., threatened to resign if the Brantford delegates refused to publish the statements.

Applications Accepted

Applications for membership from the Lindsay Town League and the Woodstock League were accepted, but that of the Lake Shore League was refused. It was pointed out that the latter should come under the jurisdiction of the T.A.B.A.

The following dates on or before which the leagues must complete their schedule if they wish to compete in Ontario championship finals were selected: Brantford, Woodstock, Guelph, Inter-County, Central Ontario, Peterborough and Lindsay Leagues—August 17. Hamilton and Toronto—September 13.

C. W. Shaw made application for reinstatement, but his case was referred to the T.A.B.A. Executive.

Leo Brown and F. Haliburton also applied and were favohrably recommended to the Registration Committee of the A.A.U. of C.

Appoint Sub-Committee

In order to handle certain business which may arise in a more rapid manner than is customary under the present system, a sub-committee was appointed consisting of President Robbins, Secretary-Treasurer G. Walker, Mr. Ward Patterson, of Peterborough, and Mr. S. H. Armstrong, of Toronto.

The following were the delegates in attendante: President F. Robbins of Hamilton, Vice-President J. J. Kelly, Brantford; Messrs. Dedman and Moynes, Lindsay; W. J. Scruton, Brantford; H. A. Waite, Hamilton; M. B. Dulmage, Guelph; S. H. Armstrong; Vice-President Smith, Secretary-Treasurer, G. Walker, of Toronto.

SEMI-READY TALK:

"History tells of the Long Parliament and the Short Parliament in England:

"In Canada we have the Milkman's Parliment—which tried to kill the Daylight Saving Bill because the milkmen didn't want to get up before some of us got home.

"The first Semi-ready store in Canada was opened in Montreal in Easter Week of 1898. These were followed by other stores in Toronto, Quebec and Winnipeg.

"There is only one big shop in Canada tailoring Semi-ready clothes—every suit they make has the name and label in the pocket."

BOYS CHARGED WITH TAMPERING WITH MAIL BOX

Leslie Graham, Walter Pearson, his brother Stanley and James Northy four young men who reside on the 14th Concession of Smith Township were charged in County Police Court this morning with tampering with a mail box, the property of Mr. Arthur Duggan, 12th Concession of Smith Township on the second day of April contrary to the Criminal Code.

Mr. G. N. Gordon is conducting the defence and Crown Attorney Hatton is prosecuting.

Mr. Duggan, in the box, stated that the boy's depredations extended to nothing more than petty annoyances but that he wanted it stopped at once. It has been going on for some time and one time he found the mail box in a water hole. On the evening of April 2, he heard two buggies go along the road. The rear buggy stopped in front of his mail box and when he reached the road the box was gone and the buggies ahead. He heard a scrape and going to the mail box of Mr. McIlmoyle, his neighbour to the west of him, found his box reposing inside the mail box of Mr. McIlmoyle. With a friend they drove along the road until they caught up to the boys. Driving abreast of the first buggy he used as an excuse for questioning them. "Have you seen a runaway horse?" He identified all the boys who were present in the court room.

The case is proceeding this afternoon.

ENGINEERS' CLUB MET LAST NIGHT

Club Decided to Support Road Between Peterboro and Port Hope.

A regular meeting of the Engineers' Club was held in the Board of Trade rooms last evening, when an address on "Reconstruction Problems" was delivered by Jas. Mackintosh, of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission's staff. There was considerable discussion by the members present, including Mr. R. B. Rogers, A. L. Killaly and others.

The Club decided to support the efforts of the local Motor League to have the road between Peterborough and Port Hope made part of the Provincial highways scheme.

It was decided last night to go ahead with the organization in Peterborough of a branch of Engineering Institute of Canada. It has been felt by the members of the Club that while it has been successful to a high degree in its various activities it will have a much greater influence as part of the Institute. The Institute is Canada-wide, with branches in all the important centres, and its aims and acts are such as to advance the profession of engineering in all its parts.

LABOUR NOTES

Sewer Closed Down.

The Romaine Street sewer was officially tied up last night for an indefinite period. The men worked on two Sundays preparing the trench for the 12-inch pipes, but they remain 15 feet from the railway, which is propped on beams and otherwise left in a condition which the City Engineer considers should be immediately completed.

At the Incinerator.

A week before the labourers' strike the incinerator operators received an increase in wages. Mr. J. Murphy's wage was raised from $2.75 to $3.25 and his helper's from $2.50 to $3.00. The men joined the other city labourers in asking for the 45c rate. Their places have been filled for the present.

Carpenters Stand Pat.

It was learned this morning that the Carpenters' Union decided last night to maintain their rate of wages at 67½ cents an hour.

ALLEGED CASE OF DOG POISONING

Judgment Was Reserved Until Monday—The Evidence.

The first case of alleged dog poisoning this year came before Magistrate Dumble this morning, when the plaintiff, Mr. Walter J. Gash, of 88 Mark street, stated in the witness box that Mrs. George Stevens, his next door neighbour, laid poison which killed his water spaniel, "Bigger," on April 30th. When he was informed that the dog was foaming at the mouth and was acting strangely he came home and found that Mrs. Stevens had brought some hot grease in a cup which she said would be good for the animal. The dog died soon after, however. The dog was stiff and Mr. Gash was of the opinion that strychnine was the poison which had killed it. Mrs. Stevens returned to her house and picked up a plate saying that the dog had not touched it. On the plate was meat.

Mrs. Stevens admitted putting out poison on a piece of meat which she put under the shed in order to rid the neighbourhood of the army of cats which infested the vicinity and raided her own hen coop regularly. She stated that she looked at the meat after Mr. Gash's dog had been poisoned, but that it had not been touched.

Mr. J. O'Brien acted for the defendant, and Crown Attorney Hatton conducted the prosecution.

The Magistrate reserved judgment until Monday.

ENJOYABLE SMOKER HELD

Under the auspices of the Social Committee, a very enjoyable "get acquainted" smoker was held in the G.W.V.A. Rooms last night. An impromptu programme, including songs by Mr. R. Leonard, monologues by Mr. Albert Weatherhead, was given. The band of the Great War Veterans, under the direction of Bandmaster Hughes, played several enjoyable selections, and "Pack up your Troubles" and several of the other old favourite war songs were sung by the gathering. Comrade Canon Davidson was chairman. The Social Committee wish to express their thanks to those who so kindly took part in the programme.

REV. JAS. ROLLINS RETURNING HOME

Has Been Away Nearly Three Years —Chaplin of 21st Battalion.

It is expected that the Rev. James Rollins, chaplain of the 21st Battalion, will sail for Canada this week and that he will probably occupy his pulpit on May 25th. It is almost three years since Captain Rollins went overseas for military service. Before leaving he offered his resignation to the congregation, but it was refused.

Contrary to the practice of some of the ministers who have become Chaplains, he arranged with his congregation that the minister in charge during his absence should have the use of the manse and the full salary paid by the congregation.

When Captain Rollins left Canada, he occupied the position of Quartermaster for the 93rd Battalion. It is an unusual thing for a minister to occupy such a position, but Captain Rollins is a man with unusual gifts for an executive office and for the administration of business. After doing excellent work in this office, he was offered a transfer to the Chaplain's service, and accepted it.

In August, 1917, he became Chaplain to a number of Forestry Battalions, at Smith's Lawn, Sunningdale, England. When the Rev. John Neil, D.D., Moderator of the General Assembly in Canada, was on an official visit to the Presbyterians in the army, Captain Rollins was selected to accompany him to the various camps as his A.D.C.

In July of last year, Captain Rollins at last received the opportunity for which he so much longed and accepted the Chaplaincy of the 27th Battalion for active service at the front.

After that until the armistice was signed, he shared the hardships of the soldiers, encountered danger in several engagements, and won the sympathy and the confidence of his men.

Captain Rollins, by his prompt and faithful service in the army, deserves well of his fellow citizens in Peterboro and will receive a rousing welcome from St. Andrew's church, Next Sunday will be the third anniversary service in the absence of the minister.

Kind words never die; if they did, probably they would be more appreciated.

Every candidate is a pole used by the politicians in an effort to knock the official persimmon.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED
When grandpa was a young man gay, a bicycle he rode, stood five feet high with backbone, say it was just a-la-mode. Foot on foot he hopped along, into the seat he slid. Oh, life was just one grand sweet song as he fell on his head.
But, nowadays, his grandson, John, a highgrade "safety" rides. It's nifty, light he just swings on, goes twice as fast besides. Now all you folks who carfare pay, just list to my advice: Buy a first class wheel this very day; in one year save the price.

A BIG RECEPTION TO RETURNED HEROES

IN EVER LOVING MEMORY
Of Sergt. Walter Wagstaff, killed in action May 9th, 1917.
We have lost you, heaven has gained you
One of the best the world contained,
Our sorrow is great,
Our loss hard to bear,
But angels, dear husband, will guard you with care.
Not forgotten, by Wife and Child.

In proud and loving memory of Sergt Walter Wagstaff, who gave his life for his country, May 9th, 1917:
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear,
Our loss is great—we'll not complain,
But hope in heaven to meet again.

BARBER SHOP NEWS

Eddy Wright's barber and cigar shop seems to be enjoying a growing popularity. With war worries a thing of the past, it becomes apparent that there will be increased demands for additional first-class tonsorial services. With this in view, Mr. Wright has engaged the services of another skilful barber to man the fourth chair in his barber shop. The new man is Mr. H. Lowry, from Toronto, a returned soldier, whose wielding of the razor and shears makes new recruits.

NOTICE!

G.W.V.A. Building Fund Drive.

A meeting of all committees and teams will be held in the G.W.V.A. rooms, Monday, May 12th, at 8 p.m. Every person who is interested in the success of this drive is requested to be present. Business: Receiving of report from all captains, and leaders, programme of work for the week, training of canvassers.

This meeting is one of the most important, and the success of the drive is now in your hands. It is a good hard push for two weeks and the job will be finished.

Let nothing hinder you from being present. All volunteer workers will be present. We want one hundred workers from the ranks of the G.W.V.A. and as many citizens. Bring along your chum.

Yours truly,
R. E. LAYFIELD,

Lieut. Beverly Robinson's Experience While Prisoner In Hands of the Germans

Airman Started Out to Make It Uncomfortable for Prince Rupert of Germany and Lost His Bearings.

PRISON LIFE

Lieutenant Beverly Robinson, of the Royal Air Force, under the auspices of the local branch of the G.W.V.A., addressed a meeting in St. Paul's church last evening. His address was a narrative of his observations and impressions during his two and one-half years as a prisoner in Hunland.

Lieutenant Robinson went overseas in 1915 and was attached to the Headquarters Squadron, where work of a special nature is carried out. He told how plans were received from a special agent in Germany of the location of one of the most hated Germans, Prince Rupert of Bavaria, and at once a decision to drop a very large bomb at the most advantageous place to reach the Prince, taking in as much territory on which his residence was built. Lieut. Robinson was entrusted with this delicate job. The only persons, as far as they were concerned, who knew of it were themselves, as they had discussed it behind closed doors, never referring to it to others even in the camp. On the day selected for the work the weather was most unfavourable, and when about one-third of the distance was covered the birdman lost his bearings, when in the mist (the horizon and the compass used) and got turned in another direction, only to find trenches everywhere and guns all around firing at the excellent target made by himself. He dodged in and out of the mist trying to find which way led to safety and finally landed in a field, where both he and the machine were in the mire of mud. After patiently waiting about twenty minutes a French peasant family came up, but he was unable to locate his position or his condition from them and after another wait a soldier with what was described as a 1600 year model pistol covering him, came along.

A Prisoner.

Lieut. Robinson walked forward and gave the fellow an idea of what he thought of him, thinking that he was French. The man lowered his firearm and stood open mouthed, when a soldier wearing a magnificent spiked helmet and riding a glossy horse, appeared. The officer immediately grasped his serious position and knew he was a prisoner of the despicable Hun. He was taken to a guard room, searched and examined by a German officer who spoke very poor English. Next move was to be taken before a staff officer, where he was very kindly treated, being given food and drink and where he was enabled to dry his wet clothing. A divisional commander was his next examiner. Lieut. Robinson's description of this man was very humorous. He was very fat, and after several unsuccessful attempts to extricate himself from his chair upon the arrival of the airman, he gave it up. He had seven necks and five chins, each fatter than the last. His English was very bad. One question was: "Do you find your treatment so bad as your papers say?" The prisoner replied that so far it was certainly good.

Lieut. Robinson asserted quite positively that he did not believe these men were aware of the horrible atrocities, that they were unknown to all except those who performed them and the men who ordered the commitment of them.

At St. Quentin Lieut. Robinson received his grilling and learned something of the German disposition. His questioner informed him that he knew the British contemplated a visit to Prince Rupert and that his removal from that position had been immediate. The birdman failed to inform him of the mission being the cause of his misfortune, and later when he was permitted to write a postal card to his mother, he incidentally conveyed the news gained from his informant to his P. O. and the trip was abandoned for the time being. In the thousand questions the Hun asked him, Lieut. Robinson discovered that the Hun was a liar and a boaster and that he had none of the qualities of a gentleman.

Taken to Jail.

The officer was then taken to the local jail and locked in a filthy cell. He immediately set up an indignant objection and with "husky lungs" was able to yell down the sentry and persuade him to bring the commandatur who apologised and permitted the door to remain open and the prisoner to run about the place at will.

With another prisoner he was taken before another Hun officer, who informed them that he had all the information he was about to ask them for and then proceeded to question them. A Swede stood behind and a stenographer sat in the background to take in shorthand the conversation while the gullable German wrote the answers out in longhand. Lieut. Robinson's companion, whose unlimited sense of humour was continually in evidence, answered all the questions, never permitting the former to get in a word edgeways. This man made twelve attempts to escape. All were extremely ingenious and the nerve to carry them out was never lacking. Ill luck caused each one to be a fail-

Canadian Wheat For United States

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., May 10. — Julius Barnes, United States' grain administrator's statement that his government will import into the United States 4,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, makes the amount 3,000,000 more than was announced a few days ago. It was learned from local grain men that all of this wheat that is to be exported to the United States is of low grade variety that is not in demand by Canadian millers, and for which there is demand in the United States, where low grade flour is manufactured.

NOT IMPRESSED WITH RUSSIAN TRIP

Canadian Base Located in the "Dirtiest Place in Creation."

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., May 10.—Speaking of work done by Canadians at Vladivostok, Capt. J. King, of Toronto, of the 25th Siberian Force, on his way east, said there was practically nothing in the way of actual fighting so far as the Canadian force was concerned. There was trouble now and again in the interior, chiefly because of the activities of the Bolsheviki, and the Canadian detachments would be sent along with the British, Japanese and other Allied forces to restore order, which generally would be speedily done of Vladivostok, the base of the Canadian force. The returned men had little to say of a favourable nature.

"The dirtiest place in creation," was how one man described the city. "Pigs were more common than dogs on the main streets," declared another.

Mothers' Day at Mark Street Methodist Church

Mother's Day Services will be held in Mark St. Methodist Church tomorrow. In the morning the pastor's theme will be Jesus and His mother speaking particularly to the boys and young men and in the evening his subject will be "Mother's Daughters". Appropriate and special numbers will be rendered by the choir which will be assisted in the evening service by a ladies chorus.

Our people are requested to honor the anniversary by all attending at the house of God, wearing appropriate flowers and spending the day as our mothers would desire us to do.

Special Prices To Continue

WE ARE STILL SACRIFICING WOOD IN ORDER TO CLEAR OUR YARD.

For the past two days our special prices in wood have created considerable new business with the result we have decided to continue these special prices all this week. We need the room in our yard when the sowing season opens in about two or three weeks' time. You can profit by our needs. With coal going to fourteen dollars a ton it stands to reason that wood will be dearer before it will be cheaper and the following prices which we quote for the remainder of the week should appeal to those in need of wood.

Slabs—Four dollars a load.
Mixed wood—Nine dollars a cord.
Hardwood—Ten dollars a cord.
This wood is of good quality and is cut in stove lengths already for use.
Peterborough Planing Mill wood yard, opposite the Braund Building, Charlotte street. Telephone 88. Call and inspect the wood.

WHY AM I NOT A CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST?

This most interesting question will be answered at Bethany Tabernacle on Sunday night at 7 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. A. G. Doner, who declares that the title of Christian Science is a Satanic forgery, as the system is neither a Christian religion nor a sensible science.

He brands it as "Mental Assassination," "Intellectual Bankruptcy," and "Physical Peril," proving from its own text-book its subtle and dangerous denial of the Holy Scriptures. While merciless in his attack, Mr. Doner frankly acknowledges whatever there is of reality and truth about it or its kindred religions.

Next Sunday evening, May 18th, he will speak on "Russellism or Millennial Dawnism."

The subject to-morrow morning at 11 will be "Motherhood." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS COMMISSION FINDS SASKATCHEWAN MORE PLACID

Very Little Unemployment—Farmers Are Offering Big Wages—Urban Industrialism Plays a Small Part in Life of People.

(Main Johnson).

MOOSE JAW, Sask., May 10. — Saskatchewan has now been covered by the Industrial Relations Commission, which passes next to Manitoba. Outwardly and in specific conditions, Saskatchewan is quieter than Alberta and idyllically placid compared with British Columbia. There is practically no unemployment in any of the three cities visited, Saskatoon, Regina or Moose Jaw, and only one real strike was brought to the Commission's attention. Farming is the great industry of the Province, and urban industrialism plays a small part in the life of the people.

In reference to farming, Hugh McKellar, publisher of a farm paper in Moose Jaw, emphasized the difficulties agriculturists were experiencing in getting help. It was almost impossible, wages of seventy and eighty dollars a month with board were offered.

Tom Moore asked a series of leading questions trying to find the reason for the shortage. Employment was not permanent, housing conditions were none too good and wages in fact were still too low, especially for men with families.

The city workmen of Saskatchewan, with the exception of Saskatoon, which seems to be comparatively satisfied with present conditions, do not appear to be contented, despite the absence of unemployment and of immediately bad conditions.

Undercurrent of Unrest.

There is a distinct undercurrent of unrest both in Regina and Moose Jaw, a pessimistic statement was calmly made here by James Somerville, chief representative in Western Canada of the machinists. As time passed, he said, he was losing faith that the present situation could be settled quietly, although he himself was averse to any such thing. He was beginning to be afraid he would be "swept into the maelstrom."

Moose Jaw is a large railway centre, and railway men constitute the largest part of the working population. There is also large flour mills and an abattoir, with some smaller industries, including the building trade. It was agreed by all witnesses here, including the Mayor and a woman member of the School Board, that the housing conditions for workmen were unfavourable, and that the Government's housing scheme was not being used to remedy matters, because it was not practical.

The terms regarding the municipal debt were too hard, and there was too much red tape. The woes of civil servants were again brought before the attention of the Commission, this time by Thomas Oliver, secretary of the Western Canadian Interior Association, an organization of the employers of the Federal Department of the interior. He told of wages being so poor that some men with families had to come to work hungry. There was much delay in the appointments by the Civil Servants' Commission and a discouraging amount of red tape.

STRIKE THREATENS TO BE GENERAL

Machinists in All Contract Shops Throughout Province May Strike To-day.

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 10.—Jas. Munro, president of the Machinists' Provincial Council, stated late last night that machinists in all contract shops throughout the province would strike to-day at noon.

Mr. Munro, however, eliminated the railroad shopmen, who are embraced in Division 4 of the Union, and are bound to give thirty days' notice of expiration of contract. Their representatives are now negotiating in Montreal with the railroads.

Because of the strikes which have already taken place in the metal trades, industry at points in the province and the fact that the railroad shopmen will not be affected, the order is not felt to be as formidable as it might seem.

ITALY EMPHASIZES AUSTRIAN DEFEAT

People Believe Diaz's November Success Precipitated Germany's Surrender.

ROME, May 9.—In considering the Italian view of the Fiume question, there is one point of great importance which perhaps is not sufficiently realised outside of Italy. It is this: The Italian people to a man believe that it was the Italian victory over Austria at the beginning of last November which really precipitated the downfall of the Central Empires and the surrender of Germany.

Without questioning whether they are right or wrong, it is not surprising that they should think as they do, for in point of facts this "Vittorio Verito," as the Italians call it, was a far more complete and sensational success than anything which took place elsewhere. More than 6,000 cannon were captured and upwards of 500,000 enemy soldiers surrendered to the Italians. Whether it was all-decisive or not, it was by far the greatest enemy debacle in the course of the war.

Find Support in the Mangin Plan.

To support their opinion, the Italians advance Napoleon's maxim that the road to Berlin lay through Vienna, plus the fact, of which I was aware at the time, that General Mangin was preparing to lead a huge Allied force against the Southern German front, the way to which had been opened by the Italian victory.

The suggestion one has heard made in Paris that the Italians were reluctant to strike when asked to do so in October is met here by the argument that Diaz knew better than any one else the conditions on his front, that he waited as a first-class General should until the psychological moment, and that the results amply justified him.

Anyway, this much is true—more than any other European army, the Italian army is normally and materially in a good position. Its soldiers have confidence in their leaders and supreme faith in the skill of Generalissimo Diaz. Although a great number have been demobilised, there still remain over 2,000,000 men under arms.

This army is popular in Italy, and in view of the great shortage of raw materials and industrial difficulties, there is a considerable advantage in being a soldier, sure of regular pay, food, and lodging. Its final victory has given it tremendous prestige throughout the country.

Her military strength and readiness—for Italy has very large stores of munitions, in additiou to the immense material captured from the Austrians, all of which, unlike the French, the Italians have not allowed to rot in open-air depots—are additional incentives to Italy for the pursuit of her national policy.

FARMERS MET YESTERDAY

Steps Will be Taken to Help the Canadian Live Stock Breeders.

HORSES IN DEMAND

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 10.—The United Farmers of Ontario had a protracted executive meeting yesterday, at which various important matters got attention. Of foremost public interest was the appointment of a representative to the live stock conference called in Ottawa for the 12th and 13th, under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Manning Doherty was chosen, and goes to Ottawa fully in sympathy with the breeders of Canada to secure better treatment from Britain for Canadian cattle and to make the Canadian herds and stock farms.

In European countries like France, Poland, Roumania, and other places where the war has decimated the farm animals and means of restoration must be promptly undertaken. In March last Mr. H. S. Arkell, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner, went to Europe to look the situation over. In June and July, 1917, the attitude of Britain towards the Canadian cattle trade had been taken up with the British authorities by Sir Robert Borden, and the matter of the embargo against Canadian live cattle was removed. At the time the embargo was laid on, the reason assigned was the existence of pleuro-pneumonia in Canadian herds.

Re-open Question.

In 1917 the authorities in Britain went so far as to promise that the whole matter would be re-opened after the war. Mr. Arkell sails for Britain again next Friday, and expects to secure redemption of the 1917 promise in view of the depletion of British herds and the scarcity of horses. It is to take counsel with the different interests involved that the conference has been called for the 12th and 13th. Those who are invited to attend are accredited representatives of the Horse Breeders' and Cattle Breeders' Associations, the Deputy Ministers of Agriculture, and the representatives of agricultural bodies. After he gets through with his mission in Britain, Mr. Arkell will proceed to Europe, where there exists, of course, no embargo against Canadian herds.

Various European countries are in dire want to restore their dairy herds and Canadian breeders will be advised to take advantage of the situation. Farm and general purpose horses are also in demand both in Britain and Europe, and the opportunity is a favourable one for Canada. Mr. Arkell will be fully advised what Canada can supply when the conference closes.

WANT A PLACE TO HOLD MEETINGS

Plan to Hold Old Time Gospel Meetings in Peterboro.

Are there any property owners in Peterborough with sufficient love of God in their hearts and interested enough in the salvation of sinners to supply a place where the old time Gospel will be preached "in demonstration of the spirit and of power," where Christ will be lifted up and His name magnified, sinner saved, believers blessed and encouraged? There is an evangelist in town willing to labour to this end, not to take the people's money nor to please any clique, but to preach "Christ, the power of God." A place at a moderate rent. Adress Box 192, Examiner. 2d110

Special Demonstration of Wear-Ever Aluminum

All Next Week at the Turnbull Co. Store—Worth While Attending.

Next week is Wear-Ever Week at Turnbull's Store. During this period Miss Chamberlain, an expert demonstrator from the Department of Household Economics of the manufacturers of "Wear-Ever" Aluminium Cooking Utensils will be at the store and demonstrate the time saving, labor saving and money saving merits of "Wear-Ever." Miss Chamberlain is looked upon as one of the most expert demonstrators the manufacturers have, and her experience with, and the information she can give regarding "Wear-Ever" Aluminium is very valuable. She will be pleased to see you any day next week.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

St. Luke's Sunday School will begin its morning sessions to-morrow, May 11th, at 10 o'clock.

The evening service will be of the nature of a Memorial and Thanksgiving for the eight St. Luke's soldiers who fell in the war. The topic of the sermon will be, "The Everliving Dead."

Splendid Attendance at Board of Trade Meeting

Details of Organization Completed, Committees Named and By-laws Passed—First Business Transacted and Way Paved for Larger Endeavour.

AN AUSPICIOUS BEGINNING

Nearly one hundred members of the Board of Trade attended last night the first regular meeting since its reorganisation a short time ago. All the sections were largely represented, but the attendance was no less impressive and inspiring than the eager, expectant spirit that was manifested in the greetings, the discussions, and in the transaction of business. The vital spark that had been kept glowing during the anxious years of the war has apparently been fanned by the new hopes and prospects of returning peace into a flame that is firing the members with a purer faith in Peterborough and its people, a sterner determination to secure for this city its share of industrial expansion, and a clearer realisation of the opportunities of self-improvement here at home that invite serious and enduring effort.

Ald. J. J. Turner presided, with Mr. Basil Hall secretary. Mr. Turner's opening address was brief and pointed. He intimated the Board's intention of furthering its membership campaign, not by the "booster" method, but by a steady personal appeal to the citizens, urging their co-operation in a movement to build up a greater and better city.

A Repatriation Committee.

A communication from the Great War Veterans' Association suggested the establishment of a City Repatriation Committee, composed of prominent citizens, representatives of the G.W.V.A., of the Trades and Labour Council, the Manufacturers' Association, together with Mayor Duncan, for the devising of means to provide employment and assistance in the repatriation of soldiers. It was referred to the Committee on Industrial Welfare.

The Train Service.

Letters from the De Laval, the C.G.E., Peterborough Lock, and G. Walter Green Companies pointed out that under the new C.P.R. timetable the "local" passenger train arrives in Peterborough at 9.25. Its departure from Toronto has been set back, thereby delaying longer than is deemed necessary the return of Peterborough people visiting in Toronto. It was stated that a desirable hour for arrival here would be about 8 p.m. This question was referred to the Transportation Committee, but Ald. Turner said he had already been in communication with the C. P. R. officials.

A Tribute to Mr. Ritchie.

By a standing vote the members adopted a resolution, proposed by Mr. W. H. Bradburn and seconded by Mr. George Sherry, making Mr. Ryerson Ritchie a life member of the Board.

The motion acknowledged the Board's debt to Mr. Ritchie for his encouragement and practical support in the recent successful efforts toward reconstruction, and of his guidance in the establishing of the Board's system of government.

Replying, Mr. Ritchie said: "I can only express my very sincere appreciation for your very complimentary resolution and for the kindly things you have said. It is natural for me to be interested in my native town. I had hoped that some day it would take hold of itself, and I believe that it has. The time is not far distant when you will begin to see the practical results. I have seen two illustrations to-day of men coming together in new understanding and faith. You will find this the spirit that will bring the people together in the interests of Peterborough."

Took Oath of Office.

Scrupulously following the Governments statute, Mayor Duncan delivered the oath of office to the President and secretary, and Ald. Turner administered it to the Allied Associations and Arbitration Committees, and to the Board's Council.

For Celebration of Peace.

Mr. J. W. Worth inquired whether the Board intended to participate with the City Council in any celebration of the declaration of Peace.

Ald. Turner: I think that might be left to the City Council.

Mayor Duncan: It is my intention to declare a holiday or half-holiday the day Peace is signed. I would like to have all the assistance we can possibly get from the Board of Trade and we will notify you of our plans.

Printers' Request.

Mr. A. J. Bolwell, representing the Typographical Union, requested that when the by-laws are printed that they bear the printers' label. "It is the trade mark of our Union," he said, "and the insignia of fair working conditions. Merchants have their trade marks, and the printers desire that theirs be shown."

Mr. Turner assured Mr. Bolwell that the draft of the by-laws would be again considered, and that his request would be brought before the proper committee.

Chose Their Chairman.

Replying to Mr. Worth, Mr. Tur-

HUN DELEGATES TO RETURN TO BERLIN

Germans Want "A Peace of Right" According to Proclamation.

PARIS, May 10. — The German peace plenipotentiaries are at perfect liberty to return to Berlin and consult their government if they desire to do so. Such a move if made would not mean the breaking off of the negotiations. The Germans, it is said, enjoy entire freedom of movement and diplomatic immunity.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, May 10. — Friday, via Copenhagen. Germany's reply to the terms of peace presented at Versailles on Wednesday, will be a proposal "for a peace of right on the basis of lasting peace of nations," according to a proclamation to the German people issued here to-day, by President Ebert.

The proclamation says the treaty would "deliver German labor to foreign capitalism for indignity of wage slavery and permanently fetter the young German republic."

The proclamation closes with an appeal to the German people to "stand together. Knowing no parties," and to "persevere with the government mutual trust in the path of duty, in the belief of the triumph of reason and right."

From such an imposed peace fresh hatred would be bound to arise between nations, and in course of history there would be new wars. The world would be obliged to bury every hope of the League of Nations liberating and healing nations and ensuring peace. The German Government is giving expression to the united will of the German nation. The German Government will put forth every effort to secure for the German people the same national unity and independence and the same freedom of labour in economical and cultural respects which the Allies want to give to all the peoples of Europe, save only our people. Every thought and the entire will of the nation is thought now to be turned to labour for the preservation and the reconstruction of our Fatherland. The Government appeals to all Germans in this hard hour to preserve with it mutual trust in the path of duty and and the belief in the triumph of reason and of right.

Ebert's proclamation says: "The German people, having laid down its arms honestly observed all the obligations of the armistice, hard as they were. Notwithstanding this, our opponents for six months have continued war by maintaining a blockade. The Allies have now given us Peace terms which are in contradiction to the promise given."

NOTHING FOR GRANTED.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 10.—It is understood that among the subjects discussed by the Council of Four at its meeting to-day was the eventuality of Germany refusing to sign the Peace Treaty and what steps should be taken in that event.

It is said that no intimation that Germany intended taking such a course has reached the Allies, but they are taking nothing for granted; and discussion of the subject by representatives of the Powers to-day was by way of preparation for such an eventuality, however remote.

BUTTER IS ON THE DOWNFALL AGAIN

Eggs Are Firm at Last Week's Prices—Potatoes Going Up.

"I know it's not worth it, but the rest are getting it," said one farmer's wife as she quoted 55 cents as the price of her butter. But the majority of the women asked 50 to 53 cents a pound.

Per eggs—45 to 48 cents a dozen.
Per chickens—35 cents a pound.
Per potatoes—$1.30 a bag.

The inside market was exceptionally large, notwithstanding the weather, and the outside small.

Evening Examiner

"Peterborough Prospers While Peterborough Advertises."

SATURDAY, MAY 10TH, 1919.

EARLY CLOSING.

The announcement of Messrs. Richard Hall and Son that, commencing from June 1st and continuing through the summer months their store will close at 5 p.m. sharp on every business day but Saturday will be generally welcomed as an indication that shorter and more reasonable working hours are being recognized as necessary. Last year the majority of Peterborough stores adopted the 5 o'clock closing, and the extra hour of leisure during the heat of the summer was a great boon to the employees. It is expected that there will be a general adoption of the same hours this year, and on this account the action of Messrs. Richard Hall and Son in already announcing the decision of their firm to do so is doubly welcome as an augury that their example will be followed by other business establishments in the city.

The Hall store will open at 8.30 a.m. each morning and close at 5 o'clock each day except Saturday, when the closing hour will be 9.30 p.m. This makes an average working day of eight hours and five minutes, which is of course reduced during July and August by the introduction of the weekly half holiday system. In advising of the public of the shorter hours, Messrs. Richard Hall and Son point out what should be generally recognised, and that is that these better working conditions not only are beneficial to the health of the employees, but are conducive to greater efficiency and better service. Clerks who are not over-worked and who do not have to stand on their feet too long during the warm weather are more physically and mentally fit to look after customers than they were under the old conditions.

The public will appreciate these facts and no doubt will be glad to co-operate by arranging to do their shopping a little earlier in the day. The system worked out admirably last year, and now that the ice has been broken it is expected that other firms will follow the lead and make similar announcements in regard to early closing.

THE GALLANT 21ST.

Peterborough is soon to have an opportunity of welcoming home the local members of the 21st Battalion, the famous Eastern Ontario unit, with which many of the soldiers from this city have been connected. The reception to be tendered the men of the 21st should be none the less hearty than that given the Peterborough members of the 2nd Battalion and the 4th Battery when they reached home several weeks ago. This city has supplied many soldiers to the 21st Battalion. Beginning with the original quota of ninety men, which was recruited here in the early autumn of 1914, there have been fresh drafts of Peterborough men incorporated into the battalion from time to time during its long and glorious career in France. Probably more local men have served in the 21st than in any other unit at the front, and for that reason the citizens of Peterborough should welcome the chance of giving a fitting reception to the members of the unit when they return here. A committee composed of former members of the 21st Battalion is making arrangements for the home-coming and no doubt the civic authorities will be glad to co-operate with them. One feature that is being planned and that should be carried out if at all possible, is to gather the relatives of the returning men together and to have them waiting in automobiles at the station so that there will be none of the confusion over family re-unions that have occurred at other receptions. Naturally the men will want to see their friends as soon as possible and the arrangement planned by the 21st committee will bring them together quickly. It is expected that there will be a parade and a few very short addresses, and the citizens generally are asked to assist by turning out in large numbers and by decorating their houses with flags and bunting. The men of the 21st deserve a rousing whole-hearted reception. The unit has a glorious record and Peterborough members have had much to do with the splendid reputation enjoyed by the Eastern Ontario battalion.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The business-like manner in which last night's meeting of the Board of Trade was conducted, and the large and truly representative attendance are bright auguries for the future. There was an absence of the usual lavish promises of what is to be expected of the Board that was another hopeful sign. As President J. J. Turner put it, "we cannot build up Peterborough by sensation. We must think about and devise ways to that end and we must work as we never have worked in Peterborough before for results. It means steady, plodding effort."

Of an organization that starts out in that spirit much can be expected. A realization of the great work that is to be done in a much more promising sign than the blaring announcements of miracles that will be accomplished that sometimes are heard at the launching out of some ambitious movement. The new Board of Trade commences its career fully aware of, but not dismayed by, the difficulties that must be surmounted, confidently undertaking the task that lies ahead. The work has been planned on business principles that should commend themselves to every thinking citizen. But more than commendation is needed. The development of the Board of Trade into an organization that will be 100 per cent. efficient depends upon the co-operation and support of all classes in the community. The corner stone has been well and truly laid—the completion of the structure depends upon the community.

Many times the question is heard, "What are the objects of the Board of Trade?" As set forth in the constitution adopted last night, they are as follows:

Section 1.—The objects of the Peterborough Board of Trade are to advance the commercial, agricultural, industrial and communal interests of the City and County of Peterborough; to promote integrity and good faith; to maintain just and equitable principles, in business and professional usage; and to acquire, preserve and distribute data, statistics and information of value to the membership of any section thereof, and to the people at large.

2.—This Board, in its activities shall be non-partisan, non-sectional and non-sectarian, and it shall not, as a body, take any part in or lend its influence to the nomination, election or appointment of any candidate for Federal, Provincial, County, Township or City Office.

These objects are such as must surely commend themselves to those who have the interest of Peterborough at heart. Particular attention should be paid to the statement that the Board shall be non-partisan, non-sectional and non-sectarian in its activities. No one interest or class is to be served; its work is to be for the community as a whole.

Anniversary of St. Andrew's Church on Sunday Next

The First Church Was Built Eighty-six Years Ago.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will hold anniversary services next Sunday, celebrating the 86th year of its history.

In the year 1833 the Rev. John Morrice Roger came out from Scotland and established a Presbyterian Church in Peterborough. In accordance with the practice of ministers in connection with the Church of Scotland, it was called St. Andrew's Church, after St. Andrew, the Apostle and the Patron Saint of Scotland. St. Andrew is a great name among the Scottish people, and for this reason the earliest Presbyterian Churches in many cities were called after St. Andrew, as in Toronto, Belleville, Kingston, Perth, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec and other places.

The congregation worshipped at first in a small building north of King street, near Aylmer. In 1833 a grant was made to the Church of the lot on which St. Andrew's Church now stands, and in 1836 a substantial stone church was erected on this site.

To this edifice the Presbyterian services in the city were transferred and the Rev. John Morrice Roger ministered here until 1857. These were the only Presbyterian services in the city up to this date.

The present place of worship was erected in 1883, the Jubilee Year of the Church's history.

Looking back through the vista of the years one sees that many devoted ministers have served the pulpit of St. Andrews'. It will be no disparagement of others to say that the most brilliant was the Rev. D. J. McDonnell, one of the most gifted and devoted of ministers who has ever served the church in this or any other country, and who, after leaving Peterborough, preached every Sunday for many years to crowded congregations in New St. Andrew's Church, Toronto.

St. Andrew's Church is fortunate this year in securing the Rev. Dr. Dyde, Principal of Queen's Theological College, Kingston, as its anniversary preacher. Dr. Dyde has recently taken the principalship of Queen's, a position once made famous by the Rev. Dr. Grant.

STARTED ON THE SECOND STAGE

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, May 10.—With ideal flying weather, two American N.C. hydroaeroplanes N.C. 1 and N.C. 3 left Halifax this morning within seventeen minutes of each other on the second stage of their journey across the Atlantic, Halifax to Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland.

HALIFAX, May 10. — Only one plane is now making the trip to Newfoundland. N. C. 3 has been reported passing Canso. N. C. 1 has returned; engine trouble.

Anaemic Paleness Quickly Changed To Rosy Cheeks

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood.

If confined too much indoors, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently ill-nourished and half-starved.

But there is a cure!

Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut; as a blood enricher their equal is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid.

Healthy colour supplants the pallid, ashen face.

Better appetite, strong digestion and dreamless sleep are sure to follow, because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Think it over.

Will it pay you to look and feel half-dead, to lack colour and spirit, when all can be changed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

Better act at once.

Your case is more curable now than later on.

Dr. Hamilton's personally guarantees his pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Their merit is unquestioned.

Thousands of anaemics they have cured and kept well.

They will do just the same for you. Try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box.

Big Emotional Appeal

"Common Clay," the Harvard prize play by Cleves Kinkead, has been pronounced one of five of the greatest American dramas. This estimate is sustained by the facts and figures concerning its stage production—with Jane Cowl, in the leading role it ran a full year in New York with crowded performances; it was presented by six companies in the United States and Canada and showed in every city of 10,000 population and upward. Regarded from its sociologic side, it has been discussed in many universities, welfare organizations and civic bodies. The pulpit liberally lent voice to its discussion, for "Common Clay" deals with one of the gravest problems of big cities—the Girl, full of the joy of life, reared in poor surrounding and without proper parental direction.

And now a greater power is to be given to this great American masterpiece through A. H. Woods' screen presentation of it, featuring Fannie Ward, fresh from her fine historical achievements in "The Narrow Path" and "A Japanese Nightingale." Her work reaches such splendid emotional heights that, at the first showing of the film play, especially for the reviewers, many of the women present were moved to tears.

It is a woman's play through and through, pulsating with feeling and tense with the anguish of tortured souls. It has been said that it awakens in the breast of the spectator the pity which Dr. Gilbert Murray says, "is the kingdom of heaven within us fighting against the brute power of the world." "Common Clay" will be shown at the Grand Opera House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The vaudeville will combine of the famous Burley Bros., comedy acrobatic Jarvis and Harrison in "Shooting the Chute," and Wendall Hall, the singing xylophonist. Prices remain the same for this star programme. Matinees 10c and 15c. Evening 15c and 25c.

Colonial shoes are one of the favored styles for spring.

ANOTHER EFFORT TO SAVE FRANK M'CULLOUGH

Rev. R. B. Nelles and Mr. T. C. Robinette Will Go to Ottawa Next Week.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 10. — In company with Rev. R. B. Nelles, Mr. T. C. Robinette, counsel for Frank McCullough, will next week go to Ottawa, to see if by any means the death sentence can be commuted; whether there is any chance of a reprieve being gained is a question that the general public are now asking. The city at large is discussing the question and generally there seems to be a feeling that despite his multitudinous crimes, McCullough does not deserve as bitter a fate as hanging. The fact that he did not resist capture and that the original shooting was in the heat of passion, are said to be large factor's in the public's sympathy.

The former petition for McCullough is now in the hands of the Minister of Justice. The Minister has authority to issue a reprieve until after June 13th, the date now fixed for the execution, until a further petition can be circulated. The chances are, Mr. Robinette stated yesterday ,that another petition will be circulated. Should this be done it is likely that it would receive a great number of signatures.

Notwithstanding the sphinx-like silence of Inspector of Detectives George Guthrie, is a persistent rumor that Frank McCullough's betrayer was a woman. The revelation of the hiding place was contained in an anonymous letter. Vera de Lavelle, the police state, never assisted them, and assert that the postponement of her sentence by Judge Coatsworth had no bearing on the case.

The police believe McCullough stole the bicycle he had at his rooming house, from Joseph Jefferson, and they also allege that he entered the home of R. L. Huckoch, 527 Crawford street and secured jewellry and other articles found in his room. McCullough admits that he purposed wheeling through the country as a lineman.

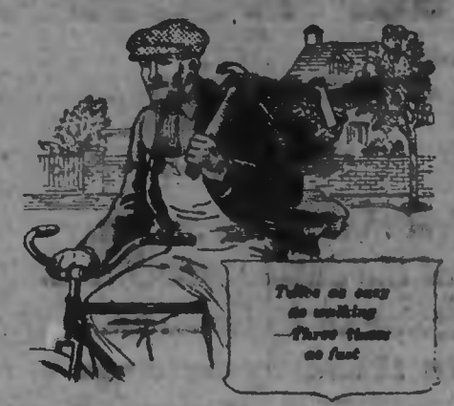
Among the effects seized in McCullough's room at Bathurst street, were—A bracket, a hunting case gold watch, gold links, a razor, a sweater coat, a scarf, a lady's wrist watch, a broken bracelet, $18 in cash.

Forty-four names were secured by a Mrs. Hall to a petition to save Frank McCullough's life in less than half an hour at noon yesterday around Bathurst and King streets. Mrs. Hall said that she had never seen McCullough, but is opposed to capital punishment, and wants to get two thousand names to her petition in the neighborhood where the crime was committed.

Mrs. Hall canvassed the houses and talked to men on the street. "You would not want to see a man hanged, would you?" was the polite way she accosted many of her signers.

Charles Burleigh, 80 Bathurst st., declares that he made no statement as that reported as given by "the man next door." Mr. Burleigh said he was at work all day.

What You Get for the Last $10



WHAT is it worth to you that your C.C.M. will be running more smoothly after long use than many ordinary wheels do when new—that it will still be giving sturdy service years after an inferior wheel is played out—that fewer repairs are needed owing to C.C.M. sincerity of workmanship in every part—that in case of accident, you can get C.C.M. service almost everywhere in Canada?

Imagine getting all this extra service for the last ten dollars you pay! Spread over the much longer life of your C.C.M., the cost to you is but a trifle!

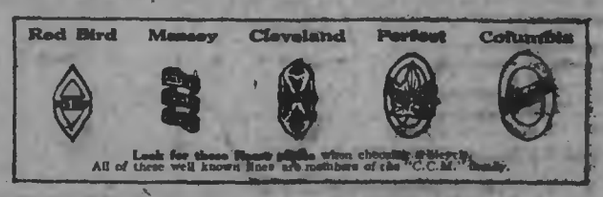
C·C·M· Bicycles

Every running part of a C.C.M. bicycle is made true as a watch. And it keeps true. Every rider of an ordinary wheel has felt the hard pedalling caused by inaccuracies in the crank-hanger—the power plant of a bicycle. He feels an alternate looseness and tightness, indicating friction and loss of driving power. In C.C.M. bicycles the parts subject to wear are not stamped out, but are accurately machine ground. Not a whit of driving power is lost.

And the "Hercules" Coaster Brake! All C.C.M. bicycles have it. It is the only brake without a side arm. Lightest and simplest of all brakes, the Hercules is sensitive, sure and powerful. The clutch engages with utmost smoothness. We back this brake with a hard and fast guarantee.

Look at a C.C.M.! After years of hard use its graceful lines are still enhanced by the sparkle of its brilliant enamel. The handle bars, and all bright parts, defy the rain—these are nickelled over a heavy coat of copper—and copper can't rust.

There's a C.C.M. dealer not far away.



Look for these Figure Signs when choosing a Bicycle. All of these well known lines are members of the "C.C.M." family.

The Pure Balsamic Essences of Catarrhozone Afford Surest and Quickest Cure

Catarrhozone is certain to cure because its healing vapor is carried with the breath direct to the seat of the chest, nose or throat trouble. Being composed of the purest balsams and pine essences; it immediately allays irritations, facilitates the ejection of mucus, soothes and stimulates the lungs and bronchial tubes. The marvel of the age in curing nose, throat and bronchial troubles, that's what thousands say about Catarrhozone. There is nothing so sure to cure, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lung-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog, or damp can affect them—let them get Catarrhozone and use it several times daily—it will cure every time.

Large size Catarrhozone, sufficient for two months' use, guaranteed, price, $1.00; smaller size, 50c; sample size, 25c. Sold everywhere.

WANTED INVENTIONS

AN interesting and captivating thing about those fortune producing inventions is that most of them are of ordinary or minor value in themselves. If you have a notion that you must invent a big thing to make money, get rid of it at once. Many of the Patents that have made their inventors millionaires are those which contained very few entirely new ideas.

The simplest ideas have earned fortunes for their patentees. The safety razor, the sanitary drinking cup, the hump hairpin, the demountable tire rim—any of these could have been invented by a man of average ability. In your every day life, at home, at your office, in your shop you handle any number of articles that are subject to improvement. If you can think of a way of improving some article or process already in use, or if you can invent a new useful device or process or article of manufacture, you are on the road to fortune. Deanslcop made a fortune from a single shipping-tags. Prepare now to meet the demands of Industry in All Fields for New Ideas and New Inventions. Before sending your invention to any attorney or manufacturer or disclosing your invention, write for our free blank form PROOF OF CONCEPTION in order to protect your invention and secure your rights.

WE ADVERTISE our Clients Inventions Free in INDUSTRIAL CANADA, which is the Official Magazine of the Canadian Manufacturers Association. It pays to Have Shipmore Service. Ask for our new Booklet "Patent Protection"

Send model, Sketch and description of any new inventions you have for Free Opinion as to Patentability. This Certificate of Patentability together with our blank form "Proof of Conception" will protect the Inventor and serve as proof of the invention until the case can be filed in The Patent Office. 1,360,400 TONS OF FOOD SENT ABROAD THIS YEAR.

Since January 1 the United States Government has shipped to the hunger-stricken millions of Europe more than 1,360,400 tons of food, the special relief service branch of the United States Shipping Board announced here. The supplies have gone to the civilian populations of Europe through New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Norfolk, and Gulf ports for discharge at Rotterdam, Dantzig, Derindje, Bordeaux, Constantinople, and other ports on the North Sea, the Mediterranean, and the Adriatic.

To carry this food there has been called into service a rapidly increasing fleet of American and chartered foreign vessels, until now the records of the office of Tarleton Winchester, manager for the special service here, show that 303 ships are engaged, aggregating more than 1,500,000 tons cargo carrying capacity.

To visualize the volume of food supplies sent abroad this year, there can be pictured a train of average box cars more than 350 miles in length.

"GO TO IT," SAYS MR. J. H. BURNHAM

Characteristic Reply from the Federal Member.

Mr. N. Sukloff, a member of the Canadian Jewish Congress, and a well known merchant in this city, received the following letter in reply to a telegram sent to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., regarding the proposed immigration bill which the Hebrews claim is a discrimination against their race. May 7, 1919.

Mr. N. Sukloff, Peterboro:

Sir: I am forwarding your telegram to the Prime Minister. If there is any attempt to diminish the liberties of any portion of the people it ought to be struck out at once. I think you will find that it looks worse than it is.

However, if you have a grievance, Go to it—you will succeed.

Yours truly,
J. H. Burnham.

"MUTT AND JEFF IN THE WOOLLY WEST"

Simon-pure comedy of the kind that insinuates itself into our very marrow and makes life one long, blisaful song, is promised in the latest Mutt and Jeff series. Those who have had the good fortune to already have witnessed this piece of genuine tomfoolery and fun, pronounce it is the final word in up-to-date stage entertainment and modern producing. It is in three rollicking acts and is entitled, "Mutt and Jeff in the Wooly West." The plot naturally permits those two wonderfully humourous cartoon personages ample opportunity to display their talents for arousing mirth, which has been their quota ever since their gifted creator, "Bud" Fisher, first brought them into the light of fame and happiness.

Feed Chicks Right

They develop twice as fast.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Chick Feed will develop chicks into broilers for market faster and bring them to the egg-laying period much earlier than ordinary feed. Purina Feeds are adapted to young chicks, and give perfect development.

PURINA

CHICKEN CHOWDER and CHICK FEED

Grain feed supplies an excess of heat and energy, but is deficient in elements that make blood, bone, nerve, lean meat and feathers. Purina Chicken Chowder contains an abundance of the very elements which grain feed lacks. The Chowder and Chick Feed should be fed in about equal quantities.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Scratch Feed are guaranteed to make hens lay more eggs.

"The Unpardonable Sin" Is Season's Big Event

Much has been written about the cost of big photoplay productions—and because not a little of it has been pure "press agentry," it is, perhaps, no longer the best of form to attempt to gauge the merit of a photoplay production by the amount of money which was expended in making it. And yet the engagement of Harry Garson's "The "Unpardonable Sin" at the Grand Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, ought not to be made without the perfectly warranted statement that this picture is one of the most pretentious produced which has ever been exhibited in Peterborough. The production is in ten reels, and this alone means lots of money. Cutting into the exchequer of Harry Garson, the producer, to a great extent, however, were the salaries of such people as Marshall Neilan, Blanche Sweet, Wallace Beery and others whose services were enlisted in the screening of the story. Mr. Neilan, conceded to be one of the finest directors in the business, commands a fancy salary, and Miss Sweet, the star, was secured for the production only after extra inducements had been offered her to forsake the comparatively quiet life, away from moving picture people, which she has been leading for the past couple of years after having established herself as an international screen favourite.

Mr. N. Sukloff, Peterboro:

Sir: I am forwarding your telegram to the Prime Minister. If there is any attempt to diminish the liberties of any portion of the people it ought to be struck out at once. I think you will find that it looks worse than it is.

However, if you have a grievance, Go to it—you will succeed.

"MUTT AND JEFF IN THE WOOLLY WEST"

Simon-pure comedy of the kind that insinuates itself into our very marrow and makes life one long, blissful song, is promised in the latest Mutt and Jeff series. Those who have had the good fortune to already have witnessed this piece of genuine tomfoolery and fun, pronounce it is the final word in up-to-date stage entertainment and modern producing. It is in three rollicking acts and is entitled, "Mutt and Jeff in the Wooly West." The plot naturally permits those two wonderfully humourous cartoon personages ample opportunity to display their talents for arousing mirth, which has been their quota ever since their gifted creator, "Bud" Fisher, first brought them into the light of fame and happiness.

Feed Chicks Right
They develop twice as fast.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Chick Feed will develop chicks into broilers for market faster and bring them to the egg-laying period much earlier than ordinary feed. Purina Feeds are adapted to young chicks, and give perfect development.

PURINA
CHICKEN CHOWDER and CHICK FEED

Grain feed supplies an excess of heat and energy, but is deficient in elements that make blood, bone, nerve, lean meat and feathers. Purina Chicken Chowder contains an abundance of the very elements which grain fed lacks. The Chowder and Chick Feed should be fed in about equal quantities.

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Scratch Feed are guaranteed to make hens lay more eggs.

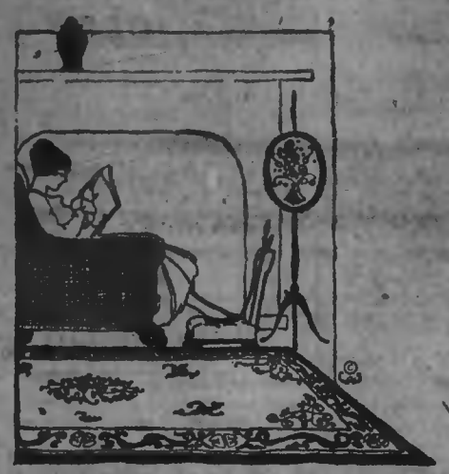
"A Room Is No More Beautiful Than It's Boundaries"



This would make a very good proverb, because it is so true, so full of meaning and so profitable if one remembers and is guided by it.

The boundaries of a room, are, of course, the floor, the walls and the ceiling.

Or, more practically speaking, a room's boundaries are:

—IT'S FLOOR COVERING
—IT'S WINDOW HANGINGS AND SHADES
—IT'S WALL PAPER

And these contain the "Alpha and Omega" of any room's decoration, beautification, and success.

They are so important that no store can have a stock too great or too complete; we realise this fact fully and govern ourselves accordingly. They are so important, also, that no home-makers can be too particular about their selecting and harmonizing, one with another, and all with the Furniture and Draperies that they adorn. Do YOU realise this?

WILTON RUGS—We are now showing, in a very rainbow panorama of the solid tones so ultra lovely and adaptable to exquisite colour schemes, as well as an illumitive profusion of the smartest patterned weavery. There are several other qualities and makes being shown for Spring, too.

WINDOW SHADES—show novel and decorative designs that make them not the necessary evil they once were, but a distinctly enhancing addition.

Fresh, up-to-date patterns in Wall Papers, and Drapery Fabrics are now here in comprehensive and attractive arrays.

Presentation to Minister in Charge f St. Andrew's Church

Rev. W. L. H. Rowand is Leaving for Moose Jaw—Banquet in St. Andrew's Church Last Evening.

At a banquet given last evening in St. Andrew's Sunday School Hall by the veteran members of the Ladies' Aid Society to the newly joined members, the Session and Board of Management took advantage of the occasion to formally say farewell to Rev. W. L. H. Rowand who has acted as pastor during two years of the absence of Captain (Rev.) James Rollins.

Following the banquet at which 100 new and old members enjoyed the sumptuous repast provided by the Ladies, Aid and at which the Session and Board of Management acted as waiters, Mr. Rowand delivered the address of welcome to the new members, in which he told of the great asset the social life of the church is to the general work of the church. Mr. Andrew McFarlane then, on behalf of the Session and Board of Management, expressed the keen appreciation of the church for Mr. Rowand's service as pastor, and wished him every success in his new home in Moose Jaw, Sask., and voiced the sentiments of the congregatoin in hoping that he might long be spared to carry on the good work as he has done while in Peterborough. The address was accompanied by the presentation by Mr. E. B. Fowler, of a purse containing a large sum of money.

Mr. Rowand's Reply

Mr. Rowand responded to the presentation by expressing his deep gratitude to the congregation, not only on the occasion of the presentation, but during his entire pastorship at St. Andrews. He said that the two years he spent in Peterboro would always be numbered amongst the happiest of his life. He also referred to Mrs. Rowand's deep regret at leaving.

Vote of Thanks

On behalf of the Board of Management and the Session, Mr. W. S. Campbell moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Ladies' Aid for the banquet and for the splendid opportunity it provided to make the presentation to the beloved pastor who was leaving.

Said Farewell

After the presentation to Mr. Rowand, on behalf of the Ladies'Aid, Mrs. A. Cook presented Mrs. T. H. Sills with a beautiful ring, while the following address was read by Mrs. B. McNeely:

Dear Mrs. Sills:—It is with feelings of deep regret that we have met together this evening to bid farewell to you, one of our most faithful workers.

During your stay among us you have filled nearly all the offices of this Society, except the president's chair, and if we could only induce you to stay with us, we might even offer you that some time. However, our loss is somebody else's gain, and now in bidding you farewell we would ask you to accept this small token of our friendship for you; and in leaving for your new home we pray God's richest blessings may follow you, and that you may often give a kindly thought to the many friends you have left behind in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough.

Signed on behalf the Ladies' Aid Society.

President, Edith John.
Rec. Sec., Ella M. Henderson.
Cor. Sec., Nina McNeely.

The presentations were concluded by the gift of a sterling card case to Mrs. Rowand, from the Mission Circle and the Ladies' Aid. Mrs. R. Lee made the presentation while Mrs. F. Weir read the accompanying address:

Dear Mrs. Rowand:—We cannot allow you to go away without expressing to you our appreciation of your work while here.

You have helped us so much by your presence, your suggestions, and your kindly manner, always ready to give of yourself, oftentimes beyond your physical strength.

In every activity of the Church you have been interested, particularly the Red Cross work, and the Women's Missionary Society. Your leadership and wise counsel will long be remembered.

Our prayers and best wishes will follow you into the new field into which you are called, and we trust you may be long spared to help on the work of the Master. We know wherever you are you will be an inspiration for good, and will do your part to win the world for Christ.

We ask you to accept this little gift just as a remembrance of the ladies' in St. Andrew's Church.

Novel Feature

A pleasant and novel feature of the entertainment was the scheme by which the members accomplished the art of becoming more familiar with one another. Each member was given a slip with her name and then went among the visitors putting down the name of each lady she spoke to. Mrs. Puttick succeeded in making the greatest number of friends and Mrs. Rowand followed in a close second. A guessing contest was also an appreciated feature. A splendid musical programme was given.

LINDSAY HEARS OF AN AMUSING INCIDENT

(Lindsay Warder.)

An amusing incident was related to The Warder regarding a Peterborough citizen who sent to Montreal for a case of wihskey.

It is said that the purchaser sent a message to the inspector asking him to watch out for a case that was coming to Kendry station. In company with a detective the inspector was on the job and seized the case that came to Kendry. Upon investigation, however, it was found that while the goods were wet it contained several bottles of acquapura instead of red eye. In the meantime the genuine article had gone through to Peterborough on the C.P.R. and was delivered while the officers of the law were still in Kendry.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion, the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this double strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

It is always safe to send a Dominion Express Money Order. Five Dollars costs three cents.

GENERAL DEBILITY FOLLOWS INFLUENZA

Health Can Only Be Restored Through the Use of Blood-Making Tonic.

Health Can Only Be Restored Through the Use of a Blood-Making Tonic

Debility is a loss of vitality not affecting any one part of the body particularly, but the system generally. It is dangerous because it reduces the body's resistance to disease. When debility follows acute diseases, convalescences is slow, and one's strength does not return as it should. An attack of influenza often results in debility that persists for months. Everybody recognizes that the remedy for debility is to build up the blood, because the blood goes to every part of the body, and any improvement in its condition is quickly felt throughout the system.

In cases of simple anaemia, or debility following acute diseases such as fevers or influenza, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be found valuable, because they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. There is no other medicine as valuable for growing children, and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. They are worth a fair trial in every case where thin blood and weak nerves have started the trouble. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been proved in the home of Mrs. John Fram, Owen Sound, who says: "My daughter Mabel was troubled with a bad cough; she was pale, weak and her appetite was very poor, indeed I feared that she was going into a decline A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking eight boxes she was again enjoying the best of health. Again last autumn Spanish influenza attacked our home, and after the acute symptoms were past, both myself and another daughter were left very much run down. My daughter was so weak that she could not walk to school and would tremble when she got upon her feet. I was so weak myself that I could not do my housework. Again we resorted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in each case we took five boxes, when we were as well as ever we had been. I never enjoyed better health than I am now doing, and am able again to do my housework. After our experience it is not possible for me to say too much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ner stated that standing committees should choose their chairmen, that the first member named in the list was appointed to the position.

Veterans' Representatives.

The G. W. V. A. announced that Comrade Harvey Staunton had been appointed a delegate. Comrades Layfield and Morrison are also representatives from the Veterans' Association.

Mr. Layfield bespoke a generous response to the Veterans' campaign for funds for their new clubhouse, and Mr. G. O. Cameron stated that the Playgrounds Association purposed asking the citizens to contribute just 50c of their vaeation money to give 3,000 kiddies in the city a chance to enjoy themselves.

Committees Confirmed.

The composition of the standing committees was confirmed on a motion by Mr. Reid Munro, seconded by Mr. E. F. Mason.

The 205 applications for membership were referred to the Executive, on motion by Mr. G. N. Gordon, seconded by Mr. Worth.

Farmers Present.

Not only were there citizens of all occupations and professions present, but Mr. R. S. Rogers and Mr. C. E. Moore led a deputation of farmers, who arrived somewhat late. Their arrival was the signal for an outburst of applause.

"You understand, Mr. Chairman, that these members observe the old time," explained Mr. Reg. Turner.

Other Committees Forming.

Ald. Turner stated that other committees not yet completed will be Agricultral, War Memorials and Research and Recommendations. It is proposed that the latter shall consist of members who are in touch with citizens of large means from whom it is hoped that lands for parks and donations for other public purposes may be obtained.

Furnishings Cost $1,046.62.

A financial statement showed that the cost of decorating and furnishing the rooms was $1,046.62.

Mr. G. N. Gordon's interim report of the Sustaining Committee was regarded as highly satisfactory.

By-laws Adopted.

The Board's new by-laws were adopted with the exception of several clauses which were referred back to the committee for emandation, on a motion by Mr. W. R. Morris, seconded by Mr. W. R. Breyfogle.

The meeting was adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem.

Wash That Itch Away

We know of no sufferer from Eczema who ever used the simple wash D.D.D. and did not feel immediately that wonderfully calm, cool sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. This soothing wash penetrates the pores, gives instant relief from the most distressing skin diseases.

Wash Your Corset Frequently

Every woman should have at least two corsets—one that she is wearing and one in the laundry.

Dainty women do not wear one corset continually until it is worn out. Corsets, like other garments worn neat the skin, should be tubbed frequently.

Modart Corsets

FRONT LACED

Will stand constant laundering. They should be soaked in lukewarm water and scrubbed with soap. Hot or boiling water should not be used, as it impairs the rubber in the elastic. The superior quality of Modart body cloths—tapes, hose supporters are not affected by tubbing, and the clock spring steel boning in MODARTS is protected by a rubberized covering that makes it impervious to water.

Inferior quality corsets that are made from materials loaded with starch lose their shape when laundered, and paper covered boning, which rubs off when it becomes wet, allows the steel underneath to rust. When well laundered and aired, MODART Corsets become like new. There is no impairment to any part of the garment. Its shapely lines are unimpaired.

All day, at whatever task you may be engaged—household duties, athletic sports or social functions—a MODART Corset gives you a superb feeling of comfort and contentment.

Let your next corset be a MODART. Have a thorough trial fitting.
You will look and feel better.

MR. HATTON KEEPS UP WINNING STREAK

This Time the City Council is the Loser—Cannot Construct McDonnel St. Sewer.

The Honourable Mr. Justice Lennox has handed down judgment at Osgoode Hall, Toronto quashing By-Law N. 2125 of the Corporation of City of Peterborough with costs against the city including costs of the motion made before the Hon. Mr. Justice Logie to quash the same By-Law.

By-Law No. 2125 was passed on the second of December last to authrize the construction of a sewer on McDonnel street from Cambridge street west to the Monaghan road under the Local Improvement Act and at the expense of the owners of the vacant property on both sides of the street. Mr. G. W. Hatton contended that in as much as there were no buildings on the property to be served by the sewer it was wholly unnecessary to be constructed on sanitary grounds, and that it was not necessary and desirable in the public interest within the meaning of the Local Improvement Act.

It appeared from the evidence that there was no insanitary condition originated within the limits of the City of Peterborough where the sewer in question was to be constructed and it was contended that the City Council was not exercising its extraordinary powers bona fide in passing the By-Law in questin to tax the property for an alleged improvement of which the owners would get no present benefit.

R. R. Hall and J. F. P. Birnie appeared for the plaintiff and Daniel O'Connell and C. R. Widdifield appeared for the defendant.

THE JUDGMENT.

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 10.—Mr. Justice Lennox has quashed By-law No. 2125 of the City of Peterborough, and assessed the city with the cost of the motion in the case of Hatton vs. City of Peterborough. In giving judgment, Mr. Justice Lennox stated:

"Assuming honesty and good faith, By-law No. 2125 is ultra vires and illegal as (1) ex territorial in scope, purpose and operation, and purporting and intended to extend to and include lands, purposes and objects outside the municipality, over which the Council had no jurisdiction or control; (2) illegal as contrary to public policy and authorising and directing the execution of works and the disposal of the sewage, in a manner prohibited by the Public Health Act; (3) as founded on fundamental misconception and error of law, and based upon an illegal, unenforceable, fictitious, and illusory consideration, and as an enactment for an unauthorised purpose; and (4) it is a vicious enactment, a perversion of the provisions of the Local Improvement Act in that it imposes a special or local tax upon a few, which ought to be imposed on the ratepayers of the city generally, if justifiable at all; (5) and because the notice of intention to pass the by-law was not sufficiently published and was not a sufficient or proper notice under the terms of the Act, and also upon the facts disclosed the by-law cannot stand as (6) it was not passed in good faith or in the public interest, or to safeguard the health of the residents of Peterborough, or bona-fide as a local improvement by-law, but on the contrary was passed to serve an ulterior purpose and to meet the wishes and serve the interests of the owners of Mount St. Joseph's. I am not asked to make an order for payment of costs personally by the aldermen responsible for the enactment. The by-law must be quashed, with costs, including the costs of the motion to be paid by the municipal corporation, and I so direct.

LIEUT. BEVERLY ROBINSON, ETC.

ure and yet made him one of the most admired men in Germany. The outcome of the last freed him from the German yoke, but the world lost one of its heroes. A shot fired by a sentry on the occasion of his twelfth attempt proved fatal. Lieut. Robinson gave a fine account of his cleverness and ingenuity in planning how to make a good "get away." The French prisoners devoted considerable time to study but the Britisher always kept as fit as possible to enable him to endure the hardships any time escape was possible. At only one camp were conditions such that no attempts to escape were made. This was quite disgusting in the opinion of the speaker. The worse the conditions of their imprisonment the finer the morale.

A number of Russians were confined in one of the camps to which the aviator was sent and the officers were among the finest he met. The Germans, however made life pretty miserable for the poor Russians and they fared even worse than other Allied prisoners.

He was moved to another camp where the conditions were most unsanitary and unhealthy. Some escapes made the Germans sink posts and run wires through, and consequently when Robinson and a companion, Wingfield, determined to try to escape, they had to consider these wires. The only wire cutter in the camp belonged to a "syndicate" and couldn't be used except by consent and unless the borrowers could return them. Their plan also had to be divulged. Another prisoner, Summerville, asked permission to go first, cut the wire and return the cutter by means of a string, to be attached and jerked back. There was a terrible wind and rain storm raging, and Robinson watched Summerville proceed down the ditch, cut the wire, and then when able to get out he came back, much to the surprise of all. He was the smallest of the three, but realized when he was cutting that another wire would have to be cut to enable the other taller men to escape, and he thus impeded the opportunity to clear the way for them. The others started up the ditch with eight following. They hadn't gone far when a change of sentries took place, three passing very close to Robinson, never seeing him. Then while waiting for his companion he discovered that their escape had been found out and a chase followed. Summerville was stricken with cold, had to appeal for a drink of warm milk and was arrested. He was taken back to the camp and given one month solitary confinement, and on the day he was released he was informed that he would be sent to another camp. That night he escaped and succeeded in reaching England.

Heard the Alarm.

Wingfield heard the alarm and dropped into a ditch of water where he remained for half an hour while a sentry jumped over his head twice, failing to see him. The second night he had to lay up as his feet swelled and he was suffering from the result of his immersion. However, luck was with him, and hearing some workmen in the field, he discovered they were speaking French. They gave him food, water, dry clothing and protection for forty-eight hours. When only six kilos from the frontier he was confronted by a guard who ordered him back. When they reached a certain place he said, "Cross the river here as there are fewer sentries. The solution to this is that the sentry was a native of Alsace-Lorraine. He got in a barn and pilfered the nest of a hen which made such a squack that the old farmer woman came out and discovered him. She handed him over to her son, who was an under officer in the German army. He returned to a month of solitary confinement with hunger and air strafes. This was by far the worst camp he had ever been in. By means of a tunnel he made his second and successful escape. After days of waiting and nights of travel they succeeded in reaching Holland in tatters, worn out and hungry. They were cared for first by some Austrian women who mended their clothes, and eventually they were returned to England.

Dr. E. R. Wood, Vice-President of the local branch of the G.W.V.A., acted as chairman, introducing the speaker, and expressing the pleasure the association felt in welcoming Lieut. Robinson.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

NEWS OF THE O.B.A. LEAGUE

SKINNED DIAMONDS

Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough and Lindsay all have skinned diamonds and their Town Councils done the work; Belleville has not been heard from, but it looks as if Oshawa will have to stick to the sod—make their own improvements and hand over ten per cent. of receipts, says Ontario Reformer. The Association have good sports at its head and are making headway.

"CANNON BALL"

"Cannon Ball" Scott, who had a summer home at Cameron Lake, near Lindsay, has been given considerable newspaper travelling up-to-date. Ed. couldn't go out of Toronto after the Star's article on amateur sport, outside of Toronto.

The stage is set for the opening of the big League on May 24th, when Peterborough comes. That Quaker Oats City outfit are loked upon as the big noise in the circuit and our boys will have their hands full banishing, "The smile that won't come off" the Petes. The game is billed for 3.30 with an auto parade at 2.30, starting from the Y.M.C.A. Boost the town boys and let us put Oshawa on the Amateur Baseball map of 1919.—Oshawa Exchange.

KICKED OUT

Bowmanville Baseball Club has been getting a lot of free publicity since it "kicked itself out of the Central Ontario Baseball League." The Press Agent of the League has certainly been working overtime feeding sporting editors with his dope. His latest contribution appears in the Lindsay Warder, which says, "Bowmanville is blaming Oshawa for being cast out of the League." This is certainly news to local fans as such an idea was never thought of in those quarters. Bowmanville is quite willing to shoulder its own responsibility for being "kicked" out of the league and does not ask the Press Agent from Lindsay to manufacture any such excuses in its behalf. Bowmanville has nothing but the best of feeling towards Oshawa Club. In fact, many of our fans are counting on supporting the Oshawa team by going to their home games now that Bowmanville is out of it.—Bowmanville exchange.

SCOTT WILL GO TO LINDSAY TEAM

Lindsay baseball fans will be interested in hearing that 'Cannon Ball' Ed Scott, who pitched the champion Oddfellows to victory in the Lindsay Town League last summer, and who also pitched such remarkable ball for the champion Hillcrests of Toronto, winners of the Ontario amateur championship, will again be on the mound for Lindsay this season.

Late last season Scott was asked to play for the local club, and he stated that he had no objection, in fact claimed that the people here used him right and that it was really his home town as he always spent his summer at his summer residence a few miles north of here. He went home and to his word and was signed up by Manager Baldwin some time ago. Secretary Dedman of the Central League, has also received his O.B.A. certificate.—Lindsay Warder.

BASEBALL

The Queen Mary Junior team defeated the King Edward Juniors on Thursday afternoon on the King Edward grounds by a score of 18-8. Lang and Mabood made up the Queen Mary battery, McGee and King, the King Edward. Messrs. Wheger and Gould steered the game through most acceptably in the absence of the umpire

THE TRAPSHOOTERS HAD A WORKOUT

Four New Lakefield Members Took Part.

The Peterborough Gun Club held a very successful shot at their traps last evening and, although the windy weather was not good for shooting, some very nice scores were made.

Four new members from Lakefield took part in the sport, namely, Messrs. Strickland, Tate, Tanner and Hendron, and for their first attempt over the traps, they did some very nice shooting.

Stan Coon and Clare Gutterson were hitting the clay birds in good shape for the home talent, and the competition for the High Gun Cup promises to be closer this year.

Next Friday evening the Club meets again and the handicaps will be posted.

Below are the scores:

	Shot At	Broke
J. S. Coon	75	56
C. G. Graham	75	55
C. Gutterson	75	47
J. Strickland	50	30
C. Tanner	50	28
C. Mills	50	26
G. Hendren	50	22
E. B. Tate	50	19
P. Gettas	50	18
Dr. McClelland	50	26
C. Wood	25	14
B. Gillespie	25	9

Cannon Ball Scott With Lindsay Team

TORONTO, May 9.— The champion Hillcrests have lost their pitching ace, Cannon Ball Ed Scott. He has been signed by Lindsay of the Central League, and so has Abbie Hill, the utility man and pitcher of the Gutta Percha of the Lake Shore League. Scott summers in Lindsay and pitched several games for the Lindsay team last season, as well as twirling in the city for the Hillcrests.

The O. B. A. A. might not be wasting time if they investigated just when Mr. Scott located in Lindsay. He is not eligible for the O.B.A.A. games unless there before March 1st, although he is all right for the Central Ontario League games, their constitution calling for May 15 as a residence limit. In the event of Lindsay winning the Central Ontario League, Scott would not be allowed to participate with them in the Ontario series if he has not been in Lindsay since March 1st. And rumour says that he has not.

CARD OF THANKS

Having sold my Butcher Business in Ashburnham to Mr. Stanley E. Mahood, I desire to thank all my old customers for their patronage and bespeak for my successor a very liberal patronage.

I will be in the shop all this week, and I would ask that all accounts due me be paid before the 12th of May.

I am going into the wholesale butcher business and with my experience in the retail business believe I can serve the trade in a very satisfactory manner.

Yours very truly,

H. WHEELER

BUTCHER BUSINESS CHANGES HANDS

Stanley E. Mahood, River Road, Otonabee, has purchased the butcher business of Mr. H. Wheeler, Ashburnham, where he will be pleased to supply the old as well as new customers of this business on and after May 12th, 1919.

I have had considerable experience in the buying and killing of cattle and hogs and should be able to supply the most exacting with the best the market affords.

Give me a trial—you will not regret it. Shop will be open all day.

Mrs. McGill Disliked the Policeman

Was Going to Throw Ink Bottle at Him When Detective Newhall Restrained Her.

With a string of oaths that would do justice to a yegg society, Mrs. Emma McGill, Sherbrooke street, was taken into the court room this morning by main force. She had a violent dislike for one of the policemen, and while he was giving evidence she picked up an ink well on the long table in front of the Magistrate's bench and only the restraining arm of Detective Newhall prevented her from throwing the heavy missile at the policeman's head.

Mrs. McGill was charged with making a disturbance on Charlotte street last night at ten minutes to eleven. She was too busy throwing epithets at the police force to hear the Magistrate ask her for her plea, and she was without more ado assessed $5 and costs. Evidence showed that Mrs. McGill made so much noise last night that when the police station door was opened her outeries could be heard 'like a rising knell.'

Three policemen escorted her downstairs, but not before she picked up a heavy finger moistener which she attempted to pitch at the policeman who gave evidence against her.

SEMI-READY TALK:

"You can stand on the highest ridge of the Rocky Mountains and look towards the Atlantic and the Pacific.

"From Halifax to Victoria, and in Peterborough Semi-ready Tailored Clothes are sold wherever a merchant is satisfied with the moderate profit which the label in the pocket compels.

"It's not half the profit that the average merchant wants and asks—but we think of twice the number of satisfied customers.

"And we come out ahead. Fair and open dealing pays. Even the democratic highbrows who conferred about peace terms had done better with less secrecy."

EVERY WOMAN'S AMBITION FOR ROSY CHEEKS NOW EASILY SATISFIED

But rosy cheeks, clear skin, and bright eyes, give them to a woman and she is happy.

The woman who attracts, whose fresh, dainty complexion compels admiration, is always careful of her health, particularly of her blood condition. Bad complexion always means bad blood.

Girls, don't let your blood grow thin or watery. To do so bring on haggard looks and declining strength.

Many a women who has allowed herself to run-down, to develop that tired, worried look has built up again in this simple way. Why don't you try it?

At the close of every meal just take two small chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets—any person can do this in a minute. The action of Ferrozone is apparent at once. It sets you up, makes you feel good, starts up your appetite, aids digestion, brings that old-time feeling of youth into the system again.

Ferrozone puts you on the right road—the one leading to health.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. For better looks and better health try Ferrozone yourself, sold everywhere, 50c, per box, 6 boxes for $2.50, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST

At the Morning Service Special Mother's Day Music will be rendered by the choir and the various soloists. In the evening several numbers from the programme of the recent concert will be given. Some of these are Abide with Me, with chimes, and Hear, O Lord, when I cry, by Double Mixed Quartette.

TOMORROW AT MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The people will be glad to hear that to-morrow evening at Murray Street Baptist Church a full and reinforced choir will present two of the numbers given at the concert of Tuesday evening last. These will be, "Hear, oh Lord, When I Cry," by the double quartette, consisting of the Misses Eastwood, Scott, Herbison and Lynn, and Messrs. Graham, Huycke, Humpage, and Ward, and also the full choir with tubular chimes will render the piece so thoroughly enjoyed on Tuesday evening and so favourably commented on ever since, "Abide with me."

The pastor will preach at both services, the morning being the great annual service in honour of motherhood. Every mother is asked to have her children in the pew with her.

SEVERAL SMALL BOYS IN TROUBLE

With eyes plainly picturing the hangman's noose slowing closing around their guilty throats, twelve little boys, charged with breaking into the school house in the second line, awaited the calling of the County Court this morning at 10 o'clock. The hall was thronged with parents of the children, each of whom owned the boy who was never known to get into mischief and was led into this. The case is being heard by County Magistrate Langley.

MOTHER'S DAY AT TRINITY CHURCH

Mother's Day will be observed in Trinity Methodist Church tomorrow. The pastor, the Rev. F. E. Malott, will preach at both services. This should be "Go to Church Sunday" for all the family. At the morning service the question of the three great factors in the development of character will be dealt with. The Pastor's evening theme will be, "His Mother and Mine." The music will be in keeping with the day. All are welcome. Wear a flower in honour or in memory of mother.

SUNDAY AT GEORGE STREET CHURCH

The services at the George Street Methodist Church on Sunday next will be especially interesting in the morning. The pastor will preach on "The Parable of the Sower," and will also give a short talk to the boys and girls. In the evening the purpose of Mothers Day will be enlarged and the observance will take the form of a Great Family Service. Fathers, mothers, sons, daughters, brothers, sisters, in fact all the folks are heartily invited to come. The pastor's subject will be "The Fifth Commandment," and the music will be bright and appropriate. If anyone wishes to send flowers in honour of their parents, to the Church on Saturday for the Sunday services, their gift will be greatly appreciated. It is suggested that the wearing of a white flower or a bit of white ribbon will be a token of honour for mother and father and will add to the success of the day.

Face Peeling Habit Becoming Fashionable

Women of fashion and refinement seem to have been acquiring the mercolized wax habit, depending less and less upon cosmetics for their complexion difficulties. It does seem a lot saner to just peel off the worn-out skin when it loses its youthful color and appearance—now that this can be done so easily, safely, painlessly and economically.

There's no trouble getting mercolized wax at an drug store (an ounce will do), since its virtues have become generally known here, and there's no trouble using it—just as you use cold cream, applying at night, washing it off next morning. The wax takes off the old scarf skin, in tiny flakes, a little each day. The new under-skin which gradually appears, is velvety soft and beautifully white, radiant with girlish loveliness. Any surface trouble like pimples, red or yellow patches, freckles, etc., vanishes of course with the discarded cuticle.

TENT MEETINGS

Arrangements are about to be completed for the big Gospel drive during June and July. Mr. Kennedy closes the last campaign next week then he will have two weeks rest before starting here the committee of co-operation will meet to-morrow afternoon at four fifteen in the Y. M. C.A. Parlour to discuss the project and launch a series of prayer meetings. Every member of the committee is expected to be present.

MOTHER'S DAY 1919.

All who wish to express their appreciation of their mothers and gratitude for what they have done should attend their services to-morrow when, "Mother's Day" will be observed in many of them. This will be particularly appropriate when the mother is not here to receive congratulations.

At St. John's it will be observed at the evening service when Canon Davidson's subject will be "Our Other People". Appropriate prayers and hymns will be used.

IS THERE A BABY IN YOUR HOME?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Cadotte, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but the Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WEDDING BELLS

PACEY—FAIR

A pretty wedding was solemnised at Knox Church, Thursday, May 1st, when Miss Lottie Irene Fair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Fair, city, was united in marriage to Mr. Daniel Thomas Pacey, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Pacey, Margaretting, England, Rev. J. A. McKenzie officiating. After a wedding breakfast at the bride's home, the happy couple left on a short honeymoon trip to Western Ontario. Much joy and happiness were added to the occasion on account of the bride's two brothers, John and Edward, having recently returned from France, after four years' service overseas. Mr. and Mrs. Pacey were the recipients of many useful presents and on their return to the city will go to Western Canada, where they will reside.

RIDE A BRANTFORD RED BIRD and Save Money

Whether you ride to and from work, for pleasure and exercise—for any purpose whatsoever—make certain that you make a "once-for-all" choice. The way to do this is to decide on a C. C. M. Bicycle.

All C. C. M.'s have perfectly ground bearings that keep on running true year after year—ensuring easy going always. The famous HERCULES COASTER BRAKE ensures complete, sensitive, powerful control. Reinforced frames make the C. C. M. practically wreck-proof.

Ordinary wheels are easily made fit for the scrap heap by rust. All C. C. M. bright parts are coated with copper—copper can't rust—and then are heavily nickelled. These typical features mean a "once-for-all" purchase when you put your faith in a C.C.M. bicycle.

It is no trouble at all to show you this wheel. Whether you intend to purchase or not—Come.

WASHINGTON, May 9. — The departure of naval airplanes N. C. 1 and No. C. 3, from Halifax for Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland, on the second leg of their transatlantic flight, has been postponed until to-morrow.

TWELVE ARMY CAMPS SOLD FOR $548,194

War Department Approves the Sale of 8 National Guard and 4 Small Camps.

WASHINGTON. — Approval of the sale of twelve army camps — eight National Guard concentration sites and four small miscellaneous camps—for $548,194.13 was announced to-day by Acting Secretary Crowell.

The material covered by the sale consists principally of hastily constructed buildings and some stored equipment. In the case of buildings, the Government had reserved for its own use the base hospitals and storage warehouses.

Forty-four bids were received from thirty-five individuals and corporations, the largest single proposal being from one wrecking company, which offered to take all the camps for about $540,000. This proposal was rejected, largely because of the desire of the department to turn over the camps to cities in the vicinity.

MUSICIANS DRAW DOLLARS FROM THE NEW YORK PUBLIC.

NEW YORK. — Jascha Heifetz, violinist, and Sergei Rachmaninoff, composer and pianist, were the means of securing huge Victory Loan subscriptions to a big rally in the Metropolitan Opera House here, at which Admiral Mayo and others spoke.

When the audience insisted on an encore after Heifetz had played several selections, a representative of a talking machine company offered to subscribe for his concern $500,000 if the violinist would play Gounod's "Ave Maria."

Mr. Heifetz complied, and after Rachmaninoff played Liszt's Rhapsody Hongroise, it was announced that a group of a dozen men in a box would subscribe $1,2000,000 if he encored with the C Sharp Minor Prelude.

The total sum collected at the rally was $7,826,000.

Yeomanette Takes Poison; Note Tells of Love for Ensign

Miss Edith Singer Found in Room At Boarding House—Case According to Police, Asks to Be Allowed to Die.

A romance between a "Yeomanette" of the United States Navy and a young ensign in the same service, was revealed when Miss Edith Singer twenty-four years old, of No. 528 Riverside drive, attempted suicide by taking a quantity of poison. According to the police blotter she is married.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gibbs, who occupy an apartment on the same floor as Miss Singer, were startled by hearing a cry sounding from her apartment. They hurried to her rooms and found the young woman on the floor of the dining room writhing in agony. Mr. Gibbs called Policeman Wallack, of the West 123th street station, who summoned an ambulance from Knickerbocker Hospital. According to Policeman Wallack, she said:—

"It was a love affair that led me to do it. I am tired of it all and want to die."

According to Wallack she begged the ambulance physician to let her die.

Several notes were found in the woman's apartment. Two were addressed to Ensign Kenneth Gundlach United States transport Santa Maria, now at Hoboken. One of the notes read: "Please notify my mother at Flatbush—4673."

On calling that telephone number a woman told a reporter she had never heard of Miss Singer, and no one of that name or connected with her resided there.

Another note, unaddressed read: —"Kenneth has the key to my safe deposit vault at the Liberty Storage Company." Still another, also unaddressed, read:—"Mother, dear, Kenneth, my only hope, has failed me." A fourth note was addressed to Mrs. Marcia White, of No. 521 West 111th street.

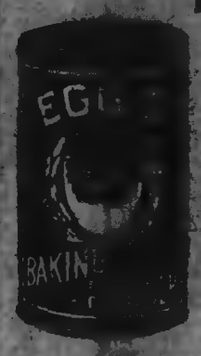
Mrs. White said that she knew the young woman and that several years ago she had lived in Bensonhurst. She said Miss Singer visited her Saturday last and told her a wealthy man wanted to marry her but she could not while Kenneth, the young ensign, was living, and she was going to ask him to marry her as soon as she could get a divorce.

At the hospital it was said that the woman may recover.

TOWN'S OCCUPATION GONE

Once a prosperous town and the only place in the vicinity of Gary, Indiana, that was able to retain its independence and resist the annexing habit of the steel city, Aetna is fading from the map. Where hundreds dwelt and thousands were employed in the explosive and powder plants only five families survive. When the armistice was signed Aetna's excuse for existence passed. It was the smallest incorporated city in the State. The explosive plant is being dismantled.

Strong baking powder is needed



GOVERNMENT Standard flours are coarser and heavier than the flours you have been using for years, and they require a strong, reliable leavening agent.

Egg-O is a pure, strong, double-acting baking powder.

Its first action occurs in the mixing bowl when cold water or milk is added. Allowing the dough to stand for 15 or 20 minutes will give better results, and when you put your baking in the oven Egg-O will continue to rise, and you will have no trouble getting light bakings.

EGG-O Baking Powder

You can use sour milk, sweet milk, buttermilk or water with Egg-O—a different and better baking powder.

"BLACK MARIA" TO ROLL NO MORE; CRIMINALS TO USE AUTOMOBILE

Decrepit Wagon, Famed Transport of Notorious Persons, Out of Commission After Forty-Three Years—Horses to End Lives in Green Fields, Says Sheriff Knott.

NEW YORK.— "Black Maria," most faithful of public servants, through whose shutters [illegible] beams of sunlight reflected [illegible] liberty and freedom denied its passengers, has ended a gloomy existence.

Almost half a century's service in transporting [illegible] criminals of all degrees from the [illegible] terries whence the offenders began their journey toward grim-walled institutions awaiting them, has come to an end without paeans of praise or indifferent acknowledgment.

The hand of time has well set its mark upon the boxed up wagon which years ago earned the sobriquet, "Black Maria." Once its principal attraction was a glossy coat of paint, but to-day it is faded and decrepit, rheumatic of joints and feebly wheezes with every effort. Soon its walls and sides will be all out in a blaze, not of glory, since furnacemen have little romance or vision for firewood.

In any obituary of "Black Maria" mention also should be made of the two horses whose association with it antedates many of the oldest employes in the Tombs. Their service also has come to an end, but not without reward, as Sheriff David H. Knott has resolved to have them pensioned and sent to a pasture where they will find comfort in the green fields for the rest of their days.

"Black Maria's" successor will be a modern vehicle operated by motive power. Sheriff Knott, at present is using a patrol wagon from the Police Department, but he expects soon to receive $4,000 from the Board of Estimate for an automobile.

Only recently was Sheriff Knott's attention called to the condition of "Black Maria." He investigated and found the picturesque wagon disintegrating, making further travel even for criminals unsafe. Further he decided New York City could afford a new vehicle and petitioned the Board of Estimate for the necessary funds. The plea contained that through the issuance of bonds, $4,000 could be raised and his plea impressed Mayor Hylan and other members of the Board.

It was forty-three years ago that "Black Maria," 'a shiny, though close trapped affair, made its first appearance. Deputy Sheriff Burke, in charge of the guards at the Tombs, says the horses also came into the service about the same time. Having travelled through routes made familiar after two score years, the animals rarely needed the guiding hand of their driver during the last decade or two.

If endowed with the powers of speech, what a story "Black Maria" could tell! Within its desolate walls rode Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, poisoner, who never returned to tell his thoughts of that brief journey; Charles Becker, Lieutenant of Police, twice a passenger; the four gunmen who paid the penalty for killing Rosenthal, the gambler; Hans Schmidt, who murdered his sweetheart, Carlyle Harris; Dr. Albert T. Patrick and other celebrities, accused of high crimes.

Almost dark was the interior of "Black Maria," dark like the despair of some, and the faint shadow of light that filtered through the shutters, could be likened to the ray of hope few entertained but rarely realized.

Seige Batteries Arrive at Halifax

Four Thousand Soldiers on Big Cunard Transport—Civilian Passengers.

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, May 9.—The Cunard liner Mauretania docked at Halifax this morning with four thousand returning Canadian soldiers, made up of number 1, 2 and 3 brigades of artillery or siege batteries, one to twelve under command of General Andrew McNaughton, D.S.O., and a few other details. Among the ninety-one civilian passengers brought out by the Mauretania were Sir Edward Kemp, Canadian Overseas Minister of Militia, Sir Charles Ross, Sir Percy and Lady Daniels and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. Sir Edward Kemp vigorously defended Argyle House, Canadian Headquarters in London, upon his arrival here.

Lettow Vorbeck Tells of His Long Fight in East Africa.

PARIS.—General von Lettow Vorbeck, commander of the German colonial troops in East Africa, stated in an interview that his army at the outbreak of the war consisted of 200 whites and 2,000 Askaris, but the numbers increased to 3,000 Europeans and 13,000 natives. At the time of the armistice the forces had been reduced by losses to 250 whites and 1,300 Askaris.

MAJOR DOBBIE IS RETURNING HOME

Former Peterborough Man Enlisted in St. John as a Gunner.

Canadian Press:

HALIFAX, May 9.—Among officers with especially good records returning on the Mauretania was Major Hugh Dobbie, D.S.O., who commanded No. 1 Siege Battery during the latter stages of the fighting, and for a brief period commanded the McGill unit. Major Dobbie enlisted in St. John as a gunner at the outbreak of the war. He was formerly attached to the Bank of Montreal, and is well-known in Peterborough, Ont., where his wife is living, St. John and Halifax.

NURSES WANT SHORTER HOURS

Complain of Twelve Hour Shifts at Toronto General Hospital.

TORONTO, May 9. — At the General Hospital last night a mass meeting of nurses was held at which it is understood a protest was made against the present long hours of service. Under the present orders, the nurses are on duty for twelve hours a day, and this they seek to reduce to ten.

A few difficulties appear to block an immediate solution of the problem. In the case of private patients two nurses have ordinarily divided the twenty four hours into two shifts and were the twelve hours reduced to ten this would leave four hours during which the patients would have no attention. The view is taken by the nurses that the hospital should then take on this burden and furnish an undergraduate nurse to fill in the gap.

A Welland Man Has Strange Record

Spends Most of the Time in Hospital as the Result of Falls.

WELLAND. — Albert K. Vidler, aged eighteen years, who got out of the hospital last week, where he had been attended for two broken arms, has undisputed title as the champion faller of Welland. His record has a shudder in every line.

His first bid for fame came one Sunday in August, 1912, when he climbed up inside the chimney at the new Goodwillie factory. He reached the very top, a distance of 125 feet, and then fell to the bottom. A broken hand, a broken ankle, and a broken shoulder was his portion. It was ten days before he regained consciousness. How he managed to live through it no one could explain.

The next year he fell from the top of a twenty-foot pile of lumber at Lambert's mill and his landing place was made of corrugated iron. Nine stitches in the forehead, seven in the chin and two in one ear patched him up. After that he took a couple of years off, one with scarlet fever, and the next one with typhoid.

Then one day while at work at the cotton mill he was up on a ladder and grabbed hold of a rod that was charged with electricity. He had quite a tumble, but he suffered much more from the shock. He was only a week in the hospital at that time.

Seven weeks ago at the Page-Hersey mills he was on the top of a 22-foot ladder, with a heavy piece of angle iron in his hands, when the footing of the ladder slipped and he crashed down, breaking both his arms just above the wrist.

Vidler views his misfortunes philosophically, as though they were all in a day's work. His chief regret is that broken bones made him ineligible for enlistment. He offered twice but the doctors would not pass him.

BELGIAN FURIOUS OVER MACHINERY

BRUSSELS.—The process of extracting from Germany the machinery she has stolen is an arduous one.

An engineer who has just returned from a quest in the neighbourhood of Cologne, found four out of the eighty machines removed from his works between January 8, 1915, and December 7, 1917. He discovered incidentally that eight others had been worked to death in Germany, and knows that four more are still in Belgium. The whereabouts of the remaining sixty-four are unknown to him.

This observer reports that not only are the German factories in full swing, but that they have been considerably enlarged during the war and show abundant signs of prosperity, largely owing to the machinery stolen from Belgium and France which has been sold to them by the German Government for almost nothing. But what is particularly exasperating is that the Germans have been keeping their own machines for use after the war and have been making munitions almost entirely with stolen machines.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

He got up again and moved nervously about the room. "I wish I could be sure. That is the point to which I must give the deepest consideration—whether you are to admit or not that you went out. The Grand Jury and Gore believe it. Young Kraus has a very good name. Frieda has always been well behaved. There are six Germans on the Grand Jury, moreover. We must see that none get on the trial jury. Gove wants to believe—"

"But he was a friend of Dave's."

"Exactly. He is making much of that point. Affects to be filled with righteous wrath because you killed his dear old friend. Trust a district attorney. All they care for is to win out, and he has his spurs to win, in the bargain. I met him a few moments ago; he was about equally full of gin fizzes and the 'indisputable fact' that you are the only person in sight with a motive. Oh, don't! Don't!"

Mrs. Balfame had broken down. She flung her arms over the table and her head upon them. More than once in her life she had shed tears both diplomatic and spontaneous, but for the first time since she was a child she sobbed heavily. She felt forlorn, deserted, in awful straits.

"Not, while I am alive. I heard of Dr. Anna's illness on my way to New York. Lequeur was on the train. You—you must let me take her place. I am devoted to you heart and soul. You surely know that."

"But you are not a woman. It's a woman friend I want now, a strong one like Anna. Those other women—oh, yes, they're devoted to me—have been, but they've suddenly ceased to count, somehow. Besides, they'll soon believe me guilty. I hate them all. Only Anna would have understood—and believed."

Rush had been administering awkward little pats to the soft masses of her hair. Suddenly he realized that his faith in her complete innocence was by no means as stable as it had been; she had confessed to him that she had been in the grove that night stalking the intruder. How absurd to believe that she had gone out unarmed. He had read the circumstantial details of the reporter's interviews with Frieda and young Kraus. While the writers were careful not to make the downright assertion that Mrs. Balfame had fired the fatal shot, the public saw her in the act of levelling one of the pistols—so mighty is the power of the trained and ruthless pen.

As he stood looking down upon his unexpected surrender to emotional excitement, he asked himself deliberately: What more natural, if she had a pistol in her hand and that low-lived creature presented himself abruptly and alone, than that it should go off of its own accord, so to speak, whether hers had been the bullet to penetrate that loathsome target or not? If so, what had she done with the pistol?

He sat down and laid his hand firmly on her arm.

"There is something I must tell you. It is something Frieda forgot to tell the reporter, but she gave it to the Grand Jury. With the help of a couple of extra gin fizzes, I extracted it from Gore. It is this: she told the Grand Jury that several times when she did her weekly cleaning upstairs she saw a pistol in the drawer of a table beside your bed. Will—won't you tell me?"

He felt the arm in his clasp grow rigid, but Mrs. Balfame answered without a trace of her recent agitation: "I told you before that I never had a pistol. It would be like her to be spying about among my things, but I wonder she would admit it."

"She is delighted with her new importance, and I fancy, has been bribed to tell all she knows."

"In that case she wouldn't mind telling more. And no doubt she will think of other sensational items before the trial. She will have awakened in the night after the crime and heard me drop the pistol between the walls, or she will have seen me loading it on the afternoon of the shooting."

"Yes, there is no knowing when those low-grade imaginations, once started, will stop. Memory ceases to function in brains of that sort, and its place it taken by a confused jumble of induced or auto suggestions, which are carefully straightened out by the practised lawyer in rehearsals. But I almost wish that you had taken a pistol out that night and would tell me where to find it. I'd lose it somewhere out in the marsh."

"I had no pistol." Not yet could she take him into her confidence to that extent, although she knew that he was about to stake his professional reputation on her acquittal.

He dismissed the subject abruptly. "By the way, I gave the story of Frieda's attempt to blackmail you to Broderick and two other men just before I left town—laing emphasis on the fact that you always drank a glass of filtered water before going to bed. They made a wry face over that, but it is news and they must publish it. There are many things in your favour—particularly Frieda's assertion before the coroner that she knew nothing of the case. She is a confessed perjurer. Also, why didn't she answer when you called up to her, if she was on the back stairs? There are things that satisfy a grand jury that will not go down with a trial jury. Now you must, you must trust me."

She looked up at him dully. But in a moment her eyes warmed and she smiled faintly. All the female in her responded to the traditional strength and power of the male. She also knew the sensitiveness of man's vanity and the danger either of starving it or dealing it a sudden blow. She sometimes felt sorry for men. It was their self-appointed task to run the planet, and they must be reminded just so often how wonderful they were, lest they lose courage; one of the several obliging weaknesses of which women rarely scrupled to take advantage.

As she put out her hand and took his, she looked very feminine and sweet. Her face was flushed and tears had softened her large blue-grey eyes that could look so virginal and cold.

"I know you will get me off. Don't imagine for a moment I doubt that; it is a sustaining faith that will carry me through the trial itself. But it is this terrible ordeal in prison that I dread—and the publicity—my good name dragged in the dust."

"You can change that name for mine the day you are acquitted."

It suddenly occurred to her that this might be a very sensible thing to do, and simultaneously she appreciated the fact that he possessed what was called charm and magnetism. Moreover, the complete devotion of even a passably attractive member of the over-sex in alarming predicaments was a very precious thing. Possibly for the first time in her life she experienced a sensation of gratitude, and she smiled at him so radiantly that he caught his own breath.

"No one but you could have consoled me for the loss of Anna, but you are not to say one word of that sort to me until I am out of this dreadful place. I couldn't stand the contrast! Will you promise?"

"Very well."

"No will you really do something for me—get me a sleeping powder from the druggist? To-morrow I shall be myself again, but I must sleep to-night."

"I'll get it." His voice was matter of fact, for love made certain of his manliness keen if it blunted others. "That is, if you will promise to go to bed early and see none of these reporters, men or women. They are camped all over the Courthouse yard."

She gave an exclamation of disgust. "I'll never see another newspaper person as long as I live. They are responsible for this, and I hate them."

"Good! You shall have the powder in ten minutes. Oh, by the way, will you give me a written permit to pass the night in your house? I want to go through your husband's papers and see if I can find any clue to unknown enemies. He may have received threatening letters. I can obtain the official permission without any difficulty."

She wrote the permit unsuspiciously. At nine o'clock that night he let himself into the Balfame house determined to find the pistol before morning. He knew the police would get round to the inevitable search some time on the following day.

CHAPTER XXI.

Alys Crumley entertained four of the newspaper women at a picnic lunch in her studio. She was grateful for the distraction from her own thoughts and diverted by their theories. None had seen Mrs. Balfame save through the medium of the staff artist, and they were inclined to accept the prima facie evidence of her guilt. When Alys fetched a photograph from the house, however, they immediately reversed their opinion, for the pictured face was that of a lovely cold and well-bred woman without a trace of hardness or predisposition to crime. They fell in love with it and vowed to defend her to the best of their ability. Miss Crumley promising to exert her influence with the accused to obtain an interview for the new devotees.

Before wrapping the photograph for its inevitable journey to New York, Alys gave it a moment of study herself, wondering if she may not have misinterpreted what she saw that morning. No one had worshipped at that shrine more devoutly than she, even during these later years of metropolitan concordance.

"What is your theory?" asked Miss Austin of The Evening News. "They say that a lot of those men at the Elks know, but never will come through. Do you think it was any of those girls? It might have been some woman he knew in New York who followed him here for the first time—who would not have been recognized if seen, and got away in a waiting automobile."

"As likely as not," said Miss Crumley indifferently. "I have heard so many theories advanced and rejected that I am almost as confused as the police. Jim Broderick says that the simplest explanation is generally the correct one, but while he believes Mrs. Balfame to be the natural solution, I happen to know her better than he does, and a good deal more of this community. Three or four men and one or two women would be still simpler explanations. Possibly—" She turned cold and almost lost her breath, but the impulse to put a maddening possibility into verbal form was irresistible. "Perhaps some man that is in love with Mrs. Balfame did it." And then she hated herself, for she felt as if she had thrown Dwight Rush to the lions.

"But who? Who?" the girls were demanding, more excited over this picturesque solution than they had been since "the story broke." Even Miss Austin, who disdained to write "sob stuff" and was a graduate of the Columbia School of Journalism, was almost on her feet, while Miss Lauretta Lea, who wept victoriously for fifty thousand women three times a week, shrieked without shame.

"Oh, fine!" "How truly enchanting!" "Dear Miss Crumley— Alys—who, who is the man?"

"Oh, as to that, I've not an idea. Mrs. Balfame always has rather disdained men, and even if she were susceptible is far too straight-laced to permit any man to pay her compromising attentions, or to meet him secretly. But of course she is very pretty, still young to look at, so there is the possibility—"

Why Corns Hurt

Note this diagram picture of a corn. Note its coated shape. The cause of the corn is pressure. And pressure makes it hurt. The point of the corn is pushed into the nerves. Applying a Blue-jay plaster instantly removes the pressure. Note the felt ring (A) in the picture below. The ring gives barefoot comfort in the tightest shoe.

But that is temporary. One should not continue a ring. The corn should be quickly ended.

The bit of B&B wax in the center of the ring does that (marked B in illustration below). In two days, usually, the whole corn disappears. It stops the pain, then ends the corn. And it wraps the corn so the action is undisturbed.

Then the action of the B&B wax is centered on the corn. Held there by the rubber coated adhesive tape (C) which wraps comfortably around the toe. Healthy tissue is not affected.

These are the reasons why millions of people have adopted the Blue-jay method. Keeping corns is folly when this easy way can end them. Treating them in cruder ways is inexcusable.

For your own sake, convince yourself by applying Blue-jay to one corn.

Barefooted Soldiers.

Siam's present military organization dates from 1902 and is the outcome of two years' study of the various military organizations of Europe. It embodies the militia system with a dash of universal service.

Every citizen is liable to serve for two years in the line and then for five years in the first and ten years in the second reserve, but only so many are called up as are required to keep up a strength of about 30,000 men on a peace footing. Those who are thus called up receive as compensation certain abatements of taxes. The rest of those liable to serve pass straight into the reserve, which is called out at certain intervals for from fifteen to sixty days' training.

Besides his arms and his clothes, the Siamese soldier receives 4 ticals (a tical equals about 35 cents) a month, besides 25 satungs (about 8 cents) a day, half of which latter sum, however, is stopped to pay for the single meal of rice that the state "provides." The soldier has to buy his own footgear and the rest of his food. No wonder the majority of the army goes barefooted.—"In the Lands of the Sun."

COAL PYRITE IN EXPLOSIVES

Iowa Geologists Investigate Coal Fields for Needed Mineral. With Excellent Results.

An investigation of pyrite, an essential material in the manufacture of high explosives, is being made in the coal fields of Iowa under the direction of Dean George F. Kay of the University of Iowa, who is director of the Iowa geological survey. High explosives are made with the aid of sulphuric acid, which in turn is made chiefly by roasting pyrite, popularly known as "fool's gold." Hence the mineral is in great demand.

For many years pyrite for acid production has been imported from Spain, states Doctor Kay. But in order to save the ships for more urgent uses, the shipping board has sharply reduced the import of pyrite. The domestic production of the mineral must then be unusually large, he declares.

New York, Virginia, Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama have pyrite mines, and Illinois and several other states are producing a small tonnage from coal mines. Many hundred thousand tons are quickly available from coal mines, says the state geologist, if the government's explosive program requires it.

The method of preparing coal pyrite for shipment to acid plants is simple and cheap. The "sulphur balls" must be separated from adhering coal, and be crushed, washed and screened into lump and fine sizes. Coal miners are willing to load pyrite, and the operators to hoist and ship it, if war industries demand it.

SAW SOME GOOD IN GERMANS

Mark Twain Would Not Admit That All Manhood in the Land of the Hun Was Dead.

Probably no other foreigner has ever been so popular in Germany as the American philosopher, Mark Twain; yet Mark understood his Germany, just as he understood Russia, although of the czar's dominions he had only the tripper's knowledge he picked up with the shipload of pre-Cook's tourists that he immortalized in "Innocents Abroad."

In his "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," Twain wrote:

"There it was, you see. A man is a man, at bottom. Whole ages of abuse and oppression cannot crush the manhood clear out of him. Whoever thinks it a mistake is himself mistaken. Yes, there is plenty of good enough material for a republic in the most degraded people that ever existed—even the Russians; plenty of manhood in them—even the Germans—if one could but force it out of its timid and suspicious privacy; to overthrow and trample in the mud any throne that ever was set up and any nobility that ever supported it. We should see certain things yet, let us hope and believe. First, a modified monarchy, till Arthur's days were done, then the destruction of the throne, nobility abolished, every member of it bound out to some useful trade, universal suffrage instituted, and the whole government placed in the hands of men and women of the nation, there to remain. Yes, there was no occasion to give up my dream yet a while."

Story of Pte. Kinross, V.C.

GERMAN machine guns have given Canada a large number of V.C.'s. One of these was Pte. Cecil John Kinross, who returned to his home in Lougheed, Alta., the first week of January, after three years in the army. His memorable attack on a troublesome machine gun in the enemy trenches was made at the battle of Passchendaele, Oct. 26, 1917.

The attack on Passchendaele by the Canadians, in which Pte. Kinross displayed the fearlessness and skill which won him the highest honor in the gift of the British Empire to her soldiers, lasted from the night of Oct. 28-29 until the night of Nov. 1, 1917. The attack was successful, as history knows, and Passchendaele Ridge was occupied by the British at the end of the engagement, but history cannot estimate how much of that victory was due to such acts of individual courage as won Cecil Kinross the V.C.

The struggle was severe. The Canadian line was withering under terrific fire. One of the sources of this punishment of the line was a machine gun which was pouring its deadly hail into the trenches of the Canadians. Pte. Kinross was seen to make a careful survey of the ground intervening between the Canadian line and the German line. It was broad daylight. Deliberately divesting himself of all his equipment, except his bandolier, the belt that carried his ammunition, and his rifle, he went over the top alone.

He advanced steadily, under direct fire, towards the enemy line, and single-handed charged the machine gun. He killed the crew of six and put the gun out of commission. Fired by the example of their comrade the other men of his company made a rush and advanced 300 yards and established a highly important position. He was seriously wounded in the head and arm later the same day. It was not until two months later, while convalescing in Orpington Hospital, England, that he heard that he had been given the Victoria Cross for his work that day in October. He was the most surprised man in his company.

Pte. Kinross is the only son of James Sterling Kinross, J.P., Lougheed, Alta. Before enlisting he worked on his father's farm. He joined the 51st Battalion in October, 1915, at Edmonton. By volunteering to go over with a special draft he got to England the following December, spending Christmas Day at sea. In England he was sent to Shorncliffe, where he was in training until March. He was soon in action in the third battle of Ypres. In June he moved to the Somme, where he was wounded, but was back in the trenches in about a month. From that until Passchendaele he was in the battle line continuously, with the exception of ten days' leave in England, just before the big engagement in which he won the V.C.

The Kinross family came from England to live in Canada in 1911. They settled on a farm near Lougheed. Cecil Kinross was born in Uxbridge, Middlesex, England, about ten miles from London. When he was nine years old his parents moved to Hollies Farm, Lea Marston, near Birmingham. Six years later they came to Canada. One sister is now a nurse in Edmonton. The younger sister took her brother's place on the farm during his absence overseas as so many girls have done in England. Two cousins who had come to Canada the same time as the Kinross family, joined the army early in the war. One of them, D. A. Kyle, was a trapper in the Peace River district when war was declared and walked 200 miles to enlist. The other was James Miller. Both have won the Military Medal. Every relative of the V.C., of military age, was in the army.

Cecil John Kinross started school when he was about six years old. He went to a boarding school near his home, Dawes Farm, Uxbridge. A charming bit of information for boys of that age now will be the fact that the future V.C. was frequently minus dessert, Sundays, for wriggling in church, while he was in attendance at this school. He did not attend that school very long. When his parents moved north Cecil John went to Lea Marston public school, and later to Coleshill Grammar School.

Last spring, obtaining leave from hospital after his wounds were beginning to mend, Pte. Kinross, V.C., visited his old home. Hearing of his coming the town arranged a public reception for him. He was met at the railway station by prominent citizens, carried shoulder high to a waiting motor and driven around the surrounding parishes. The procession was headed by a band and a large number of the boys from Lea Marston and Coleshill schools. The parade ended up at the school, where speeches were made and a presentation made to the boy who had brought distinction to the school.

In the three years that Pte. Kinross was in the army he was engaged at various forms of military duty, always with that tincture of danger that made the life attractive to him. But of all the phases of work he was happiest when he was just an ordinary "Tommy," and with that curious mixture of refinement and keen and fearless daring, which is found so often in the English make-up, he could say, "This is the life for me."—Carolyn Cornell.

"Strange I never thought of it before, for I know that lots of teachers depend on it in the Spring to carry them through and keep up their energy during this trying time.

"If I could only get the mothers to give it to their nervous, irritable children, I am sure that would help some, too.

WALLACK'S SAD FAREWELL.

Lester Wallack lived long enough to see the fortune that he had worked so faithfully to accumulate almost totally obliterated. He lived long enough to learn how a public can forget its one time idol: he lived long enough to feel the pain of an illness that literally forced him off the stage.

There were many, very many, sad hours in the great actor's last days, and perhaps the saddest hour was the night of his great benefit at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, where Booth and Barrett and Modjeska and Jefferson and Florence and many members of his one time company, all old time friends and companions, were appearing to raise a fund for the declining days of the one time public idol.

They were all there that night, all the great artists, all society, all the great public, every one, indeed, but the man himself. It was much like "Hamlet" with the prince left out. Loud calls from the front of the house came for Wallack.

Where was he? Up to that moment he had not been thought of. There was a hurrying and scurrying, and messengers were sent posthaste for the man who sat alone in his home only a few blocks away, suffering from illness, forgotten and neglected, on the night he should have been feted. At first he refused to go, but better counsels prevailed, and when he appeared before the curtain he received a welcome that brought the tears to his eyes.

This, his last appearance before the public, took place on May 21, 1888. He died at Stamford the following September.—Exchange.

Hunger and Thirst.

While many men of science have contended that the sensation of hunger has its seat in the stomach and that of thirst in the throat, the Italian Valenti holds the view that the seat of both sensations is situated in the gullet. He found that a cocaine injection in the esophagus (the channel from the mouth to the stomach) resulted in immediate suppression of the sensations of both hunger and thirst.

Savages have long known that the chewing of coca leaves renders the palate insensitive and destroys any desire for food or drink.—New York Tribune.

Smokeless Breakfast Bacon.

Try cooking your breakfast bacon on a pie tin in the oven. This does away with all smoke and burn grease smell in the kitchen, and the bacon is uniformly crisp. It may be cooked two layers deep if you will turn it once while cooking. One layer needs no turning. The fat from this is white and can be used for all baking. With half the amount of butter it is good even for cakes.—Washington Herald.

Skin Game Victim "Fool," Court Holds

DENVER, Col. — Because Judge Charles C. Butler decided that he was a fool and not a crook, Ben Elgart, a tailor, obtained a judgment for $1,900 against Victor Foster, alias Lustig, in the District Court.

Attorney Harry Saunders, counsel for Foster, appeared for his client, but said that he didn't know where he was, as he had jumped his bond in a criminal case growing out of the same transaction in which Elgart sued.

"As I cannot produce my client, Mr. Elgart is entitled to a judgment by default, if that will do him any good," said Attorney Saunders; "but I don't think he will be able to collect—I haven't."

Judge Butler did not mince words in addressing Elgart. According to Elgart's own testimony, Foster showed him a machine which turned out three $5 bills for every two put in it, with a piece of white paper between the bills. It looked like a moneymaker to Elgart. Foster told him to get some $100 bills and he would print a third more from them. Elgart got twenty-three $100 bills. Foster ran them into his machine, according to Elgart, and then the machine exploded. Foster told Elgart that his money was destroyed and that he had better not say anything, else the federal authorities would prosecute him for counterfeiting.

"I am seriously in doubt as to whether you were trying to defraud the government or were just a plain fool," said Judge Butler. "If you were trying to counterfeit money you are not entitled to a judgment, but I will decide in your favour—that you are a fool—and give you the judgment."

Tried to Induce the British Sailors and Soldiers to Mutiny

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 9.—A conspiracy to induce British sailors to mutiny and soldiers to demobilize themselves by marching out of their barracks has been discovered, according to the "Daily Mail." The premises of various persons have been searched and documents seized. The stations involved, the newspaper says, include four in France and several in England, while sailors in naval ports have been circularized with a view to inciting them to seize ports and invite the soldiers and police to join them. The object of the plot is stated to be to compel the Government to use force if projected disorders should occur, the organizers believing that this would precipitate anarchy.

Maxwell—a car improved each day

Maxwell
More miles per gallon
More miles per hour

THERE is nothing like doing one thing year after year because it always results in doing the thing well.

This is the underlying thought in every Maxwell.

It is why 300,000 Maxwells have been built on the original chassis plan. Each day this car grows better. Each day it is improved somewhere.

There never has been a radical change in design. There never has been a departure from the original idea.

Still there have been more than 1000 improvements made in this car since the first one was built.

Every time a chance was seen to make it better the improvement was made.

That's why a Maxwell runs on and on in almost endless mileage; why it grows better as it grows older; why it stands the moods of the careless driver.

No one has ever criticized the Maxwell on the grounds of reliability.

No one can criticize it on the grounds of good looks.

For there have been 24 recent improvements in its appearance.

COST OF DABBLING RISES.

Increased Commission Rates Put in Effect by New York Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Readjustment on a sliding scale of commission rates was adopted by the members of the stock exchange here, the new schedule becoming effective to-morrow.

The advance varies according to the market price of the security, as follows: For non-members a charge of $7.50 a hundred shares for stocks under $10 market value; $15 a hundred for stocks ranging from $100 to $125, and $20 a hundred for stocks at $125 or over.

On business transactions for members, or what is generally known as floor brokerage, a principal's name being given, commissions are fixed at $1.25 for a $10 stock, $2.50 for stocks ranging from $10 to $125, and $3 for stocks over $125.

In cases where business is for a member, but without giving up of name, the rates are fixed at $1.75, $3.75 and $5 respectively. Under the long prevailing rate oil brokerage business was done at $2 per 100 shares.

MAY DAY IN BUDAPEST.

Communism's Celebration Cost 12,000,000 Marks.

VIENNA.— May Day in Budapest was an orgy of red. Thousands of red troops marched to red music through red-bannered streets. The sidewalks were crowded with men, women and girls flaunting red ribbons. Street cars were red, automoiles were red. In squares and on street corners were huge red wooden stands on which were emblazoned the statement, "This is the day of freedom and world brotherhood."

There also were numerous immense plaster castes of Lenin and Karl Marx, some of them twenty feet high.

The red celebration continued all day and all night, and red electric rights added to the crimson hue after darkness fell. There were fiery speeches in different parts of the city by Bela Kun and other leaders of the Soviets.

The total cost of this effort to make a red-letter day for Hungarian Communism was 12,000,000 marks taken from the banks of the country.

Bela Kun declared that the people could at least remember forever what had been tried, and he said privately that no matter if Communism failed it could be said that it went out in a blaze of glory. The imagination of Hungary's artists and artisans was employed to make the celebration a success, and from this viewpoint it did not fail.

The most remarkable feature of the situation now prevailing is the fact that there is absolutely no disorder. There have been relatively few executions, although the jails are almost bursting with prisoners.

CHURCH VENTILATOR FALLS: WOMAN DEAD

Window and Sash Drop into the Crowded Edifice.

TRENTON, N. J., May 9. — The falling of a ventilator window and sash weighing three or four hundred pounds, from the roof of St. Mark's Roman Catholic Church, a distance of 75 feet, into the crowded church, at a woman's mission, killed one woman, injured more than a score of others and started a panic among the worshippers.

Miss Mary Kennedy, aged 40, the dead woman, sustained a broken neck and a fractured skull.

Six others were taken to the hospitals. Michael Campbell, an usher, acting for the sexton, attempted to open the window when it crashed in.

BERLIN MOBS DEFEND VENDORS OF LOOT

One Person Killed and Four Wounded When the Police Raid Illegal Traffickers.

BERLIN.—Policeman clashed today with salesmen who were engaged in vending stolen goods, four policemen being wounded and one civilian killed.

The fight resulted from a raid on the salesmen. As the police advanced a crowd opened fire on them with revolvers. A company of soldiers was sent to the aid of the police.

The police captured nine salesmen who had in their possession a thousand illegal food cards and a large quantity of stolen property. Mobs which attempted to rescue the prisoners were driven off.

REPLANTING BRITAIN.

Government to Replace 300,000 Acres of Forest Land.

LONDON.—Two hundred thousand acres of forest land in Great Britain are to be replanted at a cost for planting and maintenance for the first ten years, of $17,000,000, according to an announcement by the Government. The trees will replace some of the heavy timber cut down during the war and provide additional forests so that the country may be independent of other timber sources in case of emergency.

Foresters are being trained and the necessary saplings are being prepared If the experiment is successful, it is proposed to increase the amount of re-forsted land to 1,770,000 acres within the next forty years.

No Votes or Offices For Army Defaulters

Hon. A. Meighen Introduces Bill Disfranchising M.S.A. Defaulters.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 9.—Hon. Arthur Meighen presented in the House yesterday afternoon his bill to disfranchise defaulters under the M.S.A. The classes covered by the bill comprised all those who failed in their obligation under the act. They are disqualified in the following respects for a period of fifteen years:

(1) From holding office under the Crown.

(2) From being a member of Parliament or a member of the Senate

(3) From voting in any Dominion election.

The bill provides that any defaulters who have satisfied any conviction lawfully obtained and the punishment imposed shall not be included. Nor are those included who came in under the amnesty proclamation of August last, nor any who having been apprehended, actually served in the military forces. Further any who subsequently satisfied the terms of any legal conviction thereby become relieved of the disqualification provided by the Act.

Sir Sam Hughes: "Does this include all the defaulters under the justice and military departments, the whole six classes?"

Mr. Meighen: "Yes."

England's Army Rifle.

Quite a number of people believe that cartridges are served out to the soldiers separated from one another. Cartridges are, however, usually given out fastened together in clips of five. The modern rifle used by the British army is known as a magazine rifle and holds two clips or ten cartridges in the magazine itself as well as an extra cartridge above the magazine, eleven rounds in all.

When the cartridge clip is forced into the magazine the fastening is removed so that each cartridge when it reaches the magazine is separate from the others.

The magazine of the army rifle is nothing more than a detachable box containing a spring. This spring forces up one cartridge at a time into its position ready for firing. As in all the ten cartridges in the magazine are only used in great emergency, as when the order for rapid firing is given to stop an enemy's charge. In the ordinary way the magazine, with its ten cartridges, is shut off from the rest of the rifle by means of a metal slide called the "cut off."—London Standard.

Spoiled the Scoop.

The newspaper special, although always the cutest of the cute, is sometimes "scored off" by a colleague. For instance Sir W. H. Russell represented the London Times at O'Connell's trial in Dublin.

In those days the telegraph was unknown, and as his paper wanted to go one better than the Morning Herald, its great rival, Russell hurried back to London by special boat and train immediately the verdict was pronounced. As he got out of the cab in Printing House square a man in shirt sleeves, apparently a printer from the Times, came up and exclaimed: "So glad to see you safe over, sir. So they have found him guilty?" "Yes, guilty, my friend," replied Russell.

The Morning Herald came out with the news of the bare fact as well as the Times. The shirtsleeved man was a smart representative of the rival paper.—London Tatler.

Holland's Water Line.

The famous "water line" of Holland is really the final line of defense which Holland would make use of should she be invaded.

The "water line" is a line about seventy miles long by seven to eight miles wide. It is flooded by means of special sluices and dykes so constructed that the whole of the line can be covered to a depth of a foot and a half in two days.

In the ordinary way this water is drawn from the Rhine. In a case of great emergency, however, the sluices will also let free the waters of the Zuyder Zee. These waters, however, would only be let loose in the last extremity because, being salt, they would do an immense amount of damage to the land over which they flowed—damage which would take years to repair.—London Globe.

Shoes and Nerves.

Travelers say that the reason why nervous people don't exist in China is because it is the custom to wear soft shoes there. There is no doubt that hard soled, creaking footgear is responsible for much nervous wear and tear as well as physical fatigue in western lands.

Tired feet and tired nerves will find solace in a warm foot bath with a handful of salt in it. Move the feet about or keep them still, as best pleases you, as long as the water is pleasantly warm; then dry them with a rough towel and put on a fresh pair of stockings.—Family Doctor.

A Difficult Wife.

An Englishman thus described the wife of his bosom in his will:

"Heaven seems to have sent her into the world solely to drive me out of it. The strength of Samson, the genius of Homer, the prudence of Augustine, the skill of Pyrrhus, the patience of Job, the philosophy of Socrates, the subtlety of Hannibal, the vigilance of Mormon cows, would not suffice to subdue the perversity of her character."

Just One More Question.

"Do you happen to be going far, sir?" said the inquisitive traveler to the man in the corner, after having reduced everyone else in the compartment to silent frenzy.

"Oh, no, only to Scotland," replied the other, sarcastically. "I am a commercial traveler. My age is forty-six. I am married. My name is Thomas Brown. I have a son of nineteen. He is in the Blankshire Buffs. My father died last July. He was on the stock exchange. My mother is still living. I have a niece with red hair. Our charlady's name is Jane Briggs. Is there anything else."

The inquisitive man hesitated.

"What oil do you use for your tongue?" he inquired slowly.—London Times.

An Awful Disease.

A friend of mine in one of the camps is a corporal. The occupants of the barracks across the road had been in quarantine for measles. Occasionally one of the men was moved to the hospital. My friend was stricken with a severe case of tonsilitis and one morning the ambulance stopped to take him to the base hospital.

As he entered the ambulance one soldier said, "Has he got the measles?"

A second one, "No, he's a corporal."

Verbal.

"It was a quiet Fourth."

"Decidedly."

"I don't think I heard a single explosion all day."

"I heard one."

"Cannon cracker?"

"No. I passed a motorist who had just had a breakdown. He was addressing a few remarks to his car."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Hash.

War has not changed the American darkey. A dusky cook of an American regiment now in France was being quizzed by an officer about the cleanliness of that free-for-all army product known as hash.

"How do you make your hash?' dutifully inquired the officer.

"We don't make it, boss," was the answer. "It just accumulates."

Rheumatism Every Winter

To be crippled by Rheumatism is to have life become an intolerable burden, especially in the winter, when the persistent cold and damp aggravate this complaint till it is almost unbearable.

Can you picture the dread that any man would hold winter in when all it meant to him was a yearly return of his Rheumatism and the agonizing pains that it brings?

Such was the case of Mr. A. Beaudry of Bedford, Que. Each winter he was forced to undergo the torture of Rheumatic pains, until he discovered Gin Pills. Read what he says about these little doctors:

"Every winter I suffered from Rheumatism, and this is the first season I have been able to go through without a return of my old trouble—thanks to Gin Pills. The pills are all you claim for them, and more."

Testimony such as this should convince even the most skeptical that Gin Pills do remedy Kidney troubles.

If you have friends or relatives who suffer from this dread affliction, tell them to try Gin Pills. So many people have written us stating in glowing terms how Gin Pills have relieved them of Kidney troubles, that we are convinced that all any person needs to do in order to obtain relief is—try them.

A SHORTAGE OF HOUSES

ONE OF THE PROBLEMS FACING OUR COUNTRY.

Town-planning Expert Tells of Difficulties In the Way of Supplying Houses For the Working Men of Canada, and He Boldly Advocates a New Policy of Creating New Towns So That Speculators Will Not Get the Profits.

A SERIOUS problem facing Canada to-day is the shortage of houses which is reported from all parts of the Dominion. Mr. Thomas Adams, the town-planning expert of the Canadian Commission of Conservation, said recently in the course of a most valuable and instructive statement, "There is the same need for obtaining increased accommodation for the working classes in Canada during the war as there is in the United States and Great Britain. The shortage and dearness of capital, labor and material have the effect of destroying private enterprise in building, as the cost is so great as to make it unlikely that an adequate return will be obtained on the investment. There are serious difficulties at the present time in promoting the erection of houses by Government enterprise.

"It is true that we have a serious housing problem on this continent, but its worst aspect is connected with the lack of control of sanitation by our local Government, rather than that which is connected with increased congestion caused during the cessation of building operations in the last few years. In other words, housing evils that are more injurious, in my opinion, are those that have been sanctioned and encouraged for want of proper building regulations at a time when we had no war expenditure, and building was cheap.

"If we can spare public money, labor and material in building houses other than for returned soldiers, we should not do so without simultaneously enforcing a higher standard of sanitation in regard to existing working-class dwellings in our cities. One of the chief drawbacks in building houses with modern sanitary fittings of a durable material is that they have to compete with old, dilapidated property which can be rented at a low rate because of its small capital value. Another danger we must avoid in promoting Government housing is in allowing any portion of the Government subsidy to go into any pockets other than those of the class they are intended to relieve. We have also to avoid, in these free countries, the giving of public relief to any class that will have the taint of charity.

"Houses built by Government enterprise should not be subsidized for the benefit of any class or be used as a means of [illegible] regulators. These difficulties and dangers can be obviated by proper regulations, and I mention them not because of any lack of enthusiasm for housing reform and for aggressive action at the present time, but because I foresee that if we do not provide the proper safeguards to begin with, we shall run the risk of failure that will be used to disparage Government enterprise.

"We have also to recognize the importance of dealing with the land question at the same time we are dealing with the housing question, and I have no sympathy with any scheme which means that public money is used to increase land values, or to build houses on vacant lots which still retain a considerable part of the fictitious values given to them during the boom days. Before we can solve the housing problem at home, we shall have to get down to some stable basis of land values whereby the capital value has a definite relation to the revenue value, and there is less exploitation of community expenditure on improvements. We shall also have to save much of the money which is now being wasted on costly land development and local improvement as a result of bad planning, or want of planning.

"But the opportunity to create new towns on Garden City lines is obvious to all who have studied the question of the development of towns and cities. Why should not the Government of Canada and the United States use the present opportunity to create at least one object lesson of this kind in America? The United States Government has ample capital and has decided to spend from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 in housing enterprises. It is already creating new industries of sufficient size and scope for employing a large volume of labor to enable it to be independent of the difficulty of attracting private manufacturers to new sites. It does not need to speculate on the coming of industries and workmen to those districts where, in any event, it is going to establish industries and attract workmen. All that the Government needs to do is to be careful in the selection of a site, properly to plan the area it proposes to develop, to lay down principles similar to those which underlie the Garden City scheme, and to set up an organization to provide good social conditions and up-to-date facilities for transportation and supply of community services. It has resolved on a policy of national housing. Is that housing to be entirely carried out on the shortsighted unscientific method of building small accretions to existing centres, where land-values are already high and there is no opportunity to start de novo and plan on scientific and sound economic principles?

"To take a possible case for Government organization, which I recently suggested in an article on the subject. Assume that in the vicinity of one of the large shipbuilding plants it is contemplated that permanent housing accommodation will

Compare Goodrich 375's with other Ford Car Tires

If you have not used these husky, de luxe tires for the Ford car, go at once to a Goodrich dealer and say to him, "Give me a Goodrich Three-Seventy-Five."

Compare it with an ordinary Ford-size tire, and you will find it bigger and burlier in every way.

* * *

As a matter of figures and measurements, it is an inch bigger on the circumference, and much thicker in the cross section—that is, a 31x3½ inch tire.

That extra size means a finer looking, easier riding Ford car to begin, and a longer lived car and tires in the end.

* * *

Though "Three-Seventy-Fives" cost a little more at the outset, built to meet the especial needs of the Ford car and bring out its known virtues, they soon reveal a greater dollar economy, which makes it the better buy in the long run.

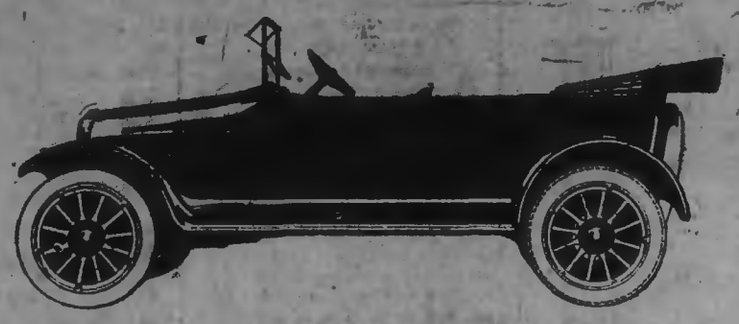
GRAY DORT



For Many Reasons

ONE owner praises the economy of the Gray-Dort. The low consumption of fuel. The long mileage from tires.

Another finds in this car the power and speed he needs without costly weight.

A third talks constantly of value. A staunch, handsome, roomy five-passenger car is unusual value at the Gray-Dort price.

Women, particularly, appreciate the easy driving and comfortable riding of the Gray-Dort. Its beauty, too, attracts their admiration.

You have already heard much of the Gray-Dort. Go now and ride in one. Ask the Gray-Dort dealer for a demonstration. He will gladly give it.

The touring car is $1245; the Gray-Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f.o.b. Chatham and are subject to change without notice.

Specks Floating Before His Eyes

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effette matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N.S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Wireless For All Airplanes.

One essential to the development of a long-distance airplane service for passengers, mails, and parcels delivery, is the use of wireless telegraphy. All the airplanes used in this service will, like every large ship, carry wireless and an efficient operator, thus making it possible to send telegrams from any part of the world, on sea or land to the airplane during its voyage. The airplane will also receive regular messages regarding the weather conditions in the regions towards which it is heading and will therefore be able to adjust its course to avoid fog and other dangers.

A Japanese Invention.

A sub-sea magnet, invented in Japan, promises to be of great assistance in locating sunken vessels, to recover which salvage operations on a big scale are expected after the war. Tests on this magnet have recently resulted in bringing up thousands of Japanese shells, fired in practice at sea, and it is now under stood that it will be used in extracting shell scraps from European battlefields. The value of the iron at present is huge.

DEAD FINGERS.

Curious Conditions That Come With Raynaud's Disease.

Raynaud's disease is a singular affliction in which the circulation in the extremities—in the fingers or toes generally—becomes for a time entirely obstructed. It occurs in persons of nervous temperament; and often follows an exposure to severe cold; it may occur alone, as a purely neurotic symptom, or it may be associated with some other disease, such as epilepsy, Bright's disease, neurasthenia, hysteria or anaemia. It is most often met with in early adult life, and women are more often affected than men. It is, however, occasionally seen even in children, and in old people as well.

The simplest form of the disease is sometimes called "dead fingers." In such a case the fingers of the patient become dead white or a bluish white, and actually look as if they belonged to a dead person. The local circulation may be so completely obstructed that the fingers will not bleed even if they are cut. Sometimes the condition lasts only a few minutes, but it may go on for several hours, or even days. Raynaud called it "local syncope," because the affected finger or toe acts as if it had really fainted from loss of blood, although the circulation is normal in the rest of the body. The condition is believed to be caused by spasms in some of the small arteries.

In the more severe form of Raynaud's disease the affected part turns purple instead of white and becomes swollen and tingling, just as it would if the circulation were impeded by a string tied tightly round the finger.

In the most severe form of all—which is happily not frequent—gangrene occurs; that happens only when the attacks have been so frequent that the circulation is cut off most of the time. In an ordinary attack of "dead fingers" massage is helpful, although it should not be roughly or ignorantly applied, since the skin is drained of its life for the time being, and can be easily broken. Avoid exposure to cold and protect the extremities carefully by warm clothing. Those who are subject to these attacks are generally better off in a warm climate.—Youth's Companion.

More Americans in China.

Foreign firms and the foreign population of China are increasing perceptibly. The American population increased in 1917 by 10 per cent over the previous year, and American firms from 187 to 216; Japanese advanced from 104,275 persons to 148,402 and the number of Japanese firms increased during the year by 980; the Russian population decreased by 3,925, but firms increased by 1,402; the British population decreased, but British firms increased by 11. There was a total increase over 1916 of 34,872 in the foreign population of China last year and of 2,331 firms.

Breaking the News Gently.

In our opinion this Higginsville soldier deserves the medal for delicately breaking bad news of two sorts to mother. His letter in the Jeffersonian says: "How is every one at home? I am fine and dandy. Say, mother, you ought to have seen my new bed last night. It was one of the nicest white iron beds, with springs, mattress, sheets, blankets and a soft pillow. It was in a hospital where I am now. The front is the only place I see any fun now. I haven't been paid for six months, and so you see I am near broke."—Kansas City Times.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

Conditions In Russia Develops New Disease.

Bad as conditions are in the German capital, Berlin is a paradise compared with Petrograd say Russians who escaped from their country bringing terrible tales of anarchy. They are astonished that the Allies asked the representatives of the various Russian Governments to meet. They say that the better element of the Russians will not attend the conference claiming that the majority of the representatives would be Bolsheviki. Jews, they say, form a small percentage of the men who are now terrorizing Russia.

A freight train carrying 450 Russian officers recently escaped from Kiev where from 300 to 500 officers were executed. The escaped officers were clad in white trousers and cotton shirts with no hats, coats or shoes excepting a few who had paid 500 rubles ($250) each for tattered overcoats. The officers were in bad shape. They suffered extremely from lack of food and cold and many must go to hospitals. In the Ukraine a Bolshevik army is stealing, plundering and burning villages. Lemberg is surrounded by Ukraine soldiers. Petrograd is in a worse shape and is called a graveyard. The Soviet Council "nationalized" all the cooking and eating kitchens and all fuel has been sealed up by the Bolshevik agents. No one is allowed to prepare his own meal. All must wait in lines for hours at the common dining rooms to obtain a thin soup costing four rubles ($2) a portion. It is impossible to make a tea as there is no hot water, tea or sugar.

An unusual disease is developing which causes the marrow of the bones to liquify. People are dropping dead in the street cars for lack of food. Horses which die are left in the streets. All who could do so have left and the city seems deserted. Many who are without money are forced to endure terrible privations. They remain in their houses where it is four degrees below freezing, all fuel having been seized. A red army numbering 600,000 soldiers is advancing through Poland towards the west and is now about 40 kilometers (24 miles) from the German frontier. A ray of hope is beginning to appear since a few reports say that the farmers are preparing for an uprising against the local Soviets. They are planning to defend themselves against the Chinese troops who under the pay of the Bolsheviki pillage and burn villages which refuse to pay tribute or furnish food.

Too Generous.

"Do you like Miss Prattle?"

Appendicitis Operations Not Always Necessary

Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause.

Your physician will tell you that Appendicitis is an inflamed condition of the little sack called the Appendix at the lower right hand corner of the Colon or large intestine. By cleansing this Colon with purified warm water by the "J. B. L. Cascade" this sack is cleansed and the inflammation subsides. Hundreds of operations have been avoided by using the warm water cure for Appendicitis. Mr. Jas. McLaughlin, 91 Evanston street, Winnipeg, writes:—

"I have spent over fifty dollars with doctors trying to cure Appendicitis. Finally the doctor said I must go to the hospital at once for an operation. Your advertisement interested me. I bought a 'J. B. L. Cascade,' which relieved me at once, and am now completely cured. Never felt better in my life; all pain and soreness gone, and I eat and sleep like a boy. I am grateful to Dr. Tyrrell for this wonderful health-giving invention."

Ninety-five per cent. of all human ills are caused by accumulated waste in the Colon. Internal Bathing with the "J. B. L. Cascade" keeps this large intestine as free from all waste and as clean as nature demands it should be for perfect health. Ask Warne Drug Co., Peterborough, for booklet called "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient." It is free. They will also be leased to show and explain the "J. B. L. Cascade" to you.

Conquering Typhoid.

Results of anti-typhoid inoculation among the French troops in Algeria and Morocco during 1912 were reported by Professor Vincent at the recent international medical congress in London. In western Morocco, while about 16 per cent among the noninoculated contracted the disease, only one in 5,000 among the inoculated did so.

THE WAR AND CHINA.

Country's Trade Prospers In Spite of Diversities.

Once more China's foreign trade has proved itself a hardy and rapid growth able to adapt itself to very unpromising circumstances, for its adversities during the four years of the great war have been many and severe, says the Far Eastern Review.

It has withstood internal warfare and political disturbances which threatened for a time the integrity of the nation.

It has resisted for much of the time a high silver market which would have meant its destruction in the years when China's strength was not so great.

Despite the dearth of bottoms and the prohibition of imports and lack of exports in and out of the belligerent countries, China's foreign trade has done more than exist—it has flourished and expanded.

China has once again passed through a crisis and emerged not only intact and in running order, but the better for it.

The great war has found new customers for her goods, led to direct dealing with old customers who formerly relied upon enemy connections for her produce, and created a demand for her raw products. This has brought her silver with which to buy the foreign manufactures her people need, though she would have benefited a thousandfold had she been organized to take advantage of war demands.

Her purchase of foreign goods last year reached the huge total of $95,000,000 gold dollars, despite disorganization and civil war. What she might have bought had there been peace in the land, workers in the factories at home to produce and ships to bear their product to her shores can only be guessed. Every merchant in China knows the huge trade he could have done this year had his godown been filled with goods.

The trade records made last year in the face of adversities only show what is possible this year and the next, with the resumption of normal trading facilities and the establishment of stable government. The Chinese have learned how to buy and use new foreign goods which they will need in increasing quantities, and the high value of silver will make their acquisition easy. China has introduced her products to fresh markets and most of these new customers will still look to her for their supplies.

Considering the days to come, the conclusion is inevitable that something of China's great future is at hand.

Development will now be resumed with the removal of restraints imposed by the great war and internal strife. There are factories to be filled with machinery, railways to be built, mines requiring equipment and depleted stocks to be replenished.

Lines must be laid immediately for the securing of business in the prosperous period that will follow the resumption of normal conditions. Unfortunately for the foreign merchant trade routes have been diverted, customers have been neglected while his staff has been away on a sterner duty, old connections have been lost and competitors have arisen. New customers must be found, old customers recovered, new connections must be made among the many manufacturers, merchants and buyers who are seeking business in this undeveloped market of great potentiality.

Prussians Ban Sailor Suits.

The Prussian Junkers are very angry with the German navy. The following letter appears in the Women's Supplement of the Pan-German Deutsche Zeitung over the signature of a certain Frau Agnes von Below:

"It has hitherto been a common custom to dress our children in sailor suits. Our youth, the pride of Germany, must no longer be permitted to wear this dress, for it has been besmirched with dirt and blood. From the sailors has come all the misery that has broken over our country and that is still to come. They alone bear the guilt for the disgraceful conditions of armistice and peace, and later on they will themselves curse their deed. German mothers, away with the sailor suits! Give the children different dress of honor, so that they may not always be reminded of that crew without a country."

Built Over Caverns.

The ground under the city of San Salvador is full of caverns of unknown depths. A man was once digging a well there. At the last stroke he gave with his pick the bottom fell out, and he and his pick fell through, nobody knows where. At least so "they say."

The Shy Caterpillar.

The caterpillar, though a sociable creature, tries to keep out of everybody's way. Some species hide on the under surface of leaves, others on the stems or blades of grass, which serve them as food; others, again, build little nests for concealment or lie snugly hidden between the curled edges of leaves, which they draw close together until the opposite edges meet. The caterpillar is a sociable creature in his own family. He knows that there is safety in numbers, and you will find whole companies feeding side by side while keeping a sharp lookout for their bird enemies, but when a caterpillar is by himself he scarcely dares to move for fear of attracting attention. Even when he is obliged to change his skin he doesn't venture to leave his old coat lying around. The moment that he takes it off he eats it. The caterpillars that live in companies shed their skin boldly. Only the poor solitary fellows feel forced to swallow their old clothes.—London Mail.

Chivalry in Battle.

There was some chivalry in a naval fight in the good old days of Blake and Van Tromp, when sneaking submarines and barbarous torpedoes were unknown and naval commanders "courted war like a mistress."

When the Spanish Admiral Oquendo declined to come out of the shallow waters of Goodwin sands to fight because he had no powder Van Tromp said, "I have powder enough for both. I will give him half mine."

"It is not only powder I need, but masts for my ships," replied Oquendo. To which Van Tromp replied, "I have plenty of masts, a whole shipload of them, and you can have them if you will only come out and meet me."

The result justified the caution of Oquendo, for when the two fleets did meet the Spaniards were so terribly beaten by the Dutch that of sixty-seven ships only eighteen reached Dunkirk in safety.—Army and Navy Journal.

Is your wife better at saving than at spending? If not, take income insurance.

When a man dies there are three deaths:—
The death of a husband.
The death of a father.
The death of the income.

If you should receive your salary for a whole year in one lump sum on January 1st, how much would you have left on July 1st?

If your insurance is paid in one sum how long will it last?

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

An Exploded Secret

By EMMA BLAKE

The French ship Arago sailed from New York for Cherbourg, France, in March, 1915, loaded with munitions of war for the allies. She had been out six days, and two of the voyage remained, when one of the passengers, a man, appeared at the door of the captain's cabin on the upper deck, slipped in hastily, put his finger to his lips to enjoin silence and stood for a moment waiting, evidently endeavoring to conquer some strong emotion. Then after turning the key in the door he said almost in a whisper to the astonished commander:

"Captain Le Moyne, this vessel is in imminent danger."

"How so?" asked the captain, starting.

"Write me out a promise of immunity, that I shall be treated in every respect as any other passenger aboard and that you will take no action except such as I approve and I will tell you."

The captain demurred for some time, cross questioning the man in an effort to get out of him something of what he had to say without making any promises. But the man shut up like a clam and would say nothing further except that there was a strong probability that the ship would be wrecked that night. Finally Captain Le Moyne gave in, wrote out a bond such as the man required, and he told his story.

He said that in the stateroom next to his he had heard two men talking. He could not hear all they said, but had heard enough to lead him to believe that they were emissaries of either the German or Austrian government, who had been sent to blow up the ship and send the cargo of arms and ammunition to the bottom. He had heard distinctly one of these men say to the other, "Very well, we'll do it tonight."

The captain started to leave his cabin when his visitor took the key from the lock and held it in a tight grip while he added:

"Remember your promise—if on examination you see anything that looks like an implement of destruction you will not throw it overboard, but place it where it can do no serious damage to the ship."

"Why do you stipulate for that?" asked the captain.

"Because I do not wish to be responsible for property destroyed by mistake. I should never forgive myself for doing so, and I would lay myself liable to damages that might take all I have."

This satisfied Le Moyne, who had no more relish for destroying harmless property than his informer.

The captain obtained a pass key and, accompanied only by the informer, went to the stateroom. There they found a box about the size of a suit case with a sliding cover, which was locked. Putting his ear down to the box, the captain fancied he heard a faint ticking, but was not sure. His informant also listened and declared that he could hear nothing. But he was a trifle deaf and could not hear a watch tick without putting it close to his ear.

The captain was for heaving the box overboard at once, but the other demurred, reminding him of his promise. Le Moyne averred that the lives of the crew and passengers were of more value than any promise, whereupon the other said:

"In the first place, captain, if you don't keep this matter a secret you'll have a panic aboard your ship; in the second place you can make all safe without the risk of laying you and me liable for damages in the destruction of what may be valuable property. All you have to do is to attach a line to the box, drop it overboard and let it float a couple of hundred yards astern."

The captain was so anxious to get rid of the article that he consented. Two strong iron handles were attached to it, one at either end. Producing a line, the captain secured it to one of these handles and ran it through the other for greater security. The informant suggested that it would be best to take it to his own stateroom, to be kept till after dark, that he might not attract attention, then drop it over the stern. To this he added a suggestion that it had better be put in place of the log for recording the ship's progress, which was hung out from the stern. The captain, not wishing it to be known that there were persons aboard intending to blow up the ship, assented to the delay, which was little more than an hour.

As soon as it was dark the informant carried the box to the stern, where he found the captain waiting for him, and, no one being near, it was lowered into the water, the line paid out and the near end attached to the reel. As soon as this was done Le Moyne breathed easier, though he was by no means sure that the persons who had intended to blow up the ship had not other contrivances for the purpose.

Next morning when the Arago was sailing near the French coast Captain Le Moyne went aft to look for the floating box. He could not see it even with his binoculars. In fact, it had disappeared. He sent a steward for his informant, but the man could not be found.

Nor was he or the box ever heard of. When the Arago reached port detectives who had been cabled from New York came aboard to arrest an absconding bank cashier who had taken a hundred thousand dollars of the bank's funds.

A Boston sociologist says that a man always tells the truth when he is drunk. This, however, is no reason for drunkenness.

Women as Fire-rangers.

To the creditable list of occupations in which the war showed women to be efficient and faithful, may be added that of serving as observers in lookout posts on the peaks of western mountains and hills. From these lonely points of vantage watch is constantly kept for forest fires in the region roundabout. Because of the scarcity of available men during the war, this work was performed largely by women and girls, many of the latter being of High School age, who were glad of an opportunity to spend a summer vacation in the open. Usually the girls "manned" the posts in pairs, but in one instance a lone girl did her faithful dog were on duty. Whenever smoke was seen rising among the trees it was the task of the watcher to calculate the location of the fire by means of special apparatus provided for the purpose, and then communicate at once by telephone to the forest-rangers, who would hurry out prepared to fight the flames.

FARM LOANS for SOLDIERS

How Returned Men Can Become Farmers

EVERY returned man who wants to become a farmer and is qualified for that vocation can get real, practical help through the Soldier Settlement Board.

The Government's programme includes:—

(1) The securing of land.

(2) The loaning of capital needed to purchase equipment and live stock, and erect buildings.

(3) Agricultural training and farm supervision.

The Loans Granted

Loans may be approved by the Loan Advisory Committee, according to the needs of the settler, on the following basis:—

(1) Up to $4,500 on the purchase of land.

(2) Up to $2,000 on the purchase of live stock, implements and other equipment.

(3) Up to $1,000 on the erection of buildings and other permanent improvements.

The first and third are repayable in twenty-five equal annual instalments; the second in four equal annual instalments beginning the third year, no interest being charged for the first two years.

On all these loans the low interest rate of five per cent. will be charged. A cash payment of ten per cent. of the purchase price will be required on the land—but this may be waived by the Board in special cases.

Qualified settlers on Dominion lands may secure loans up to a maximum of $3,000 on a plan similar to the above for farm equipment, live stock, and erection of buildings, provided security offered justifies the loan.

To Whom Granted

To be entitled to these privileges a man must have served with an honourable record in the Canadian, Imperial, or British Colonial forces in an actual theatre of war or outside of the country in which he enlisted (service in U.S. or Bermuda not included). Others eligible are:

A British subject who lived in Canada before the War and who was on active service with the Allied Forces in an actual theatre of war.

A member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who served in Canada only, but is in receipt of a pension for disability occasioned by such service.

These benefits are also granted to widows of such men.

A Broad Policy

All soldiers whose best interests will be served by taking up farms will be assisted. Only suitable land will be approved. That is (a) land that is near to existing railways or organized communities; (b) land that will make money for the soldier; (c) land that will provide a first class home.

In addition to these advantages the Board has planned a system of collective purchase, so that it can guarantee settlers the best value obtainable anywhere in live stock, implements, lumber, and other needs. It will also assist soldier settlers with advice and supervision, if necessary, in the management of their activities, so that the best results will be obtained.

TOM LONGBOAT REACHES HALIFAX

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 9. — Tom Longboat, the greatest of all the long-distance runners, reached Halifax yesterday on the troopship Baltic, and will probably arrive on one of the troop trains to-day. The Indian was a despatch bearer at the front.

Lieut. Stan. Richards, the well-known Capital Rugby and lacrosse player, and Jack Tait, the former Canadian champion middle distance runner, are also expected.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

Every habitation is not a home Alas! No! We have seen a beautiful house, richly appointed, supplied with every luxury, whose beautiful tapestried walls and lovely carpets, all flower-strewn, handsome furniture, exquisite china, sparkling cut-glass and silver, beautiful flower yards, made a picture of lovely beauty, and would suggest a real "fairy land," everything wealth, skill and taste could command, whose inmates were highly educated and considered very refined and yet that was no home, and the Christian father of that family would go from a daintv spread breakfast table; and a cross, ill-tempered, silk robed wife, and not one kind word, not a single ray of sunshine to chase away the gloom of a busy business man's long days. The boys were glad to get off to school, out the reach of mother's scolding tongue, and the "beautiful fashionable" daughter fretted the day away over the novels that didn't turn out like she wanted them to, and dresses that didn't hang just right, and spent the evening and a goodly part of the night dancing and saying silly nothings to a silly young man. Why was this home so unhappy? Because the mother was not in sympathy with the father and children, and the children were uncongenial with each other. So wealth alone cannot make a happy home.

See here, boys! Whatever you try to do, do it the very best you can; do it better than it was ever done before Don't yield to the temptation to slight your work. And above all things, do what is right, every time. Never mind the scoff and leer of others, but go ahead and do what is right. Be brave about it, too. Everyone hates a coward. And another thing, don't be afraid of doing right for fear you will make enemies. Enemies are as necessary to success as vinegar is to pickles. Don't above all things be a hypocrite. The thief may steal our property, but the hypocrite betrays one's confidence and only waits an opportunity to stab him in the back. If you have a mind of your own don't be afraid to express your opinion, and if you feel that it is right stand by it. People will talk and fools will turn grindstones for others to sharpen their axes on. Think for yourself. Lay your course of action in accordance with the idea that some day you will be a man and called upon to take an active part in life's great battles. Don't imagine for a moment that you can please everybody, not yourself. Few people care for you and you must care for yourself or be left in the cold.

There is a class of laborers who never strike and seldom complain They get up at five o'clock in the morning and never go to bed until ten or eleven at night. They work without ceasing during the whole of the time and get no other pay than food and clothing. They understand something of every branch of economy, from finance to cooking; though harassed by a hundred responsibilities, though driven and worried, though humiliated and looked down upon, they never revolt and they cannot organize for their own protection; not even sickness relieves them from their post. No sacrifice is deemed too great for them to make, and no incompetency in any branch of their work is excused. No essays and poems are written in tribute to their steadfastness. They are the housekeeping wives of the majority of the people, who work, live and die for their loved ones.

To the true man or woman there can be nothing more agreeable on earth than the business of home-making! and all who are not home-makers miss the best part of their mission in life. Who ever makes a home, in the best sense of the word, is a real benefactor to the race; for every true home is the abode of joy, peace and happiness to those who share it, and exerts an influence that is incalculable for the amelioration of the whole human family. Many a prodigal has been led by the thoughts of home and the makers of his own particular home, to repent of his sins and to change his course in life; and many an unfortunate one has been saved in the evil hour from suicide, or worse by the tender recollections of home, of fond mother's prayers, an indulgent father's councils, or a sister's or a brother's tenderness.

Home is a harem of rest to a man after a hard day's work. Mother, you may be tired after a trying day with the children, but remember that others have trying days, too. Father has been in the office all day pouring over business perplexities or financial problems but now he looks the office door and with a sigh of relief he thinks of his loved ones and turns his face towards the rest and peace of home. Don't meet him at the door with a look on your face that would stop an eight day clock. Greet him with a smile, make him feel that home is the sweetest and most restful place on earth.

Let us not wait for chances for doing good to come to us, but to go out to meet them. Too many beautiful opportunities escape us otherwise. As charity begins at home, so should love. We don't care much for the charity or love that would leave its dearest to want for duty or affection and go out into the world to work. We find it a delightful plan to make each one of our homefolks happy about some one thing each day of our life—plan little surprises for their delight, do little deeds for them, brighten a dull hour, or congratuate them upon some achievement of their own.

If you wish your children to be respectful to you then you should be respectful to them. The boys and girls who are spoken to in a harsh, rough tone of voice naturally fall into the habit of responding in the same way.

If the mother is in the habit, in her common conversation, of coloring facts, of exaggerating what she hears and relates, can she expect her children nto grow up wiith a love and reverence for the truth?

How Warships Communicate.

Every battleship at sea has its wireless installation adjusted so that it can send and receive signals and messages to other squadrons at sea or in harbor and to stations ashore. For the purpose of obtaining information as to the whereabout of the enemy and guarding against surprises wireless telegraphy is, of course, invaluable, says the Wireless World. A great number of cruisers are sent out ahead and spread a number of miles across. The duty of these ships is to keep a thorough lookout and report to the ship in the battle fleet looking out on their particular wave length. This ship in turn reports by semaphore or Morse lamp to the admiral of the battle fleet. The cruisers are sometimes screened by torpedo boat destroyers. Now, if thirty of these ships are used it will be readily seen that the area of their vision is enormous, and it would be almost impossible for a fleet to pass unobserved. Immediately any of the ships sight the enemy's squadron they would report at once by wireless, stating the number of ships sighted, with their speed, latitude and longitude, etc. The admiral would then give his orders, also by wireless.—Pearson's Weekly.

Queerest Dolls in the World.

The dollies played with by little Mohammedan children are sadly unique. They are not allowed any features and are, in fact, little more than mere bundles of rags rolled up. Mrs. Penny in "Roughing India" recalls the reason for this deficiency. The Moslems believe that any human figure that is made by man will receive life at the last day and will reproach its maker for having brought it into existence without having the power to endow it with human and spiritual privileges. One feels that the prophet might have compromised a little when it came to dolls, especially in view of what was later to happen.

When British rupees were first circulated in India the figure of the sovereign in relief was regarded with distrust. Fortunately for the peace of the mussulmans the eye was so small as to be almost invisible. Through this loophole the followers of the prophet found a way of escape from the difficulty, deciding that no harm would come in the way of the money.

GENERAL WALK OUT THREATENED

Winnipeg Faces the Prospects of another Big Strike.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, May 9. — A general walk out of all union workers in Greater Winnipeg appears inevitable, unless the metal and building trades strikes are settled in a few days.

Twenty unions have voted during the last two days almost unanimously in favor of a strike. Out of the hundreds of ballots cast less than 25 were against a walk out, it was reported at the labor temple.

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SET RECORD FOR BUILDING

New York University Put Up Eight Large Buildings for Soldiers in Thirteen Days.

New York university set a record in finishing an army barracks building for the new students' army training corps in six days, says the New York Tribune. This building was the first of a group of eight needed for the newly inducted soldiers at the university. The entire group was completed in 13 days from the time the work was started. Prof. Collins P. Bliss, head of the department of mechanical engineering at the university, supervised this rush job of construction, the university authorities having contracted for the erection of the barracks as soon as it was learned that New York university would become an S. A. T. C. camp.

The buildings are completely sealed so they can be kept comfortably heated by the big cantonment stoves. There are double floors throughout, there is double sheathing on the outside, and the walls are sealed inside. Each barracks conforms to the army plan of 43 by 120 feet dimensions.

In the mess hall 1,600 men are fed in two shifts. High pressure steam cookers are used. There are gas and coal ranges, steam tables on which to keep the food hot, and some kettles three feet in diameter. A dishwasher operated by steam cleans 3,000 dishes an hour.

One of the university's graduate engineers—John Lowry, Jr.,—was responsible for the rapid erection of the barracks. Being engaged extensively in government work, he was able to throw in a large force of men, transferred from other government work that was finished.

The site of the first barracks was surveyed and staked and posts were set in concrete in one day.

Family Fun.

They had been having a quarrel, and after Mrs. Gilson had spoken the last word, as usual, she felt that perhaps she had overdone the matter and, picking up the evening paper, began to read little items from it.

"Oh, Henry," she laughed, "isn't this funny? Here is a man advertising for a silent partner with $1,000."

"Funny!" growled Gilson. "Yes; it's terribly funny. If he'd married you he'd have been darned glad to get a silent partner even if she didn't have a cent."—Philadelphia Record.

Comprehensive Advice.

It is probable that seldom has better advice been given than in the following condensed rules: Drink less, breathe more; eat less, chew more; ride less, walk more; clothe less, bathe more; worry less, work more; waste less, give more; write less, read more; talk less, think more; preach less, practice more. To follow these is to strive for better health, further popularity and greater success.

Explaining It.

"Robert," said his mother, "what mischief have you been up to now? I can tell by the look in your eyes that you have been naughty."

Love's Victim.

"Where did you get that awful indigestion?"

"My wife tried to win my love through my stomach."—Philadelphia Ledger.

WHY IT IS 'CZECHO-SLOVAK'

Speaking of the awkward cognomen of "Czecho-Slovak," the Independent says it is partly due to linguistic accident and partly to political exigence. The old familiar name "Bohemia" has, like the name "Serbia," a territorial rather than a radical significance and is too small to cover the ethnical entity on which the modern concept of nationality is founded. The Slovak language is only dialectically different from the Czech or Bohemian, but the differences were purposely intensified during the nineteenth century to keep the Hungarian branch of the race apart from the Austrian. Even in America Slovak and Czech newspapers are distinct, although either people can read the other language. Professor Masaryk, head of the new Czecho-Slovak republic, is a Slovak. The Slovaks, being inferior to the Czechs in numbers, wealth and education, are naturally insistent upon equal rights and recognition. The spelling "Czech" is neither native nor English. It is a Polish form of the word, foisted upon the world by persistence of Viennese journalists. The True Bohemian spelling "Cech" is impossible to our newspapers for lack of type with inverted caret over the C, to represent Ch. The final ch is sounded like the German guttural or the Scottish ch as in "loch," but to the ordinary ear is hardly distinguishable from plain k.

Reaches Front Benches.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, an expatriated Canadian, has been a member of the British House of Commons for 13 years, and by his assiduity and ability has won the Under-Secretaryship that now comes to him. As a progressively successful lawyer he should find congenial work at the Home Office, and men of all parties will welcome him to the front bench in the House of Commons.

Mrs. Lilian Taylor Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Baby

"Our baby was two weeks old when his face became very red and terribly itchy, and he was fairly crazy rubbing and scratching till the skin broke and bled. He could not sleep, and did nothing but cry. His face looked as though he might be disfigured for life.

"I thought I would give Cuticura Soap and Ointment a trial. I found the free sample so good that I bought more and two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a fifty cent box of Cuticura Ointment healed him." (Signed) Mrs. Lilian M. Taylor, Box 99, Emerson bridge, Manitoba, Ont., Dec. 20, '18.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse and purify, Cuticura Ointment to soften and soothe and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume are ideal for daily toilet purposes.

For free sample each of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum, address: "Cuticura, Dept. X, Boston, U.S.A." Sold everywhere.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, then to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Inauguration of Repatriation Plans For Hastings County

Monster Peace Dance Was Held Friday Night—Spirit of Co-operation—Plans for Campaign—Great Possibilities.

BELLEVILLE, May 12. — If the magnificent scale upon which the Grand Peace Assembly was held in the Armouries here on Friday night is to be considered a criterion, the County of Hastings Development Association is destined to accomplish some big things. The dance was a brilliant affair indeed. It was Belleville's biggest event of that nature, nearly a thousand persons from the city and all sections of Hastings Co. participating. Many dignitaries graced the function with their presence.

The spacious armouries were elaborately decorated with patriotic bunting and special lights. At one end, extending the whole width of the building, was a buffet arrangement, where ladies served refreshments. At the opposite end was an array of exhibits of the minerals of Hastings County, including talc from Madoc Township, gold ore from Marmora township, fluorspar from Madoc and Huntingdon, iron from Tudor township. There were also samples of steel and pig iron manufactured by a Belleville man, from ores secured at the Horton Mine in Tudor.

Spirit of Cooperation.

The object of the assembly was to give the people from all sections of the country an opportunity to meet, and, by exchange of ideas in a social way, promote a spirit of cooperation and mutual interest in the aims of the association. The funds obtained from the affair will be used in the publicity campaign to make known the resources of the County of Hastings.

The formation of the Hastings Development Association is the outcome of discussion of plans for rehabilitating the soldiers of the district. After several meetings of public spirited residents of the county it was decided that the best way to help the soldiers and everyone else was to form an organization which would encourage the development of the natural and industrial resources which the county had in abundance. All British subjects residing in the County of Hastings and above the age of 21 years, are eligible for membership. The presidency will always be vested in the Warden of the County, the vice-presidencies in the Mayors of Belleville and Trenton and the presidents of the Boards of Trade in those places. The secretary is H. W. Nugent, County Clerk. In addition to the officials already mentioned the executive includes the members for East and West Hastings in the House of Commons, and the members for East, West and North Hastings in the Legislature, and the mayor and reeve or other head of each municipality in the county, in office at time at the annual meeting.

Planning the Campaign.

Standing Committees have been appointed to deal with Agriculture, Timber Resources, Mines and Minerals, Water and Power Transportation and Good Roads, Finance, Industries, Publicity, Legislation and Rehabilitation. At a meeting to be held during the week of June 17th, those committees dealing with the different phases of the work of the association will report and methods of procedure will be discussed. The campaign will be financed by membership fees and grants expected from the municipalities most interested and other resources.

The work of the association is calculated to aid greatly in the repatriation of returned soldiers and help them to take as great a part in the industrial affairs of their country as they have in the war. At the dance last night the men home from overseas were much in evidence.

Among the stewards were Major R. Vanderwater, Major A. C. McPhee, Major W. Cook, Major R. D. Ponton, Captain A. D. Harper, Capt. W. E. Schuster, Captain B. L. Hyman, Capt. J. V. Doyle, Dr. A. T. Embury, Dr. R. W. Tennant, Ernest Green and Jack Downey, all war veterans. The patrons included Lieut.-Colonels W. G. Ketcheson, Ed. O'Flynn, W. K. Adams, Bywater and Alger, all of whom were overseas.

AN EXTENSIVE COUNTY.

W. C. Mikel, K.C., of the publicity committee ,and W. H. Nugent, secretary, were enthusiastic over the possibilities of the association for good, when spoken to by a reporter. They agreed that the idea launched here could possibly be followed in other counties for the general benefit of the Dominion. In Hastings County they insisted there are unexcelled opportunities.

This county sent over 4,000 men to the war. It contained one and one-half millions of acres, being nearly as large as the Kingdom of Rumania, over twice the size of the State of Rhode Island and larger than the province of Prince Edward Island. It contains over one hundred lakes, a dozen or more rivers, and several magnificent water powers.

There are over 2,100 miles of roads in Hastings County, and about 400 miles of railway trackage. It has one city, two towns, six incorporated villages and twenty four townships.

The population of the county is 53,170 and assessed value $26,669,327. In addition to that large sum the money on deposit in the banks and the amount of personal property possessed by the people of the county is estimated at $25,000,000.

Great Possibilities.

Productions of the Hastings mines, which both Mr. Mikel and Mr. Nugent pointed out, have scarcely been developed, realized $419,000 in 1918. This included talc, fluorspars, iron pyrites and limestone. They maintain that Hastings County contains the largest marble deposits in Canada.

Other minerals found in the county include, iron, gold, lead, molybdenite, pyrites and trap rock for road metal. Estimates of iron ore run up into many millions of tons.

The water power undeveloped is estimated at 80,000 horse power; and water power developed 22,000 horse power, bringing in at present rates $666,000 per annum.

Rich in agricultural resources, prolific in the products of mine, great in lumbering operations, extensive in its manufactures, the great County of Hastings offers special opportunities for progress and development. Every centre of population has opportunities for industries peculiar to the particular locality. The new association is determined to focus public attention upon all these opportunities, and Friday night's ball was a big move in that direction. Broad vision and team play are sought in order to realize upon glorious possibilities.

PRICE OF WHISKEY AT NIAGARA FALLS

Border Towns Are Making Hay While the Sun Shines.

(Special to the Examiner.)

NIAGARA FALLS, May 10.—The penalty of a $200 fine for bringing a bottle of liquor into Canada is not the only worry of Canadians in the border cities who make periodical trips over the river to quench their thirst. The high cost of booze over the line is another factor in the situation to be considered now. If a man asks for a drink of whisky in any of the thirst dispensaries in Niagara, New York, he is absolutely ignorant of just what price he will be asked to pay for his three fingers. It never is less than 25 cents now, and sometimes it runs as high as 50 cents —just according to where you are and who you are. Beer is ten cents and up, too.

Happily 1st July is coming, when the upward tendency has to cease automatically.

Madness to Unite With the Germans Is Austrian View

Death Knell of Old Austria Sounded When Chancellor Relinquishes Hopes.

VIENNA, May 12.—(By the Associated Press).—The death knell of old Austria was sounded in Parliament on Thursday afternoon when Chancellor Renner, in accepting the nomination as a Peace delegate to go to St. Germain, said he relinquished all hopes for a fusion with Germany. His speech was made while the impression caused by the Allies' terms to Germany was still strong. The feeling in the Chamber was, according to one speaker, that "it would be madness to unite with a nation subject to such measures."

"The Austrian people must suffer for the misdeeds of their rulers," the Chancellor said. "We never wanted the war and were not guilty of bringing it about. I will do my best to secure better terms for ourselves."

The address was delivered within a stone's throw of the Foreign Office in Ball Platz, where the first ministry of war was set in motion nearly five years ago, and moved many of the Chancellor's hearers to tears. A few Socialists demanded that no delegates be sent, but there was no attempt at revolt or Bolshevism.

DOLLAR A WEEK CUT OFF TABLE EXPENSE

Food Controller Makes Report That Sounds Like Dollars Saved.

LONDON, May 9.—In the House of Commons today the food controller stated that the premier's anticipated saving of four shillings weekly in the workingman's budget by the early summer was already more than realized. Britain had freely placed at the disposal of the Allies her resources for the securing of adequate supplies of essential foodstuffs, he said, and the food ministry might be wound up about the middle of November, as home-grown wheat would be decontrolled by the end of September. However, the control of milk, the development of national kitchens and the regulation of prices as affected by trusts and combines should be regarded as permanent.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"But just run over all the marriageable men in the community—"

"Oh, he might be married, you know." Alys struggled to keep the alarm out of her voice.

"But in that case there would still be the wife to dispose of, and now, at least, he'd never dare kill her, or even divorce her. No, I don't hold to that theory. It's more likely the reckless act of the unchastened bachelor still young enough for illusions. You must have a theory, Alys. Stand and deliver." Miss Austin spoke with quick insistence. She had detected her hostess' suppressed excitement and was convinced that the hint had not been thrown out at random. She also had been conscious of an indefinable change in her old associate, and now she noticed it in detail. She might be too self-respecting to dip her pen in pathos, but she was nevertheless young, and her imagination began playing about possibilities like lightning over a wire fence.

The heat which confused Alys Crumley's brain was expressed by a dull glow in her strange olive-coloured eyes, but she made a desperate effort to look impersonal and rather bored.

"No, I have no theory; certainly it could not be any of the men hereabouts. Mrs. Balfame has known all of them from infancy up. Perhaps she met some one in New York; I don't know that she ever went to any of the tea-tango places — she doesn't dance; but she might have gone with Mrs. Gifning of Mrs. Frew, and just met some one that fell in love with her— Oh, you mustn't take a mere idea of mine too seriously."

"Hm!" said Miss Austin. "It doesn't sound plausible. A man she met now and then at a tea-room! She's not the sort to drive men to distraction in the casual meeting—not the type. And I can't see the men that frequent afternoon tea-rooms working themselves up to the point of murder. No, if there is a man in the case, he is here; if not in Elsinore, then in the county; and it is some man who has known her long enough and seen her often enough to descend from mere admiration for her rather chilling type of beauty into the most desperate desire for possession—"

Alys burst into a ringing peal of laughter. "Really, Sarah, I wonder you are not already famous as a fiction-story writer. How much longer do you propose to stick to prosaic journalism?"

"I've had two stories accepted by leading magazines this month, I'd have you know; but your memory is short if you think journalism prosaic. It germinates pretty nearly all the fiction microbes that later ravage the popular magazines. That was what was the matter with the old magazines—no modern symptoms, let alone fevers—only antidotes that somehow didn't work." But if you won't tell, Alys, I'll find out for myself. If I don't find out, Jim Broderick will, and I'd give my eyes to get ahead of him. But we've got to catch our train, girls."

They took the short cut through the hall of the dwelling, and as they passed the open door of the living-room, Miss Lauretta Lea exclaimed with pleasure at its conceit of a cool green wood. Alys could do no less than invite them in. While the three other reporters were walking about observing the charming room in detail and envying its owner, Miss Sarah Austin walked directly over to a framed photograph of Dwight Rush that stood on a side-table. He had given it to Mrs. Crumley; and Alys, who spared her mother all unnecessary anxiety, had not yet conceived a logical excuse for its removal.

"Whom have we here?" demanded the searching young realist. "Don't tell me, Alys, that here is the secret of your desertion of the New York press. I'd forgive you, though, for he is precisely the type I most admire. The modern Samson before Delilah cuts off what little hair his barber leaves. But the same old Samson looking round for the same old Delilah—"

"Really, Sarah, are you insinuating that I am a Delilah? That is too much!" Alys put her arm round Miss Austin's waist and smiled teasingly. "No wonder your newspaper stories are so bitingly realistic; the restraints you force upon your imagination must put it quite out of commission for the time being. That is Mr. Dwight Rush, quite a well known lawyer in Brabant already, although he has only been here about two years."

"I thought you said all your young men had grown up in the community."

"I had quite forgotten him."

"Ha! Is he married?"

"Oh, no. And he was born and brought up over in Rensselaerville, by the way, but went West to some college or university and practised out there for several years."

"How old is he?"

"Oh, about thirty-three or thirty-four."

"Must have been away a good many years. Would return quite fresh—must have had a lot made over him here—looks clever and built for success—that concentrated driving type that always gets there—"

"He goes very little into society and no one possibly could lionize him."

"Is he interesting to talk to or just another specialist?"

"That's about it! But he was more a friend of mother's than mine. That is her picture."

"Oh! He likes older women, then? Looks as if he might. Never would take the trouble, that type, to adapt himself to girls, try to understand them. Could it be—Alys, you must know if he knows Mrs. Balfame!"

Alys was cold again but laid violent hands on her nerves. "No better than he knew any one else, if as well, for Mrs. Balfame never talked to the younger men. She doesn't attract them, anyhow. Do you realize, dear, that you are asking if Mr. Rush committed murder?"

"With that jaw and those nostrils, he could—oh, rather! And it is one of those cast-iron, passionate faces; when those men do let go—"

"Oh, really!" Alys dropped her arm, and her subtle face expressed disdain. "Mr. Rush is quite too steel clad to be carried away even if he were capable of committing a low and cowardly murder. He happens to be a gentleman and about as astute and posed as they are made. Do please send your romantic imagination off on another flight."

"Not I. I'm going to account for every moment he spent that night."

"Would you like to see Mr. Rush go to the chair?" asked Miss Crumley sternly.

"Oh, good Lord, no." Miss Austin turned pale. "I don't believe in capital punishment, anyhow. No, I'll not tell a thing if I find him out. But how interesting to know! I'd write a corking story—fiction—about it. Those deep glimpses into life—into those terrible abysses of the human heart—no writer can become great without them."

"Well, don't waste your time trying to find the criminal in this excellent citizen. You might set some of the newspaper men on his trail and blacken his name while you discovered nothing. Better get on the track of the potential woman in New York."

"Not half so interesting. Just one of those apartment-house misalliances. No, I'm out for Mr. Rush, and when I have the proof, I'll extract a confession; but I'll dig a little grave in my brain and bury his secret—then when it has ripened, exhume and toss it into that crucible through which facts pass and come out—fiction. Get me, dear?"

"You talk like a literary ghoul. But I know you don't mean a word of it. Good-bye, girl. Do drop in whenever you are over on the case." She kissed them all, and Miss Lauretta Lea exclaimed innocently:

"You've lost that lovely dusky colour you had awhile ago, dear. You look more like old ivory than ever—old ivory and olive. I wonder all the artists don't paint you. I suppose every young man in Elsinore is in love with you. Marry, my dear, marry. I've been in this game twelve years. Show me a willing would-be husband and I'd take him so quick he'd never know what struck him. Give my hopes of being a man in the next incarnation for ten babies to weep over when they had croup or got lost in the woods of New York City. Hate sob stuff. Cut it out, kid, before you begin it."

She talked all the way to the gate and for several yards down the avenue, waving a final farewell with a somewhat tragic smile.

"Why doesn't that girl marry?" she asked as they walked rapidly to the station. "Still fresh, if she is twenty-six. I'm only thirty-four and I look like a hag beside her."

"Maybe she can't get the man she wants," replied the potential novelist, who was thinking deeply.

CHAPTER XXII

Aya borrowed a horse and cart from her cousin Mr. Phipps, Chief of Police in Elsinore, who kept a livery stable and took the shortest cut into the country. She wanted to think out many things and think them out alone. She drove rapidly until she came within sight and sound of the sea. Then she let the lines lie loosely on the back of her old friend Colonel Roosevelt, who had been named in his fiery colthood, but in these days, save under compulsion, was as slow as American law. He ambled along, and Alys, in the booming stillness and the fresh salt air, felt the humid waves roll out of her brain. She saw clearly, but she was aghast and depressed.

Presented by nature with an odd and arresting exterior, in color and feature as well as in subtlety of expression, sketched and flattered by such artists as she met, she had, ever since old enough for introspection, striven for uncommon personal developments that should justify her obverse and set her still farther apart from mere woman. If not born with an intense aversion from the commonplace (and it is safe to say that no one is), she had conceived it early enough to train a rarely plastic mind to striking viewpoints, while a natural tact saved her from isolation. If she had been as original as she thought herself, she would have antagonized many people.

Assuredly a certain nobility of nature and a revulsion from all that was base were innate; although, soon learning of the many pitfalls yawning for humanity, she had assiduously cultivated these her higher inclinations, an enterprise measurably assisted by the equable temper, the feminine charm, the bright intelligence and the quick sympathies that made her many friends. Moreover, her freedom from the usual yearnings of her sex in the matter of riches and subservience to the race, which wreck the lives of so many women, and her love of the arts and delight in her own little talent, all served to ponderate the burden of life.

She had liked many men as friends, and was proud of the fact that only the more intelligent were attracted to her, but she had arrived at the age of twenty-six without even imagining herself seriously in love, so intense was her idealism. This was another of her deliberate cultivations, for here also was she resolute that as nature had done so much for her, marking her as a girl apart, so should she insist upon having an uncommon mate. It was to this end even more than for the barren satisfaction of pleasing Mother Nature that she had filled the garden of her mind with both science and imagination. When she loved, it should be like a woman, of course; she had no delusions about making over human nature to suit passing fashions in woman; but while she never ignored the vital passions that formed the basis of her unique personality and strong will, she was determined that they should be quickened only by a man who would make equal demands upon all that was fine in her character and aspiring in her mind.

Most Convenient Milk

Conveniently Bought

YOU'LL appreciate the convenience of Carnation Milk. It fills all milk needs.

As Cream—for all cream's uses, including whipping.

As Milk—unusually rich and good. For drinking and for baby's bottle.

As Thin Milk—for economy in cooking dilute with water to desired consistency.

All these things are possible because of the form in which Carnation Milk comes to you. It is wholemilk with a large part of the water evaporated. No food value is lost. By adding water you get just the same pure, fresh milk that comes into our condenseries—only sterilized for safety. But because you add the water, you can make Carnation any richness you desire—use it for all milk and cream uses.

Carnation Milk is just as easy to buy as it is to use. Order several cans with your groceries. The grocer is the Carnation Milkman. He sells it by the case (48 cans 16 oz. tall size). Directions on every can.

Many a fine tested recipe you'll find in the illustrated booklet, "The Story of Carnation Milk." Sent free to anyone who writes to our Aylmer office.

SOLDIERS SEIZED MANSION HOUSE

Couple of Escaped Sinn Feiners Were Captured.

Canadian Press:

DUBLIN, May 10. — At a special session of the Sinn Fein Parliament, held in the Mansion House yesterday before it was seized by soldiers, a reception was accorded the delegates from Irish societies in America. Prof. Edward De Valera, Sinn Fein leader, declared in speaking that "Ireland will never be cheated by England," and expressed cordial thanks to the delegates for "coming to defend their rights."

Frank P. Walsh, one of the delegates, declared that America denied the claim that the Irish question was not an international one.

Former Governor Edward Dunne, another of the representatives, said that the general election recently held had proved that three-fourths of Ireland demanded the creation of a republic. The military occupation of the Mansion House here, which was effected by soldiers and police, was not aimed at the suppression of the Irish Parliament, whose sessions are held here, but was intended to effect the arrest of Robert Barton and J. J. Walsh, Sinn Fein members of Parliament, and others who had recently escaped from Mount Joy Prison and were believed to be in the building.

Dawson Street, on which the Mansion House stands, and all adjoining streets, were cleared of people, and the tramway traffic was suspended.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Substitute

He Volunteered, Receiving No Money Compensation

By F. A. MITCHEL

An elderly lady in Belgium stood on the porch of a residence which was built on a hill and from which she could overlook a road winding through a valley below. Anxiety and impatience were expressed on her face. She was evidently expecting something or some one that did not appear.

"Wilhelmina!" she cried.

"Well, mamma?" responded a voice, contrasting with the mother's sharp tones both for its melody and its indifference.

"It is 12 o'clock, and there are no signs of him."

A comely young woman of twenty came out on to the porch and replied:

"In these wartimes we cannot expect any one to be punctual."

"Herman has nothing to do with the war. He is not a soldier."

To this the daughter made no reply, but on her face one could read expressed the words "He should be," accompanied by a look of contempt.

"Wilhelmina," said the mother severely, "I am outraged at your indifference. I have been at great pains to bring about this match between you and Herman Weber, of whose wealth you are aware, and now that there is a probability that something has occurred to interfere you show no disappointment whatever."

"What is wealth in Belgium today, mamma? If this war continues as it has begun there will be no wealth."

"The trouble with you is that your head is full of impractical romance. You do not favor a suitable match. You wish some knight with no fortune except his sword to come along, kill a dragon who is about to devour you and carry you off."

"I admit that I would be pleased to listen to the suit of one who is fighting for our homes and our firesides."

A horseman rode out from a wood below.

"There he is now!" exclaimed the mother joyfully. "He will be here in a few minutes."

But the lady was doomed to a new disappointment. The horseman was followed by a dozen or more others, and as they drew nearer it was evident that he had been sent out on skirmish duty. He was followed by a party of British officers, at whose head rode a general. Coming to a branch road leading up to where the two women stood, a single horseman turned into it, while the others rode on. Coming to the gate, he turned in and advanced to the porch. Uncovering in the presence of the ladies, he said:

"I am directed by General Gordon of the British forces to say that he will pass the night hereabout and begs to know if you can conveniently quarter him and his staff."

The speaker was Lieutenant Warren Chandler, an American, who at the breaking out of the war had been a student at Cambridge, England. He volunteered and had been selected by General Gordon as an aid-de-camp. The elder lady was trying to think of some excuse for declining to entertain the officers when the younger said:

"Certainly, we shall feel honored at having an opportunity to entertain our country's defenders."

The mother, casting a withering glance at her daughter, spoke up:

"We are expecting to have a wedding here today, and the occasion would be greatly marred by the presence of soldiers."

"There will be no wedding," said the daughter. "The wedding cannot be celebrated without my consent, and I shall not be married today."

The officer looked admiringly upon the girl and at once became her supporter. "I shall be sorry to intrude," he said, "but I feel obliged to do so. The general ordered me to find quarters for him and his staff, and there is no other house hereabout available."

With that he dismounted and led his horse to a barn in the rear, where he looked to see if there was forage, and, finding plenty, unsaddled his horse, gave him a feed and went to the house. Being invited to a seat, he asked to be informed as to the wedding that had been mentioned. The mother gave him the necessary information, dwelling lugubriously on her daughter's disappointment.

"I assure you, mademoiselle," said Chandler, "that you have my sympathy. It must be a great trial to a woman to get ready for a wedding and have the groom fail to appear."

The girl's face wore an indignant look which the officer mistook for an expression of injury. So he added:

"Quite likely the groom to be has been detained against his will. Soldiers are never their own masters, and in wartime"—

"The gentleman is a civilian," said Wilhelmina dryly.

"Indeed! I am surprised that in such stirring times as these a lady should choose a civilian."

To this there was no answer in words, though there was a look on the girl's face as much as to say, "I would infinitely prefer a soldier." The mother, who by this time had given up the coming of the groom, left her daughter and Chandler together and went away to give orders for the changed conditions.

The American is a creature especially adapted for emergencies. Chandler had jumped from a peaceful university into war, and he was ready for any other jump that might present itself. One of the least objectionable jumps he might take would be into the affections of a pretty girl. He pretended to sympathize deeply with Wilhelmina in what he persisted in calling her disappointment and had not been in her company long before he averred that any man who would thus disappoint such an attractive woman must be bereft of any taste whatever. Wilhelmina made no reply to such compliments, keeping her eyes on the floor with becoming modesty.

Chandler spent three hours in the young lady's company. A great deal may be done in three hours, especially by a soldier. Battles have been won in a few minutes. The lieutenant from sympathizing with his companion suggested that a substitute might alleviate her disappointment, and she was not at all shocked at the suggestion.

It was nightfall before the general and his staff drew rein at the chateau, dismounted and strode into the house to the clanking of their spurs and side arms. Supper was ready for them, and when introduced to it there was surprise to find a collation such as would be served at a social gathering rather than a hot meal. Then it came out that they were eating what had been prepared for a wedding breakfast.

General Gordon, a bluff Britisher, who had been a soldier for thirty years, was much surprised and indignant to learn that the pretty Wilhelmina had expected to be a bride and had remained a spinster.

"My dear," he said to her, "if I were a youngster instead of an old fellow and the father of a large family of children I would offer myself as a substitute for this cad who has been so unappreciative of a lovely girl. As it is I can do nothing for you. But if there is any young unmarried man on my staff who pleases your fancy and who refuses to volunteer to supply the deficiency I shall take the first opportunity to order him where he will be shot."

Even the young lady smiled at this compliment, and several officers held up a hand as boys in school who are ready for some especial duty.

When the laughter that greeted the general's sally had subsided Chandler arose and said:

"May it please you, general, I have since entering upon your staff felt under great obligations to you for my appointment and have longed for an occasion to show my appreciation. No opportunity has thus far occurred in the line of military duty. I understand you desire to benefit this young lady and doubt not that, despite your age, were you a single man you might be accepted as a substitute. We are assembled at what was to have been a wedding breakfast. It would not be to the credit of the service if among so many single men of your staff none could be found to represent his commander in a duty—rather a pleasure—for which he is incapacitated by previous engagements. If the lady will accept a subaltern for a husband in lieu of a general I volunteer with my whole heart."

A clapping of hands and shouts of approval greeted this speech, and every eye was turned to Wilhelmina, who sat with her eyes cast down and spoke never a word.

"Silence gives consent!" cried the general. "Orderly!"

The general's orderly heard, and, having appeared, the commander said to him:

"Go and find a chaplain or a parson at once. I'll give you thirty minutes, and if you are not back here with one in that time I'll court martial you for disobedience of orders."

At this juncture a servant, who was not cognizant of the turn that had been taken in the affairs of the bride expectant, entered and, with a look and hands thrown up expressing trouble, said to the mistress of the house:

"Oh, madame, we are undone! The groom is coming, and the wedding feast is being eaten. We have nothing more in the house fitted for such an occasion."

Every eye was turned to Wilhelmina, who paled at the announcement. The general was equal to the occasion.

"Captain Granger," he said, "put a guard around these headquarters with orders to admit no one."

"General," protested the mother, "you have no right to interfere in my domestic affairs."

"Pardon me, madame; I am not interfering with your affairs. This house is my headquarters. You and your daughter are at liberty to leave it as soon as you like."

All again turned to Wilhelmina, who sat without speaking, but it was plain that she was much affected. Her bosom heaved, and she bit her lip. Chandler was watching her and, divining what she felt, went to her, bent over her and looked down upon her with inquiry in his eyes and a smile on his lips. She turned her own eyes up to his, and he saw a decision in his favor.

"A chaplain!" cried the general. "Why this delay?"

"Here, general," came a voice from the hall without, and an officer, whose uniform marked his calling, hurried into the room.

"I forbid this marriage!" cried the mother. "My daughter's fiance has 1,000,000 francs."

"And I offer $1,000,000," said Chandler.

This settled the matter. The ceremony was performed, and the general drew a check for £2,000 for a wedding present.

The next morning the general and his staff, except Chandler, who was granted a week's leave for a honeymoon, galloped away.

AFTER SUFFERING A WHOLE YEAR

Mrs. King Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Iola, Kansas.—"I was a constant sufferer from female trouble for about a year. I had pains in back and stomach, in fact all over me, and was all rundown. A friend of mine was cured of the same trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and it gave me health and strength and made a new woman of me. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too highly, and you may publish my testimonial as it may be the means of helping some other suffering woman."—Mrs. IRENE KING, 105 West Campbell Street, Iola, Kansas.

The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory, many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, ready to help you health and may save your life.

TENDER GUMS —A WARNING

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pyorrhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea—many under forty also. Loosening teeth indicate Pyorrhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—these inflamed, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

A SOLDIER'S VISION OF HOME

(BY PETERBORO SOLDIER.)

There's a land that I know, where they always have snow,
And ice at this time of year;
I often have scenes of that land in my dreams,
Though its many days journey from here.

It's a land of good health, and abounds in great wealth,
Of gold, copper, iron and grain,
It has mountains so rare and valleys so fair
That end away out on a plain.

In that land you may see the farmer as he
Is skilfully tilling the soil;
Or the trapper and hunter as he forth doth saunter,
In the midst of the wilds for his spoil.

Perhaps you may see beavers felling a tree,
With which they will build up a dam;
Or it may be scenes of the herds on the greens,
Or the frollicking play of a lamb.

If you visit a city you'll find them all pretty.
The buildings and parks are sure grand,
The streets are all straight, and quite up to date—
There's also a stand for the band.

There's a street railway too, for conveying you
Back and forth wherever you go,
And down by the square the autos are there,
All carefully placed in a row.

The flag of that country for Freedom's unfurled,
Her motto is justice to all;
Her men rallied forth to Belgium's relief,
When they heard her so pitifully call.

They have fought a good fight, they helped banish the Hun,
And back home victorious in thousands they'll come;
They are conquerors and heroes, they made Canada's fame,
And will receive a great welcome to the home land again.

Thousands will be there for a grasp of their hand,
They'll be carried down street high up in the air,
And given a supper a sumptuous affair.

There's be speeches, recitations, music and song
And an old-time dance to help things along;
Some will be hugging the girl they adore,
Contented and happy to be safe home once more.

There's some who have fallen in the thick of the fray,
What's mortal rests in peace in a land far away;
The souls are immortal—they are not dead—
They are living the life everlasting instead.

While loved ones rejoice, yet still do they yearn,
For the one who is absent and will not return,
His chair it is vacant, his voice it is still,
Though hearts break with sadness they'll submit to God's will.

Women Are Taking Knock-Out-Drops

Police Have Opened War on the Vendors of Drugs

NEW YORK, May 10.—The New York police have opened war on the illicit drug vendors and gathered in hundreds of drug addicts to bring evidence from them. The prevalence of the drug habit in the city is said to be appalling. Similar stories come from London and other European centres of population. The Globe of April 19th, 1919, says:

"Despite free access of both sexes to the bars in the Motherland, women have recently resorted to the use of methylated spirits. Many cases have arisen where women have gone to oil and paint shops with the plea that the spirit was intended for mixing paint. Seven times stronger than ordinary whiskey, and containing a number of ingredients considered sufficient to stop any desire to drink it, the Liverpool Licensing Justices assert that its use as a beverage is increasing. Its effect has been shown as terrible, a frantic state while under its influence gradually giving place to insanity."

A favourite argument of the liquor dealers has been that if alcoholic liquors were prohibited people would take to drugs; but it has been shown over and over again that where the most alcohol was consumed there has been found the greatest number of drug fiends. The number who have begun by taking morphine and other drugs as medicine are very few. As a general rule a man becomes an alcohol fiend first and after a time finds that he must have something stronger to satisfy his craving.

The French began on wine; from that they went to brandy, and then to alcohol, which was called the spirit of wine. But even that failed to give relief, and absinthe was invented. On account of its terrible effects it has been called "knock-out drops." When a person begins this course, nothing but a miracle will save him. We must kill alcohol before we can conquer the drug habit.

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA BY USING BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

The symptoms of dyspepsia are so numerous and diversified in different individuals that probably no description could exactly represent them as they occur in any given case, but a few of the most prominent are a rising and souring of food, pain, flatulence and distention of the abdomen, a sensation of discomfort after every meal, which is sometimes followed by sickness and vomiting.

To get rid of dyspepsia a careful arrangement of the diet is necessary and due time must be given for the digestion of the meal.

You will find that Burdock Blood Bitters will help with this digestion. It does this by toning up the stomach in such a way that the dyspepsia soon disappears.

Mr. Holt, Baldwin, Winnifred, Alta., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters for curing dyspepsia, of which I have been a sufferer for years. I have tried a good many doctors and proprietary medicines, as one day I thought I would try something different. I got a bottle of B. B. B. from our local store, as it was about the only remedy he kept, and I can certainly say that I was more than pleased with the results, as I got better right away. I will always recommend it to other sufferers."

Frank McCullough Overlooked Peterboro in His Itinerary

Planned to Take in Bethany and Havelock in Bicycle Trip—Murderer and Detective Played Hide and Seek All Over Toronto.

SLAYER'S CHANCES WENT WITH LAVELLE

Just how close a chase the police had given Frank McCullough during his twenty-three days' liberty is revealed in the fact that McCullough, from the house at 78 Bathurst street where he was hiding, saw Detective Barth Cronin five times in three days. This statement was made by McCullough to Detective Cronin, in the presence of Guard Denny at the Jail.

McCullough further stated to the officials in his cell, that the night he escaped he slept in the old British Welcome League building, now vacated, at the north-west corner of Spadina and Front street. In gaining admittance to the building, he was forced to remove a board from one of the windows. The following day he left this building and in going out fixed the board across the doorway, as a trap so that any one entering the place would move the board and he would thus know that his presence there had been detected. His time out of the building was spent in an effort to find a place to live.

While McCullough was absent from the place Detective Cronin made an investigation and happened to knock the board down. On his return, McCullough noticed that the board had been moved and was consequently afraid to enter the building again. He subsequently entered the house at 78 Bathurst street, on the following Saturday, but during the days following his night on Front street, his whereabouts are somewhat mystifying.

"I went to the house on Bathurst street because it was close to the scene of the shooting," McCullough further stated. "Because it was close to the shooting, I thought the officials would not attempt a search in that locality."

Girl's Arrest Upset Plans.

McCullough candidly told Detective Cronin and the guard that he saw the detective from his window enter a house near 78 Bathurst street. He also added that he had further seen Cronin on four other occasions, and every time he was at his window.

The arrest of Miss Lavelle, McCullough admitted, had absolutely upset his plans for escape, which in admitting the fact seemed to cause him worry. Miss Lavelle was arrested on Tuesday night, April 22nd, and on that night when she did not return to the house on Bathurst street, McCullough paced the floor all night in a fit of unrest. When he learned Wednesday morning from the newspapers that she was arrested he gave up the slight hope which he had held for his escape, as he had put all his faith in Miss Lavelle working on the outside to assist him in his plans.

Road Map For Bicycle Trip.

McCullough had planned an elaborate bicycle trip which was to have ultimately taken him to Montreal and thence across the border to the United States, disguised as a lineman. When he was arrested he had in his effects a large map showing the roads of all eastern Canada and those entering the United States. He also had a separate list of important cities and towns which he had planned to pass through. The places which he had written down were: Myrtle, Bethany Junction, Havelock, Hungerford, Smith's Falls, Winchester, Glen Norman, Vaudreuil, Montreal, St. Johns, Que., Plattsburg, Leon Lake, Tupper Lake, Prospect, Herkimer, and Schenectady. McCullough had gathered together a very complete equipment of linemen's outfit consisting of a bicycle, linesmen's spurs, some wire, pliers and tape. When he had read that Judge Coatsworth had reserved his judgment on Miss Lavelle's case, on Wednesday, he made feverish plans to get away on Thursday, the day when he was captured.

"You are just 24 hours too soon for me," he told Inspector Guthrie when captured.

Cronin Gamest Man Ever.

To Guard Denny, McCullough said that Cronin was the gamest man he had ever met and he had met many and all varieties during his long career. He was glad Cronin arrested him and knew that if he were ever caught in Toronto, he was positive, Cronin would be the man to trap him. He also reiterated the statement that he wished Cronin had shot him and asked him why he didn't do it.

In entering the room when he went to arrest McCullough, Detective Cronin opened the door of McCullough's room under the assumption that McCullough was armed, and the situation would have resolved into a matter of "who shot first." As it happened, McCullough had no gun, and on hearing the detective approaching he leaped from his bed out of the window to the ground. Cronin admitted that he was never so close to shooting a man before.

"What did McCullough say about his plans for escape?" Detective Cronin was asked. "He said he was hard up for money, and had it not been for his lack of cash he would never have wasted a day in Toronto. He had placed all his hopes on his sweetheart."

The Visit to Amory's House.

It will be remembered that on Tuesday, April 29th, midnight, the police of No. 3 Station, Claremont street, received a call to 344 Bathurst street from Mrs. Fred Amory, wife of former Death Watch Fred Amory, to the effect that McCullough had tapped on the back window and asked for Mrs. Amory. The police investigated and failed to disclose any clue of McCullough. The following day Mr. and Mrs. Amory refused to discuss the matter at all, and Inspector Guthrie was inclined to believe that Mrs. Amory was suffering from nervousness.

Solicited For Funds.

Inspector Guthrie's attention was drawn to the incident and he admitted that he was satisfied that McCullough had called at Amory's house that night.

It is said that during McCullough's time of freedom that he called on members of the Western Congregational church in an effort to get money. It is significant that David Amory, brother of the former death watch, Fred Amory, who also lives at 344 Bathurst street, is an official of the Western Congregational church, where McCullough had been accepted as a member of the church, prior to his escape.

Rev. R. B. Nelles, pastor of the church and spiritual adviser to McCullough, when asked as to McCullough's soliciting for money, refused to discuss the matter at all.

Dates in Unique Case.

Escaped: Night of April 15th.

First night: Slept in British Welcome League Building, Spadina and Front streets, accompanied by a woman.

Rented room at 78 Bathurst street, Saturday, April 19th, at 9.30, accompanied by a woman.

Vera de Lavelle, arrested Tuesday night, April 22nd, on a charge of aiding and abetting the escape.

Trial of Miss Lavelle and judgment reserved on Wednesday, May 7th. It is significant that Miss Lavelle urged for a speedy trial in an effort to gain her freedom after which, in an interview, she stated she would leave the city.

McCullough arrested at 78 Bathurst street, on Thursday morning, May 8th, at 10.45, and retaken to the Jail.

Execution set for Friday, June 13th.

"Has any one claimed the reward for McCullough's arrest?" was asked of Inspector Guthrie. "No, not yet. The Provincial Secretary's Department will pay the reward," said the inspector. At the Provincial Secretary's Department, it was stated that no application had yet been made.

Inspector Guthrie as head of the department, and Detective Barth Cronin, who has had charge of the McCullough escape, have received a score of telegrams of congratulation for the smartness and aggressiveness displayed by Detective Cronin in capturing McCullough. Detective Cronin has received many letters, telegrams and telephone calls complimenting him on the arrest. One in particular read: "Congratulations for having landed the coveted prize. You must be gifted with the sixth sense of locating evil-doers."

The system of guarding McCullough at the jail to be increased with the appointment of two more guards by Sheriff Mowat. The men will go on as ordinary guards, but if the Sheriff deems it advisable they will probably go on as death-watch, together with the present man doing the night shift. The sheriff stated that all precautions as to watching the men are in operation.

In Favour of the "One Big Union"

(Special to The Examiner.)

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BOBCAYGEON CHILD BURNED TO DEATH

A sad fatality occurred at Bobcaygeon on Friday afternoon when Ellen Hill, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hill, met a terrible death.

Mrs. Hill, it appears, had stepped into a neighbor's house for a minute or two, and on her return was horrified to find her child lying on the floor, her body being burned brown. The flooring had also taken fire. How the fatality occurred is not known, but a burned match found on the floor would indicate that probably the child ignited the match and her clothing caught fire.

The sad affair cast a gloom over the whole village. Mr. Hill is a returned soldier and a son of Mr. Sam Hill of Bobcaygeon.

BOY'S TROUBLE COST MOTHER THOUSANDS

Suffered Since He Was Two Years Old—Gains 16 Pounds on Tanlac—Now Well and Strong.

"My nephew, James Hogan, who is fifteen years of age has gained sixteen pounds on Tanlac and is now a robust, happy boy after thirteen years of awful suffering," said Miss Maggie Goldsmith, 380 Henry Ave., Memphis, Tenn. Miss Goldsmith has been connected with the Joe L. Ullathorns Seed Co., of that city for twenty-seven years and is a stockholder and director in the company.

"Ever since James was two years old," continued Miss Goldsmith, "he has been afflicted with stomach trouble. Two or three hours after eating, especially the evening meal, he would begin to complain of severe pains in his stomach which would increase until he would go into convulsions. These spells would come on five or six times a month and last about thirty minutes and he would be unconscious for an hour. Some said he had heart trouble and others said it was vertigo. His condition kept him down to almost a skeleton and it was pitiful to see how he suffered.

"His mother took him to St. Louis, and many other places for treatment and we spent thousands of dollars trying to find some relief for him but it was all to no avail.

"But all that awful load of anxiety and worry has been lifted, James is now a well and happy boy and is going to school, and a few bottles of Tanlac did it. He always complained of having to take other medicines, but he seemed to like Tanlac and since taking five bottles he is sixteen pounds heavier and doesn't look like the same boy. He wants to eat all the time and can eat anything without it hurting him. It makes us rejoice to see James well and stout and enjoying life like other boys. We are not looking for noteriety but for the sake of suffering humanity, we are willing to give our unqualified endorsement for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

REPORTERS STIR GERMANS

That the German authorities are planning to try to prevent foreign newspaper correspondents from sending out reports calculated to lower the prestige of the Ebert-Schneidemann Government is indicated by the following statement credited to "a competent authority" and sent out from Berlin on February 20 by the semi-official Wolff Telegraph Bureau.

"The task of the newspaper correspondents from enemy countries who arrived in Germany shortly after the conclusion of the armistice is a difficult and responsible one. During four and a half years of war the opposing parties have become so estranged that it requires more than average knowledge and effort to understand conditions which even a German himself cannot clearly grasp only with great difficulty.

"Unfortunately there exists in all the Entente countries, and even in America, a view of Germany that has come from the war and therefore is a biased opinion in the true sense of the word, which does not take the trouble first to make personal observations and comparisons, but has the habit of twisting and distorting all events according to this view in the most malicious and hateful manner.

"When our enemies' press does this at home, Germany must observe this action and regret that it can do nothing against it. When, however, as has unfortunately happened several times of late, journalists who are enjoying the hospitality of our country in these hard times misuse their stay here for the purpose of sending home slanders and attacks upon Germany under the guise of authentic reports, it is more than a journalistic impropriety: it is an act of political hostility, which has already stirred up great excitement among wide circles of the German people, including many persons who in the beginning welcomed the foreign guests with the most impartial good-will. The German Government will have to reserve the right to adopt the proper measures in cases of especially glaring violations of the usages of hospitality in this district."—N. Y. Times.

The Council of Four Held a Meeting This Morning to Consider Replies to Hun Notes

Labour Matters and Prisoners of War to be Discussed—Two Notes to President Clemenceau.

PEACE CONFERENCE

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 12.— The Council of Four of the Peace Conference met this morning and took up the consideration of replies to be made to the latest German notes, those regarding labour matters and prisoners of war.

The Council of Four decided yesterday upon terms of the reply to be made to two notes sent to President Clemenceau of the Peace Conference on Saturday evening by Von Brockdorff-Rantzau. The first of these notes asked that there be a reciprocity policy adopted as to repatriation of prisoners and requested that details of transfer be placed in the hands of a Commission. In his second note, the head of the peace delegation advanced a counter project as to International labour legislation. According to newspapers the basis of the second note is a labour charter inspired by conferences of Leeds and Berne, and they argue that the purpose is to create among Socialists an opinion favourable to Germans by putting in direct collaboration working classes and the present government of that country.

A New Banner.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, May 12.—"Germany has seized and unfurled a new banner on which are inscribed President Wilson's fourteen points, which the President apparently has deserted," said Friedrich Ebert, the German president, in a statement to the Associated Press.

President Ebert called the Peace Treaty a "monstrous document." He declared that history holds no precedent for such determination to annihilate so completely, vanquished peoples.

German Notes.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 12.— The Council of Four at its meeting to-day decided upon terms of reply to be made to the German notes, dealing with the first two communications from the German delegation.

Sawing Wood.

(Associated Press.)

AMERONGEN, May 12.—An official abstract of the preliminary peace terms published in the Dutch newspapers, which was translated and read to the former German Emperor Friday, has aroused considerable excitement among the members of the Hohenzollern party. An inkling concerning what the Entente intended to do in connection with bringing William Hohenzollern to trial had reached the German officials earlier in the week. They communicated the information to the former Empress, who displayed signs of marked emotion, but decided to await the appearance of a fuller official report before making the news known to her husband.

A special messenger motored to Arnheim Thursday to procure a copy of the local newspapers. Meanwhile, the former Emperor continued his usual occupation of sawing logs, but apparently he is suffering from ever-growing nervous excitement. His saw worked as never before, and his physician, Dr. Foerster, who assisted him, was completely exhausted at lunch time.

Henry Discovers Easy Way to Make Another Million

(Canadian Press.)

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., May 12. —One of the most noteworthy libel suits in the history of American jurisprudence, that of Henry Ford versus the Chicago Daily "Tribune" for $1,-000,000, was scheduled to open before Circuit Judge James G. Tucker here at 9 o'clock this morning. With most of the preliminary battles already fought and decided in Illinois and Detroit courts, it is anticipated the case will come to trial with little delay. The suit has already been in courts two and a half years. Broadly the defence is that alleged libellous statements of which Mr. Ford complains were printed as an incident of the "Tribune's" fight for preparedness to which it devoted hundreds of columns and that Mr. Ford, by reason of his wealth and arguments against preparedness, was in fact a public character and as such a proper person for comment.

Mr. H. J. Coleman of Coleman Bros., Ltd., confectioners, having disposed of his interests in the business to his brother, left the city on Saturday, sailing from Montreal on the Tunisian for England. He intends to take up farming.

Mr. Coleman was one of the brothers who started in to build up this well known business fourteen years ago, and will be greatly missed, both from the business and the city.

He has just returned from overseas and discharged from the Canadian army after four years' service, 29 months of which was in France and Belgium.

Needless to say, the best wishes of the citizens go with him in his new enterprise.

FANNIE WARD IN "COMMON CLAY"

GREAT PICTURE AND ALL STAR VAUDEVILLE AT THE GRAND TO-DAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY MATINEE DAILY.

"Common Clay," the Harvard prize play by Cleves Kinkead, has been pronounced one of five of the greatest American dramas. This estimate is sustained by the facts and figures concerning its stage production—with Jane Cowl, in the leading role it ran a full year in New York with crowded performances; it was presented by six companies in the United States and Canada and showed in every city of 10,000 population and upward. Regarded from its socialogic side, it has been discussed in many universities, welfare organizations and civic bodies. The pulpit liberally lent voice to its discussion, for "Common Clay" deals with one of the gravest problems of big cities—the Girl, full of the joy of life, reared in poor surrounding and without proper parental direction.

And now a greater power is to be given to this great American masterpiece through A. H. Woods' screen presentation of it, featuring Fannie Ward, fresh from her fine historical achievements in "The Narrow Path" and "A Japanese Nightingale." Her work reaches such splendid emotional heights that, at the first showing of the film play, especially for the reviewers, many of the women present were moved to tears.

It is a woman's play through and through, pulsating with feeling and tense with the anguish of tortured souls. It has been said that it awakens in the breast of the spectator the pity which Dr. Gilbert Murray says, "is the kingdom of heaven within us fighting against the brute power of the world." "Common Clay" will be shown at the Grand Opera House today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The vaudeville will consist of the famous Burley Bros., comedy acrobats; Jarvis and Harrison in "Shooting the Chutes," and Wendell Hall, the singing xylophonist. Prices remain the same for this star programme. Matinees 10c and 15c. Evening 15c and 25c.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Complications Have Developed in Adjustment of Packing House Employees Strike in Toronto.

SERIOUS AFFECT

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 12.—Complications have developed in the adjustment of the packing house employees' strike which would appear to seriously threaten the continuance of the present armistice. Business agent Louis Braithwaite of the men's union, informed a reporter this morning that the drovers' employees are still out. This situation follows the attitude of the drovers, who maintain that they were not represented at the conference with Senator Gideon Robertson last week. There are between 90 and 100 men employed in this branch of the trade at the Union Stock Yards. Another dispute obtained at the McIvor Bros.' plant where, according to the Union officials only half the number of former employees were offered re-employment. Consequently none of the Union men have returned.

Cut in Wages.

At another plant a cut in wages was threatened, which resulted in one man refusing to go to work and immediately reporting his case to the Union. Grouped around the entrance to the Union headquarters at 10 o'clock this morning were some 10 or 12 women, who declared they had been laid off by the Wm. Davies Co. immediately prior to the strike for having joined the Union. Their case will be dealt with immediately and if necessary taken up with Ottawa. A conference is in progress this morning at the office of E. W. Crompton, Dominion government fair wage officer. Mr. Braithwaite has a telephone appointment with Senator Robertson to-day to report this situation here. So far, no additional reports have been brought in of that serious trouble at any of the larger establishments and the view at the [illegible] is encouraging with gratifying [illegible]. Mr. Braithwaite was in Ottawa yesterday and made final arrangements with the Minister of Labour for the establishment of the Board of Conciliation.

Serious Effect.

The recently settled strikes, as well as the ones which still prevail, have had a serious effect upon the unemployment situation, particularly as it affects returned soldiers. The situation was acute before May Day, but owing to the fact that the Veterans are refusing to act as strike-breakers, and consequently cannot seek employment at any of the various local firms affected by the strikes, it has intensified to a considerable degree since then. "What are the prospects of improvement in the situation?" Capt. Cleverly was asked. "I think it probable that as summer advances we can take care of every returned man applying for work," he replied.

NOTICE!

G. W. V. A. Building Fund Drive.

A meeting of all committees and teams will be held in the G.W.V.A. rooms, Monday, May 12th, at 8 p.m. Every person who is interested in the success of this drive is requested to be present. Business: Receiving of reports from all captains and leaders, programme of work for the week, training of canvassers.

This meeting is one of the most important, and the success of drive is now in your hands. It is a good hard push for two weeks and the job will be finished.

Let nothing hinder you from being present. All volunteer workers will be present. We want one hundred workers from the ranks of the G. W. V. A. and as many citizens. Bring along your chum.

Yours truly,
R. E. LAYFIELD,
2d109 Sec'y Joint Drive Committee.

SUMMARY PEACE CONFERENCE ACTIVITIES OVER WEEK-END

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—The Peace Conference leaders have renewed their effort to reach an understanding on the Italian question in view of the imminence of the arrival of the Austrian Peace delegates in France. Consultations were begun to-day between Foreign Minister Sonnino of Italy and Col. House of the American delegation. Meanwhile, attempts are being made by the German delegation at Versailles to withdraw representatives of the Allied and Associated Governments into oral discussions of phases of the Peace Treaty presented to the Germans last Wednesday.

French opinion, as reflected in the newspapers, regards one of the notes sent to Premier Clemenceau, as President of Peace Conference, by Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German Mission, as distinctly of a propagandist order. This is the note advancing a counter-project as to international labour legislation, which the French argue is intended to convince Socialists and the labouring classes of the Allied countries in general that the present German Government is working in their favour.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY WILL MEET TO-DAY.

The German Cabinet Council, under the chairmanship of President Ebert, took up yesterday the question of counter-proposals to the Peace terms to be made by the German delegation at Versailles, and committees from the German National Assembly met during the day and discussed the terms of Peace.

The National Assembly will meet in Berlin to-day, and it is expected that Chancellor Scheidemann will give some idea of the German reply to the Allies.

HEADQUARTERS MAY BE IN PETERBORO

This is Suggestion of Commanding Officer of the 2nd Battalion.

KINGSTON, May 12.—The first grand re-union of the 2nd Canadian Overseas Battalion was held here, when over forty members of this unit assembled at a banquet in the Hotel Randolph. Officers, N.C.O.'s and men of this famous battalion joined in recalling old memories of pleasant recollection, and an altogether enjoyable evening was spent that gave warrant of many similar gatherings in the future.

The menu was a clever attempt at representing the history of the unit. Commencing with Valcartier Cocktail, Mulligan Salisbury, or soup, was served followed by fish, Ypres Red Patch, and Pommes a la Vlamartinghe, while with the entree came Amiens and Arras Turkey a la Paschendaele was followed by Cambrai pie and Rhine [illegible]. Dessert [illegible] the diners were brought back home again with the drinking of "Limestone City Coffee." The guest room of the hotel was decorated with flags and reminders of the battalion's days in France.

Central Association Urged.

The formation of a Central Second Battalion Association with a central executive, controlling all the local clubs, was the keynote of the addresses of the evening. Lieut.-Col. McLaughlin, officer commanding the 2nd Battalion since May, 1917, urged his men not to let the old spirit of the 2nd die. Major Vandewater, second in command, hoped that an association would be formed in Eastern Ontario which would take in every member of the unit. "Canada needed to-day the spirit of the battalion more than she did four years ago," said the speaker.

Major Hooper advocated also the formation of a central executive with smaller clubs in each town and village. There were still large numbers of the battalion who were outside and would be glad to come in under such a scheme. Jealousies were bound to arise among the different clubs and the central executive could act as a high court to deal with such.

Major L. F. Goodwin thought that the G. W. V. A. was in danger of becoming too large and cumbersome, and said that the formation of smaller clubs would be wise. He suggested that the 2nd Battalion Officers' Club started in Ottawa in 1916 would make an excellent central body. It would relieve the local clubs of the expense of sending representatives to a central organization, and the officers who had been largely responsible for preserving the spirit of the battalion would be equally as zealous as members of a central organization.

Major Kidd and Lieut. Gilmore also spoke in favour of the formation of a central organization. Lieut.-Col. McLaughlin recommended that the headquarters of such a central executive be at Peterborough, since the 2nd Battalion represented the western part of Eastern Ontario.

DE LAVELLE GIRL ADMITS IDENTITY

Positively Identified as Pseudo Mrs. Vera Knight.

TORONTO, May 12.—On Saturday afternoon it was proved beyond doubt that Vera de Lavelle, now in Toronto jail awaiting sentence on Tuesday, is the "Mrs. Vera Knight" who engaged rooms at the home of Mrs. Kate Kinsella, 78 Bathurst street, and lived with Frank McCullough, the recaptured murderer, following his escape from Toronto jail on the night of April 15.

About 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Detectives Cronin and C. Young motored to Mrs. Kinsella's home, and there picked up Mrs. Kinsella, Miss Kelly and Miss Costello, two of the roomers. All the women had seen McCullough at some time during his concealment in the Kinsella home. A humorous interlude occurred when Mrs. Kinsella, on [illegible] in a motor car to her [illegible], refused to enter the vehicle, but on the persuasion of Detective Young finally agreed.

Arrived at the jail Miss de Lavelle and two other female prisoners, as like as possible in face and figure to the principal, were brought together to the main office and then paraded before Mrs. Kinsella and her roomers. Without a moment's hesitation the aged Irishwoman picked out Miss De Lavelle as the pseudo Mrs. Knight. Miss Kelly and Miss Costello corroborated their landlady's declaration. Miss De Lavelle admitted the imposture. Begging leave to speak to Mrs. Kinsella, she said to the old lady:

"I'm sorry for what I have done and I hope that you don't get blamed for it."

Detective Cronin produced a watch, tiepin and a pair of gloves found in McCullough's room at the time of his arrest, and asked if she recognized them. She answered in the affirmative.

WANT A PLACE TO HOLD MEETINGS

Plan to Hold 'Old Time' Gospel Meetings in Peterboro.

Are there any property owners in Peterborough with sufficient love of God in their hearts and interested enough in the salvation of sinners to supply a place where the old time Gospel will be preached "in demonstration of the spirit and of power," where Christ will be lifted up and His name magnified, sinner saved, believers blessed and encouraged? There is an evangelist in town willing to labour to this end, not to take the people's money nor to please any clique, but to preach "Christ, the power of God." A place at a moderate rent. Adress Box 192, Examiner. 24h10

AMEND BILL

Mr. Norman Sukloff, President of the Hebrew congregation of the city, has received from Mr. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration, the following reply to his telegram of a recent date, protesting against some of the amendements to the Immigration Act.

The Letter.

Dear Sir, Your telegram of the 7th inst., to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., dealing with the amendments to the Immigration Act now before the House, has been transmitted to me.

Your representations have been carefully noted, and dealing with the objections set out in your telegram, I may say—

I recognize that the literacy test alone is not sufficient to determine who are and who are not desirable immigrants. I am quite prepared to admit that energy, ambition and industry are most essential qualities in a new settler. Other sections of the law are drafted with the object of providing for the exclusion of those, who while able to read, may not be desirable on other grounds. While the Bill was in Committee the clause dealing with the literacy test was amended giving the Minister discretionary powers as to the application of the literacy test to certain persons and classes.
